LONDON HEARS INDIA WILL ARREST GANDHI; DRIVE AFFECTS TRADE

MOSLEM APPEALS TO IRWIN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 30.—In well-informed quarters here tonight it was said the government of India had reached a decision to arrest Mahatma Gandhi.

The MacDonald Government, after long deliberation today and, it is understood, after consultation with King George, informed the Viceroy of India, Lord Irwin, that it was prepared to support him and his government in any decisive action he may consider necessary to take against Mr. Gandhi and the civil disobedience campaigners. In London news of the arrest of the Indian leader who has been prosecuting the campaign since March 12 is expected at any moment.

The MacDonald Government is fully aware of the consequences of its action, both here and in India. In England the arrest of Mr. Gandhi will be the signal for a renewed attack on the government by the left wing group of the Labor party, which has already charged Premier MacDonald with continuing the policy of former Conservative governments in India and failing immediately to grant that measure of home rule which has been a plank in all Laborite platforms.

Likely to Intensify Violence.

In India the reaction to the Mahatma's arrest is expected in an intensification of the campaign of violence, which, according to information reaching here tonight, has caused the government of India to warn all white women and children in the Northwest Province, the Punjab and the United Provinces to be ready to abandon their homes and seek refuge in the forts.

The MacDonald Government, it is understood, has decided that the risk of making a martyr of Mr. Gandhi is less dangerous than permitting him to contine to spread his gospel of civil disobedience, which is considered merely to amount to laying publicly a trail of inflammatory material throughout the whole Indian Empire and even beyond.

Mr. Gandhi, it is reported here tonight, has disclosed to the members of his committee in Bombay the details of a new plan of action and it may be that the British Government acted on this information.

A delayed message reaching The Daily Telegraph from Ellis Ashmead Bartlett in Bombay reveals that the Garswal Native Rifles were removed from the disturbed area because of their refusal to fire on the mob at Peshawur during the recent riot.

Mr. Bartlett says he has heard reports of disaffection among some Sikh battalions about which official confirmation is unobtainable. His dispatch was released in Bombay late last night, after being delayed by the censor for two days.

Moslem Urges Peace Move.

SIMLA, April 30.—An appeal to the Viceroy by Mahomed Ali, one of the most influential leaders of the Khilafat party, not to permit the situation to become graver by the arrest of Mr. Gandhi, and an address to both the government and Mr. Gandhi saying that considerations of prestige ought not to prevent either from seeking a rapprochement by retracing their footsteps, appear in an exchange of telegrams between Mahomet Ali and the Viceroy, published tonight.

It was Mr. Ali who led the Moslem cooperation with Mr. Gandhi during the Mahatma's earlier revolutionary campaign, and he is now standing with other Moslems throughout India in asserting their claims against the pretensions of the Hindu majority.

The Viceroy's reply is a reaffirmation of the British policy.

"It must be plain to you," runs a telegram from the secretary, "that as long as the law is openly defied neither the Viceroy nor his government can do anything but resist its subversion by whatever means may be in their power, and in whatever way may seem appropriate."

Economic Effect Is Felt.

Earthquake Is Felt in Tokio; Registered for 30 Minutes

By The Associated Press.

TOKIO, Thursday, May 1.—An earthquake was felt here shortly after midnight, but there have been no reports of casualties nor any great damage. The Central Meteorological Observatory said the centre of activity was probably at sea, 75 miles northeast of Tokio.

The quake, which started at 12:58 A. M., registered on the seismographs for 30 minutes. It was perceptible to residents of Tokio for 5 minutes. Scientists attribute the quake to activity in the "outer Tuscartra earthquake belt."

BUTLER TELLS REICH IDEALS ENDOW PEACE

Movement's Strength Lies in Hope, Not Arms, He Says to Conciliation Group.

PUBLIC OPINION HELD KEY

American Educator Asserts in Reichstag Chamber It Will Enforce Paris Pact.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 30.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and of Columbia University, addressed the German Committee for International Conciliation in the Reichstag chamber tonight, choosing Bismarck's phrase "The whole weight of the imponderabilia, which weighs so much more heavily than tangible things," as his topic. He emphasized those elements which are intangibly in the work toward peace cooperation, in spite of outbursts of nationalism.

Dr. Butler was introduced by Erich Koch, president of the Democratic party, who bade him, Mrs. and Miss Butler welcome to Germany again. The hall was well filled, many well-known figures in German political life, including several Cabinet members, as well as educators and men prominent in various German-American cultural relations societies, being present.

Kellogg Pact Stressed.

Dr. Butler stressed particularly the Kellogg pact and the mass public opinion behind this concept, which he said would assure fulfillment of the pact's pledge. Touching on the proposed United States of Europe, he urged the economic advantages of such a union and insisted that the underlying theory of the American protective tariff was in no sense intended to prohibit the international movement of goods, but merely to safeguard American enterprises and assure the fullest development of the country's potentialities.

Dr. Butler has been the recipient in the last few days of a series of marks of honor, including receptions by several cultural and educational associations. Tomorrow he will be received by President von Hindenburg. Yesterday he laid a wreath on Gustav Stresemann's grave in tribute to the dead Foreign Minister's work for international peace cooperation.

Fichte's Philosophy Recalled.

In his speech in Berlin Dr. Butler said in part:

"One hundred and twenty-three years ago, there took place in the city of Berlin a really great happening. Following the calamities of the Napoleonic Wars and the resulting disturbance to the life and thought of the Prussian people, it was imperative that a new note should be sounded, a new blow struck, a new call to achievement heard. The philosopher Fichte seemed divinely appointed for the great task.

"On successive Sunday evenings from December, 1807, to March, 1808, he delivered before crowded audiences his famous "Reden an die Deutsche Nation." Surrounded by spies and by enemies, his very life in danger, his great voice was

CONVICTS FILE OUT IN ORDER

Surrender Follows Tense Moments When Rifles Were Leveled at Doors of Cell Block.

NINE-DAY SIEGE IS OVER

1,300 of Inmates Will Be Kept in Tents and Shop Until Prison Is Repaired.

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 30.—The nine-day "passive rebellion" of 1,050 convicts of the Ohio Penitentiary, who have held an entire cell block of the prison since the fire of Easter Monday in which 322 inmates were killed, seemed ended tonight with the mutineers submitting to the authority of the National Guard but still defiant of Warden P. E. Thomas and his guards.

The entire band of rebels has been dislodged from their stronghold in the "white city," as the ancient cell block which they held was known. Three hundred and fifty of the more desperate long-termers, suspected ringleaders of the passive resistance plot, have been segregated in an old shop used for the manufacture of automobile license tags. Six hundred and sixty others, believed to have been unwilling accomplices, were marched into a tent city surrounded by a barbed wire fence in the recreation yard. There they will remain until the locks smashed by the convicts in the "white city" have been repaired.

Had Begun Two Tunnels.

An inspection of the "white city," made tonight by Colonel Haubrich, revealed how timely was this afternoon's removal of the convicts.

Two attempts had been made to tunnel to freedom from the "white city," which faces in Spring Street adjoining the administration building. This section is the only part of the penitentiary that is not surrounded by a wall. One hole had been cut in a wall on the top range of cells leading to a ventilating shaft and thence to the roof, from which the prisoners apparently hoped to swarm down the fire ladders placed against the building.

A tunnel had also been started under the foundations of the old building. How far the work had gone Colonel Haubrich could not determine, but the convicts needed to dig through only about four feet of soft earth to be outside the walls. Brass latch bars taken from ruined locks, stolen kitchen utensils and crudely fashioned implements were their tools.

The brass bars and other tunneling tools were found piled up neatly in the basement. They could have been used equally well for bludgeons, Colonel Haubrich said.

Colonel Haubrich estimated that at least thirty days would be required to repair all the damage the prisoners had done in the "white city" and make it safe to return them to their quarters. He and his men would remain on duty, he said until relieved by Governor Cooper.

Convicts Claim Victory.

Nevertheless, the prisoners believe they have won a moral victory, according to National Guard officers who talked with them. The mutineers point out that they have driven the "screws," as the guards are called, from the field and forced Governor Cooper to replace Warden Thomas, temporarily at least, with Colonel Robert E. Haubrich of the National Guard.

Campbell Raids Fraternity Clubs Building; Liquor Seized After Agents Pose as Members

Posing for two weeks as college men and members of college fraternities, agents of the staff of Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell obtained evidence which resulted yesterday in a raid on the Fraternity Clubs Building, at 22 East Thirty-eighth Street, where they arrested five employes and seized 101 bottles of alleged liquors.

In contrast to the recent raid on the Hollywood Restaurant when hip-flask possessors were arrested as violators of the prohibition law and diners were thrown into excitement, the raid yesterday was one of the quietest made in Major Campbell's recent drive against the so-called smaller sources of supply. Members of the club on the first floor did not know that a raid was in progress until told later of what had occurred.

The raid took place at 2 P. M. On the first floor the agents arrested Al Dionne of 21-43 Twenty-seventh Street, Astoria, Queens, captain of waiters in the main dining room, and Louis Rossano of 308 West Forty-ninth Street, a valet. On the second floor the agents seized John Dionne, bartender, who said he lived in the clubhouse; Louis Hermans of 150 Newark Street, Hoboken, N. J., headwaiter, and Steve Sandy of 1,809 Second Avenue, a waiter. Sandy was charged with selling liquor, and the others were accused of aiding and abetting him.

On the second floor, the agents said, they found a small bar which was not operated by any one of the fraternities in the clubhouse, but by employes of the building. Thirty-three bottles of liquor were found in lockers above ground, according to the raiders, and sixty-eight pints and quarts were found in other lockers in the basement.

Officers of the clubhouse refused to make any statement last night. Members, however, admitted they were completely mystified as to how the prohibition agents gained admission to the club even though they pretended to be college men. According to some of the members, it is necessary to possess and show a membership card every time a member appears on the second floor. They are at a loss to understand how the agents could have obtained this required card and why employes did not recognize them as non-members even with the card in their possession.

Prohibition agents working up evidence against night clubs and hotels here have posed as Western millionaires, playboys and men of high standing and wealth. This was said to be the first time they have undertaken to play the rôle of college men. The raid was viewed as a further demonstration by Major Campbell that he intends to raid any and all kinds of places where he believes liquor is being dispensed in violation of the Volstead act.

CABARET MAN SLAIN IN APARTMENT LOBBY

WIFE STANDING AT HIS SIDE

Friend of Frankie Marlow and Suspect in Jersey Murders Is Thought Club Feud Victim.

The name of Harry Block, night club backer, ex-convict and familiar figure in the Broadway hide-aways that awaken when the rest of the town goes to sleep, was added yesterday to the roster of racketeers who have been murdered in the last year. He was slain in the presence of his wife.

The couple had just entered an elevator in the Sherman Square Apartments, 173 West Seventy-third Street, to be taken to their three-room suite on the fifteenth floor. The operator was closing the door when two young men, each armed with two pistols, fired twenty-three shots at Block. He died within a few minutes.

The elevator operator, Daniel Sullivan, picked out three pictures from the Rogues' Gallery at Police Headquarters last night as resembling one of the murderers. Heartened by this clue, detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station said that they expected to make two arrests within twenty-four hours.

After hearing a report that the slain man had been financially interested in the Cotton Club, a Harlem rendezvous, the detectives said that perhaps Block died because of the wrecking of the Plantation, a night club which set out in January to rival the Cotton Club. On Jan. 17 a group of men posing as Federal agents demolished the interior of the Plantation on the eve of its opening.

Linked to Jersey Slayings.

Captain Philip Sebold, chief of Newark detectives, said yesterday that Block was suspected of having been involved in several recent murders in the North Jersey beer war. The murderers mentioned by Sebold were those of Frankie Dunn, Hoboken; Milton Green, Paterson; Michael (Red) O'Neil, Signac Gardens, Little Falls, N. J., and those of Archie Senville, known in the prize ring as "The Bearded Wonder," and his chief lieutenant, George Miller.

The Newark detective said that he had been informed that Block had entered the liquor racket in Jersey within the last year. He said that Block under the alias of Charles Harris had been arrested with six other men on June 20, 1925 as they were driving away from a bonded warehouse at 49 Hunter Street, Newark, with six barrels of whisky which they had obtained by displaying forged revenue certificates. Block was convicted of conspiracy and a two months' term in the Hudson County jail was the result.

Block was an intimate friend of the late Frankie Marlow, who was enticed from Broadway, shot in an automobile and left dead near a cemetery in Queens. He was at one time an associate of Jack (Legs) Diamond, gang leader and quondam bodyguard for Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler.

A brown notebook in Block's pocket bore the name of Owney Madden, who swaggered among west side gangsters until he turned cabaret entrepreneur and, as Captain Appel put it, the "names of practically every racketeer in the city."

Couple Reach Home at 3 A. M.

It was 3 A. M. when Block and his wife reached the apartment house at the northeast corner of Seventy-third Street and Amsterdam Avenue. Sullivan, the elevator operator, was

ALL POLICE ON CALL FOR MAY DAY RALLY

Whalen Orders 1,000 on Duty at Union Sq. With Machine Gun Squads and Gas Ready.

BANISHES "NIGHT BATONS"

He Expects No Trouble, but Will Be Prepared, He Says—Guards at Strategic Points.

A general order issued by Police Commissioner Whalen yesterday to all commands and to the 18,300 members of the Police Department placed every man on reserve from 4 P. M. yesterday to 8 A. M. tomorrow, so that the department's full resources will be available for any possible demonstration today in connection with May Day celebrations.

The order was issued after a conference held by the Police Commissioner with the heads of the department, including Chief Inspector John O'Brien, Assistant Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney, Deputy Chief Inspector John Sullivan and Inspector Joseph P. Loonam, who commands the Union Square precinct.

Commissioner Whalen expects no trouble, he said yesterday, but will be prepared "if anything happens." The general orders issued yesterday stated that "night batons will not be carried."

This was regarded as significant and as an earnest desire of Mr. Whalen's intention to avoid criticism similar to that which followed the March 6 unemployment demonstration, when it was charged that patrolmen had wielded their night sticks on inoffensive spectators.

Gets Threatening Letters.

Mr. Whalen announced yesterday that he had received many threatening letters since his announcement of police plans for May Day, but he regarded them only as the usual batch of crank letters and was not fearful for his safety. Some letters threatened Mr. Whalen and others said certain places would be dynamited.

Unusual precautions will be taken today by the police, it was said, in view of the recent thefts of dynamite which have not yet been traced. Every posible source of trouble will be guarded against, but the police are aware that the hour from 2 to 3 o'clock this afternoon will be the "zero hour." The Veterans of Foreign Wars have promised to close their patriotic rally in Union Square at 2 and the Communist paraders have been granted permission to set up their soap boxes and unfurl their banners from 3 until 4:45.

There will be no trouble if the veterans do not linger in the vicinity to harry the Communists in the side streets. The commanding officers of the veterans have announced that their commands will be out of the square and out of sight soon after 2 o'clock. The Communists have expressed a desire to cooperate to avoid trouble and in advertisements have asked their followers not to go to Union Square before 3 o'clock.

Thousands of Police on Call.

But if there is trouble there will be 1,000 patrolmen in Union Square to quell the disorder. This force can be augmented in a few minutes by hundreds of others in full fighting equipment, ready to go into action if needed. A telephone message from the garden house at the north end of the square will bring squads of machine gunners to surround the square with a wall of steel.

In the side streets a few hundred yards from the open square will be ten police emergency trucks with patrolmen, tear gas and machine

PHONE RATE REPORT SIGNED BY BOARD; CUT IS FORECAST

Decision, Reached Unanimously, Will Be Announced at Albany Today.

DEPRECIATION A FACTOR

Commission Considers the Whole State in Setting the Proposed Schedules.

COUNSEL'S IDEAS FOLLOWED

He Held That the Value of Company's Real Property Had Not Increased Since Court's Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 30.—With four of its members participating, the Public Service Commission today completed a unanimous decision in the New York Telephone Company rate case and sent the document to the printers for publication tomorrow. Only Chairman Milo R. Maltbie, who was an expert witness in an earlier stage of the litigation, refrained from taking part in the determination.

A surprise in the decision was predicted by those in touch with the headquarters of the commission. It may consist of a small reduction in telephone rates, effective in certain of the temporary schedules now in effect.

Valuation Claims Probably Cut.

To obtain this result the commission would have to make more drastic cuts and alterations in the valuation claims and bookkeeping of the company than they have yet publicly suggested as a probable part of the decision.

It is certain that there will be no such large increase as has been demanded by the telephone company, which has proposed higher tariffs to yield $8,000,000 more revenue a year than are being realized under the present rates. The latter are an increase over the rates prior to Feb. 1.

To offset the company's claim, the commission has lowered the rate base of the telephone plant by almost $40,000,000. This would make a difference, however, of only about $2,500,000 annually in the rates.

To prevent any very substantial rate increase, or to make the small reduction in rates which is now being predicted, the commission would have to go much further.

Victory for Blakeslee.

In general the decision is known to represent substantially the case pressed by the counsel of the commission, Colonel Charles G. Blakeslee, who also represented seventy-two up-State cities and villages during the hearings.

The commission has decided to consider telephone rates from the standpoint of the State as a whole, in this respect following Colonel Blakeslee.

His three other main objectives were to obtain the deduction of the balance in the company's depreciation reserve from the valuation of the plant, thus materially lowering its rate base; to advance possible changes in the company's calculations as to the rates of depreciation and salvage, and to show that the value of the company's real property had not increased since the court decision. These points, it is understood, are all recognized to varying degrees in the decision.

The decision has been reached in a series of conferences over a period of a week. Hearings were held for two and a half months previously, beginning as soon as the temporary rates went into effect Feb. 1.

The temporary schedules represented a modification by the commission of the company's January proposals, the suggested increases being cut by 20 per cent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLON, Panama, April 30.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh flew to Panama City in an army pursuit plane today, called on Governor Burgess of the Canal Zone and President Arosemena of Panama, and returned to France Field in the afternoon.

Colonel Lindbergh plans to take off at 8 A. M. tomorrow with the first north-bound seven-day mail from Montevideo for New York. For a time today it was feared that the mail would not arrive in time, because of a snowstorm over the Andes. The Colonel said he thought he could leave safely as late as 1 P. M.

This was unnecessary, however, as L. R. Moore, the pilot of the incoming Pan-American-Grace line plane, managed to make up time he lost due to the storm. He arrived with the mail, although he lost a wager made with correspondents that he would be here by 4 P. M.

Mr. Moore's original schedule called for a flight from Santa Elena, Ecuador, but due to the delay in crossing the Andes he flew on to Talara, where, flying at night from Lima, the mail arrived at 5 A. M. Mr. Moore left six minutes later on the flight that ended here at 5:33 P. M., with only brief stops for refueling. Mr. Moore had no co-pilot and was at the controls for twelve hours on a flight of almost 1,400 miles.

The plane brought 180 pounds of mail from Buenos Aires and other points, to which a large amount will be added here, as philatelists are mailing hundreds of covers of this flight, which bear the statement that Lindbergh was the pilot and a cachet showing the inauguration of the 133-hour schedule from Cristobal to Miami.

COLON, April 30 (AP).—Rear Admiral John R. Y. Blakely, commanding the Fifteenth Naval District; Lieut. Col. James A. Mars and Lieutenant Robert Zane flew with Colonel Lindbergh to Panama City today. All were luncheon guests of Governor Burgess and then returned to Cristobal.

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 30 (AP).—The government signed a contract today with the Pan-American Airways Company for weekly mail and passenger service from Puerto Cabello and Maracaibo to Panama, where direct connection will be made with the seven-day service between New York and Montevideo.

HOOVER GETS NAVAL TREATY; SENATE FAVOR IS INDICATED BY RECEPTION OF ROBINSON

STIMSON PRESENTS PAPER

DISCUSS THE CONFERENCE

SENATE HAILS ROBINSON

Takes Recess to Welcome Him and Praises His Services in London Parley.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The official copy of the naval treaty agreed on at the London conference was presented to President Hoover today by Secretary Stimson at a brief ceremony on the south lawn of the White House and preparations were immediately begun for transmitting the document to the Senate for approval.

All indications are that the agreement will be sent to the Senate in a few days and be received in a favorable atmosphere, with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader and a member of the American delegation at London, as one of its strongest champions.

Evidence of the friendly disposition of the Senate toward the accomplishments of the London conference and the part played in it by the United States was given in an enthusiastic reception given Senator Robinson when he returned to the Senate chamber today.

The active support he will give the treaty was promised in an interview with newspaper correspondents.

Says We Have "Got to Build."

Referring to the fact that the United States has neglected naval building practically since the war, Senator Robinson said:

"There is no arrangement I know of that will avoid spending money unless we abandon our position as a naval power."

He added:

"We have got to build whether we have a treaty or not. The question is whether we want to build in accordance with a well defined program, such as is embodied in the treaty. We should build up to the limits this treaty sets, which involves an expenditure of $100,000,000 a year for the next six years for the United States.

"The treaty establishes a relationship which puts the three powers concerned [the United States, Great Britain and Japan] at ease respecting one another. It is diffirent from the situation that followed the Geneva conference in 1927, when all the nations involved showed a mad desire to build.

Secretary Stimson, Secretary Adams and Senator Robinson were received at the White House this noon to report their return from London. After formal greetings the group adjourned to the South Lawn for the presentation of the treaty to the President. George Akerson, secretary to the President, and Captain Allan T. Buchanan and Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, the naval and military aides to the President, were also present. Motion-picture cameras and sound devices recorded the scene.

Stimson Presents Treaty.

"Mr. President, I have the honor to hand you herewith the treaty concluded at London," said Secretary Stimson. "I am only sorry the other four members of the delegation are not here. I wish to thank you for the honor and privilege of participating in the negotiation and conclusion of the treaty."

"Mr. Secretary," the President replied, "I want to thank you and your delegation for a task well done."

The President entertained the delegates and Mr. Cotton, Assistant Secretary of State, and Mr. Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, at luncheon, during which some of the negotiations in London were discussed. Reaching a decision as to when the treaty should be sent to the Senate had been planned, but this was deferred.

At the White House it was said that the treaty would probably be presented to the Senate "within a few days." Senator Robinson said he expected the transmittal late this week or early next week. Meanwhile President Hoover will determine whether he will send a formal letter

Full Military Dress Missed When Hoover Receives Treaty

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The absence of full military dress when the naval treaty was handed today to President Hoover by the delegates to the London conference stirred considerable interest. Captain Allen T. Buchanan and Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, the President's aides, wore dress uniforms but without sword belt, sword and gold epaulets.

It was assumed that because the treaty concerned peace these trappings of war had been pigeonholed. Later it was explained that every effort had been made to have the ceremony simple and brief, and that as the President, Secretaries Stimson and Adams and Senator Robinson all wore business clothes, it was unnecessary for the officers to don full regalia.

COMMERCE LEADERS ASSAIL FARM BOARD

Sharp Defense of Loans and Market Moves Is Made by Hyde and Legge.

BARNES LEADS ATTACK

He Decries Use of Public Funds—Fort Challenges Chamber to Find Better Solution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Criticisms of the agricultural marketing act and the Federal Farm Board, which drew unscheduled replies from two spokesmen for the administration, threw the third general session of the eighteenth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today into as plain-spoken a discussion of the agricultural problem as has taken place in either house of Congress.

Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, and Representative Fort of New Jersey both replied to a series of attacks on the board as a price-fixing body or an undesirable manifestation of governmental participation in business during the general discussion following the delivery of two addresses on the work of the board which took opposite views.

One of these was given by Alexander Legge, chairman of the board, who described and defended its work, and the other by Daniel A. Millett, an investment banker and stock man of Denver, Col., who asked repeal of the agricultural marketing act.

Hyde Denies "Price Pegging."

"Price pegging" has no part in the work of the Farm Board, Secretary Hyde told the delegates who packed the auditorium of the building housing the Chamber of Commerce.

"More misapprehension with reference to the meaning and purpose of the agricultural marketing act have been produced here in this highly respectable and influential audience than I have read in all the farm journals in America," the Secretary said. "The Farm Board does not expect to peg prices; the Farm Board has made no attempt to peg prices; price pegging is not in the act and price pegging is not found in our program."

Representative Fort challenged the critics of the agricultural act among

URGED JUDGE PARKER AS POLITICAL MOVE

Dixon, Wilbur Aide, Wrote to Hoover's Secretary, McKellar Reveals in Senate.

SAW CHANCE TO WIN SOUTH

Appointment Would Be "a Master Stroke," He Said, 5 Days After Sanford's Death.

CLOSE VOTE IS PREDICTED

Leaders Dubious of Victory, With Robinson Uncommitted—Wagner Calls Parker Unqualified.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Advocates of confirmation of Judge John J. Parker as associate justice of the Supreme Court were thrown into some confusion today by disclosure in the Senate of a letter written five days after the death of Justice Sanford, urging the administration to appoint Judge Parker as a "major political stroke."

Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, who opposed Judge Parker, read the letter, dated March 13, written by Joseph M. Dixon, First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, to Walter H. Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries.

The most sanguine view today of Judge Parker's chances, based on an unofficial poll, was that he would be confirmed by three or four votes, but some Republican leaders, on the other hand, expressed grave doubts. This feeling was enhanced by the introduction of the Dixon letter.

Apart from the presentation of this letter, another development which may bear on the outcome of the fight was the return today of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader.

It is generally believed that Senator Robinson's attitude might be persuasive with several Democrats whose votes might be decisive. Mr. Robinson said this afternoon that he was not prepared to indicate how he would vote. He believed he had about made up his mind, but wanted to read the entire records before deciding finally.

Today's discussion was further featured by a long speech by Senator Wagner of New York, who asserted that Judge Parker, in view of his decisions and public utterances, lacked the breadth of vision and the quality of "statecraft" needed in a Supreme Court Justice.

Senators Hastings of Delaware and Hebert or Rhode Island, Republicans, favored confirmation. Both defended the judicial record of the nominee.

McKellar Rebukes Fess.

Senator McKellar, in reading the Dixon letter, said he did so because he thought Senator Fess had undertaken to "inject politics" into the debate in taking the floor yesterday in defense of the Parker nomination.

Mr. Walsh declared that Senators had been deluged with telegrams from the South urging Judge Parker's confirmation, not because of benefits that might accrue to the bench but on the ground that it would assure advantages to the Republican party.

Senator Overman, veteran Democratic sponsor of the Parker nomination, was plainly perturbed by the Dixon letter, saying:

"That letter was never before our committee."

It was later brought out that the letter had been contained in a file of all the recommendations in the Parker case sent by the Department of Justice to the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Senator McKellar obtained it in that file from Senator Norris.

Text of the Dixon Letter.

The text submitted by Mr. McKellar read:

THE FIRST ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.
Washington, March 13, 1930.
Hon. Walter H. Newton,
The White House.
My Dear Mr. Newton:

I speak as a native-born North Carolina Republican.

North Carolina gave President Hoover 65,000 majority. In my judgment it carries more hope of future permanent alignment with the Republican Party than any other of the Southern States that broke from their political moorings last year.

If the exigencies of the situation permit, I believe the naming of Judge Parker to the Supreme Court would be a major political stroke. North Carolina has had no outstanding recognition by the administration.

The naming of Judge Parker at this time would appeal mightily to State pride. It would be the first distinctive major appointment made from the South. It would go a long way toward satisfying the unquestioned feeling that the administration has not yet recognized the political revolution of 1928.

Every one tells me that Judge Parker is a man of finie personality, who has made a most enviable record both in private practice and as a member of the Federal Circuit Court.

By education and legal training he should measure up to the position. There would be no apology necessary. He is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of North Carolina.

The fact that he is 45 years old and has not yet reached the senile stage would give a distinct flavor in the matter of a Supreme Court appointment.

I may be prejudiced on account of my knowledge and sympathy with North Carolina Republicans who have borne the banner, in season and out, under tremendous discouragement. I believe Judge Parker's appointment would be a master political stroke at this time.

If, in the midst of overwhelming demands upon your time and his, these considerations could be presented to President Hoover, I believe they are worthy of serious thought.

Yours very sincerely,
JOSEPH M. DIXON.

Wagner Cites Power of Court.

Senator Wagner appealed to the Senate to "make an appropriate comparison between the magnitude of the place to be filled and the size of the man who has been called to fill it."

The Constitution, he warned, "is what the judges say it is," and he added, "because the Constitution of the United States today is what the judges of the past have made it, and the Constitution of the future will be what the judges appointed in our day will make it, it is, therefore, by the standard of makers of the Constitution that nominees for the Supreme Bench must be judged.

"The point is," he continued, "that appointments to the Supreme Court must be judged by long-time standards. They certainly should not be made by reference to immediate political opportunities. Presidential administrations come and go; laws are made and repealed; alongside of these, judicial pronouncements are relatively immortal.

Says "Statecraft" Is Needed.

"No man of ordinary capacity, who merely happens to fit into the political and geographical necessities of the moment, can pass muster if tested by these standards. The peculiar quality required of a Supreme Court judge can best be described by the term of 'statecraft.' Its possession is indispensable."

Three major problems—"the limits within which a State may exercise its police powers and taxing powers to accomplish ends loosely referred to as social welfare, the relatively new and expanding field of public utility regulation, and industrial relations—now divide the Supreme Court," according to Senator Wagner.

Nothing is known, he pointed out, of Judge Parker's attitude toward the first two problems, and the "yellow dog" contract decision is the only index available of his opinion on the third.

The Senator quoted the findings of Senatorial investigation committees, the Federal Coal Commission and nationally known economists as well as court decisions on the legality and morality of the "yellow dog" form of contract, which he asserted was an attempt to build a feudal system in the United States.

"How did Judge Parker react to this application?" asked Mr. Wagner, reviewing the history of anti-union contracts and the Red Jacket Coal Company case, in which Judge Parker sustained the validity of the contracts.

"Did he inquire into or consider the inequality of bargaining power between the Red Jacket company and each of its employes? Did he consider the consequences to unionism if such applications were generally granted? Did he inquire into the consonance of such a limitation upon public speech with American institutions?

"Did it occur to him that if such an injunction was issued it would mean that under the protecting wing of the Federal courts every form of bondage could be imposed upon workers and that all resistance on their part would be rendered futile?

"The most devastating criticism of Mr. Parker, the one fact which alone in my judgment is sufficient to disqualify him to hold the position to which he has been nominated, is the fact that he failed totally to react. The instrument was labeled a contract, and he accepted it as labeled, without question, without doubt, without thought, totally oblivious of its possibly catastrophic effects upon the future.

"That failure to be aware of the fact that he was in the presence of an important problem shows a lack of statecraft which is the sine qua non of the high judicial office to which he has been nominated.

"No one in this chamber," continued Mr. Wagner, "has yet offered to approve the propriety of the anti-union promise; but Judge Parker, sitting in a court of equity, sanctioned it, approved it and enforced it with the most powerful weapon in the arsenal of our courts."

Mr. Wagner repeated that the evidence found by investigations had shown, among the results of the "yellow dog" contract-injunction combination, "business disrupted, industrial relations destroyed, civil government displaced, civil rights unknown, and poverty, resentment and the seeds of rebellion everywhere."

Says Parker Had Facts at Hand.

"The government commissions had already uncovered the facts," said Mr. Wagner, "and condemned the practices when Judge Parker wrote his decision. He must have known them, but apparently these vibrant facts had no meaning for him. These are factors which great judges take into consideration, but which are overlooked and neglected and whose significance is missed by the kind of judges who seek a precedent and lean upon it."

Referring to statements alleged to have been made by Judge Parker in 1920 that the Negro was not yet qualified to assume responsibilities in a political way, Senator Wagner said:

"Mr. President, I see a deep and fundamental consistency between Judge Parker's views of labor relations and his reported attitude toward the colored people of the United States. They both spring from a single trait of character. Judged by the available record, he is obviously incapable of viewing with sympathy the aspirations of those who are aiming for a higher and better place in the world."

Senator McKellar said that he would have had a great deal more respect for Judge Parker if, in upholding his Red Jacket decision, he had boldly said:

"I believe that opinion was right. I believed it was the law; I stand by it."

"He does not say anything like that," said Mr. McKellar. "However, he excuses it in his letter of last Monday."

DRYS IN DIGEST POLL LOSE FIVE MORE CITIES

67 Check-Up Counts Are Now Being Conducted Throughout Nation, Weekly Reports.

Vancouver, Wash., was the dryest of five new cities reported yesterday in The Literary Digest poll on prohibition, but even this city failed to give a majority in favor of enforcement. Four cities reported for the second time also gave anti-dry majorities, although one, Tulsa, Okla., cast a small plurality for enforcement in an almost evenly divided vote.

Vancouver polled 717 enforcement votes out of 1,479. At the other end of the scale in the five new cities was Appleton, Wis., which registered a repeal majority. Sharon, Pa., polled a plurality for repeal. In San Bernardino, Cal., and Elyria, Ohio, the modification advocates won a plurality.

Three of the four cities reported for the second time showed a preference for repeal. Norfolk, Va., polled a repeal majority, while in Syracuse, N. Y., and Worcester, Mass., repeal received less than 50 per cent of the vote. In Tulsa, Okla., enforcement received 2,018 votes, against 1,979 for repeal and 1,917 for modification. The tabulation follows:

MORROW TO CONFER WITH HOOVER TODAY

Ambassador Goes to Capital to Discuss Naval Treaty and Senatorial Primary.

UNLIKELY TO BE APPOINTED

Backers Oppose His Entering Upper House Now—Also Urge Him Not to Return to Mexico.

Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, left for Washington yesterday afternoon to confer with President Hoover and administration leaders regarding the naval treaty, Mexican affairs and the Republican primary campaign in New Jersey.

As he departed for the capital it was learned that his supporters for the Republican nomination for United States Senator believed it was unlikely that Mr. Morrow would either enter the Senate by appointment or return to Mexico City before the end of his primary campaign against Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen. It was believed probable that he would retain his position as Ambassador to be free to visit Mexico City after the campaign to wind up his affairs there.

Oppose Entering Senate Now.

While the original plans called for Mr. Baird to resign from the Senate so that Governor Larson could appoint Mr. Morrow in his place, the New Jersey leaders have now taken the stand that it would be unwise for the Ambassador to plunge into the turmoil of Senate affairs and endanger his campaign chances.

Mr. Morrow is understood to be desirous of visiting Mexico as Ambassador before the general election to complete certain matters, and Mexican groups are reported anxious to have him come back if only for a brief period. But the New Jersey supporters are said to feel that his presence is necessary in the State during the campaign to insure victory against Mr. Frelinghuysen, who is regarded as a formidable opponent.

The Senatorial aspirant announced that he would withhold decision on both these points until after his conferences in Washington. He is expected to meet the President about noon today, and, while much of their conversation is likely to centre on the naval treaty which Mr. Morrow as an American delegate at the London conference had a hand in drawing up, it is believed inevitable that the New Jersey political situation will at least be touched upon.

See Prohibition Ruled Out.

Whether the President and Mr. Morrow will confer on Mr. Morrow's prospective stand on prohibition in the campaign is not known, however. Mr. Frelinghuysen has announced that he is "wet" and it is understood that Mr. Morrow will also be "wet."

Both Morrow and Frelinghuysen workers expressed the opinion that international relations, the World Court and possibly the naval treaty would come in for much more discussion in the campaign than prohibition. They voiced the opinion that with both candidates on the "wet" side, no matter how varying the degrees of their "wetness," prohibition would be removed as an issue.

Mr. Frelinghuysen, it was learned, expects to centre a major share of his campaign on opposition to alliances of the United States with other nations. As a Senator in the period just after the end of the World War, he was outstanding in his opposition to the League of Nations and the World Court, and he is expected to revive this opposition, like Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, who employed it in her successful Senatorial nomination fight in Illinois recently.

Mr. Morrow, it was said, will be satisfied also to keep prohibition in the background and talk international policies. One reason for this is said to be that while he is considered an administration candidate, if "wet" he will not be in harmony with the administration policy on prohibition. As an Ambassador and a participant in several important diplomatic meetings in the past few years, Mr. Morrow is viewed as representing international political opinions antithetical to those of Mr. Frelinghuysen. Whether Mr. Frelinghuysen will specifically attack the naval treaty is not known.

Will Raise "Machine" Issue.

Mr. Frelinghuysen will dwell a good deal on the charge of "machine domination" in New Jersey Republican affairs. His supporters contend that Mr. Morrow is the hand-picked candidate of the Senator Baird-Governor Larson-Senator Kean group in the party which, they feel, has been dominating State affairs.

It was announced yesterday at Frelinghuysen headquarters in Newark that arrangements had been completed for fifteen-minute radio talks one night each week by the former Senator during May and a more intensive radio campaign in June until the primary election on June 17. It was also announced that headquarters had been opened during the day at Passaic, Paterson, Elizabeth, South Orange and Bloomfield.

The Mercer County Republican Women announced that Mrs. Morrow would be a guest of their organization on May 8 at a luncheon at the Princeton Inn and at a dinner at the club in Trenton. Mrs. Morrow is scheduled to speak at both fuctions. Mr. Morrow was to have delivered a talk yesterday at a luncheon of the Bergen County Women's Republican Club at Roselle Park, but was unable to be present.

Morrow State headquarters in Newark issued a statement asserting that the Dwight W. Morrow Association of Jersey City, which has distributed letters asking for funds for the Morrow campaign, had no connection with the Morrow organization and was not authorized to collect funds.

Confers With Senator Baird.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Ambassador Morrow arrived here tonight from his home in Englewood, N. J., and conferred with Senator Baird of New Jersey, whose seat he has been scheduled to take in the United States Senate.

WOULD HAVE HOOVER CALL EXTRA SESSION

Senator Jones, a Dry, Urges This Step on President if Enforcement Program Fails.

WATSON OPPOSED TO STEP

House Committee Reports in Favor of Additional Judges for Third and Fifth Circuits.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Senator Jones of Washington, assistant Republican leader of the Senate and a leading dry, called on President Hoover today and urged him to call a special session of Congress to act upon his expanded criminal law enforcement program, if it was not disposed of at the present session. Senator Jones asked the President to warn Congress that failure to act before adjournment would mean the summoning of an extra session the day after the present session adjourns.

The President's response was not revealed but in authoritative quarters it is considered extremely doubtful that the Senator's counsel will be followed. In the first place, there are good prospects that two major provisions and possibly three of the legislation sought by the President will be approved at this session. In the second place, members of both houses are tired and anxious to go home, as Senator Watson stated in the Senate this afternoon. In the third place, there is a question as to whether the administration is keen on having Congress remain in session after the naval treaty and the tariff bill have been disposed of.

"I told the President that I hoped he would insist upon Congress acting upon his program before adjournment," stated Senator Jones. "I also told him that I thought it would be well for him to let Congress know that he would call a special session if it did not act upon the program before adjournment of the regular session."

Senator Jones believes Congress should go on record concerning all the measures the administration urges to aid law enforcement. No matter how the Senate and House felt about this legislation they should express themselves on its various features, he said.

Prospects are bright for the ratification of the bills transferring the prohibition unit to the Department of Justice and for the prison bills, Senator Watson said, adding that he was "not so sure" about the border patrol project. Senator Norris, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, predicted passage of all three, but, like Mr. Watson, seemed to see no hope for the other legislation the President desires.

Mr. Watson said he was opposed to a special session "for any purpose."

Reports in Favor of More Judges.

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—Whether the Hoover law enforcement commission's bills to relieve court congestion will be discarded for the Bachmann plan to provide additional Federal judges is to be determined next Tuesday by the House Judiciary Committee under a program outlined today by Chairman Graham.

Although the committee considered President Hoover's recent appeal to Congress for early action on the commission's legislative program, it declined today to take action on the bills. Instead it reported favorably measures to provide an additional judge each for the Third and Fifth Circuit Courts of Appeals as provided under the Bachmann measure. A bill to provide two additional judges for the District of Columbia Supreme Court was also approved. The third circuit comprises Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey and the fifth Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

Chairman Graham said the committee was divided on the commission plan for juryless trials before United States commissioners and on the proposal to grant to District Attorneys discretionary power to try liquor law violators as felons or misdemeanants.

Considerable opposition had also been registered against the Stobbs bill to amend the Jones law to define minor dry law violations, he said. A substantial group in the committee favored additional Federal judges as the solution to the congestion problem.

Attorney General Mitchell discussed the commission plan before the committee at its secret session today. Chairman Graham said Mr. Mitchell expressed neither a favorable nor adverse opinion on the juryless trial proposals.

"The Judiciary Committee is not obligated to adopt the bills simply because the law enforcement commission recommended them," Mr. Graham said. He added, however, that the President had asked for relief of congestion in Federal courts, "and we are going to give it to him."

Mr. Graham said the committee would take definite action next Tuesday. He commented that if the Bachmann plan to provide seventeen additional Federal judges was carried out congestion in the courts of crowded dockets would be relieved and the committee would have complied with the President's request.

Reports have spread among salt merchants recently that the government either would abolish the salt duty or reduce it. Therefore they have canceled orders or only taken quantities sufficient for current needs, with the consequence that salt prices have risen in some districts.

The government today issued a communiqué denying that abolition or reduction of the duty was planned and urging traders to resume normal activity. The communiqué pointed out that salt could be removed from the salt works for only a few weeks before the monsoon season arrived, and that if business was held up a rise in prices—with possibly a salt famine—would follow.

From Manchester, the cotton manufacturing centre of England, came word that manufacturers would insist upon the sanctity of contracts. The Manchester Chamber of Commerce had been notified by the Bombay Native Piece Goods Association that "a very serious and alarming crisis has arisen for the mercantile community in India," and a cablegram from the Indian organization urged efforts "to bring about acceptance of national demands and effect amicable settlement."

The Manchester Chamber replied that it could not intervene in political matters but would insist that its contracts for sale of cotton goods to India be upheld.

Members of the Bombay Provincial Congress Committee visited the Mahatma today and it is understood the Nationalist leader was urged to advise some further action of civil disobedience in view of the government's inactivity after the arrest of Mr. Gandhi's principal lieutenants.

It is also understood that Mr. Gandhi has unfolded another plan which will be carried out tomorrow on the banks of the river Tapti, at Surat. The nature of this plan is a mystery also but it is reported a congress worker from Surat took instructions from Mr. Gandhi today on carrying it out.

Mahatma's Son Jailed.

NEW DELHI, April 30 (AP).—Devi Das Gandhi, the youngest son of Mahatma Gandhi, was sentenced today to one year's rigorous imprisonment on a charge of sedition.

He is the second son of Mr. Gandhi to be sentenced to prison during the present disobedience campaign. Ram Das Gandhi, early this month, was sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment for defiance of the salt laws.

COMMERCE LEADERS ASSAIL FARM BOARD

the chamber's members to offer a better solution of the problem.

"Do what you failed to do in the five years of this legislation in the halls of Congress," he said. "Give us a sound alternative that will give to agriculture real economic equality before the law with the rest of industry."

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber, who closed the discussion, aligned himself with the administration opponents on the premise that public funds should not be used to advance private business.

Legge Criticizes Chamber.

Reviewing the studies made of the farm problem over a period of years, Mr. Legge said that the Industrial Conference Board had summarized the conclusions in stating "that the situation confronting agriculture cannot be met by a political palliative." He pointed out also that spokesmen from the chamber had endorsed the agricultural act while it was being considered by a committee of the House of Representatives.

"Certainly none of you," he told them, "have seen any evidence of constructive action on the part of the Chamber of Commerce or the part of any of its affiliated organizations, with the doubtful exception of taking a referendum two years ago, looking to a remedy for and permanent improvement in the situation, which your own investigators had warned required substantial assistance, if not from you, then from the government."

The action of Congress in passing the marketing act committed the country to the principle of cooperative marketing, Mr. Legge continued, adding that "there has been considerable evidence the past several months that entirely too many of your members were for the principle of cooperation so long as it did not work."

Aid to Manufacturers Cited.

"I do not recall in years gone by," Mr. Legge continued, "of hearing you men making any such complaint against government aid that was extended to the manufacturing industry, to transportation and to finance. And these all played their part in adding to the disadvantages of the farmer, as did also the preferential treatment to labor through immigration restriction and other measures."

Answering critics of the Farm Board's policy in making loans on wheat and cotton and its subsequent stabilization work, he said the loans were made on the basis of fixed values "in an effort to check further and unnecessary depression."

When further stabilization was necessary, he continued, this was accomplished "well within the provisions of the act itself."

Charging that criticism had been leveled at his organization for giving aid to farmers that could be obtained from no other source, Mr. Legge offered to match dollar for dollar private contributions to aid in setting up a private enterprise which would do the work of the board.

Mr. Millett, replying to Mr. Legge, asked not only the repeal of the agricultural marketing act, but also downward revision of the tariff.

Stating that "the decreased production policy put into effect under this act virtually nullifies the agricultural financing acts and the work of the Department of Agriculture for the last half century," he defined the principal causes for its enactment as:

"1. Response to the emotional urge of sympathy.

2. Because of resentment at economic inequality.

3. Response to what is apparently a world-wide movement in practically every direction toward consolidation and stabilization."

Deploring the work of the board in working for decreased production in an effort to relieve a flooded agricultural market, Mr. Millett continued:

"This act does not yet give the Farm Board dictatorship over production, though that body is advising the unsound policy of reduction, but when it comes to the second factor in control, marketing, the aspect is more serious, for it gives to the board, through its controlled subsidiaries, what may become monopolistic control over American markets for agricultural products."

Mr. Millett also drew a picture of the possible expense to the public which may be entailed under the act.

Hyde Defends Crop Loans.

Secretary Hyde injected irony into his talk when he gave instances of controlled production in industry and added:

"We of the Farm Board are grateful to those who have been working with us in the past, the help of some of the greatest men in international industry.

"I refer to Mr. Ford, whose name is second to none in America, and he tells the farmer to plant every acre he can and raise all he can.

"We farmers are not gifted with the information possessed by some of the capitalists of industry, neither are we so dumb as not to know that at the very moment Mr. Ford made that statement his own plant was operating at 75 per cent capacity."

Criticizing one suggestion that "the law of supply and demand and the elimination of the producer is an answer to the problem," Mr. Hyde contended that there is nothing economically sound or socially desirable "in any program which resolves to reduce the American standard of living among any substantial class of American citizens." He continued:

"You have heard from Mr. Legge the reasons which impelled the board to project itself into the wheat situation through loans rather than through a stabilization corporation.

"Maybe it was a mistake; if so, I glory in it. We have made others.

"We shall make more.

"We do not intend to do and we are not willing to do anything that is unsound economically, but I thank God, and the sentiments I utter are my own, I am serving a chief who sees through the mistakes to the ultimate welfare of twenty-seven and one-half millions of American citizens.

"In this loan upon farm products, upon wheat for example, the Farm Board made the same mistake that a banker makes when he loans too much. If it is unsound in the Farm Board, it is also unsound in finance."

Regarding the loan provisions of the Farm Board bill, Mr. Hyde said, however, that he "refused to accept any complicity in the rate of interest," adding, "I feel we should perhaps be able to make greater progress in the organization of agriculture in setting up these great lighthouse leadership institutions for agriculture if the Farm Board did not have a dollar beyond its expenses."

Mr. Hyde was frequently applauded by the delegates during his speech, as was Representative Fort, who, in his introductory statement, said he had come to listen to "abuse" of the Farm Board, but had listened "to abuse of my colleagues on the Agricultural Committee of the House who had drafted this legislation," adding, "I am here to stand by what we did."

His speech was devoted as much to reminding his auditors of their alleged lack of interest in the marketing act before its passage as to an exposition of its merits. Referring to a proposed resolution of censure for the act and the Farm Board, which is scheduled to come before the general session tomorrow, he told them:

"Unless you can improve upon this act in its effort to afford to agriculture those benefits and advantages which, under the law of corporate industry, industry enjoys today, then do not pass your resolution. If you can improve upon it, we will be delighted to consider your alternative proposal."

Mr. Barnes, who called government money enlisted in support of cooperatives a "menace," answered Mr. Legge's proposition to set up an independent organization to take over the work of the Farm Board by saying he would undertake to get the support of the Chamber of Commerce for such a private work.

No private enterprise will attempt to compete with projects backed by public funds, he continued, concluding that "the whole thing presents a very serious situation and the damage to private industry is irreparable."

Act Termed 'Sentence of Outlawry.'

The first plea from the delegates for favorable action on the proposed condemnatory resolution was made by H. W. Jones, representing the National Poultry and Egg Dealers' Association, who referred to the act as "an executive and executory sentence of outlawry."

L. W. Smith of the Michigan canning industry, who charged that unfair competition is being created through the fostering of cooperatives by the Farm Board, also opposed the act, as did C. W. Webb, spokesman for the Philadelphia Wool and Textile Association, and F. C. Adams of the Boston Wool Trade Association. Both of the latter deplored the use of government funds to aid private industry.

W. F. Jensen, who represented the American Association of Butter Manufacturers, termed the agricultural act "a law that serves notice to all independent manufacturers and merchants that they are no longer needed and wanted."

S. Stephens, a representative of the National Coal Dealers' Association, also charged that public funds are being used to compete with private capital.

H. C. Netterau of the New York Mercantile Exchange told of a resolution adopted yesterday by his organization, composed of butter and egg merchants, condemning the Federal farm act.

Another opponent was W. J. McCabe of the Grain Exchange and Grain Dealers of Duluth, who said he spoke for the whole grain trade, telling the meeting:

"If you can find anything that will upset business as this has been upsetting business all over the country, I would like for you to tell us what it is."

Delegate Supports Board.

A spokesman in favor of the act finally emerged from the delegates when John Brandt, representing the large Land-o'-Lakes Dairy in Minnesota said he hoped the delegates would "have the good business sense not to fall into the error of having this organization pass a resolution of the character that is to be presented to you."

His organization, he stated, has received $2,000,000 from the Farm Board, and repaid all but a few hundreds.

"Gentlemen, if this act had been passed for the benefit of many of the industries whose representatives are here present today, and if the loans had been extended to them in the same proportions and for the same purpose as made to those who have benefited by the extension of loans through the farm loan act and all of the amount had been lost, we would have heard no criticism of that act from you."

Auto Association Gets Medal.

Today's session of the chamber was supplemented by a round table discussion of business topics at luncheons and four banquets by organizations affiliated with the chamber this evening.

One dinner, that of the American Trade Association executives, was the occasion for awarding of the "A. T. A. E." medal to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The presentation was made by Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, who commended the automobile chamber "for its national cross-licensing of patent agreement, which provides a pooling of about 1,700 patents."

"This results in great public benefit," he said, "by allowing each manufacturer to use the latest improvements organized by any company. It works a step in advance of most associational work."

Secretary Hyde also spoke at this dinner.

At the dinner of the National Association of State Chambers of Commerce Governor Ritchie of Maryland attacked "centralization of powers in the Federal Government." Mentioning prohibition as an example, he stated:

"The Eighteenth Amendment is a complete repeal, so far as intoxicating liquors are concerned, of the Tenth Amendment, which reserves to the States all powers not granted the nation."

Without "a new political incarnation we face the setting sun of State sovereignty and local self-government," he declared.

Speaking at the taxation conference, Ogden Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, said the government finances would show a moderate surplus at the end of the year, but he declined to speculate on future government fiscal plans.

SIGNS BILL TO BEGIN SARATOGA PROJECT

Governor, as He Leaves for Georgia, Approves Plan to Develop Health Resort.

HE WINDS UP LEGISLATION

Measures for Women in Stores and on Dwellings Effected—Seven Vetoes Announced.

His work completed in connection with several hundred bills that were sent to him by the Legislature when that body adjourned April 11, Governor Roosevelt left last night for Warm Springs, Ga., where he expects to remain until May 24. The Governor said he expected to enjoy a complete rest while in the South, but he took along two secretaries.

While the Governor has acted either in approval or veto upon all of the so-called thirty-day bills, what the action was on some of the measures had not been announced when he took his departure. The action on twenty-five bills, of which eighteen were approved and seven vetoed, was announced, and there will be a further statement today. The so-called omnibus veto, which in this instance will cover more than 100 bills, will be made public tomorrow.

Among several important bills which received the Governor's approval was the measure introduced by Assemblyman Porter, Republican, of Essex County, creating a special State commission to take up the development of Saratoga Springs as a model health resort and appropriating $1,000,000 toward the cost of the enterprise. Two bills amending the labor law so as to provide a weekly half-holiday for women workers in factories and mercantile establishments, and a bill introduced by Francis E. Rivers, one of the two Negro Assemblymen from Harlem, under the terms of which rents may be withheld from landlords who are backward in complying with orders from the Tenement House Department for necessary repairs in flats and apartments, were also approved.

The Governor signed one more bill of the Knight Commission series, amending the Public Service law by providing for the creation of a division of rural electrification within the Department of Public Service.

Baruch May Head Saratoga Board.

According to the best estimates available the Saratoga Springs project will require an outlay of at least $3,000,000 for its realization. When completed it is proposed that the modernized spa at Saratoga shall be conducted under State auspices.

It is expected that Bernard M. Baruch will be appointed by Governor Roosevelt as chairman of the permanent commission created by the Porter bill for the development of the health resort. Mr. Baruch was chairman of a special commission appointed by the Governor which made a preliminary study of the proposal and the Porter bill was drafted in accordance with recommendations contained in the report of that body.

"This is the beginning of the fulfillment of a hope which I have entertained for many years that Saratoga Springs may become a great health centre, maintained by a State agency for the benefit of our citizens," Governor Roosevelt said in a brief memorandum made public with the announcement of his action.

The bill was one of two which the Legislature passed dealing with the Saratoga Springs development. The other carried an appropriation of only $175,000 and was favored by the Republican leaders in the Senate, who felt that the prospective commission could not spend a larger amount during the first year. The Governor, however, sent an eleventh-hour special message to the Senate and Assembly insisting that the larger appropriation be approved. The Governor is expected to dispose of the $175,000 appropriation in an omnibus veto.

Medical Studies Provided For.

Under the bill approved the Saratoga Springs commission will be vested with sweeping powers, including the conducting of scientific studies and experiments concerning maladies which respond to treatment with the waters at Saratoga. The Baruch commission made a study of some of the foremost spas in Europe in preparation for the work. In its report it emphasized the health phase of the project and discouraged any attempt to create a "glorified playground" at Saratoga.

The half-holiday bill affecting mercantile establishments, introduced by Senator Mastick of Westchester, was approved by Governor Roosevelt over the protest of spokesmen for most of the large department stores in this city. At the same time, the Governor approved another Mastick bill making similar provision applying to women in industrial employment.

The Rivers act, while making it lawful for tenants to withhold rent from recalcitrant landlords, provides that the tenant must pay his rent to the court; that the condition which the landlord has failed to remedy must be so flagrant as to amount to constructive eviction, and that no willful act of the tenant has led to the necessity for the order. The Governor in a memorandum expressed his conviction that these provisions amply protected the property rights of the landlord.

The Governor also approved three remaining bills, of which Senator Hofstadter and Assemblyman Moffat of this city were sponsors, which provide for amendments to the multiple dwellings law. The measures approved are directed against defective conditions in old-law tenements.

"The bills which I am now approving," the Governor said, "are not sufficient to remove the worst in these old-law tenements, and further steps should be taken to clear up such conditions. Such legislation would not only serve to protect the dwellers, but also the owners from the rapid degeneration of neighborhoods which comes from decrepit houses and from neglect and refusal to make the older tenements fit to live in according to the standards of today."

Stating that he viewed it as a step in the direction of making cheap electric current widely available for use on the farm, Governor Roosevelt gave his approval to the Knight Commission rural electrification bill.

In his memorandum on the Thayer bill, Governor Roosevelt said:

"I am interested in the development of a State-wide policy on the basis of which rural electricity can be made cheap enough for farmers to take full advantage of this power to eliminate many of the inconveniences and hardships of rural life. * * * A competent head to a rural electrification division in the Public Service Commission may help to formulate the ways and means of bringing cheap current to the doors of the rural population of the State."

One of the vetoes was on a measure affecting the form of government of the town of Brookhaven, L. I. Senator Thompson of the Nassau-Suffolk District introduced it to bring about the abolishment of the office of "trustees of the freeholders and commonalty of the town of Brookhaven" and replace these functionaries with a board of town trustees.

Governor Leaves at 7:40 P. M.

Governor Roosevelt departed on the Piedmont Limited, which left the Pensylvania Station at 7:40 P. M. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and his party included, besides the Misses Marguerite Lehand and Margaret McSweeney, secretaries, Dr. Leroy Hubbard, medical superintendent of the Warm Springs Sanatorium; Detective Sergeant Gustave Gemmerich and Corporal Earl Miller of the State police. Mrs. Roosevelt will join the Governor at Warm Springs on Friday.

Among those who where at the station to see the Governor off were M. William Bray, chairman of the Democratic State Committee; Boxing Commissioner James J. Farley, State Superintendent of Insurance James Conway, State Tax Commissioner Thomas M. Lynch, State Senator Benjamin Antin of the Bronx, Guernsey Cross, secretary to the Governor and Samuel Rosenman, the Governor's legal adviser.

Earlier in the day, Governor Roosevelt had a conference with Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who will be acting Chief Executive while the Governor is out of the State. The Lieutenant Governor, who had been resting for some days at Atlantic City, left for Albany in the afternoon.

HAILS DWELLINGS LAW STEP.

Riegelman Says Amendments Will Greatly Benefit City Housing.

Harold Riegelman, counsel to the Multiple Dwellings Law Committee which drafted this year's series of amendments, as well as the law itself as originally passed by the 1929 Legislature, expressed great satisfaction last night when he learned that Governor Roosevelt had approved all the measures embracing the 1930 changes to the statute.

Ten of the bills were sponsored by Senator Hofstadter and Assemblyman Moffatt, Republicans, and two by Senator Dunnigan and Assemblyman Post, Democrats, all of New York City.

"Two of the amendments relate to old-law tenement houses and abolish cellar occupancy and vertical ladder fire escapes," Mr. Riegelman said. "Erection of multiple dwellings on sloping lots is encouraged and regulations for egress from all types of multiple dwellings are simplified. An extension of sixteen months is given for the completion of buildings, plans for which were filed under former laws prior to Aug. 9, 1930. All proposals to weaken the statute were defeated in the Legislature.

"The multiple dwellings law is now in substantially final form. It has successfully passed the court test of constitutionality and has been amended to correct the minor defects revealed by the test of actual experience."

GERMANS PROPOSE NEW PEACE MEANS

Suggest That League Create Demilitarized Zones Between Armies of Disputants.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, April 30.—A proposal aimed "to keep guns from going off by themselves" in a time of crisis, as its German author, Dr. Geoppert, put it, was submitted today to the League of Nations Committee on Arbitration and Security. The committee devoted today to a transformation into a general convention of the League's model treaty for strengthening the Council's means of preventing war.

The Germans, from whom the suggestion of the present treaty grew, now propose it specify as one of the means the League be required to take in time of emergency that the Council immediately trace a line behind each side of the disputants' frontier, forming a temporary demilitarized zone separating both armies, thus to prevent dangerous incidents that frequently rise from the mere contiguity of two armies when relations are strained.

Otherwise the debate resolved itself in short order into a renewal of the controversy between the British and French on the interpretation of the covenant obligations, which occupied so much of their time at the London Naval Conference, though this time Article XI rather than Article XVI is chiefly involved.

René Massigli, who played a prominent rôle in the London discussion, upheld the same fundamental French viewpoint today. He thought the proposed convention would not strengthen, but would weaken the covenant unless it provided that the Council's recommendations were binding on disputants, even if made without their consent, and unless provision were made to assure that disputants really executed the recommendations and sanctions were provided against a disputant which refused to keep its word.

Viscount Cecil admitted that a convention would not be a big step, but contended that it still would be a profitable one. His view, though he did not put it so boldly, was that the French were seeing ghosts, for they ought to assume that the Council would be a reasonable body and make no recommendations that would not be almost certain of acceptance by disputants. If, however, a disputant refused to agree, Lord Cecil thought Article XVI then would be applicable and its sanctions sufficient.

The French otained more support than at London, Poland, Japan, Italy, Belgium, Spain and China expressing some doubt on the advisability of a convention, though not always or entirely for the French reasons. Only Germany and Holland supported Lord Cecil, and even the Dutch saw much point in the French arguments.

The committee decided to continue discussion of the convention article by article before deciding its fate.

PRESIDENT RECEIVING THE NAVAL TREATY.
Secretary Stimson Is Here Seen Presenting the Official Document, Representing the Results of the London Conference.

HOOVER RECEIVES THE NAVAL TREATY

of transmittal or will attach a message to the document urging swift action and stressing the advantages of the arrangement reached at London.

Possibly the President will confer with some of the Senate leaders within the next few days. While no engagements have been made, he may call Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator Swanson, ranking Democrat of that committee, to the White House.

The scene in the Senate when Senator Robinson returned was unusual, even for the reception of an envoy to a foreign conference. Informed that Mr. Robinson was about to enter the chamber, Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican floor leader, moved a recess to receive him and suggested the appointment of two Senators to escort him into the chamber. Senators Harris of Georgia and McNary of Oregon were designated. Vice President Curtis stood at the rostrum. There Senator Robinson joined him while the Senators filed past, shook hands cordially and congratulated him on his services in London.

An added element of good feeling was given when Senator Walsh of Montana, speaking for the Democrats, thanked Senator Watson for the courtesy shown the Democratic floor leader.

In moving the recess Senator Watson said:

"Mr. President, we are informed and are all glad to know that our honored colleague, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, has returned and is in the Vice President's chamber.

"For four months he has been abroad on a mission as a representative of this government at an international conference. While there he represented his country with distinguished credit to himself and singular honor to the Republic. It occurs to me that his return should not pass unnoticed, but that we should accord him that hearty welcome which is in the heart of every Senator to give to him.

"In order that this may be done, I move that the Senate take a recess for as long a time as may be necessary to give the reception and suggest that the Vice President take his place in the area in front of the clerk's desk with our distinguished fellow Senator and colleague. I move, too, that a committee of two Senators be appointed to escort Senator Robinson to the chamber."

Democrats Show Appreciation.

In expressing the appreciation of the minority for this courtesy, Senator Walsh said:

"Mr. President, on behalf of my colleagues on this side of the Chamber, I desire to express our appreciation of this very courteous move on the part of the Senator. His action and words are eloquent of the fact that whatever asperities may arise in debate they are all forgotten on an occasion of this character. Whatever diversity of views may obtain concerning the work of the conference at London there has been universal confidence in the sagacity and patriotism of the delegates from the United States to whom this body contributed two of its most conspicuous members. I join in the motion of the Senator from Indiana."

In his conference with newspaper men, Senator Robinson was asked if he would support the treaty and answered that he would.

"I think the treaty," he added, "if it becomes effective, will result in the termination of threatened competition in all categories of naval vessels, and that, in my opinion, is the wholesome thing that can be expected.

"The treaty carries some reductions in armament from our present tonnage with respect to three of the categories, that is, battleships, destroyers and submarines. As to destroyers, the reduction is very great but the tonnage provided in the treaty is adequate for all the requirements of our Navy. With respect to cruisers, there will be some increase in the tonnage from the present tonnage, taking into consideration the old ships."

Robinson Talks of Conference.

Mr. Robinson said he had not attempted to ascertain the sentiment of the Senate as to the treaty and that it would, of course, be first passed upon by committees. He assumed that what committee hearings were held would be executive, because confidential matters discussed at London would probably be brought out. He did not believe consideration of the treaty would displace the tariff.

The Senator recalled that the London conference began its sessions in an atmosphere of suspicion with "two of the powers" apparently disgruntled in the belief that they had been ignored in the preliminary negotiations and with British public opinion in considerable part hostile to the thought of parity with the United States.

There was a change in feeling, however, he added, the first being the acceptance by the British public of the thought of parity with the United States and finally all elements swung into a feeling of utmost good-will.

Senator Robinson admitted that there were differences of opinion among naval technicians, particularly as to the relative merits of 8-inch and 6-inch gun cruisers for the United States, but did not appear disturbed over that situation. The American Navy, he indicated, was divided on this question, although the treaty recognized the 8-inch gun cruiser as somewhat more consistent with the needs of the United States.

Navy Plans Unformulated.

Secretary Adams stated that plans for new construction under the treaty were as yet indefinite in form and that some time would elapse before a complete measure could be drafted covering building during the life of the treaty.

Should anything along this line be sent to Congress in the near future it would necessarily have to be very general in terms. However, no decision had been reached to send even a tentative draft to Congress at this time, although the requirements of new construction were considered in some detail by the naval advisers during the London conference.

No final study has been given by the Navy Department as to whether to build exclusively 10,000-ton cruisers or a number of from 7,000 to 7,500 tons in addition to the eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers specified in the treaty.

The program for aircraft carriers will also be subject to change. It has been the intention to build four or five carriers of around 13,800 tons each and one such craft has been authorized by Congress. Secretary Adams pointed out, however, that building programs were subject to alteration in the light of lessons learned by experience and that intensive study may result in modifications of the carrier program.

Beyond all these considerations, it is recognized that, should the Senate reject the treaty, the building program will be put on an entirely different basis.

Borah's Attitude Friendly.

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—Assurance of a "friendly attitude" to the London treaty and of speedy consideration of it was given Secretary Stimson today by Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a conference at the Capitol.

Mr. Stimson called on Senator Borah soon after he had given the treaty to President Hoover.

Senator Borah and the Secretary of State were together for more than an hour discussing the treaty. Asked about the conference, the Foreign Relations Committee chairman said:

"All I care to say is that if the treaty comes in I will seek to have it considered and passed upon by the committee as speedily as the importance of the matter will permit. Of course, those who want to be heard must have an opportunity to be heard. It is an important treaty and should have careful and deliberate consideration, but I do not assume that there will be any attempt to delay. My own position is one of a friendly attitude, but I want to hear all about it."

Before going to the White House ceremony, Senator Robinson held conferences with some Senate leaders regarding the treaty. Among them was Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations and Naval Committees. The Virginian has been keeping his views to himself.

Conference was expressed in some quarters after the meetings that a favorable outlook was ahead for the treaty in the Senate.

Naval Treaty May Prevent Hoover's Week-End at Camp

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Pressure of important business may force President Hoover to postpone a week-end fishing trip to his camp in Virginia. The Executive had thought of leaving Washington on Friday or Saturday, but his plans are now very indefinite.

The naval treaty and the Senate fight on the nomination of Judge Parker are engaging Mr. Hoover's attention, in addition to other business. He has made only one visit to the camp this year, and that was three weeks ago.

ITALY TO LAY DOWN 29 FIGHTING SHIPS

ACTION HAILED BY PRESS

Decision Brings Parity in Fact, Papers Say—Deputies to Cheer Grandi Today.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 30.—The Cabinet Council this morning decided to lay down in the year 1930 warships totaling 42,900 tons and costing about $40,000,000. The decision follows only a week after the launching of five new units of the Italian fleet totaling more than 30,000 tons.

The action was taken by the Cabinet Council after listening to a lengthy review of the European naval situation made by the Minister of the Navy, Admiral Sirianni, who was a delegate to the London naval conference.

The new ships whose construction was decided on today are one 10,000-ton cruiser, which will be named Pola, two 5,100-ton flotilla leaders, which will be named Montecuccoli and Muzikoattendolo, four destroyers of 1,240 tons each annd twenty-two submarines. The submarines will be divided into the following classes: Four of the Balilla type of 1,390 tons, six of 810 tons and twelve of 610 tons.

It will be remembered that Foreign Minister Grandi, at the London conference, presented a memorandum showing that, considering only modern ships, virtual equality now exists between French and Italian navies. The ships whose construction was decided on today about equal the French construction program for this year. The Italians reckon that the French in a few years will be obliged to scrap many of their older vessels, when parity between the two fleets will become real.

Of special interest is the large number of submarines which Italy has decided to build. This, in fact, is the only class of ships in which the French hitherto have had a decided superiority over Italy.

Press Praises New Program.

ROME, April 30 (AP).—The afternoon press hails the action today of the Council of Ministers as bringing "parity in fact."

Giornale d'Italia points out that the new naval program confirms Italy's policy of concentrating her armaments in small units which obviously are defensive units, while "national technical intelligence can assure their particular efficiency, even when contrasted with the largest foreign units."

Lavoro Facista remarks that the new construction constitutes the best proof that, far from wishing to engage in an armaments race, "Italy knows how to conserve and make prevail on the sea her incontrovertible right as a great power."

Indications were tonight that Admiral Sirianni and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, chief Italian delegate to the London conference, would receive an ovation when the all-Fascist Chamber of Deputies meets tomorrow for resumption of its Spring session, for today's decision to build new warcraft has heightened Nationalist enthusiasm. Unanimous approval of the government's program is forecast.

Their firm attitude at the London parley, their refusal to accept anything less than parity with France on the sea, has made them national heroes, and the warmth of their welcome back to the deliberative assembly is expected to surpass even the tributes paid them in the Itálian press.

The statement of Senator Antonio Mosconi, Minister of Finance, is eagerly awaited, as it will treat among other things of the recent abolition of communal customs duties, heretofore levied at city gates throughout the kingdom on all sorts of produce. These municipal taxes have been replaced in part by graduated consumption taxes of less burden, with the object of lowering the high cost of living in the peninsula.

POLICE HEAD IS HELD IN PHILADELPHIA CLASH

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday May 1 (AP).—A controvery growing out of a students' demonstration in the vicinity of the University of Pennsylvania campus late last night resulted in the issuance of a warrant early today for the arrest of Director of Public Safety Lemuel B. Schofield, who was at the scene of the disturbance between students of the university and the police. The warrant was issued by Magistrate John O'Malley.

When Director Schofield refused to accept service, the Magistrate held a brief hearing and ordered the Director held under $1,500 bail on a charge of obstructing justice. Magistrate O'Malley said the Director had obstructed justice by refusing to release twenty students. More than 300 students had been arrested after a clash with police in an old fashioned battle royal.

The magistrate told Mr. Schofield that unless bail was furnished at once he would be committed to prison.

GRAND JURY QUERIES M'MANUS TWO HOURS

CRAIN READS STATEMENT

Bookmaker's Uncle Admits to Prosecutor McManus Slept at His Home the Night of Shooting.

George A. McManus, race-track bookmaker, who was acquitted last December on a first-degree murder indictment in the shooting of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, on the night of Nov. 4, 1928, made his first appearance as a witness yesterday before the so-called Rothstein grand jury, which at intervals has been questioning witnesses in the killing.

McManus was led into the grand jury room by District Attorney Crain, who three weeks ago had obtained from him a twelve-page statement, the first the bookmaker ever had made officially, on events which preceded and followed the murder. In this statement McManus said that he was not present when Rothstein was shot, did not know who did the shooting nor the motive for it. He admitted, however, that several weeks before the murder he had lost $51,000 to Rothstein in a stud-poker game. In this game Rothstein lost $300,000 to Nathan L. (Nigger Nate) Raymond, another gambler, which Rothstein never paid.

Questioned for Two Hours.

Mr. Crain was understood to have carried the McManus statement into the grand jury room. It was said that this statement was read to the grand jurors and in the two hours McManus was on the witness stand he was questioned closely by the prosecutor and the grand jurors in connection with parts of it.

When McManus came out of the grand jury room he warded off newspaper men with the remark: "I wonder if I'll be in time for the track?"

Several hours later George H. McManus, an uncle of the bookmaker, appeared at District Attorney Crain's office and made a statement in which he admitted that on the night of the shooting his nephew had slept at his (the uncle's) home at 154 East 112th Street.

The uncle told the prosecutor that George was asleep when he got home about 2 A. M., which was about three hours after Rothstein was found dying. McManus previously had told the District Attorney that he went to his uncle's home when he heard somebody say in a drug store in the hotel about an hour after the shooting that Rothstein was believed to have been shot in the room on the third floor of the Park Central Hotel which McManus had occupied that night under a fictitious name.

Brothers Held Conference.

Under questioning of District Attorney Crain the uncle said he was aroused shortly after 8 o'clock on the morning following George's appearance at his home by the arrival of Thomas and Frank McManus, two of the bookmaker's brothers.

The three brothers had a conference in the sitting room, the uncle went on, and eventually George called him over and said: "The police are looking for me in reference to the killing of Arnold Rothstein. I'm innocent. I know nothing at all about it. Would you mind if I stayed around here until this thing blows over?"

The witness said that he willingly consented to his nephew's remaining in the apartment. His other nephews, Thomas and Frank, he added, said nothing to him about the Rothstein murder. McManus evaded arrest for a month before he surrendered. He never revealed where he had hidden after he left his uncle's home.

District Attorney Crain said that he expected the grand jury would convene again in their investigation of the murder in about three weeks.

REVOLTING CONVICTS GIVE UP STRONGHOLD

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

mattered not to them, they said, who broke the rebellion so long as it was broken. Governor Cooper, on learning that the convicts were at last under lock and key and submitting to discipline, exclaimed: "The war is over." Warden Thomas said he believed order could be maintained now, although another crisis would arise when an attempt is made within a day or so to force the convicts to resume work in the shops.

The critical moment came at 4:30 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, the usual hour for evening mess. The stockade around the city of tents on the baseball diamond had been completed. Against the advice of Warden Thomas, who urged that the transfer from the "white city" to the tents and shops be deferred until tomorrow, Colonel Haubrich determined to act at once.

Guards Removed From Prison.

His first step was to order every prison guard in the institution outside the walls. It was he who stopped the guards from shooting at the prisoners yesterday after two convicts had been wounded. Since then the prisoners have jeered and hooted at every appearance of the guards and have refused to obey their orders, although they promised to "play ball" with Colonel Haubrich and his officers.

As soon as the guards, many of them old men who never have discharged a firearm, had taken up posts outside the building, the Colonel marched into the prison with three companies of militia, numbering altogether about 350 men. Holes had been cut in the roof of "the white city" meanwhile, and fire hose pointed through the opening. Militiamen armed with tear gar bombs stood ready at these apertures to "smoke them out" if such a measure should become necessary.

The warden's wife and their daughter Amanda left the prison. Warden Thomas sat nervously in his office, separated from the cell block only by a steel-grilled door, muttering that it was "a horrible mistake," that there would be "a real mutiny now." The next two hours were tense.

Inside the walls Colonel Haubrich's men marched up and down the enclosure, the sun glittering on the tops of their rifle barrels. Inside "the white city," whose barred windows face on a busy street in the heart of Ohio's capital, there was no sound. The prisoners knew what was wanted, and they could be seen packing their little valises with toilet articles and other belongings.

Two banners, with crude drawings of pigs were stretched over the bars of the ancient cell block of the crumbling old prison. On one of them had been printed in charcoal, "P. E. Thomas, murderer." The other read "Slop-Fed WAIU Lies," and was designed to express contempt for the local radio station, which has been broadcasting weekly programs from the prison and sending forth reports of the progress of the mutiny.

About 5 o'clock Benton Hough, a Federal judge and Major General of the State militia, arrived in civilian clothes to act as an observer for Governor Cooper. A brief "display of strength," as Colonel Haubrich called it later, was all that was needed. Captain Harold Hayes, a member of the Colonel's staff, walked to one of four doors leading from the besieged cell block and ordered the inmates to come out. The entrance was covered by rifles and machine guns.

Perhaps two minutes passed. Then, in orderly company formation, marching two abreast, the mutineers came out carrying their valises. In their uniforms of shoddy gray they strode quickly across the yard to the mess hall. When approximately 600 had emerged the door was locked again.

After a hurried meal the prisoners were told what they knew already—that they were not going back to "the white city." There was no demonstration or protest. As the felons came out of the mess hall a guard, surrounded by militiamen for his protection, pointed out the "bad men." Troops cut these out and marched them directly to the license tag shop. Other militiamen herded the supposedly less rebellious ones into the stockade. So smoothly did the operation go that General Hough left the prison before the beginning of the second phase.

It was nearly 7 o'clock when Colonel Haubrich announced the successful termination of the transfer. The second batch of 450 prisoners had offered no more sign of rebellion than the first, he said. As soon as the segregation was completed, the National Guard officers began searching the convicts for weapons. Some knives, it was said, had been left behind in the abandoned cell block. A few were found, but so far as could be learned not a single pistol was disclosed.

As darkness fell, flood lights were turned on the stockade-enclosed city of tents and upon the workshop, where the suspected ring-leaders were housed. From an observation platform on the tower of a forty-two-story building a good view of the yard could be had.

National guardsmen wearing trench hats could be seen doing "sentry go" outside the stockade and about the workshop. Troops not on duty were massed in the enclosure, apparently trying to get what rest they could while reserves were quartered across the street in a factory building.

Last night after the guards had been withdrawn and Colonel Haubrich had taken command at the prison the convicts were quiet, but this morning, when the regular day complement of guards reported, hooting and jeering broke out afresh. Keepers ordered the convicts to come out for breakfast but curses were the only response to the invitation. It was apparent that the guards could accomplish nothing and Colonel Haubrich again took command and order reigned again.

Meanwhile, Ohio officialdom pondered over what steps should be taken to relieve the 4,000-odd convicts behind the smoldering walls of the ancient penitentiary, which, aside from a prison farm at London, near here, is the only penal institution in the State.

This afternoon Governor Cooper received a deputation of eleven citizens of Madison County, headed by State Senator R. C. Rea and Representative L. R. Bostwick, who declared the penitentiary was a "disgrace to the State," and urged its prompt abandonment. No more money should be spent on improving it, they argued, because the site is no longer suitable.

Steps should be taken, they said, to buy land adjoining the present 2,200-acre farm at London and improve it for a penitentiary site. New buildings and a wall could be erected cheaply there, they argued, by using gravel on the land and convict labor for a large part of the work.

Governor Withholds Decision.

Governor Cooper listened to their arguments and said he would make no decision at once. He believed that relief could be provided for a large number of inmates of the penitentiary on the farm out of funds already on hand. It was pointed out to the delegation that 2,000 convicts had been removed to the farm since the fire.

Warden Thomas, while admitting that his institution was overcrowded, that the number of guards was insufficient and that some of the buildings were too old for service, pooh-poohed the idea that these causes alone were responsible for the uprising. He lays the trouble entirely to the large percentage of young, desperate and daring inmates sent to the penitentiary by stringent laws, as did Edgar S. Jennings, former warden of Auburn prison, when he testified at the murder trials of surviving leaders of the riot of Dec. 11 in the latter institution.

Tells of Punishment Cells.

Warden Thomas insisted that he always had treated the prisoners "right" and declared that no inmate of the institution had been mistreated with his knowledge. There was nothing new in convicts attacking the warden of an institution, he held, since to them he typifies authority and ipso facto is an object of hatred.

It was true, he admitted, that twelve cells of the punishment gallery were fitted with concave steel doors which could be folded in such a manner that a man could be kept in a standing position until he was released at night to sleep on a bare steel shelf. Such punishment was resorted to, he said, only in extreme cases where men refused to work or obey orders. For minor infractions of the rules, he asserted, loss of yard privileges was about the only form of punishment.

KILLS 2 INSANE PATIENTS.

Negro in Columbus (Ohio) State Hospital Dies Fighting Keepers.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 30 (AP).—A Negro patient at the Columbus State Hospital for the Insane killed two white patients tonight.

Later he was himself killed in a struggle with attendants.

Ambrose Moss, aged 31, admitted to the institution today, was the killer. The victims were Sylvester Shannon, 27, and Frank T. Wilson, 52, of Cambridge. Two two white men were struck by a small table. Both suffered fractured skulls. Moss's neck was broken when he resisted the attendants.

Moss appeared docile early in the evening and was placed in a room with the other men. Hospital officials said he leaped from his bed, seized the table and attacked his roommates, both of whom were admitted in the last week. Moss twice previously had been a patient in the hospital.

Dawson to Be Minister to Ecuador.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—William Dawson of St. Paul, Consul General at Mexico City, was appointed by President Hoover today to be Minister to Ecuador. The post has been vacant since the resignation last year of Gerhard A. Bading. Mr. Dawson, 44 years old, entered the foreign service in 1908 as vice consul at Petrograd and has served at various posts in Europe and South America.

TO HONOR MEMORY OF DR. ABRAHAM JACOBI

Medical Profession to Hold a Dinner on the One Hundredth Anniversary of His Birth.

A centennial anniversary dinner in memory of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, who was one of America's outstanding medical scientists in the field of pediatrics, will be held tomorrow night at the New York Academy of Medicine, 2 East 103d Street, with leaders of the profession attending.

Professor Franz Boas of Columbia University is chairman of the committee of arrangements. The speakers will be Dr. J. A. Hartwell, Dr. William H. Welch, Dr. Fielding Garrison, Miss Lillian Wald and George McAneny.

Dr. Mary Putnam, widow of Dr. Jacobi, will attend. Others present will be Dr. Willy Meyer, Dr. Frederic E. Sondern, Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf, Dr. Alexander Lambert, Dr. Hugh Chaplin and the trustees of Lenox Hill and Mount Sinai Hospitals.

Dr. Jacobi was born in Hartum, Westphalia, in 1830, the son of poor Jewish parents. He was graduated from the University of Bonn in 1851 and in 1853 escaped to England when facing a second term of imprisonment because of his participation in the Revolution of 1848. He came to New York after a short stay in England and commenced practice at 20 Howard Street.

In 1860 he became the first Professor of Pediatrics in America, a subject which he taught here for nearly fifty years. He wrote many treatises on infant hygiene, diphtheria and dysentery. Dr. Jacobi died July 10, 1919.

"YOU NEVER USE ROUGE do you?"

LISTEN to the man! Everyone uses rouge these days. But then, no wonder he thought her delicate color was natural... she's wearing the new Dorothy Gray Cream Rouge. When you use it, the color really seems to come from beneath the surface of the skin. That's because the rouge is skillfully blended to a pliant, fluffy creaminess—and because the shades are so softly subtle. There are five shades: Light, Medium, Scarlet, Dark and Tawny.

Now that the most natural color is the smartest, you'd better investigate Dorothy Gray Cream Rouge today. It comes in a fat little blue and white jar and it costs two dollars.

Dorothy Gray preparations are represented at leading shops in the Metropolitan district, and also at specially appointed drug stores.

EUROPE PREPARES FOR RADICALS TODAY

May Day Likely to Be Peaceful in England, but France Redoubles Precautions.

REICH PERMITS MARCHES

Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria, Greece and Portugal Put on Guard—Finland Fears Trouble.

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—Preparations for dealing with radicals of all shades who are expected to dominate the May Day celebrations throughout Europe tomorrow have been made by the police and troops in the various capitals.

In general the Communists, Socialists and Laborites will be permitted to march and speak as long as the meetings are orderly, but warnings have been broadcast that any disorder will be met by vigorous action.

The most peaceful of all European celebrations is expected in London, although, as usual, extra police will be placed on the Embankment and other prominent thoroughfares.

Paris Takes Extra Measures.

Paris police took the view that anything might happen there and ordered thousands of troops and police to be under arms by daybreak. The Cabinet tonight approved secret plans for the protection of Paris and the maintenance of order throughout the country, and authorities were confident any sizable eruptions could be prevented.

As to preparations by the Reds, the Communist organ L'Apostrophe promised a 24-hour strike of thousands of workers. It is expected that hardly any taxicabs will be running, while service by bus and street car is expected to be limited.

The police made plans to protect the Soviet Embassy in the event of demonstrations by groups opposed to Communism.

In Berlin the police have decided to let the proletariat have free reign as long as they are orderly, but forces of the law will be standing ready to see that the bounds of peaceful demonstration are not overstepped.

Karl Zoergiebel, chief of police, announced that Lustgarten Square, opposite the Imperial Palace in the heart of Berlin, would be free for open-air meetings to Communists between 10:30 and 11:50 A. M., and to Socialists after 1 P. M., thus giving sufficient leeway for hostile parties to get out of each other's way. Different routes were assigned to each group for processions and no encroachments will be tolerated.

There will be no general abstention from work in Germany, and transportation and other public utilities are expected to operate normally.

All Communist meetings have been prohibited in Greece. The police there anticipate trouble between Communists and the Workmen's Federation.

Portuguese authorities have forbidden all demonstrations and have given warnings that any attempts at parades will be broken up. Many of the workers, however, expect to take a holiday and assemble at picnics.

Vienna Socialists Plan Fêtes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 30.—Extraordinary precautions have been taken throughout Southern Europe to prevent Communist disturbances tomorrow, May Day. Viennese will awake tomorrow to find extra detachments of police patrolling the streets and on guard at strategic points. They will be armed as usual with batons, sabres and revolvers. As Vienna itself has a Socialist administration, no attempt will be made to prohibit the usual labor demonstrations, one feature of which will be a torchlight parade tomorrow night of 1,200 Socialist youths.

In Budapest all public buildings were manned by police tonight and will remain thus protected until May Day is over, as a result of apprehensions that Communists might take possession of some of them. The Social Democratic party will hold "a demonstration stroll" along both sidewalks of Andrassy Street tomorrow, but the police will permit no assemblies. The police will carry carbines and pistols, and they will be supported for the first time by armored cars. These unusual precautions are deemed necessary because of the extent of unemployment in Hungary. Another preventive measure was the rounding up of 400 persons last night, all of whom were taken to a police station.

Every Communist leader in Bucharest was arrested last night and will be kept in jail until May Day is over, as a precautionary measure. Although Communist demonstrations will be suppressed in Rumania, the Social Democratic party will be allowed to hold 100 assemblies in different parts of the country.

Communist plans for a series of demonstrations in Bulgaria tomorrow having come to the ears of the police, fifty arrests were made at Sofia last night. Tomorrow the police of that capital will be reinforced by detachments from the provinces.

Newton D. Baker Is Improved.

CLEVELAND, April 30 (AP).—General improvement was reported today in the condition of Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, who is suffering from bronchial pneumonia at his home here. Mr. Baker was able to take solid foods for the first time in three days and his temperature dropped considerably.

SOVIET HOLDS POLAND BLAMELESS IN PLOT

Moscow Excitedly Prepares for May Day Celebrations, but Vodka Sale Is Barred.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, April 30.—The attitude of the Soviet press now regarding the Warsaw bomb affair is that Poland has made satisfactory explanations.

However, Komsomolsky Pravda, the fiery organ of the Young Communists, is still excited. In spite of an official reprimand for previous attacks, that newspaper in an editorial says the bomb planting was a direct result of the Pope's anti-Soviet campaign and demands that Poland protect the Soviet Embassy in Warsaw as the Polish Embassy in Moscow is protected.

Official Polish opinion in Moscow is the same as that expressed in Polish papers. No demonstrations have been made upon the Polish Embassy, but a special police guard protects it.

Intense excitement pervades Moscow on this day preceding May Day. The entire city is splashed with red in decorations, flags, banners and electric lights. The buildings seem to compete for the most startling display on their façades. However, all this garishness is not equal to the display in Times Square on an ordinary night.

Workmen are hurrying to finish a multitude of huge cardboard statues personifying the proletarian spirit. The sale of vodka has been stopped for three days, and in Red Square loud-speakers bray in tests to make them ready for the flaming oratory they will convey. Workers' delegations from other countries are arriving and can be seen in the streets staring at the signs in many languages saying "Workers of the World, Unite!"

Offers Reward to Solve Plot.

WARSAW, April 30 (AP).—The Polish Government today announced a reward of 5,000 zloty ($562.50) for discovery of the author of the unsuccessful bomb attempt Sunday against the Soviet Legation.

Saying that Polish public opinion was unanimously indignant against the attempt, the Warsaw newspaper Gazeta Polska, which is often the government's mouthpiece, today denied insinuations published in the Soviet press that Polish authorities had not acted energetically against anti-Soviet activities.

"We must protest against the official Soviet organ's insinuations," said the paper. "If the Soviet desires to explain the mysterious attempt and to find its authors they (the Soviet) should first forbid their newspaper men to slander the Polish nation. The Polish authorities, in spite of difficulties, have proved their good-will and energy."

FRENCH EXPEL 22 REDS AS PEACE PRECAUTION

Larger Cities Are Heavily Patrolled and Distributers of Tracts Are Jailed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 30.—Beginning drastic preventive measures against projected Communist May Day disorders, the French police today started a round-up of agitators.

Twenty-two foreign agents active in Red preparations were arrested and deported tonight and numbers of distributers of communistic tracts were taken into custody.

Preventive arrests of ring-leaders last year proved effective in breaking up the demonstrations and May 1 passed without any serious trouble. Premier Tardieu has instructed Chief of Police Chiappe to take equally rigorous precautions this year, as the Communists are making a violent appeal to the workers for a general strike and even violence.

Paris reserves were doubled tonight and the Republican Guards will patrol the streets. In addition large bodies of troops have been brought to Paris and will be bivouacked all day tomorrow at the Place de l'Opéra, the Champs-Elysées, the Place de la République, near labor headquarters and other strategic points in the city, while a large contingent of motor trucks will be available to transport them rapidly to any point if a disturbance breaks out. Motorcycle police and police in automobiles will circulate constantly.

The Communists have called upon all workers to quit the factories at noon and join the street manifestations, but none will be allowed within the city limits.

The same stringent measures are being taken at Marseilles, Lyons, Lille, Bordeaux and the industrial centres of France.

MAY DAY GUARD IN MEXICO.

Red Demonstrations Are Banned, but 60,000 Workers Will March.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 30.—Tomorrow's Labor Day celebration will be subjected to the strictest police and military control. Public services will be suspended for periods varying from one to several hours while workmen stage their manifestation; saloons and other places where liquor is sold will be closed; and the 12,000 troops of the Mexico City garrison will be held in quarters from late tonight.

General José Placencia, chief of the Federal District police, has announced that any attempts of Communist demonstrations will be put down with an iron hand. Sixty thousand men are expected to parade here.

REDS PLAN PARADE IN RIO.

Several Arrested and Police Take Measures for Emergencies.

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 30 (AP).—Hope for a calm May Day here was lessened this afternoon when the police discovered Communist leaflets calling upon all workers to stage a demonstration tomorrow in the name of the unemployed throughout the world.

Several Communists have been arrested and special police reserves summoned to be held at all stations tomorrow.

Italian Official Commits Suicide.

ROME, April 30 (AP).—Commendatore Agostino Agosti, Podesta of San Remo, committed suicide near the Vatican City confines yesterday. Vatican authorities today denied earlier reports that the suicide had been within the papal territory.

guns. In an adjacent zone will be twenty-five more trucks ready for instant operation.

Along the line of march from Rutgers Square to Union Square will be 1,000 patrolmen, while 500 patrolmen will be in Rutgers Square while the parade is forming. Five thousand men will be available in police stations, ready to be moved by flivvers and other conveyances if necessity should arise, and flying squads will be ready for concentration at any point in the far-flung reaches of the five boroughs at short notice.

Buildings to Be Guarded.

The special order which went into effect yesterday placed patrolmen and detectives at scores of strategic points, at public buildings, State, county and Federal, and at the homes of prominent persons. Among the buildings guarded are the City Hall, the Criminal Courts Building, Police Headquarters, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Temple Emanu-El, Temple Beth-El and the bridges and water works. Extra police and detectives were sent to guard the homes of Mayor Walker, Police Commissioner Whalen, Cardinal Hayes, Bishop John T. Manning and the homes of judges and other public officials.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a memorial service at 10 A. M. today at the Eternal Light in Madison Square in commemoration of the Battle of Manila Bay. At 10:30 the veterans and associated organizations will parade along Twenty-third Street to Fourth Avenue and down to Union Square, where the patriotic meeting will begin at 11 and end at 2 o'clock.

The veterans' meeting will be addressed by Representative Hamilton Fish and John J. Boylan, ex-Representative Phelps Phelps, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and James F. Kiernan, past State commander of the veterans.

Veterans employed in the city departments will have the afternoon, except in cases where departmental commissioners declare an emergency that will keep them at work. Teachers and other employes of the Board of Education were informed yesterday that they might absent themselves to take part in the patriotic celebration.

Communists Form at Rutgers Sq.

The Communists will form their battalions in Rutgers Square at 12 and will begin their parade at 1:30 along East Broadway to Pitt Street, to Avenue C, to Seventeenth Street and to Union Square.

The Communists declared they would marshal their forces in great numbers, to demonstrate especially against the detention of William Z. Foster and other leaders who are in jail pending decision by Justice Gavegan on a certificate of reasonable doubt in their appeal from their recent conviction for taking part in the March 6 riot.

In various parts of the city yesterday Communists were arrested for posting bills and handing out circulars calling on workers to strike and join the Union Square rally. Some are held for further hearing and others were fined.

After the Union Square meeting the Communists will hold another celebration at 7 P. M. at the Coney Island Stadium.

The Communist party (majority group) will celebrate May Day this evening at Stuyvesant Casino, Second Avenue and Ninth Street.

The Socialist and trade union committee in charge of the meeting this afternoon at the New York Coliseum, 177th Street and the Bronx River, issued circulars yesterday inviting 250,000 trade unionists to lay down tools today.

Arrangements for Permit.

It was learned yesterday that the parade permit issued by Commissioner Whalen to the Communists was arranged as a method of permitting the Communists to "save face." The Reds feared that they would be refused a permit and so hesitated to ask for one. Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union had the Communists agree to ask for the permit if he could obtain assurance that it would be granted. Commissioner Whalen was apprised of the situation by Harry Elmer Barnes, Professor of Sociology at Smith College. Mr. Whalen stated his terms, which were accepted by the Communists, and the permit was issued. Incidentally, the plan was set in motion by the Communist party (majority group), comprising Communists expelled from the official Communist organization, which is handling the parade.

Alleged Rum Ship Crew Is Freed.

Federal Judge Mortimer M. Byers ordered the discharge of six officers and members of the crew of the fishing schooner Beatrice K. in Brooklyn Federal Court yesterday on an indictment for illegal transportation of liquor. The ship was captured off Sag Harbor Oct. 12, 1929, with 1,580 sacks of liquor. Judge Byers agreed that though the Government had attempted to prove that the schooner was running without lights, the testimony had not borne it out.

MACDONALD PHONES AUSTRALIANCAPITAL

He Talks With Premier Scullin, 12,000 Miles Away, Opening Wireless Service.

WORDS ARE CLEARLY HEARD

British Premier Looks to Through Air Link—Messages Cost $30 for Three Minutes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 30.—From the Cabinet room at 10 Downing Street this morning Premier MacDonald talked with the Australian Premier, J. H. Scullin at Canberra, 12,000 miles away, thus inaugurating a regular wireless telephone service between England and Australia.

It was 8:30 A. M. here and 6 P. M. in the Australian capital.

The two Prime Ministers chatted as casually as over any long-distance call for seven and a half minutes, discussing everything from cricket to empire problems and the naval conference. When they had finished, David Lloyd George spoke to William Hughes, former Australian Premier.

The conversation between the two Premiers began with a cheery "Hello, is that you, Scullin?" from Mr. MacDonald. The English Premier then paid a tribute to the work resulting in the establishment of telephone communication between the two countries.

"I am sure it will be the means of knitting the two countries closer together," Mr. MacDonald added. "We are now adding the spoken word to our common bonds. These are days of annihilating space and I look forward to the establishment, before long, of through service by air for passengers and mails.

"We hope before the end of this year that this telephone service will be extended to Europe and the whole of the North American Continent. Then the Australian Continent will have access to 90 per cent of the world's telephones. What an age we are living in, Mr. Scullin. What would our grandfathers have thought of it?"

Twenty-four years ago Mr. MacDonald met Mr. Scullin and they have never seen each other since. But today they talked as old friends.

"It is a long time since we met," Mr. MacDonald remarked, "and a great many changes have taken place since."

The message was transmitted from the Rugby station.

The charge for the service is $30 for three minutes.

CANBERRA, Australia, April 30 (AP).—The official opening of the London-Canberra wireless telephone service today was entirely successful.

Premier Scullin and William Hughes, war time Premier in Australia, heard every word of Premier MacDonald and David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, whose remarks from London were broadcast all over the Commonwealth.

Italy Approves Postal Accord.

ROME, April 30 (AP).—Draft decrees approving the accord reached between Italy and the United States Oct. 11, 1929, relating to the exchange of postal parcels were approved today by the Council of Ministers. Decrees covering postal and other conventions between Vatican City and Italy also were approved.

Girl Lands Plane on Roof, Saving Woman Passenger

By The Associated Press.

LE BOURGET, France, April 30.—Adrienne Bolland, French aviatrix who flew over the Chilean Andes in 1923, today landed her plane on the roof of a big shed when telegraph wires tossed it out of its course as she made a forced landing.

Her motor failed during the air baptism of a woman passenger and she was unable to clear the wires. She steadied the plane sufficiently to set it down on the roof and, in order to avoid rolling off manoeuvred to turn the machine on its nose.

Meanwhile she threw her arm around the frightened woman beside her to prevent her falling or jumping out. The plane was wrecked, but the pilot and passenger, uninjured, descended on a ladder.

IRISH BUDGET SHOWS ONLY SLIGHT CHANGE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, April 30.—Only one new tax was announced by Ernest Blythe, Minister of Finance, when he introduced the budget to the Dail today—a $10 license fee for automobile hawkers, which will yield $15,000 a year, he estimates.

Mr. Blythe proposed no increase or decrease in income taxes or tariffs, thus demonstrating to the Dail that last year's budget had worked well and kept the Free State's finances in sound condition.

For the past twelve months, he announced, revenue had exceeded expectations and it had been possible to keep expenditure below the level of previous estimates.

"The budget balance is a nominal surplus of $65,000 and there is, therefore, no necessity to increase taxation. On the other hand, it has not been possible to reduce it. It would have been impossible to give relief to the small income tax payer without imposing fresh taxation."

By keeping the income tax at 3 shillings in the pound, as compared with 4½s in Britain, Mr. Blythe said he hoped to induce people of Irish origin to return to the motherland from England and Scotland.

The excess of normal revenue over normal expenditure was $1,250,000, said Mr. Blythe, who added that "the yield of Free State taxes has been, to a general extent, stabilized and the deadweight of the public debt has not greatly increased. The public debt outstanding amounts to £25,998,000 [$126,090,000] while the total liabilities of the Free State amount to £20,850,000 [$101,250,000].

"This figure is not liable to increase to any great extent owing to debt redemption by the government. It is doubtful if any country in the world has made such ample provision for debt redemption as the Free State."

A few minor changes were made in the import duties on wine, which will cause a loss of $60,000 annually.

OPENING IS DELAYED ON TOKIO EXCHANGE

AUTHORITIES FEARED PANIC

Brokers Compromise Transactions During Morning as a Private Deal to Ease Pressure.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, April 30.—Unsettled business conditions and the knowledge that a flood of selling orders had been delivered impelled the Tokio Stock Exchange authorities to postpone the opening of trading until 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The cause of the trouble was a situation in the new shares of the Exchange itself. On Monday the Osaka market closed with the yen about 90, while the Tokio quotation was 91.70, the Osaka break coming too late for arbitrating. After business Monday there was a rush of selling orders to be executed at the opening today.

Trading has been light and the authorities feared that selling orders amounting to 38,500 shares hitting the market at one time would drive the price down precipitately and bring a panic. Accordingly, the authorities approached the brokers for the bears involved and suggested they reach a compromise with those who had buying orders to execute.

Informal discussions Tuesday failed to bring about an agreement and at opening time today the authorities decided to suspend the short-term market until 1 o'clock. The long-term market was closed today, but of necessity for month-end deliveries.

During the morning buying and selling orders of fourteen brokers were compromised with the yen at 90.50 as a private transaction outside the Exchange. When the market resumed operations, further selling brought the price down to 87.50, the lowest since 1925.

Rumors were afloat that the decline was due to a selling drive conducted under the auspices of the Seiyukai (political opposition) party. This rumor had been circulated several weeks, but there is no evidence to support it. Takashi Suzuki, one of the leading brokers and a member of the Seiyukai in the Diet, was represented for only 1,500 shares.

Finance Minister Inouye stated that the postponement of trading today was a private affair of the Exchange and Magoichi Tawara, Minister of Commerce and Industry, declared that if counter-measures really were necessary the government would act quickly.

TURKEY ASTIR AT NEWS LAWRENCE IS IN REGION

Press Asks Whether the British Colonel Is Planning an Uprising at Frontier.

MARDIN, Turkey, April 30 (AP).—A report that Colonel T. E. Lawrence, famous British Asiatic expert, is at Revanduz, a town near the Turkish frontier in the desert region between Iraq and Persia, is stirring Turkish public opinion and the Turkish press.

"Is he planning an uprising in Persia or Turkey?" newspaper headlines ask. Then the press goes on to assert that the Turkish Government is carefully watching the Colonel's actions.

The proximity of Revanduz to Turkey's Kurdish provinces, seat of Sheik Said's revolt and home of still unruly tribes, explains the Turkish nervousness as to the reported presence of the author of "Revolt in the Desert," who, according to Turkish opinion, is the author of his subject in more than the literary sense.

STUDY AVIATION LIGHTING.

Delegates From 14 Countries Talk Over Problems in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 30.—Resolutions were adopted today at an international lighting meeting held in Berlin for study of aviation lighting with a view to suggesting lines upon which uniform practice in the lighting of airways, aerodromes and aircraft can be effected. About ninety delegates of national illumination committees of the United States, Austria, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Hungary, Japan, Norway, Poland, Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland attended the meeting.

Recommendations agreed upon included the following subjects: First, lighting obstructions and the delineation of landing areas by means of boundary lights; secondly, arrangements of beacons on long-distance airways on special lines which may be used to identify aerodromes and emergency landing places; third, concerning the distribution of lights on airplanes.

The introduction of an international vocabulary of English, French and German was suggested. Recommendations resulting from the meeting were referred to the national committee of each country for confirmation.

Mexico to Continue Agrarian Policy.

MEXICO CITY, April 30 (AP).—Manuel Pérez Treviño, the Secretary of Agriculture, announced today that Mexico's agrarian policy had been discussed at a Cabinet meeting and that President Ortiz Rubio would continue to carry out the agrarian policy along the same line as his predecessors.

2 RED LEADERS HELD IN WARSAW FOR RIOT

Six Persons Injured in Clash of Police and Jobless—Stones and Pistols Used.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, April 30.—The Communist leader, Chadeus Carski, was arrested today in the suburb of Lodz as he was about to flee after a shooting affair with the police.

Crowds of unemployed to whom further allowances from insurance funds after the expiration of seventeen weeks of unemployment had been refused demonstrated in front of the unemployment exchange. Communist Deputies profited by the occasion and made speeches urging the men to resist police orders. Stones were thrown and several shots fired. Six persons were severely injured.

It is asserted that M. Carski was the first to shoot in this affair. A warrant was issued for his arrest, as, under the Polish Constitution, a Deputy's immunity does not hold if he is accused in a criminal affair when he can be arrested on the spot.

Many other Communists were arrested in different places to check Communist May Day activities. Among them is Alexander Granas, head of the Polish branch of the International Organization for the Relief of Political Prisoners. M. Granas, a well-known international Communist, traveled from Switzerland to Russia in wartime on the celebrated train with Lenin and Trotsky and later was employed by the Communist International in many foreign countries.

DUCHESS FINISHES A RECORD FLIGHT

WAS IN THE AIR 200 HOURS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 30.—The Duchess of Bedford and the crew of her Fokker monoplane, the Spider, landed at Croydon airdrome tonight after setting a record for the flight from England to Cape Town and return by making it in twenty-one days. In actual flying hours, however, the record still remains with Sir Alan Cobham, for his time in the air was 175 hours, while Lady Bedford's, according to her chief pilot, Captain C. D. Barnard, was about 200.

After yesterday's mishap outside Sofia, which was the first hitch in the Duchess's schedule, the long flight of 1,350 miles from the Bulgarian capital was made in good time today. Miss Julie Johnson, American fiancée of Robert Little, the second pilot and navigator of the Spider, was among the big crowd awaiting the plane's arrival. Sir Sefton Brancker, the Director of British Civil Aviation, told the Duchess as she stepped from the machine that her feat was the best thing in private flying he had known in the last four or five years.

The 65-year-old Duchess was a general "handy man" about the plane, and in addition to pumping gasoline from the reserve tanks into the wing tanks—heavy work in tropical air—she took spells at the controls, once keeping the ship on a course along the Nile Valley for more than an hour. The cold during the last stage of the 18,000-mile flight was intense, but the Duchess showed hardly any signs of strain.

"It was a very rough flight going out," she said tonight, "but it was still worse returning. There was rain nearly all the way home except in the desert and we met rain and low clouds nearly the whole way over Africa. Near Bulawayo the clouds were so low we were just flying above the tree-tops.

"Our biggest thrill was after leaving Sofia Tuesday morning. It was terribly cold and suddenly the oiling system ceased to work. How Captain Barnard put the heavily laden machine down into a terribly rough field full of potholes without a crash I can't imagine, and a greater mystery to me is how he ever got out again."

The Duke of Bedford, who is as sedentary as his wife is volatile, has spent the time during her absence on his Woburn Abbey estate. Just as the Duchess was starting her dash across the Dark Continent he was elected chairman of the local parish council and has been fully occupied with its affairs while his wife was making flying history.

Byrd's Supply Ship Tows City of New York; Contact Made at Rendezvous in Mid-Pacific

By Dr. FRANCIS D. COMAN.

Copyright, 1930, by The New York Times Company and The St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, at Sea, April 30.—The steamer Eleanor Bolling made contact with the City of New York this afternoon in a rendezvous 600 miles east of the Marquesas Islands.

Just before 2 o'clock the smoke of the supply ship appeared over the horizon. She was approaching the waiting City of New York on radio compass bearing, and within an hour after the two units of the expedition had saluted each other the steamer had our slower ship in tow on a thousand feet of cable.

It was worth while to see Captain Brown's smiles and to hear the interchange of good luck between Mate Larry Gould and Helmsman Bernt Balchen.

But how the cheers rose when Louis Reichardt sent us over a hamper of garlic!

The exchange of hawsers was efficiently done in a choppy sea, and now we are definitely moving forward, instead of using all of our force to hold our own against the head seas and head winds we have had since we left Tahiti.

Captain Brown's last shouted words were, "We will see you in Panama in twenty-one days," and that won't be any too soon.

The bark's position at noon, before we made contact with the Bolling, was Lat. 7.51 degrees S., Long. 129.10 degrees W., after a run of only 108 miles in twenty-four hours.

TELEPHONE SUIT EXPLAINED

Official of Spanish Company Says "Gift" Speech Stirred It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, April 30.—Officials and attorneys of the Spanish National Telephone Company, a branch of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, said today that Indalecio Prieto, the Socialist leader it is suing, had a right to make any statements he chose as to whether the company's contract was favorable to Spain, but that the part of his speech leading to the legal proceedings was his charge that the company had made a gift of $600,000 to get the contract and the hint that King Alfonso might be able to tell where the money went.

An official who does not wish his name used said:

"We can prove we have never made a gift of $600,000 to any one, and Señor Prieto will either have to admit publicly his error or defend himself in court. We dislike meddling with politicians, but Señor Prieto has gone too far and we mean business.

"In stating that when the State buys its property the company will charge the government 15 per cent above the appraised price, Señor Prieto is only partly right, since this additional price holds only for the first year the government has an option, but in 1944 and thereafter it drops 1 per cent each year if the option is not exercised.

"Señor Prieto is subject to a fine or imprisonment if he is found guilty and, while the company only wishes satisfaction, the government wishes Señor Prieto to be punished."

ELECTRIC SHIP MAKES RECORD TO PANAMA

Santa Clara Reaches Canal Zone in 4 Days 18 Hours and Goes On to Chile.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLON, Panama, April 30.—After slowing its speed to sixteen knots from twenty-one, the American-built Santa Clara of the Grace Line, on its maiden voyage, set a new record, arriving at the Panama Canal four days and eighteen hours after leaving New York.

The electro-turbine ship made the transit of the canal today and sailed tonight for Valparaiso, where it is due in sixteen days from New York, providing the fastest service on that route. Compared with the days when sailing ships rounded the Horn, the Santa Clara cuts eighty-four days off the time from New York to Valparaiso.

ABOARD S. S. SANTA CLARA, April 30 (AP).—Making a record for passenger liners between New York and Panama, the new turbo-electric ship Santa Clara was nearing the Canal Zone this evening and expected to sight the outer harbor lights soon after midnight.

Radio advices from the vessel said she had been running below her possible maximum speed, using only four of her six boilers. Her highest speed on the trip was 21½ knots. The sea has been smooth and the ship free from vibration.

"She is one of the sweetest craft I have known in all my experience," said Captain Parker today. "I expected some rolling and pitching at high speed, but the ship was so steady that no cases of seasickness were reported."

A representative of the Department of Commerce has kept a detailed log of the voyage for a report to Washington.

80 Mummies Found in Egypt, Bearing Demotic Inscriptions

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, April 30.—Eighty mummies belonging to the Ptolemaic period were discovered today near the Pyramids by Professor Selim Hassan. The mummies, which are in four layers within a rock-cut tomb, appear to be in good condition. Some of the wrappings removed are inscribed in Demotic.

The tomb belongs to the ancient empire, but must have been used as a burial place during the Ptolemaic period and every person was supposed to pay a certain sum of money to be buried there. This was a custom of that time. People liked to be buried in the place because it was a sacred place for the ancient Egyptians, the builders of the Pyramids.

RADIO NEWS RIGHTS DENIED

German Court Holds Broadcast Items Can Be Published.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LEIPZIG, Germany, April 30.—The Reich's Supreme Court has just ruled that news broadcast by radio does not enjoy copyright protection.

In November, 1928, a provincial newspaper reported the Graf Zeppelin's safe return from America, news of which it received via the Stuttgart broadcasting station. In its finding the higher court at Nauenberg declared that, while literary works and musical compositions as such might be protected by copyright, topical news is not and its reproduction does not represent any ethical violation of a third person's labor.

It is generally known that daily news may be reproduced from newspapers, the court held, and therefore public opinion would not consider the publication of broadcast news unethical.

The Leipzig court, in rejecting an appeal, approved the decision.

DAVID & JOHN ANDERSON strike a new high in fashion
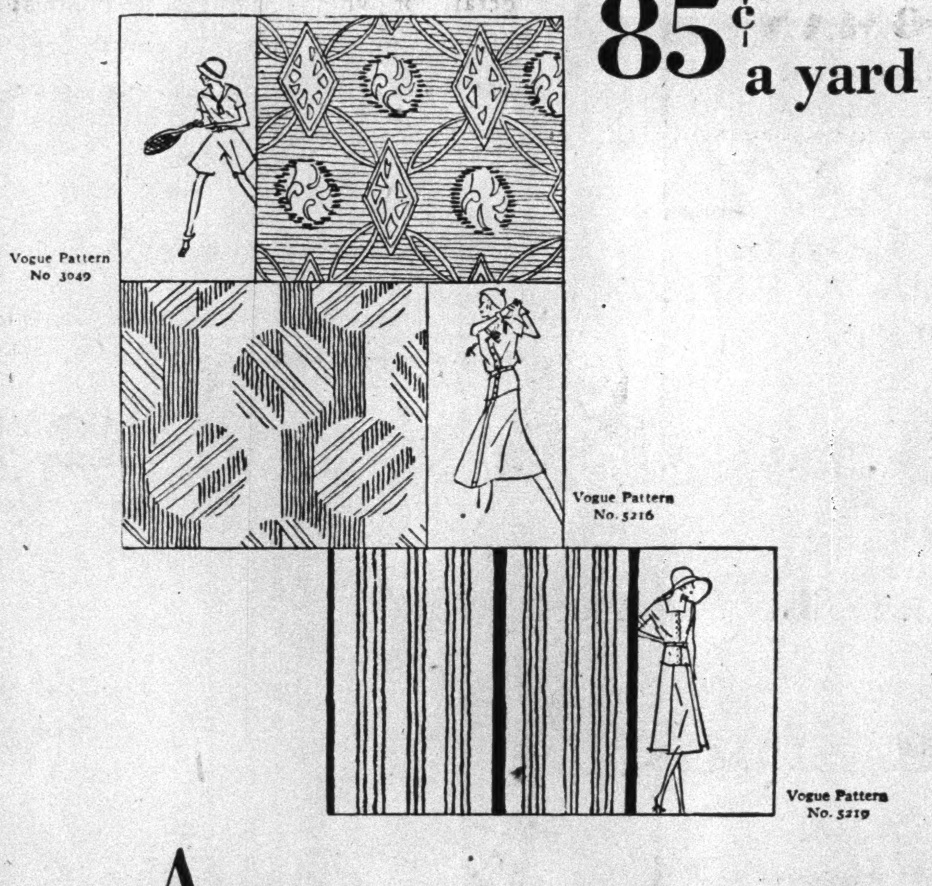
and a new low in price . . . .
85¢ a yard



Always known as the place to find the smartest Cottons, McCutcheon's now scores another triumph with Men's Shirtings.

Men's Shirtings have been growing in feminine favor from the moment of their début at the Paris Openings. Their faconné motifs—those tiny woven-in designs that are just coming above the fashion horizon in silks and woolens—their sports' stripes, their coolness and the fresh "newness" of them when they come back from the laundry make Shirtings the perfect Cotton for tailored blouses, "shirtwaist" frocks, tennis "shorts"—any sports costume.

And McCutcheon's, of course, has secured the finest Shirtings woven. A special purchase from David and John Anderson and from another equally famous British firm enables us to offer Madras and Broadcloth Shirtings at this most attractive price. The limited quantity at this price and the smartness of these Shirtings make it advisable for you to make your selections at once. They are 32 inches wide—an exceptional value at 85¢ a yard.

KAZAKS CELEBRATE ROAD WITH FEATS

Rough Horsemanship Shown by Nomads Marking Completion of Turksib Line.

WINNERS LOSE PRIZES

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AINABULAK, Russia, April 29 (Delayed).—Kazak nomads held their own celebration of the Turksib railroad completion with feats of strength and agility on horseback, unvaried save in one detail since the day of Ghengis Khan. In the valley beyond the railroad thousands of horsemen assembled and then formed into two oblong groups, like ancient phalanxes, and manoeuvred in a mimic war without an actual charge.

When the blood of the men and the horses became heated each body of 200 rode forward to engage in a free-for-all "wrestling" match. Once a man was unhorsed he retired to the sidelines. No weapons, fist blows, gouging or kicking was allowed, but beyond that everything went and the ponies bit each other while fighting like demons. It was a wild scene of dust and noise and maddened men and beasts.

One youngster had his arm dislocated, but kept his seat and rode to the sidelines, where he was laid on the ground. Then one man put his knees on the youth's shoulder while another pulled his hand and arm until the dislocated member slipped back into the socket. Then the youth rode back into the fray. A dozen others were stripped almost naked. Gradually the number thinned out until only four were left tangled in the mêlée.

Suddenly two men slid off their horses together. Then one man of the remaining pair brought down his opponent by a swift arm lock and then rode yelling up and down the field.

A thickset middle-aged man who sat beside me said he had won such contests before by holding back from the hottest conflict until the others had tired and then dashing in comparatively fresh to win.

Next, fully 4,000 warriors fought for the sheep—formerly a dead animal, but now replaced by a sheepskin coat, as the Soviet is inclined to disapprove of this "relic" of ancient barbarism. One of the elders threw his coat into the front rank and some one caught it, then burst out from the mob and rode like fury in a wide circle trying to get around to the tent which represented the goal. The main body wheeled and intercepted him, and there followed a terrific medley of struggling forms half hidden in clouds of dust.

It looked like deadly sport, for the chances of an unhorsed man under those hoofs would have been slim. But at last another emerged with the major part of the now tattered coat, and he tried to circle toward the goal. This time only a score were in a position to intercept him. They rode with such desperation at a sharp angle to the winner's course that they and he reached the tent together and could not halt.

The flimsy felt walls of the tent crashed down as the men and horses charged it, and the spectators laughed until they nearly dropped off their horses at the plight of the elders, who had been sitting in the tent, but were now scrambling forth for dear life from the wreckage. Miraculously, all seemed to be unhurt, and every one voted this the high spot of the whole entertainment.

Horse races followed, 400 or 500 taking part in a cross country gallop in which a boy on a dappled gray horse was an easy winner.

The winners in the various events grew impatient and finally made a rush for the prizes of sugar, tea, cloth, silk, and the like, which were being temptingly displayed. Then followed the funniest scramble of the whole day as the others who had won nothing joined in for consolation prizes, hastily grabbing packets and riding off as fast as they could go.

Even now the good humor shown throughout the day was maintained and the crowd shouted their laughter as disappointed victors set off in a stern chase on their wearied ponies.

SOARS IN GLIDER 15 HOURS 13 MINUTES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 30 (AP).—Failure to provide himself with a barograph today robbed Jack Barstow, 24, of a new official world's record for sustained flight in a glider after he had soared over Point Loma for fifteen hours and thirteen minutes in a motorless sail plane, exceeding all previous glider endurance marks.

Barstow's performance will stand only as an unofficial record because of rules requiring that a barograph be installed in aircraft in order to gain official acceptance of new records. He announced, however, that if wind conditions are favorable, he plans to take the air again soon with a barograph and attempt to set a new official mark.

Barston took off at 12:44 P. M., Pacific Standard Time, yesterday in a new Bowlus sail plane of sixty-foot spread. He landed at 3:57 A. M. today, setting his craft down within 500 meters of his point of take-off.

The records exceeded are official American, 9 hours 5 minutes 32 2-5 seconds, established in March this year over Point Loma by Hawley Bowlus of San Diego; official world, 14 hours 10 minutes, established two years ago by Ray Schultz in Germany; unofficial world, 14 hours 45 minutes, established several months ago by Lieutenant Dinert, German glider pilot.

William Van Dusen, representing the National Aeronautical Association, witnessed Barstow's flight. He took steps to obtain statements and affidavits from others present so that the feat may be certified for its historical interest.

Barstow came to San Diego six months ago from Charlotte, Mich. He holds a first-class license as a glider pilot.

SPAIN ORDERS VOTE CENSUS.

Registration Will Be on Nov. 15 and Elections Later.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, April 30.—An official notice published yesterday fixed the date for registration for the Parliamentary elections as Nov. 15. The government thus has set at rest some of the doubts that elections would be held soon. No date has been set for the elections.

The registration is described here as a census of the voters and the notice explains that if the government had revised the old census, instead of ordering a new one, it would have delayed an election for another ten months.

MRS. GEER STRESSES JUNIOR LEAGUE AIM

Tells 300 Delegates to Conference Here That Social Work Is Main Purpose.

GROUP MEETINGS HELD

All-Day Discussions Take Up Art, Play Producing, Welfare Work, and Curative Aid Service.

The 300 delegates from all parts of the country and Canada to the tenth annual conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America participated in an all-day discussion yesterday, in group meetings held at the New York League clubhouse, 221 East Seventy-first Street, on welfare work, play producing and art and allied interests.

Outstanding at the welfare meeting of which Miss Emily T. Anderson was chairman was an address by Mrs. Danforth Geer, who appealed to volunteers to strive for perfection in their work, to mend any flaws in their present application, and particularly to consider volunteer service in libraries and thrift shops as just a beginning to more serious work.

Mrs. Geer emphasized the fact that volunteer social work was the original purpose of the Junior League, and expressed regret that many leagues have allowed other interests to overshadow their welfare work.

She appealed to her audience to help modernize volunteer service, touching briefly on the three most important ways of doing this, placement, cooperation with agency, and training. Anticipating that Junior League girls will be agency board members of the future, she stressed the importance of adequate training especially in the psychology and principles of social service work, followed by specific courses.

In the discussion on curative work led by Mrs. Robert F. Phillips of Milwaukee, it was agreed that the Junior League girl is particularly suited to work in occupational therapy, convalescent homes, work with crippled children and psychiatric work, as she brings a different atmosphere to the patient from the paid worker.

At the hospital work meeting it was agreed to try to standardize volunteer work so that training is given to the girls before entering such work.

It was decided at the arts and interests meeting, of which Miss Mary Hand was chairman, to hold yearly art exhibitions in the city where the annual conference is held, and to have an anonymous jury pass on the exhibits.

Miss Helenka Adamowska of Boston was chairman of the play bureau meeting, which broke up into three groups, and discussed plays requiring production on a large and small scale, and marionette and puppet shows.

In connection with play writing, it was shown that the New York League had sponsored a play-writing contest and had also organized a class in the practical art of writing, conducted by A. R. Orage, the English critic. The league, it was said, plans to institute a regular course next year in play writing, possibly in connection with the theatre school.

The magazine meeting was in charge of Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, editor of the Junior League Magazine, run entirely by women, with a certified paid circulation, it was shown, of 22,884. Mrs. Lindley told how the magazine in seven years had grown from thirty-two to 176 pages and from three pages to fifty full pages of advertising.

Last night all the available space at the clubhouse was given over to a dinner for the delegates. The Octettetrazinni, from the New York League's glee club, entertained the visitors. Other attractions included the one-act play, "The Triangle," and Miss Ruth Draper. Today an open forum will be held on the steamer Paris.

Brooklyn Woman, Irked by Ban on Roomers, Lets House in Wealthy District to Negroes

Negroes have leased the three-story and basement white brick house at 54 Midwood Street, in the Lefferts Manor district of Brooklyn, which Mrs. Ella E. Morris, the owner, advertised "for sale or for rent to colored people only" last December after her white neighbors objected to her taking in white roomers.

"The people who have leased the house are Negroes," Mrs. Morris said yesterday, but she refused to tell the date on which the new tenants will take possession. She kept repeating that she would "keep the neighbors guessing until May 14, when I will have a great story for the newspapers."

Mrs. Morris chose to remain mysterious about the "great story," but said it involved further developments in her fight with the Lefferts Manor Association, which she holds responsible for obtaining the court injunction a fortnight ago which prohibited her from continuing to take in roomers, on the ground that the community was restricted to "one-family" dwellings.

Mrs. Morris's home is in one of the exclusive residential districts of Flatbush, in a community of one-family houses occupied by the well-to-do families. Supreme Court Justice Dodd, former District Attornew for Kings County, has his home only seven doors down the street. Other residents on the street are wealthy merchants and business men.

"The family that is coming into this house," said Mrs. Morris, "is a large family. I have given them a long lease, but it contains a cancellation clause which can be applied in the event that the house is sold."

On the front and on the west side of the neat little building are large canvas signs still advertising the house for "Sale to Colored People Only." The "For Rent" part of the sign has been painted over. Mrs. Morris said the signs are to remain until the house is sold.

MRS. WHITNEY HONORED BY FOCH ASSOCIATION

Designer of Statue to Be Erected Here Says People of France Are Pleased at Project.

Mrs. Henry Payne Whitney, who is to design the statue of the late Marshal Foch to be erected here, was a guest of the Foch National Memorial Association at the Plaza last evening. She has just returned from visiting France to collect material to aid her in the work, and she had with her letters from Mme. Foch and General Weygand. These were read at the dinner by M. Mongendre, the French Consul General.

"It is with pardonable pride that I foresee a new bond between our two nations through this monument dedicated to Marshal Foch," wrote Mme. Foch.

"The French Army in particular will feel very deeply the homage rendered to the memory of the great chief, who led the allied army to victory," said General Weygand.

Ogden H. Hammond, former Ambassador to Spain, said at the dinner that the Duke of Elba, Minister of Foreign Affairs in the new Spanish Government, had just notified Mrs. Whitney that she had been decorated with the Gran Cruz de Alfonso XII. In the letter which Mr. Hammond read, the Duke of Elba said:

"While offering you my best congratulations for this mark of favor conferred on you by his Majesty, I must also congratulate you on behalf of the people of Spain on your very active work which you have always developed on behalf of and for the love of Spain, demonstrated recently by the inauguration of the Columbus Memorial at Huelva and your generous donation to the Monastery of La Rabida, and which I can assure you is greatly and deservedly appreciated as tending to strengthen the bonds of friendship between our two countries."

Statements regarding Marshal Foch from General Charles P. Summerall, Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Rabbi Nathan Krass of Congregation Emanu-El were read.

Mrs. Whitney, in a brief talk, said that the people of France were greatly pleased at the proposal to build the monument. Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo presided at the dinner, and Major Gen. R. L. Bullard and Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan spoke.

LUTHERANS REPORT MANHATTAN SURVEY

$6,778,514 IN PROPERTY

4,280 Pupils in 30 Schools—Question of Women Delegates to Be Considered Today.

The result of the first official survey ever made of all the branches of Lutheran churches in Manhattan was announced at the first annual Spring meeting of the New York Conference of the United Lutheran Church yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church, 147 West 123d Street. The presiding officer was the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Bosch, pastor of the church, who is president of the conference.

The report showed that there are 24,924 baptized Lutherans living in Manhattan, and that the total valuation of church property is $6,778,514. The report was submitted by the Rev. Howard R. Gold, pastor of Holy Trinity Church, New Rochelle, N. Y., as chairman of a subcommittee of a special committee on survey appointed last Fall by Dr. Bosch at the request of the conference.

The survey showed that of the twenty-eight Lutheran churches in Manhattan eighteen belonged to the United Synod of New York, seven to the Missouri Synod, two to the Swedish and one to the Norwegian Synod.

The total number of baptized persons in those churches affiliated with the United Synod of New York is 17,687; with the Missouri Synod, 5,733; with the Swedish Synod, 994, and with the Norwegian Synod, 250. There are thirty church schools with 4,280 pupils. The valuation of property is as follows: United Synod of New York, $4,899,416; Missouri, $1,530,000; Swedish, $281,098; Norwegian, $68,000.

"All the Protestant churches on Manhattan have receded during the last year except the Lutheran Church," said Mr. Gold.

The conference continued the committee and adopted the following resolutions:

"That the committee considers its purpose to be that of formulating a 'Manhattan plan' for the Lutheran Church on Manhattan Island, to suggest the direction in which it should grow.

"That the preliminary survey shall be continued and that approximately $500 shall be raised for this purpose—this money to be raised by subscription, the committee assuming responsibility for securing it.

"That a questionnaire shall be prepared by the committee with expert assistance.

"That the committee be authorized to seek the cooperation of all Lutheran churches in Manhattan, whether members of the United Synod of New York or not.

"That the material gathered shall be submitted for review to an expert in the field of work, who shall also prepare the report."

Dr. Bosch in his annual report asked that at the session today the conference discuss the question of permitting women to be delegates from the parishes. The report was referred to a special committee, which will report back today.

Falls From Express Highway; Dies.

John Carson, 45 years old, an ironworker, of 1,902 Twenty-fifth Avenue, Astoria, Queens, was killed yesterday in a fall from the new express highway under construction in West Street. Carson fell from the structure at a point near Little West Twelfth Street.

DEBENTURE CAUSES HOUSE TARIFF STIR

Ramseyer, Farm Leader, Urges Defeat of Provision—Democrats Defend It.

PLAN ADOPTED ON REPORT

Meeting Early Today, Representatives Will Vote on Whole, Then on Disputed Items.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A flurry of debate on the farm export debenture plan on the floor of the House today brought attention to the impending fight on the conference report of the tariff bill, set to open in the lower body tomorrow.

Representative Ramseyer, Republican, of Iowa, a leading Farm Bloc member, asserted that the debenture plan had not been "sold" to the farmers of the West, and, if passed in the Senate tariff bill amendment would hamper the President in his efforts to bring some relief to agriculture.

Representatives Jones of Texas and Rankin of Mississippi argued that the debenture provision was the one benefit to agriculture left in the bill.

In an effort to get through with the conference report by Saturday the House agreed to meet at 11 A. M., an hour earlier than usual, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. While one of the conferees, Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, said he did not expect final disposition before Tuesday, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, majority leader, said every disposition was to finish with the report this week.

According to plans announced after a meeting of the Republican Steering Committee, the report as a whole, except for the disputed items, will be taken up first for vote, with four hours of debate divided equally between the Republican and Democratic sides. The controversial items will then be taken up as they appear in the bill. Cement will come first and a vote on this is expected tomorrow.

The disputed duties on silver, lumber, shingles and sugar will be taken up in that order. Then will come the administrative amendments on the flexible tariff, reorgonization of the Tariff Commisison and finally the debenture plan.

The Democratic fight on the bill will be led by Representative Collier of Mississippi, second ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee and one of the conferees. Representative Garner of Texas, Democratic floor leader, is ill and his physician has advised against his attempting to go to the Capitol.

The Republicans of the New York delegation met in the afternoon in the offices of Representative Snell in the hope of adopting some policy toward the measure, but it was said afterward that the delegation was split several ways and had agreed on no concerted action.

After a similar meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation it was said that the Pennsylvanians would "go along" with the administration leadership in adoption of the conference report and votes on the controversial items.

sitting in the vestibule and he saw the taxicab halt before the door he unlocked the entrance. The couple walked in and down the hall to the elevator a distance of twenty feet. No one else was in the hallway, although the two men may have been waiting in a small ante-room which opens off the hall.

Mrs. Block entering the elevator first moved over behind the operator. Block stood facing the door. Sullivan had closed the door halfway when the men suddenly appeared. They were young, of medium height, wore gray suits and each had a brown soft hat. One of them shouted an epithet at Block.

As the night club owner—he is reputed to have been a partner in the Silver Slipper Club—cried out, the men opened fire. Block threw up his right arm and half turned as bullets tore into his neck and forearm. While Sullivan flattened himself against the cage of the car and Mrs. Block shielded her face the men fired until all but one cartridge had been exploded, the unused cartridge being found outside later.

Flee in Automobile.

Convinced that Block was dead, the men fled. They ran to a tan-colored automobile parked at the curb. A third man was at the wheel and a fourth, who had acted as lookout at the door, piled into the machine, which sped northward in Amsterdam Avenue. The flight of the gunmen was witnessed by J. C. Paddock, 22 years old, of 30 West Seventy-fifth Street, a college student.

Paddock was across the street and after he had seen the hasty retreat of the men went over and into the hallway. He found that Sullivan had gone to the basement to notify James A. Hanna, the superintendent. Hanna came upstairs and Mrs. Block asked Sullivan to hail a taxicab so that she could take her husband to a physician.

According to Sullivan's story to Assistant District Attorney Saul Price, the widow was averse to having an ambulance summoned because this would bring the police. Later, however, she changed her mind and a taxi driven by Ernest Nargi of 320 East 159th Street was signaled. Nargi drove the wounded man to the Fifth Avenue Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Detective Frederick Stepat was assigned when the West Sixty-eighth Street station was notified. He found that Block had $4,359 in cash in his pockets as well as the brown notebook. As Stepat was questioning Mrs. Block and her 17-year-old sister, Miss Rose Basta, who lived with the Blocks, Assistant Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney arrived and ordered all of the witnesses taken to the station for questioning.

Joseph Basta, brother of Mrs. Block, and Rhoda Codrington of 233 West Sixty-third Street, a Negro maid employed on a part-time basis by the Blocks, were questioned from late yesterday afternoon until the middle of the evening. The detectives said that the maid had told them of hearing Block speak of his interests in the Silver Slipper and the Cotton Club, but had never heard him mention the Plantation Club.

Insists Block Was Salesman.

Mrs. Block insisted that her husband had been merely a clothing salesman. She said that she knew nothing of his night club enterprises and that although he usuelly left his home at noon and did not return until 4 A. M., she had not been aware of what he did. Mrs. Block said she had married Block in Philadelphia in 1924 and that a week ago last Tuesday they had returned after a three-weeks' vacation in Hot Springs, Ark. The police telegraphed yesterday to Hot Springs to check on Block's movements there.

The story the widow told to Inspector Mulrooney and later to Mr. Price was that on Tuesday night her husband had telephoned her to meet him at Seventh Avenue and Forty-seventh Street. She did so, and they had dinner in the restaurant of the Paramount Hotel. During the meal her husband was hailed by a young man, about 17 years old, and they exchanged greetings.

After the meal they witnessed the last show at the Capitol Theatre and then had several sandwiches at Dave's Blue Room restaurant, 791 Seventh Avenue. Later they took a taxicab to the apartment house.

Mrs. Block insisted to the detectives and to Mr. Price that she had not seen the faces of the two men. Mr. Price in his report to District Attorney Crain was skeptical of this part of Mrs. Block's story. Miss Basta, who was in the apartment suite during the murder, was reluctant to talk to the police, they reported, characterizing her as "a hostile witness."

Find Other Books in Home.

Detectives searching the Block apartment found several other note books, but they would not divulge their contents beyond saying that they were filled with names and addresses. Another find was a gold special deputy sheriff's badge for the Bronx. It was numbered 67 and in blue enameling bore Block's name. It had been issued in 1927.

Frank McHugh, counsel in the office of Bronx Sheriff Robert L. Moran, said yesterday that he had been unable to find the book in which were listed individuals to whom had been issued badges. He said that he would continue his search today when records in Sheriff Moran's office, inaccessible yesterday owing to the Sheriff's absence, would be available. Special deputy sheriff badges are no longer issued in the Bronx. The practice was stopped in 1928 by Sheriff Lester Patterson. The secretary to the former Sheriff said yesterday that he was positive that no special deputy badge had been issued to Block.

Detectives who went to the Silver Slipper Club found a telegram addressed to Block. It had been thrust under the door. It read:

"Send me two weeks' salary you owe me. I just met Bill Duffy. My wife died yesterday."

The telegram was signed "Sam Rose."

Rose, described as a former waiter at the Silver Slipper Club, gave his address as Sagamore Avenue, Hollywood. The telegram will be followed up, detectives said, on the slight chance that information of value may be developed. They expressed the opinion that the reference to "Bill Duffy" was one to Billy Duffy, manager of fighters, including Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight. Duffy is reported to be a part owner of the Silver Slipper Club.

Did Not Anticipate Death.

"It was apparent that Block didn't anticipate being killed," said Captain Appel. "If he had, despite his record, he would have had a gun on him, and undoubtedly would have hired a bodyguard."

The detectives said that they had learned Block went to Yonkers six weeks ago and conferred with Madden. The ex-gangster was in a hospital there undergoing treatment for an old gunshot wound. Two or three others who were anxious to buy a share in one of the clubs controlled by Madden also attended the conference. The police said they had been unable to obtain the details of the meeting.

Police Headquarters supplied the following record for Block:

Nov. 25, 1912—As Dave Steinberg, Brooklyn, petty larceny, discharged.
July 29, 1915—As Charles Harris, disorderly conduct, sixty days in the workhouse.
Dec. 15, 1915—Disorderly conduct, thirty days.
Dec. 17, 1918—Grand larceny, no disposition.
Dec. 17, 1919—Burglary, discharged.
Mar. 1, 1920—As Harry Gold, grand larceny, six months in the penitentiary.
Oct. 7, 1921—Assault and robbery, dismissed.
June 26, 1922—Burglary, dismissed.
Sep. 18, 1922—Felonious assault, dismissed.
Nov. 18, 1922—Fugitive wanted in Hoboken for robbery, no disposition.
June 9, 1923—Robbery, no disposition.
June 30, 1925—Newark, N. J., breaking and entering, two months in Hudson County Jail.

Lowboy of particularly fine proportions. In mahogany or walnut. $52.50

To tell you that this furniture adheres faithfully to its Early American ancestors in line and proportions, is telling only a part of its distinctive features. Quite as important are the thoroughness of construction, the use of fine woods, and the fine English finish produced by the makers today. The secretary illustrated above is made in two sections. The grill motif in the upper part is composed of thirteen individual panes of glass, while the top of the lower section is finished so that it can be used as a desk. Notice, too, the substantial shelves, the correct hardware and the careful execution of the carvings. Even the back is finished with a moulding. It comes in a red or brown mahogany, or walnut. $139. The perfection of construction exhibited here is typical of Macy's fine furniture—and so are the consistently low prices.

NEGRO CHILD CENTRE IN 63D ST. IS CLOSED

Budget of the Columbus Hill Settlement, Endowed by Rockefeller, Is Exceeded.

43 OF STAFF DISMISSED

800 Children to Return to Streets—Urban League Protests Order of the Aid Society.

The work of the Columbus Hill Neighborhood Centre, 224 West Sixty-third Street, was suspended for an indefinite period yesterday by order of the Children's Aid Society, which declared that this year's budget for the centre, endowed by John D. Rockefeller Jr., was being exceeded by the disbursements.

More than 800 Negro children who have participated in the school and club life of the centre will return to the streets of the San Juan Hill district as result of the order. The teaching staff, numbering twenty-three volunteers and twenty paid workers, has been notified of its dismissal.

A protest of the aid society's action was filed by the New York Urban League, a Negro organization, in a statement made yesterday by its executive director, James H. Hubert. He charged the society with acting hastily and without consultation with other social service leaders, the advisory committee of the centre or Mr. Rockefeller and without consideration of the need of the community.

The centre was created in October, 1928, when Mr. Rockefeller agreed to donate $29,500 toward a three-year expenditure budget of $36,000. His donation was divided into yearly instalments of $12,000, $10,000 and $7,500. The remaining $4,500 was to be raised from other sources.

Administration of the fund was placed in the hands of the Children's Aid Society and supervisory power was vested in an advisory committee composed of representatives of several social service agencies. This advisory council, Mr. Hubert said, was suspended by the aid society last year without Mr. Rockefeller's knowledge or sanction.

In confirming the order yesterday, Owen R. Lovejoy, executive secretary of the society, said the 1929 budget was being exceeded and that it was essential to suspend the centre's activities until the Fall at least. He said that unless $2,500 were received other branches of work also would be dropped.

The order shuts down twenty-six classes and discontinues fifteen boys' clubs, five girls' clubs and two parents' clubs. Officials at the centre said they had not heard of any plans to provide substitute facilities for the former students and club members. They expressed the fear that closing the centre would bring an increase in juvenile delinquency and add to the toll of street accidents.

Community Meeting Held.

Reports on the pending dissolution of the centre have been passing through the neighborhood for the past ten days, according to E. H. Wilson, director. They aroused considerable indignation, he added, and resulted in the calling of a community meeting on Tuesday night. Officials of the aid society and other organizations attended and it was announced that the centre would close yesterday.

This announcement evoked a storm of protest from those present and the society was accused of race discrimination. Mr. Lovejoy denied the allegation, reaffirming that financial difficulty was responsible for the order.

It was learned late yesterday afternoon that the Urban League would not permit the centre to be closed for the Summer and had arranged for a benefit performance of "The Green Pastures" on May 6, the proceeds to be used for the centre. Mr. Hubert intimated that if all other means failed, the directors of his organization would conduct the centre, removing it from the jurisdiction of the aid society.

"It seems inconceivable that in a city like New Yorkwith its unlimited wealth, a work of this kind must be stopped for lack of a few thousand dollars," he said. "When Mr. Rockefeller donated $29,500 the funds were turned over, by the Welfare Council, to the Children's Aid Society with the hope that the other 10 per cent of the budget might be raised from other sources. In my opinion, the people of that district are justified in feeling they are not getting a square deal.

"It is not only a reflection on our social agencies but unfair to a donor like Mr. Rockefeller to say that we cannot match his gift of $29,500 by raising a mere $5,000; that we so readily step aside and curtail work of so important a character without giving the public an opportunity to assist."

Terminal Market Planned at Buffalo

BUFFALO, April 30 (AP).—Plans for a $50,000,000 produce terminal and farmers' market to be built here by the Buffalo Produce Exchange and the Nickel Plate and Erie Railroads were announced today. The plans call for fifty stores for wholesale produce dealers, a fifteen-acre market for farmers, a cold-storage plant, garage and warehouse for grocers and packers, and a bank.

MAYOR IS IMPROVED; ABLE TO LEAVE BED

Talks on Telephone With His Secretary—May Spend Few Days on Long Island.

Mayor Walker's physical condition continued to improve yesterday and, for the first time since he was ordered to bed last Friday, he was up and fully dressed.

Dr. William Schroeder Jr., his personal physician and head of the Sanitation Department, called upon his patient in the morning and gave him permission to leave his bed. He called again in mid-afternoon and found the Mayor's condition satisfactory.

The Mayor while out of bed held a telephone conversation with his secretary, Charles S. Hand. Mr. Hand said the Mayor had received many messages from friends inviting him to convalesce at various retreats all the way from Maine to Florida. Mr. Hand, however, said he doubted whether the Mayor would accept any of them. His present disposition, Mr. Hand said, was to get back to work as speedily as possible. In the meantime he will probably pass a few days in the home of a friend somewhere on Long Island.

FOREST INDUSTRIES ASK AID

Delegation Urges Hoover to Order a Study of Overproduction.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—An appeal for the appointment of a commission or board to deal with overproduction in the forest industries was made to President Hoover by representatives of the American Forestry Association and the forest industries today.

Asserting that over-production was "threatening the forest industries with economic chaos," the visitors told Mr. Hoover that it was causing wood waste, depression of forest land values, discouragement of industrial reforestation, the elimination of land from tax tolls, a serious effect upon local and regional prosperity, insecurity of employment, insufficient forest protection against fire, non-utilization of land, and the menace of impairment of the permanant supply of raw wood, "important to industry and commerce."

The proposed board, they stated, would not attempt to frame a broad national forest policy, but would study the economic problems involved in the supply and use of forest products.

URGES CANCER INQUIRY BILL

Senator Copeland Appears Before Senate Committee for Measure.

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—Passage of a bill sponsored by Senator Harris, Democrat of Georgia, to provide for government investigation of improved methods of cancer treatment was urged today before a Senate subcommittee by Senator Copeland of New York.

Dr. George E. Pfahler and Dr. Ellice McDonald of the University of Pennsylvania and Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins University have appeared in support of the bill.

Senator Copeland, a physician, said thousands of person were "fated to an early death" because of lack of sufficient knowledge of the disease.

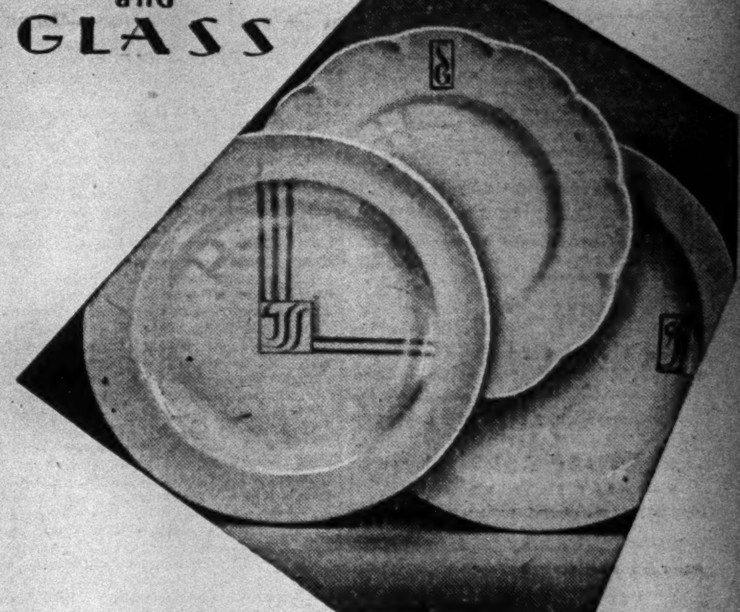
Macy's CHINA and GLASS



A Monogram For Your Tableware As Well As Your Trousseau Linens

THE dinner service for your new home may be marked as individually as your linens. We are illustrating three monogram designs which add a personal decoration to modern dinner ware.

The Umbertone dinner plate at the left, with a monogram painted on and then fired, is priced $1.69 each. The centre plate is Theodore Haviland Celadon china, a soft gray-green. With monogram, $1.74 each. A silver monogram is very effective on the mottled gray Snakestone plate at the right. $1.59 each.

The Consultant in our China Department will help you with your selection of design and color for monogrammed plates and other pieces of a dinner service.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS CHILD HEALTH DAY

In Statement to Parents on the Observance Today, He Councels Preventive Methods.

DR. WYNNE SPEAKS ON RADIO

Calls Children the Strength of Nation, Measured by Health of Mind and Body.

National Child Health Day, recently proclaimed by President Hoover, will be observed throughout the country today. Yesterday Heatlh Commissioner Wynne, in a radio address on children's diseases, read a proclamation from Mayor Walker, dated April 23, but issued yesterday, which read:

To the People of the City of New York:

We are great as a community only in so far as the children in our homes are healthy and happy.

To keep these children healthy and happy we have kept pace with science in reducing unnecessary deaths among our child population. Even today, however, too many children die from disease that could easily be prevented.

We are very much concerned with safeguarding our child population from these preventable diseases, and we are particularly concerned at this time with safeguarding the children from diphtheria.

Diphtheria has long been one of the terrors of childhood. Last year 463 children died from this cause, and 8,085 others were stricken with this terrible disease.

Because this tragedy is so needless—because it can be so easily prevented—

Now, therefore, I, James J. Walker, Mayor of the City of New York, do hereby proclaim May 1 as Child Health Day in our city, that it may serve particularly to bring to parents a warning that diphtheria is dangerous, and a message that the disease is easily prevented by the simple, painless and harmless toxin-antitoxin treatment.

I urge all those charged with the care of children between the ages of 9 months and 10 years to go to their doctors at once and have those children protected safely and surely against diphtheria. Those who have no doctors may receive this protection without cost at any one of the eighty-nine Baby Health Stations of the City's Health Department.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of New York to be affixed this 23d day of April, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty.

JAMES J. WALKER,
Mayor.

In his address, which was one of his weekly health talks over WEAF, Dr. Wynne devoted himself to urging his auditors to protect the health of their children. "Our national strength," he said, "is measured by their health of body and mind."

He lauded President Hoover's "The Child's Bill of Rights," which declared that no American children should suffer from unhygienic surroundings, undernourishment, lack of medical attention and inspection and a sound mind in a sound body, and told of the progress in the fight against smallpox and diphtheria. The campaign against diphtheria must continue until every child in the city has been immunized, he averred.

The chief local celebration of child health day will be a demonstration of 1,500 school children, representing twenty-five nations, in City Hall Park, held under the auspices of the American Child Health Association, which announced that 30,000,000 children in the United States will take part in the day's events.

At the City Hall ceremonies Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee will receive the children, who will inform him that they are among the 165,000 children in New York City who have been immunized against diphtheria. Throughout the nation hundreds of health clinics will be opened and thousands of speeches and radio addresses will be made.

There also will be nation-wide examination of school children today. A check-up of the health records of the city's 1,000,000 public school children will be made today and note will be taken of children in whose cases vision, hearing, nasal, nutrition or dental defects have been corrected.

Charles L. Chute, general secretary of the National Probation Association, made public yesterday a special message from his organization which will be presented today to President Hoover on behalf of the nation's juvenile delinquents, 200,000 of whom, he wrote, are yearly brought to court. The message asks Mr. Hoover to support a campaign for clinics in juvenile courts where "most careful" mental and physical examinations are needed.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR GETS $325,008 TAX REFUND

Revenue Official Explains That Deduction Was Made Because of Taxes Paid Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A credit and refund of $325,008 in income taxes for 1921 and 1923 to John Jacob Astor of New York was announced today by the Internal Revenue Bureau. The application for refund was heard in October.

H. F. Mires, Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue, made the following statement:

"The entire overassessment for the year 1921 amounting to $277,203.21 and $4,732.67 of the overassessment for the year 1923 are caused by the allowance of deductions from the reported income of the correct amounts of income taxes paid to a foreign country on income derived from sources within the United States since after a thorough field examination of the taxpayer's accounting records and a comprehensive review in the bureau, it is determined that such amounts were understated in the returns filed.

"The balance of the overassessment for the year 1923, amounting to $43,072.12 is due to the allowance of an additional deduction for the amount of certain interest paid on indebtedness within the United States, since investigation discloses that the amount originally deducted in the return was inadequate."

The Columbia Bank of New York obtained a refund of $37,815 for 1919 in income and profits taxes. The overassessment was caused by the revision of the gross income as determined in a prior audit, which formed the basis for the assessment of a deficiency in tax, to reflect the true gross income in accordance with the method of accounting regularly employed by the taxpayer.

ARE LAXATIVES YOUR FRIEND OR FOE?

IT IS an all-too-popular habit, at the first symptoms of intestinal sluggishness, to dose with laxatives. The indiscriminate use of laxatives is a dangerous practice. In fact, the constant use of harsh laxatives may make you an intestinal cripple.

A wise, general rule is not to take laxatives except under a physician's supervision. The medical profession are constantly warning the public of the grave evils of self-dosing with harmful laxatives. Instead, they advise the use of a bland mineral oil . . . a harmless internal lubricant such as Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum.

Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum is not a laxative, a cathartic, or a purgative. It promotes normal elimination solely by mechanical action. It is not absorbed into the system; hence, it can cause no habit nor build fat. It is safe to use at all times by every one.

Ask your druggist for Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum or Squibb's Liquid "Pet," for short. Then you will be assured of a clear, odorless, tasteless mineral oil—as pure as scientific skill can make it.

The Squibb Laboratories manufacture a complete line of pharmaceutical and biological products to meet every need of modern medicine. Among them are pure, reliable laxatives. When your physician prescribes a particular laxative, you can buy it under the Squibb label—a guarantee of the highest quality and purity.

LOREE WILL SERVE IN TAXICAB SURVEY

Named With Philip Le Boutillier, Completing Make-Up of Mayor's Investigating Board.

WALSH WILL SPEED WORK

First Meeting Within Few Days—Donella Gets Show Cause Writ In Low-Rate Suit.

The membership of Mayor Walker's commission for investigation of the taxicab industry was completed yesterday by the appointment of Leonor F. Loree, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, to represent that body, and the designation of Philip Le Boutillier, president of the Retail Dry Goods Association, to represent the Merchants Association. Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission, announced that its first meeting would be held at City Hall on Saturday or Monday and that it would proceed, immediately after organization, to a thorough and speedy investigation and report.

The other members of the commission are Daniel L. Reardon, vice president of the United States Trucking Company, and George W. Mixter, New York manager of Day & Zimmermann, Philadelphia engineering experts.

The lone 15-cent-a-mile taxicab licensed by Police Commissioner Whalen last Monday continued to operate yesterday and did "good business," according to Paul Cozzi, its owner, who is a member of the Amalgamated Taxi Association. Michael Donella, vice president of the association and leader of the cut-rate forces, announced last night that an effort would be made in Kings County Supreme Court on Friday to vacate the restraining order now preventing Commissioner Whalen from issuing low rate licenses to about 250 cabs whose owners seek to operate. The restraining order, returnable in the same tribunal on Monday, was obtained by Mrs. Mary G. Norton, a taxpayer in Queens, who declared that cut-rate cabs would jeopardize public safety and the safety of her two children.

The Amalgamated obtained yesterday from Justice McCrate of Brooklyn an order requiring Commissioner Whalen, Deputy Commissioner Muldoon and Mrs. Norton to show cause why the order should not be vacated. Mr. Donella said that argument on the show cause order, to be held before Justice Strong on Friday, will point out the Amalgamated's belief that the Norton suit was "cooked" up by organized opponents of the low cab rate.

Commissioner Whalen announced yesterday that the drive against taxicab drivers failing to comply with requirements of the Hack Bureau would be continued until all of the 29,000 cabs operating on the city streets had been examined. The drive opened Tuesday night when Hack Bureau inspectors and department plain clothes men drove 558 cabs off the street, 289 of them because their drivers lacked a 1930 hack license, and 249 because their cabs did not comply with license standards.

Commissioner Whalen said the public should cooperate in the drive by refusing to ride in cabs which lacked a 1930 license or whose condition was not neat and clean.

$7,991,781 TAX ABATEMENT.

Eighth and Ninth Avenues Railway Company Gets Refund.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—An income and profits tax abatement of $7,991,781 in favor of the Eighth and Ninth Avenues Railway Company of New York was announced today by Internal Revenue Commissioner Lucas.

The following explanation was made:

"The overassessments represent abatements of deficiencies in tax and interest thereon summary assessed under the provisions of Section 282, revenue act of 1926, against this taxpayer as the transferee of the assets of certain dissolved corporations, since upon further consideration it is determined that the incomes of the transferor corporations reported in the tax returns were erroneously augmented by the values of certain improvements to leaseholds made by lessees prior to March 1, 1913, which came into the possession of the transferor corporations as lessors during the taxable year 1919."

MRS. FIELD GOES TO RENO.

Wife of Grandson of Merchant Expected to Ask for Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field, wife of Marshall Field 3d, is due to arrive tonight in Reno, where she is expected to file divorce proceedings against the grandson of the Chicago merchant.

Of Mr. Field's $150,000,000 estate, it was reported, Mrs. Field will obtain possession of the Field town house at 4 East Seventieth Street, New York, valued at $3,000,000, as well as a life income in excess of $1,000,000 a year.

According to reports, Mrs. Field is to get custody of their three children, Marshall, Jr., 14; Barabara, 11, and Bernice, 6.

Mr. Field is now abroad. There have been recurrent rumors that after the divorce he would marry Mrs. Audrey Coates, widow of a British army officer, who was a member of the retinue of the Prince of Wales when he visited America.

Jews Plan Meeting This Month to Discuss Race Problems Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—President Hoover received an invitation today to participate in a meeting of Jews at Town Hall in New York City about the middle of May, when welfare problems of Jews overseas will be discussed.

The invitation was extended by James B. Rosenberg and Harry L. Gluckman of New York and Isaac Gans and Maurice Bisgyer of Washington.

Mr. Rosenberg said, after the conference with the President, that Mr. Hoover had been interested in the welfare of Jews abroad ever since his participation in European relief work.

REPORTS STANDARDS OF CLERGY RELAXED

Presbyterian Council Says One-Fourth of Ministers Have No Theological Education.

"SERIOUS UNREST" FOUND

Economic Factor and Influx From Other Denominations Are Blamed in Part.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Serious unrest exists in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, attributable partly to low salaries and the continued influx of ministers from other denominations with educational training below Presbyterian standards, the church's general council will report to the General Assembly at Cincinnati, May 29.

Dr. Cleland B. McAfee of Chicago, Moderator of the General Assembly and chairman of the council's special committee dealing with the ministry, said in his report, made public today, that the situation was "most grave and perplexing.

The General Assembly will be asked to study preventive as well as corrective measures, and all presbyteries will be urged to give careful study to the Presbyterian form of government establishing qualifications for candidates for the ministry.

The report cited among the principal causes for unrest the following:

"The economic factor, the desire for financial betterment. Ministers necessarily share the conditions of the times.

"A lowering of the standards by which many men with insufficient preparation and largely ignorant of Presbyterian traditions have been admitted to the pulpits, adding an element of instability to the pulpits."

One-third Lack Training.

Almost one-third of the ministers in the Presbyterian Church are now below the required standards, a survey of 173 of the 299 Presbyteries showed. A total of 4,281 had fulfilled requirements, while 1,916 had not. Of the aggragate 3,643 were graduates of Presbyterian theological seminaries, 727 from other seminaries, and 214 from Bible schools, leaving 1,513, or almost one-fourth, who had had no theological education.

While stated clerks of presbyteries suggested to the committee that extreme care be exercised in admitting to the Presbyterian Church ministers from other denominations, the report said Dr. McAfee and his colleagues "would not be understood as in any way being opposed to the present trend for church union, but we are of the opinion that the high standards of the Presbyterian Church must be held increasingly high, and that any tendency to lower them must be zealously guarded against."

"We find also," the report added, "that the inauguration of the pension plan is attracting to our church men from other denominations which do not have the same privileges. This fact is placing an added burden of responsibility upon presbyteries to uphold Presbyterian standards of training and efficiency.

"We would wish to be understood as having a most charitable and brotherly regard for all the men of the profession; but we also wish to be understood as being one in the conviction that the welfare of the church should be considered above the personality of individual men."

SLAYS HIS YOUNG BRIDE.

Husband Ill, Did Not Want Her to Go to Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WOODBURY, N. J., April 30.—A marriage which began with an elopement six weeks ago ended here today when George Riley, 32 years old, stabbed his 23-year-old bride to death in the kitchen of his sister's home, where the young couple lived.

The killing grew out of a quarrel over Riley's inability to work and his wife's decision to earn money.

The young woman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Moore of Port Norris, N. J., a fishing town on Delaware Bay.

Riley was unable to work because of illness, and they came here and lived with his sister, Mrs. Michell, on Mantau Avenue. Yesterday Mrs. Riley, without informing her husband, got a position in a shirt factory. This morning her husband learned about it when she started to go to work. His pride was hurt and he remonstrated with her, but she insisted. Finally their discussion became a quarrel and they struggled about the dining room. Mrs. Riley broke away and ran into the kitchen. Riley picked up a knife from the table, pursued her and slashed her throat.

He was arraigned on a charge of murder before Police Judge Edward H. Curtis and was locked up in the Gloucester County jail.

USES 25 TONS OF DYNAMITE.

READING, Pa., April 30 (AP).—Twenty-five tons of dynamite were set off today at the annual blast of the John T. Dyer Quarry Company's traprock quarries at Monocacy.

More than 300,000 tons of rock of commercial quality was broken off the face of the lofty cliff and tumbled to the loading area below, on which the giant crushers and railroad tracks are located.

A new method of drilling and tunneling was used for today's blast, which took five months of preparation.

TELLER ARRESTED FOR $33,500 THEFT

Former Employe of Central Hanover Trust Co. Branch Under Two Indictments.

SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED

Victor W. Emerick, 38 years old, former paying teller of the branch of the Central Hanover Trust Company at 97 Warren Street, was arrested in his home in Boonton, N. J., yesterday on a bench warrant charging him with the theft of $33,500 from the bank through falsifying entries in books in 1929.

Emerick's arrest by the Boonton police was at the request of Detective Sergeant William Sullivan of District Attorney Crain's office as a result of forgery and grand larceny indictments returned against him by the grand jury on April 16. Emerick later was brought to Police Headquarters and locked up.

Judge Donnellan of General Sessions issued the bench warrant. It was reported that Emerick, before the start of the grand jury investigation of his alleged dishonesty, confessed to officials of the bank and Assistant District Attorney Hastings of the Indictment Bureau, describing how he stole the money in small amounts for a period of almost a year.

Among those who testified before the grand jury were Frederick A. Thomas, a vice president of the trust company, and John Clos Jr., an auditor.

Emerick's employment by the bank had been terminated, it was reported, when discrepancies were uncovered by the auditor in his books a short time before District Attorney Crain was requested to bring the matter to the attention of the grand jury.

Slashes Throat, Leaps Four Stories.

Despondent over a chronic illness, James Cullen, 53 years old, slashed his throat with a razor in the Regal Hotel, 67 Columbus Avenue, yesterday afternoon and then ran to the roof and leaped four stories. He died in an ambulance on the way to Roosevelt Hospital. Cullen was a baker but had been out of work. He was receiving compensation for World War disabilities.

BRIMS ARE IN VOGUE AT MILLINERY SHOW

STYLES ARE LESS SEVERE

Faces Are Revealed in Flattering Way, Showing That It Is Now Smart to Be Pretty.

Early predictions regarding the importance of the brimmed hat and of new lightweight straws and fabrics in hats were confirmed at the Summer fashion show of the Retail Millinery Association at the Ritz-Carlton yesterday. The drooping, wide-brimmed hat, worn with garden party frocks of printed or plain chiffon, was especially featured, but there were numerous hats with medium and smaller sized brims to complete street and sports costumes. Hair, hemp, panamalac and lacy straws were used in the more formal hats, rough novelty straws accompanied sports dresses in the new pastel tweeds, and some Shantung frocks had matching Shantung hats.

For many seasons the hats favored by fashion were so severe that a woman had to decide whether to be smart or pretty, but now it is smart to be pretty, the show indicated. Brims were manipulated to reveal the face in the most flattering way possible. The under brim came in for a lot of attention, often being a contrasting color or softened with flower trimming. Lilies and daffodils were employed, as well as the more usual gardenia. Even the modified turbans and berets, which are still good fashion, succumbed to the feminine trend and were less uncompromising in line, although no less dashing.

The problem of relating hat colors to those in the costume and accessories was carefully worked out in every ensemble shown. Sometimes the hat matched the dress; more often it was a contrasting color, with the frock color echoed in a bit of trimming. For example, a pink ribbon band on a natural straw hat matched the pink blouse worn under a white sports suit.

Pink, by the way, was an outstanding note in hats of all types. Pink with black, pink with navy, with white, and hats entirely of pink appeared in both street and formal afternoon ensembles. There was much black, also black accented by white, and a good deal of navy, beige and natural. After pink, yellow, orchid and blue were the pastels featured.

Exhibitors were as follows:

Retail Exhibitors—Bergdorf-Goodman, Milgrim, Martha Norden and Lily Dache.

Millinery Firms—Dave Herstein Co., Inc.; Nathan Schreiber, Vogue Hats, D'Andre, Inc.; The Randa Hat Co., L. C. Meyerson, Inc.; Harry Solomons & Son.

Accessories were exhibited by Saks Fifth Avenue, which showed shoes; the American Art and Bag Company, the Napier Jewelry Company and the Gordon Hose Company.

POLO PONIES SAVED IN FIRE.

F. W. Stevens Ignores Own Property in Rescue at Cortland.

CORTLAND, N. Y., April 30 (AP).—Nine polo ponies owned by members of the Cortland Polo Club were saved from death in a fire which destroyed barns and equipment on the farm of Frank W. Stevens early this morning after one of the ponies kicked over a lantern. Loss was placed at more than $10,000.

Owners of the ponies, all of them prominent in professional and business circles here, are G. Leonard O'Connor, United States Commissioner Robert A. Foley, D. R. Riley, Robert J. Ames, Fred Ames and C. C. Wickwire.

ENGINEERS PROTEST DWELLINGS LAW CURB

The New York State Society of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors adopted a formal protest, at their third annual convention held yesterday at the Hotel Belmont, against the provision of the multiple dwellings legislation forbidding the filing of plans for structures in New York State except by registered architects.

Raymond J. Van Wagner, chairman of the publicity committee of the society, said that whereas it had previously been the practice of engineers to file plans for dwellings, office buildings and other structures with the building departments of the various boroughs, the new provision interferes with this privilege and restricts the lawful carrying on of such a custom by engineers in favor of the architectural profession.

"We are watching with great interest the outcome of the case of Goldslav vs. State of New York, which is expected to come up in the Court of Appeals about May 14, and which will render a final decision in this matter," he said.

The engineers made an excursion by boat around Manhattan Island yesterday afternoon before the annual meeting, at which officers and directors were elected. The boat was provided by Commissioner Goldman of the Department of Plant and Structures. The annual dinner was held last night at the Belmont.

Officers elected for the coming year were:

DR. DAVID B. STEINMAN of New York, president.

ARNOLD G. CHAPMAN of Albany, vice president.

ERNEST F. FOX Jr. of New York, financial secretary.

PATRICK M. CORRY of New York, treasurer.

ASK MY WIFE, MIRANDA

The way the man lives at home is a pretty sure proof of his genuineness. There is not much daylight for the future of our nation unless our homes are schools of love for the children, and of Americanism well taught by the parents, whose example of well-doing and affection will remain an inspiration to the young people growing up around them. The discontent and selfishness and neglect of forming and framing the future citizenship of the boys and girls of our city is far worse than poverty.

SCHINASI ESTATE PUT AT $8,014,962

Final Appraisal Adds More Than $3,000,000 to Estimate of Cigarette Man's Fortune.

COMFORT LEFT $4,845,676

Holdings of Col. Guinzburg Set at $1,517,924—J. D. Beals Held $1,902,349 at Death.

Morris Schinasi, who emigrated to New York from a small Asia Minor town thirty-six years ago, made a fortune manufacturing Turkish cigarettes and retired about twelve years ago, left $8,410,635 gross and $8,014,962 net when he died on Sept. 10, 1928. This was disclosed yesterday when Deputy Tax Commissioner Stephenson filed the appraisal of his estate.

The estate was estimated at only $5,000,000 when Mr. Schinasi's will was filed on Sept. 28, 1928, at which time it was announced that $1,000,000 had been left to establish a hospital in his native town, Magnesie, Asia Minor, "two hours by railroad journey from Smyrna," as the will described it. He directed that the hospital be open to all peoples, and be inscribed, both in Turkish and English, "Morris Schinasi International Hospital." The executor was directed to spent $200,000 on the building and to use the remainder as a fund for the maintenance of the hospital.

The will gave $20,000 each to five Jewish and five Christian hospitals in New York and $10,000 each to ten other charities, making a total of $1,300,000 set aside for public uses.

Mr. Schinasi gave a quarter of the income from the residuary estate, $6,672,852, to his wife, Mrs. Laurxette Schinasi of 1,165 Park Avenue, and gave to each of his daughters, Victoria S. Ross, Altina S. Sanders and Juliette Schinasi, a quarter of the residue, dividing among them his personal effects, worth $42,110, which included $25,425 as the value of the furnishings of the Hotel St. Andrew, at Broadway and Seventy-second Street.

During his lifetime Mr. Schinasi set aside valuable realty holdings in trust for two of his daughters, one receiving 876-892 Columbus Avenue and the other Blervie Hall, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 144th Street. The Hotel St. Andrew, which he owned, is valued at $3,000,000.

A claim for $100,000 made against the estate by Eli Nahoum on an alleged agreement with Mr. Schinasi, and rejected by the executor, was not included in the appraisal, while no value was found for a claim against the Bulgarian Government, the nature of which was not shown.

H. A. Guinzburg Left $1,517,924.

The estate of Colonel Henry A. Guinzburg, retired merchant and philanthropist, who died Nov. 16, 1928, was appraised yesterday at $1,692,804 gross and $1,517,924 net, of which $1,630,601 was in securities. The will gave $15,000 to the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies and $10,000 to the Recreation Rooms and Settlement. Harold K. Guinzburg, son, received personal effects worth $518 and a life interest in half the residue, $433,788, while the other half the residue went for life to Leonore G. Marshall, a daughter.

W. K. Comfort Estate $4,845,676.

The estate of Walter R. Comfort, for many years president of the Reid Ice Cream Company, was appraised yesterday at $5,790,151 gross and $4,845,676 net, of which $4,489,773 was in securities. He owned $745,083 in mortgages and loans, mainly on Florida property, and had realty worth $23,582 and cash amounting to $531,420. His jewelry was valued at only $290.

Mr. Comfort, who died Oct. 31, 1928, gave a life interest in one-ninth of the residue to his wife, Anna A. Comfort, 1,136 Fifth Avenue, valued at $536,987. The children, Walter R. and Harold W., sons, and Irene C. Jones and Millicent B. Comfort, daughters, each got two-ninths of the residue or $1,073,974. Irwin Comfort, brother, received $12,500.

J. D. Beals Had $1,902,349.

John D. Beals, lawyer and capitalist, who died Aug. 11, 1928, left an estate appraised yesterday at $2,156,287 gross and $1,902,349 net. Mrs. Estelle C. Beals, widow, received personal property at 810 Fifth Avenue, worth $14,709, and a life interest in securities amounting to $215,485. John D. Beals Jr. received his father's interest in the law firm, two-ninths of the residue, $364,504, and a life interest in one-ninth, $135,283. Helen Beals Aldrich, daughter, and Donald M. Beals, son, each received a third of the residue for life.

HISTORIANS SAY FILMS AID.

Stress Their Usefulness in Teaching at Congress in Britain.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAMBRIDGE, England, April 29.—The usefulness of the movies in teaching elementary history was upheld today by the international congress for historical studies, which concluded the first part of its annual conference here today.

Several official delegates, representing the governments of almost every important country except the United States and Great Britain, said they would ask their governments to assist in the production of historical films.

The revised chronology covering the years 269 A. D. to 1453 A. D. was approved by the conference. Hitherto there has been confusion in dates owing to calendar changes.

Before adjourning for sessions at London and Oxford the delegates discussed the advisability of petitioning European Governments to open their archives to historians.

KIN FAIL TO HALT GLOVER CREMATION

DEATH CALLED NATURAL

Justice Gavegan Finds There Were No Suspicious Circumstances—Clash Over Estate.

A dispute between the next of kin of Andrew J. Glover, who died at Patchogue on Monday, at the age of 75 years, and was a brother and heir of Dr. Henry Clay Glover, who made a fortune manufacturing a mange cure, and the dead man's attorney, Herman J. Schoenfeld of Patchogue, as to the holding of an autopsy to determine the cause of his death, resulted in a decision by Supreme Court Justice Gavegan yesterday which vacated an order preventing the burial or cremation of Mr. Glover's body.

The injunction was obtained on Tuesday from Justice Frankenthaler on the application of Mrs. Maude Janes Hughes, niece, and Mrs. Florence Murphy, sister of the dead man, on the ground that Mr. Schoenfeld and his brother, August Schoenfeld Jr., police justice of Patchogue, had prevented an autopsy by Dr. Emil F. Hartung and other New York surgeons sent there by Mrs. Hughes. The women contended that they had the right to determine whether or not an autopsy should be held, and under the law could decide as to the disposition of the body.

It was announced last night at Patchogue that the funeral and cremation would take place today at the Fresh Pond Crematory at 11:30 A. M.

Told of $40,000 Income.

Mr. Glover, who was known at Patchogue as an eccentric man of advanced age who had lived for some years at 468 South Ocean Avenue, Patchogue, and had been cared for by a housekeeper, Sophie Mayer, had told friends that he had an income of $40,000 a year from 100 shares of stock in the H. Clay Glover Company. Dr. John W. Bennett of Patchogue said last night he had been treating Mr. Glover for six years and that his death was due to heart and lung complications. Mr. Glover made a will on March 29, to which his signature had been appended with an "X." Dr. Bennett said that Mr. Glover had full possession of his faculties when he signed the will. The physician witnessed it.

Mrs. Hughes, who brought the action in behalf of herself and Mrs. Murphy, who gave telegraphic consent from Miami, Fla., said that her uncle had been bedridden for several years and was "dependent on those around him." She said his legal affairs had been attended to for some years by Herman J. Schoenfeld and he was cared for by Robert Logan, a nurse.

Insists Death Was Natural.

In asking that the restraining order against the cremation be vacated, Herman Schoenfeld said that Mr. Glover died of natural causes, had been attended by Dr. Bennett, and that there were no suspicious circumstances connected with the death, and none was alleged in the suit. He was named an executor with Robert G. Logan, who is ill, he said.

The will, attached to the defendant's papers, directs the sale of the real estate, consisting of his property at Patchogue and a lot at Sarasota, Fla. After a trust of $12,500 is established for Mr. Logan, the will leaves eighty shares of Glover stock for life to Mrs. Murphy. On her death forty-five shares are to go to Amy Munn Slausen, a cousin; five shares to Sophie Mayer, the housekeeper, and fifteen shares each to Herman M. Schoenfeld and Robert G. Logan. Upon the death of Mrs. Murphy $1,000 is to go to Mrs. Hughes, one of the plaintiffs in the injunction suit, the will stating that no greater sum is left because "she has considerable means."

Mr. Glover's will gave $3,000 each to the Baptist Church and St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Patchogue, $2,000 to the Rev. Mr. Shepherd of the Baptist Church and $3,000 to the Rev. Mr. Wilson of St. Paul's Church.

HOTEL MEN VOTE WET.

But Oppose Return of Open Saloons by a Big Majority.

Opposition to a return of the saloon and to the installation of public bars in hotels, but support for a change in prohibition laws, were expressed in a poll of hotel men taken by The Hotel World, the results of which were made public yesterday. A return to the saloon was favored by only 263 and opposed by 1,878. The men polled voted moderately in favor of the legalization of the sale of liquor of high alcoholic content and strongly in favor of legalization of light wines and beer.

The vote on this was as follows: For high alcoholic content liquor, 1,268; against, 1,007; for light wines, 2,044; against, 231; for beer, 2,066; against, 209. Only 433 would be in favor of opening of a public bar in their hotels if the law were changed and 1,609 voted against, but 1,256 voted for the opening of a service bar and 819 against. Willingness to drink only wine and beer was expressed by 1,578, against 472 opposed. The vote favored conviction for the sale of illegal liquor if wine and beer were allowed, but opposed conviction for drinking it.

REPORT CITY CENSUS NOW 85% COMPLETE

Supervisors Expect to Finish Work by End of This Week—Stragglers Delay Total.

CHIEF HOLDS CONFERENCE

Statistician From Washington to Study Success of "Self-Enumeration" Plan.

About 85 per cent of New York's population has been enumerated, according to census supervisors, who said yesterday they hoped figures for the remainder would be available before the end of the week. Because of the difficulty of obtaining statistics from stragglers totals for the Assembly Districts are being delayed.

Census supervisors in the fifty Manhattan and Brooklyn districts who were in charge of the "self-enumeration plan" conferred yesterday with Dr. Dana Durand, chief statistician of the Department of Commerce and former director of the census. The conference was in the office of George N. Jesse, 11 West Forty-second Street, supervisor of the Harlem district.

Mr. Durand said he would require time to study the reports submitted before passing opinion on the success of the plan. Many of the enumerators reported that they received the filled-out blanks left at homes, apartment houses and with individuals and that many answers were incorrect. It was the consensus of opinion that the plan was successful so far as cooperation of the public was concerned, but it was less successful as an accurate enumeration.

Edward Corsi, supervisor of the twenty-third district in the mid-east side section of Manhattan sent letters yesterday to a number of lodging house proprietors warning them if they persisted in failing to have census blanks filled out or talk with enumerators he would report the matter to United States Attorney Tuttle. The proprietor of a rooming house on East Twenty-sixth Street was informed that twenty-two of the sixty lodgers have not been enumerated because of the attitude of the proprietor. Forty-eight families in an apartment house on East Seventy-eighth Street were also warned to comply with the census regulations.

Figures for two census districts will probably be available today or tomorrow. The Harlem figures and the figures for the mid-west section of Manhattan are almost complete.

From the office of Supervisor E. Bradbury in the Bronx figures for two islands in the northern end of the East River were given out. On Riker's Island the population is 607, of which 497 are inmates and the remainder employes. On North Brother Island there is a population of 376.

Frank Grandy, a special census-taker in Brooklyn, reported yesterday that in trying out the newly devised self-enumeration plan in a waterfront district he was informed that he had been preceded by men who offered to fill out the blanks at $1 each for those finding it difficult to write in English.

The enumerator reported that he found persons of twenty-one nationalities living within two square blocks near Brooklyn Bridge bounded by the East River and Sands, Adams and Main Streets.

110 of 140 Oklahoma Towns Show Decline in Population

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 30 (AP).—Eighty per cent of the municipalities in Oklahoma that have turned in complete figures for the 1930 census have showed a decrease in population. Out of a total of 140 towns and smaller cities where figures have been released, only thirty gained in population during the last decade.

The only three cities of 10,000 population or over that have reported—Ada, Chickasha and Durant—showed gains in population. Figures for the larger cities in the State are expected to account for losses in the towns and villages.

NEWARK POPULATION SHOWS GAIN OVER 1920

With returns from forty of the 334 districts still incomplete, the census tally of the city of Newark stood yesterday at 424,701. The total population of Newark at the 1920 census was 414,524. Supervisor George A. Guenther said yesterday that the returns were coming in slowly, with some enumerators experiencing marked difficulty in "cleaning up" their lists of residences.

Mr. Guenther has not yet resorted to judicial compulsion to collect information. In cases where his enumerators have reported that residents declined to give information, he has invariably been able to obtain it himself, by suggesting that action might follow refusal to answer questions.

One Newark resident was so anxious to be enumerated that after filling out a questionnaire left at his house, he disregarded the official envelope supplied for him to send the form to the Newark Census Bureau, and sent the replies instead to Washington by registered letter, with a return receipt requested, at a cost of 20 cents. The questionnaire was forwarded to Newark, reaching the census bureau there yesterday.

Official census returns for New Jersey reported yesterday by The Associated Press follow:

DR. PARK COMMENDS TUBERCULOSIS VACCINE

Experiments with the bacillus Calmette-Guerin vaccine for producing immunity from tuberculosis have proved very successful among a group of New York children, according to a paper by Dr. William H. Park, director of laboratories of the Health Department, which was read last night at a meeting of the Greater New York Public Health Officers Association at the Health Department's building, 505 Pearl Street.

The vaccine, which was developed by Professors Calmette and Guerin of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, is given by mouth to new-born children and by injection to older persons. About 300 vaccinated cases have been observed by Dr. Park and his assistant, Dr. Camille Kereszturi, here. Between 300,000 and 40,000 children have received the treatment throughout the world.

The mortality rate from tuberculosis has decreased here from 23 to 5 per cent under the new treatment from children under one year of age who are exposed to open tuberculosis in their families, and has fallen from 2½ per cent to nothing among children exposed to closed tuberculosis, or cases in which the sputum is negative, in their families, according to Dr. Park's paper.

Here's how the people have judged this question of VALUE

IN the tire business, as in any other, production has a direct relation to costs.

It happens that Goodyear builds millions more tires than any other manufacturer, which ought to mean something to the man who buys tires.

We think it does: "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

We think this single towering fact — not to be overridden by any sales argument, however ingenious—says all that needs be said of Goodyear quality, Goodyear service, Goodyear price.

The next time you need a tire, and seek the most you can get for your money, remember how the people have judged this question of value.

The simplest and safest advice, is for you to do what an overwhelming percentage of your fellow-motorists are doing — go straight to the nearest Goodyear dealer!

E. E. Whitman Tells Cotton Men Exploitation of Women and Children Ruins Industry.

URGES PLEDGE TO REFRAIN

Survey of Situation Is Advocated at Boston as Step Toward Checking Overproduction.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 30.—Exploitation of women and children through night work in Southern mills is ruining the cotton textile industry, the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers was told today at a convention here.

The speaker, Eben E. Whitman, vice president of the William Whitman Company, with interests in mills both North and South, added that "the time has arrived when somebody's feelings have probably got to be hurt in the process of placing ourselves in a position where we can go ahead.

"Every vitally destructive force that is bearing down upon us, if traced to its source, leads directly to the industrial exploitation of women and children in our mills," Mr. Whitman said.

"The growth of this unfair and selfish utilization of women and children through night employment in the cotton mills of the Southern States is solely and directly the cause of the downfall of this great and essential industry involving the welfare of hundreds of thousands of Americans.

Sees No Place for the System.

"There should be no place for such a practice in our industrial system. It is opposed to every humanitarian principle; it is wrong in every hygienic premise, but, due to the conditions surrounding the mill village system peculiar to the South, it creates a social condition even more objectionable than the effect of the practice itself.

"There are no laws in the Southern States which prohibit women and children from working at night, consequently the unprecedented demand for cotton products for military requirements which followed the outbreak of the World War, gave tremendous impetus to night running in that section.

"The short period of uncertainty after the armistice was immediately followed by an active demand for civilian requirements to fill the vacuum created by the war. The development of night running was further extended.

"Many Southern mills which had always been opposed to the policy of night operation, were forced to adopt it in order to save themselves. The result is that our markets are so over-supplied that no section of the industry is prospering, and the future of every section is imperiled."

Suggests Survey and Pledge.

Mr. Whitman suggested a survey by the cotton textile institute, during which an agreement pledging non-employment of women and minors in night labor would be presented to mill owners.

"It would take but a short time to find out what the position of the industry is on this vital matter of employment," he said. He suggested that the mills pledge themselves that they would not adopt or continue women and minors in night work, the agreement to become effective four months after notice by the Cotton Textile Institute that in its determination the agreement has been signed by 76 per cent of the industry.

Mr. Whitman's plan was endorsed by Donald Comer, president-treasurer of Avondale Mills of Birmingham, Ala.

President George Sloan of the Cotton Textile Institute declared that the biggest single accomplishment of the industry in many years had been the favorable response on the part of mills, North and South, representing 22,000,000 spindles, to the so-called 55-50 recommendation or the fifty-five-hour-week for day workers and fifty-hour-week for night workers.

URGES CARE ON PARK FILL.

City Club Head Asks Herrick to Check Up on Reservoir Job.

Richard S. Childs, president of the City Club of New York, has written to Park Commissioner Herrick suggesting that the work of filling in the lower reservoir in Central Park, preparatory to turning it into a playground, is not receiving sufficiently careful supervision and calculation. From observing the work members of the club have gained the impression that the filling is liable to be carried to excess, so that it will be necessary to cart some of the material away again later, he said.

"We suggest," the letter concludes, "that you take the necessary steps to determine that the filling now in progress on the site shall not exceed the requirements of the plan. We believe that at the rate the filling is progressing there is danger that there may be an excess of fill which might necessitate its subsequent removal."

HAILS PALESTINE RECOVERY

Hexter Reports Commerce Has Improved Steadily Since Riots.

A distinct improvement in commerce and industry has been noted in Palestine since the August disorders, according to a cablegram from Maurice B. Hexter, Palestine executive of the Jewish Agency, which has been received at the headquarters of the Allied Jewish Campaign here. Of about 4,000 immigrants who have been received since October, nearly all have been taken care of, according to the message, many by the orange-growing industry, which has recently been expanded.

The message adds that memoranda have recently been submitted to the government in Palestine requesting new immigration certificates. These, it asserts, are needed to meet the demand for laborers resulting from the development of privately initiated agricultural and industrial enterprises.

That NEW LAW

Makes Your Automobile Insurance Serve a Two-Fold Purpose

★ A POLICY MAY SAVE YOU THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS AND IT MAY SAVE YOU YOUR PRIVILEGE TO DRIVE A CAR . . .

YOUR Automobile Liability and Property Damage Insurance is an absolute necessity these days. You cannot afford to take chances. If you are responsible for an accident, you risk losing thousands of dollars in damages. Your savings and everything you own may be at stake.

If a final judgment, which involves personal injury or more than $100 damage to the property of others, is rendered against you, (under the provisions of the New York Financial Responsibility Act) your license will be suspended until such judgment is satisfied.

The law also provides that you must furnish proof of financial responsibility for future operation of a car.

With the proper form of insurance such judgment would be paid for you and proof of your financial responsibility would be supplied.

★ Why Have More Owners Insured in The Travelers Than in Any Other Company?

The Travelers, Hartford, originated Automobile insurance. For years, since writing the first policy, it has annually written more automobile insurance than any other company. Today a vast army of automobilists, over 500,000 in number, have placed their Automobile insurance in The Travelers. Here are some of the reasons for this nation-wide popularity:

BECAUSE: It has 213 main claim offices strategically located in the United States and Canada to render efficient service to you wherever you travel.

BECAUSE: 1700 salaried people devote their time to the payment of claims under Travelers policies.

BECAUSE: It has thousands of agents everywhere in the United States and Canada, any one of whom will assist you in case you have an accident while touring.

BECAUSE: It has tremendous financial strength. Strong enough to give you adequate limits—$100,000—$300,000 public liability and $100,000 property damage, if desired.

BECAUSE: Its policies meet the Automobile Financial Responsibility requirements of every state.

BECAUSE: The Travelers issues a broad, liberal policy unhampered by nullifying restrictions.

BECAUSE: The Travelers gives insurance and service for the same price that you would ordinarily pay for insurance only.

★ The largest multiple-line insurance organization in the world has paid claims considerably in excess of three-quarters of a billion dollars

MISS SCOVILLE WED TO J. G. WELLS JR.

BOTH OF NOTED ANCESTRY

Bride Wears Her Mother's Wedding Gown—Her Father Gives Her in Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Eleanore Shannon Scoville to Jonathan Godfrey Wells Jr., which took place yesterday afternoon in the Chapel of the Beloved Disciple of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, united descendants of families that figured prominently in the early history of the United States. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Lacey Scoville and a descendant of Nathaniel Wolfe of Louisville, who was Attorney General of Kentucky during the Civil War, and of Judge Peter Shannon of Pittsburgh, who was appointed by President Grant to the Supreme Court of Dakota Territory.

Mr. Wells, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Godfrey Wells, is a descendant of Thomas Wells, who settled in Ipswich, Mass., in the early part of the seventeenth century, and of Theophilus Eaton, first Governor of the New Haven Colony.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington, the rector, performed the ceremony in the presence of a small gathering of friends and relatives. The chapel was decorated in Spring flowers in yellow and flame color combined with cybotium ferns.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown. The skirt, which was very full, was of ivory colored satin with inserts of point d'Venice lace. The bodice, high waisted and form fitting of the mode of the "'90s," was of silk mousseline embellished with the same lace and finished with short puffed sleeves. Her veil of tulle fell from a cap of the same lace and she carried a Colonial bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Flora Brown of this city and Birmingham, Ala., was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Edith Wells, sister of the bridegroom; Rosamond Starr of this city, and Mary Oliver of Sewickley, Pa. Their costumes were of apple green taffeta, made in the fashion of the "'90s," high waisted and form-fitting. There was a flounce on the skirts extending up the back to form a bustle bow. They carried old-fashioned bouquets of Spring flowers in yellow and flame color.

Cornelius Wells was best man for his brother.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Scoville, 37 East Sixty-eighth Street, which also was decorated with Spring flowers.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. Wells and his bride will live at 38 East Seventy-sixth Street.

Other Weddings

Wood—Martin.

In the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church yesterday afternoon Miss Helen Anna Martin, daughter of Judge and Mrs. August L. Martin of Mount Vernon, N. Y., was married to Meredith Wood, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. Scott Wood. The Rev. Melford L. Brown, rector of the Church of the Ascension, Mount Vernon, performed the ceremony.

Forsythia and other Spring flowers with palms and Australian ferns decorated the chapel.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of ivory colored duchess satin embellished with rose point lace. Her veil of tulle was arranged with a bandeau of rose point lace and fell to the end of her long train. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Mrs. Robert K. Haas was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were the Misses Helen Hickam of Oklahoma City; Jane McDill of Washington, D. C.; Marian McGowin of Alabama, Laura Buck of Mount Vernon and Vera Krooss of New Rochelle. They wore frocks of peach beige chiffon with hats to correspond, and carried bouquets of African daisies, blue iris and yellow sweet peas. The matron of honor wore a similar costume of Spring green chiffon and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Robert K. Haas was best man. Owing to the recent death of the bridegroom's father there was no reception. When they return from their wedding trip, Mr. Wood and his bride will live in Scarsdale, N. Y.

Van Bibber—De Berry.

Miss Elise de Berry, daughter of Ferdinando de Berry of 2 Piazza Cavour, Florence, Italy, was married to John Van Bibber of this city yesterday in the rectory of the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas J. Delihant, S. J., in the presence of a few immediate relatives only. Both the bride and bridegroom dispensed with attendants.

The bride had been living in Paris for some time and during the war was associated with the American Y. M. C. A. This Winter she lived here with her sister, Mme. Helena Lebourg, who also has a home at 14 Avenue de Villiers, Paris.

Mr. Van Bibber is manager of the Feature News Service of THE NEW YORK TIMES. Before coming to THE TIMES he was with the publishing firm of Doubleday, Doran & Co.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. Van Bibber and his bride will make their home at 40 West Fifty-sixth Street.

Bennett—Waltz.

The marriage of Mrs. Ruth E. Waltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Lawrence of this city, to Charles Emory Bennett, took place yesterday afternoon in the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Albert Parker Fitch, and was followed by a reception at the Croyden.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, a former treasurer of the Times Square Trust Company. She had no attendants. Arthur Bennett was his brother's best man.

Mr. Bennett was graduated from Harvard University, and is with the Onondaga Silk Company.

Osborn—Harding.

The marriage of Miss Molly Van Vranken Harding, daughter of Mrs. Henry Robbins Barrows of New Rochelle, N. Y., to John Barbour Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Leland Osborn of Brookline, Mass., took place yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Twelfth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard Duffield.

The bride wore a gown of ivory faille silk, with a tight-fitting bodice of point d'Alencon lace. The skirt was cut to end in a long train. She wore a veil of tulle which fell from a cap caught under the chin and fastened on each side with pearl rosettes, and carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Miss Hannah Huyette of Detroit, a cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a frock of delphinium blue net and a leghorn picture hat. She carried a bouquet of delphiniums and talisman roses.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Osborn will live in Brookline.

Bremer—Falter.

Miss Lillian Augusta Falter, daughter of Mrs. Jacob Falter of 945 Grant Avenue, the Bronx, was married to Alexander Magnus Bremer yesterday evening in the Church of the Comforter, in East 162d Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roscoe Mott Giles.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Edward George Falter, who gave her in marriage. Miss Ruth Hume was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Lucilla Bach and Miss Louise Tegtmeyer. Peter J. Stumpf Jr. was best man for Mr. Bremer. The ushers were Arthur Bauer and James Cotter.

A reception followed at the Concourse Plaza Hotel. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Bremer will live at 1,767 Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx.

Boone—Downing.

Announcement has been made here of the marriage on April 26 in Asheville, N. C., of Miss Anne Downing, daughter of Mrs. James Downing of Princeton, Ky., and the late Mr. Downing, to Douglass M. Boone, formerly of Albany, grandson of Mrs. Douglass W. Mabee of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. The ceremony was performed in the Central Methodist Church in the presence of a few intimate friends and near relatives, after which Mr. and Mrs. Boone left by motor for New York City.

Knapp—McCabe.

The marriage of Miss Annette Rita McCabe, daughter of Mrs. James Vincent McCabe of 7 East Eighty-fifth Street, to George Francis Knapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knapp, also of this city, took place yesterday morning in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola. The Rev. Thomas F. X. McCabe, the bride's brother, performed the ceremony.

Miss Regina D. McCabe was maid of honor and the Misses Marie Egan and Marie Quinn were bridesmaids.

Leonard E. Oliver was best man.

O'Connor—Mangin.

Miss Marie Mangin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mangin of 325 Roseville Avenue, Newark, and Charles L. O'Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. O'Connor of Staten Island, were married yesterday in St. Rose of Lima's Church by the Rev. Edwin J. Field. A reception followed at the Montclair Golf Club.

Mrs. William Bruckman of Bloomfield was maid of honor and Miss Elizabeth O'Connor of New York, Miss Kathryn Meagher of East Orange, Mrs. Joseph Mangin Jr. of Maplewood, Mrs. Joseph Corley of South Orange were bridesmaids. Mr. O'Connor had as best man his brother, Peter O'Connor.

Van Tassel—Craig.

The wedding of Miss Ada Beatrice Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Craig of Mount Vernon, to William Van Tassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Van Tassell of Tarrytown, took place yesterday in Trinity Church, Mount Vernon. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. A. Tennyson Phillips. A reception followed at the Knolls.

Miss Vivian Craig, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Harry Craig, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were John Dinan of Mount Vernon and Fred Riegelman of Yonkers. The couple will reside in Mount Vernon.

Selznick—Mayer.

After the ceremony the couple left for New York, from where they will go to Europe for an extended honeymoon trip.

A Son to Mrs. Joseph John Keon.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph John Keon of 333 East Sixty-eighth Street yesterday at their country home in East Rockaway, L. I. Mrs. Keon is the former Miss Audrey Ryan. The child, their second, will be called for his father.

An international marriage took place yesterday afternoon in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church, when Miss Estelle Cardwell Neville, daughter of Mrs. George Wilder Neville and the late Mr. Neville, was married to Cyprian John Bridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. C. Bridge of Turville Park, Henley-on-Thames, England. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, the rector.

The bride was escorted by her uncle, Edwin Linscott Neville, and was given in marriage by her mother.

Miss Mary Gracia Neville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a Kate Greenaway frock of yellow chiffon with hat to correspond. The Misses Violet and Joan Bridge, sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother, 150 East Seventy-third Street.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. Bridge and his bride will live at 137 East Sixty-sixth Street. She is a granddaughter of the late John Cardwell of Austin, Texas, and a niece of Major Gen. Wendell Cushing Neville, commandant of the United States Marines, Washington, D. C., who was unable to be present at the marriage, owing to illness.

MISS FORHAN A COUNTESS.

Is Married to Count Enzo D'Urbinia of Italy in Paris.

PARIS, April 30 (AP).—Miss Ursula Forhan, daughter of R. J. Forhan, manufacturer of dental supplies, and Count Enzo Romagnoli d'Urbinia, son of the Attorney General for the Province of Bologna, Italy, were married here today.

The couple left this evening for Lake Como, Italy, to spend their honeymoon. In a few weeks they will make their home in Paris.

The marriage was extremely quiet, only a few close friends attending. The witness for the bride was Raymond Saulnier, and the witness for the bridegroom was Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, the sculptor.

The Countess and her first husband, Edwin Thomas Murphy, were divorced in September, 1929, in Paris. Mrs. Murphy had filed application for the dissolution two years previously.

The engagement was announced last night of Miss Elizabeth Evans Hughes, daughter of the Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, to William T. Gossett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gossett of Salt Lake City. The announcement was made rom the home of the Chief Justice at 1,020 Fifth Avenue.

Miss Hughes was recently graduated from Barnard College and was formerly a student at the Brearley School, New York City, and Miss Madeira's School in Washington.

Other Engagements

Robertson—Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sterling Robertson of the Barclay and Yeaman's Hall, Charleston, S. C., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Robertson, to Dr. Howard Alexander Patterson, son of Mrs. Andrew Patterson of Chapel Hill, N. C., and the late Dr. Patterson. Miss Robertson was graduated from Miss Hartridge's School in Plainfield, N. J., and later attended Smith College. During her sophomore year at college she was introduced to society at a supper dance at the Park Lane given by her parents.

Dr. Patterson is a member of the surgical staff of Roosevelt Hospital. He prepared at Choate School for college and was graduated from the University of North Carolina with the class of '21 and four years later from Harvard Medical School. He is a member of the Harvard Club. His father, the late Dr. Patterson, was dean of the School of Applied Science at the University of North Carolina. He is a grandson of the late Eben Alexander, one time United States Minister to Greece, Serbia and Rumania.

The announcement was made yesterday at a luncheon at the Barclay given by Miss Robertson and Miss Harriet Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Page of Bronxville, whose engagement to J. Graham Tewksbury was announced recently. The guests included Mrs. E. Perkins McGuire, Mrs. John W. Allen, Mrs. Joseph W. S. Davis, Mrs. Robert Buechner, Mrs. Sherrad Elliott, Mrs. William E. Riegel, Mrs. Howard O'Brien, Mrs. Alexander Robertson, Mrs. Northam L. Griggs, Mrs. Lyndon Burch, Mrs. Richard Magher, Mrs. Samuel H. Fisher, Mrs. Robert M. Busselle, Mrs. William G. Irons and the Misses Elizabeth Ackerman, Mary Davis, Katharine Lawrence, Margaret Bostwick, Martha Robertson, Kathleen O'Brien, Jane Evans, Claire McCardell, Eleanor Hoysradt, Dorothy Bugbee, Mary McDowell Smith, Gertrude Drummond, Eugenia Morris and Emma Thomas O'Neill of Charleston, S. C.

Munroe—Degener.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Munroe of 1,192 Park Avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Faustina Munroe, to John F. Degener 3d, son of John F. Degener Jr. of New York. The announcement was made at a dinner given last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Munroe.

Miss Munroe went to the Spence School and is a member of the Junior League. She was introduced to society in 1927. Mr. Degener is a grandson of Mrs. John F. Degener of Brick House, Bernardsville, N. J., and the late Mr. Degener, and also of Sir William and Lady Priestley of Bradford, England. He was graduated from Princeton in 1926 and is a member of the Princeton and Manhattan clubs.

The wedding will take place in June in New York.

Gibbs—Webber.

The Rev. Myles S. Hemenway of Portland, Me., has announced to friends here the engagement of his daughter, Mrs. Judith Hemenway Gibbs, to Stephen Webber, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Webber of Calais, Me. Mrs. Gibbs is the widow of Howard B. Gibbs. She was graduated from Bryn Mawr with the class of '18.

Mr. Webber attended Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The marriage will take place in the middle of June.

Low—Lage.

Mrs. William Whittemore Low of New Haven, Conn., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Charlotte Low, to William Potter Lage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederico Lage of 784 Park Avenue.

Miss Low attended Bryn Mawr and studied in Switzerland. Mr. Lage attended the Choate School in Wallingford, Conn., and is a member of the class of '30 at Harvard.

Duffy-Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Duffy of Wykagyl Gardens, New Rochelle, formerly of Pelham Manor, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margery Duffy, to John Dean Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Albert Thompson of White Plains, N. Y.

Miss Duffy is a member of the Junior League of New Rochelle. She attended the Institute of Musical Art in this city. Mr. Thompson attended the University of Pennsylvania.

No date has been set for the wedding.

THE HON. ANNE TYRRELL IS MARRIED IN PARIS

Wedding of Daughter of British Envoy to Adrian Holman Draws Brilliant Gathering.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 30.—For the first time in many years a wedding service for foreigners was performed today at Notre Dame, when the Hon. Anne Tyrrell, daughter of Lord Tyrrell of Avon, British Ambassador to France, became the bridge of Adrian Holman, second secretary of the British Embassy.

The entire nave of the Great Cathedral was filled with eminent officials and members of international society. Among the Americans were Ambassador Edge and many residents and visitors.

As the bridegroom is a Protestant, the ceremonies proper were performed in the sacristy by the Rev. Father MacDavy. The bridal party then passed to the choir, where a mass was celebrated by Mgr. Chapel.

On leaving the cathedral the bride made a pretty gesture, placing her great bouquet of flowers on the bronze tablet of Notre Dame dedicated to the British soldiers who died in the World War.

Following the services a wedding reception for more than 2,000 persons was held in the salons and Gardens of the British Embassy in the Faubourg St. Honoré.

MISS YSABEL CHASE TO WED SATURDAY

Her Marriage to H. McKim Hollins of New York to Take Place at Pebble Beach, Cal.

Special to The New York Times.

DEL MONTE, Cal., April 30.—Plans for the marriage of Miss Ysabel Chase, resident of the Pebble Beach colony, to H. McKim Hollins of New York, became known today when it was announced that the ceremony would be held at the Pebble Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hunt on Saturday. The couple applied for their license at the Monterey County Court House yesterday. Miss Chase gave her age as 35 and Mr. Hollins said he was 41.

Mr. Hollins, a Harvard graduate of 1911, is a brother of Miss Marion Hollins, well-known amateur golfer. Miss Chase is the daughter of Horace Blanchard Chase of San Mateo and is the granddaughter of of Lansing B. Mizner, former Minister to Guatemala.

Dr. Butler's Appeal in Germany for Faith in Peace Pact raised in an immortal appeal to the German people to rise to new heights, to seek new means of endeavor, to tread new paths toward national reconstruction, national greatness, national accomplishment.

"The appeal contained in those Reden is one of the masterpieces of modern eloquence, and by them and through them the name of Fichte is written by the side of those of Pericles and Isocrates and Demosthenes, of Cato and Cicero, of Bossuet and Mirabeau, of Milton and Burke and Fox, of Jefferson and Hamilton, and Webster and Lincoln, as that of one of the immortal voices of the human race in all that relates to the highest effort of men and nations.

Sought Building of Nation.

"Fichte well understood the fundamental difference between the nation and the State, and his searching and moving appeal was for the building of a German nation on spiritual and intellectual foundations so strong that they could not be moved.

"The effect of those addresses was quick and extraordinary. They had an immense popularity and exercised a prodigious influence. Not since Luther had any German voice been raised to speak so powerfully and so convincingly to the German people.

"Philosopher and patriot, Fichte insisted that all political differences, geographic divisions and economic antagonisms should yield before the new and unifying spirit of one German nation for the whole German people, able and willing to reflect and to express all that was best in that people's history and ideals. It is to Fichte as prophet and to Bismarck as constructive statesman that we trace the upbuilding of a truly German nation, and finally of a single federal government for that nation. In the case of the Italian people, there were similar happenings, as to which Mazzini played the part of Fichte and Cavour that of Bismarck.

"If the American and French Revolutions, with all that they meant and all that they effected, were the outstanding political events of the eighteenth century, surely the building of a German nation and of an Italian nation were the outstanding political events of the nineteenth century.

"As we contemplate these stupendous movements across the pages of history we are witnessing once more the power of ideas. The power of oratory and of statesmanship is an intangible.

"Given a nation conscious of itself, proud of its past, rich in power of every kind, abundant in contribution to letters, to the fine arts, to music, to philosophy and to education, eager in the advancement of scientific inquiry in harnessing new scientific truth, new scientific discovery, to the practical needs of men, what shall be its mode of life, what its measures for the greatest satisfaction and happiness of its people, what its relations with its neighbors and with all the world?

"We have learned to speak of races as the Teutonic, the Latin, the Slavic, the Mongolian and others. We see mankind separated into groups, again divided, regardless of their size or place, by differences of religious faith and worship.

"Where is to be found the guide to unity and peace through this labyrinth of diversity and conflict? Shall these diversities and conflicts be permitted to go their way unguided, unhampered, to a cataclysm that would mark civilization's end, and leave the planet Earth to the still cold death of a body that has played its part in the heavenly system and can no longer do more than revolve about its central point as a mere makeweight among the stars?

Unity Through Consultation Urged.

"Or, on the other hand, shall there be found a path to unity, to companionship, to confidence, to constant consultation, to association in high endeavor, to the end that the supreme human unity which underlies and conditions all human diversities may find its just and beneficent expression?

"The answer comes from a German voice and a German pen. It was the immortal essay of Immanuel Kant, 'Zum ewigen Frieden,' published at Koenigsberg in 1795, that pointed with simple directness to that path of progress upon which the civilized peoples of the world have only just now begun to tread.

"It is literally astounding to find how much of the wisest and best philosophy of modern life is set forth in this essay by Kant so many years ago. He lays down the principle that no treaty of peace shall be esteemed valid in which is tacitly reserved matter for future war. He insists that no State of whatever extent shall ever pass under the dominion of another State, since a State is a society of men over whom that State alone has a right to command and to dispose.

"'Standing armies (miles perpetuus)' says Kant, 'shall in time be totally abolished,' since, being ever ready for action, these armies incessantly menace other States and excite them to increase without end the number of armed men.' Who in this twentieth century has put better or more simply the evil and the danger of competitive armaments, whether on land or on sea?

"'No State shall by force interfere with the constitution of government of another State' is a principle stated by Kant which might almost be regarded as a forerunner of the Monroe Doctrine.

"Kant taught the very modern doctrine that it should be the citizens themselves who decide whether war shall be declared or not, thereby removing that power from monarchs or executives, from legislative bodies or from specially selected groups which might easily be swept by emotion, by passion or by ambition.

"Nor is the thought of Kant restricted to national policy alone.

"'The public right,' he continues, 'ought to be founded upon a federation of free States.'

Prophecy of League Seen.

"There, in a single sentence, is the prophecy of the League of Nations and the function of international law. A society of nations (civitas gentium), which would come to embrace all of the nations of the earth was the ideal of the great philosopher toward which our nations of today are steadily marching with increasing confidence and hope.

"This great German voice of 1795 speaks to the world of 1930 in tones of commanding leadership and highest practical sagacity. The voice of Immanuel Kant is an intangible.

"For ten years past the civilized world has been marching, now consciously, now unconsciously, toward the happy goal which Immanuel Kant so clearly saw and so clearly defined. In the League of Nations the era of consultation has found an organ of expression and in the pacts of Locarno the signatory powers have highly and finely resolved upon the peaceful settlement of their international differences, whether these be of long standing or have newly arisen. Finally, in the Pact of Paris the world has renounced war as an instrument of national policy, that policy which von Clausewitz defined as a policy which fights battles instead of writing notes.

Notes, Not War, Hereafter.

"Hereafter, we are to write notes, to confer together and to consult and to leave off fighting battles and preparing to fight battles. Those energies, those efforts and those vast expenditures which have heretofore gone into preparations for war and into the conduct of war are now to be turned toward multiplying the satisfactions and increasing the happiness of the great mass of the people in every land.

"Better schools and systems of education, better conditions of labor and larger remuneration for the wage-worker, better protection of the public health, better housing for the masses of the people, better roads and other means of communication, better libraries and museums, and, in general, a raising everywhere of the level of life and its conditions. The world is rich enough for all this if it keeps its pledged word to renounce war as an instrument of national policy. This moral obligation is an intangible.

"This twentieth century world abounds in problems that will tax the highest capacity of men to solve. Some of these are human problems, some are industrial problems, some are economic problems, some are financial problems, some political problems, some are religious problems.

"The point upon which to insist is that they can never be solved by hate, by conflict, or by force. These problems may be suppressed in one of those ways, but they cannot so be solved. If they are to be solved they must be solved in a spirit of kindly cooperation, of friendly association and of consultation with the fixed purpose of doing justice and establishing liberty among men. These are the true and lasting foundations of peace.

"Peace, it must never be forgotten, is itself not an ideal at all; it is a state attendant upon the achievement of an ideal. The ideal itself is human liberty, justice and the honorable conduct of an orderly and humane society. Given this, a durable peace follows naturally as a matter of course. Without this, there is no peace, but only a rule of force until liberty and justice revolt against it in search of peace. These are the fundamental facts never to be forgotten.

"There are various facts and happenings throughout the world which we must be prepared frankly to face. First, perhaps, is the very obvious fact that not all the organized groups of mankind are by any means on the same level of competence for self-government and for international responsibility.

Equality Called Visionary.

"To force upon such people, either by weight of numbers and greater capacity or in response to some visionary theory of the equality of men, the political and social institutions which are suitable and satisfactory for peoples that are so much further advanced and much more fully disciplined, is folly of the first order. Such peoples, through no fault of their own, are really to be treated as wards of those who are more advanced and better disciplined. As such they are under no circumstances to be exploited, to be treated as mere hewers of wood and drawers of water, but rather as children in the school of political and social understanding.

"The whole theory of mandates now being worked out through the League of Nations is a sound and useful theory, and, if generously and broadly interpreted and applied, will through coming generations aid those less advanced peoples to come forward and climb still higher on the ladder of political and social organization.

"Each of the more advanced and more powerful nations should have its part in applying this system of mandates if it desires so to do. There is room for Great Britain, there is room for France, there is room for Germany, there is room for Italy, there is room for Japan, in caring for and developing less advanced peoples in other parts of the globe.

Other Problems Cited.

"There are problems of religious controversy and there are problems of historic racial jealousies and antagonisms which must be resolved through the years with patience, with frankness, with open-mindedness and in a spirit of justice. Nothing is ever really settled until it is settled right. What is now before our world is to make sure that we do not attempt to settle right by force, by violence, by war, but that we attempt to settle them right by study, by conference, by consultation. All these are among the intangibles that rule the world.

"The peace of the world cannot rest with permanence upon any theory of domination by force, whether that domination be military or economic or racial or religious, for such domination is always a temptation to its disturbance and overthrow. Peace can only rest secure upon a liberal, enlightened and convinced public opinion. That public opinion, having itself brought about the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy, will now proceed to build for its own expression and for its own satisfaction institutions that will regulate and guide the contacts and relations of men organized in nations as a substitute for those suspicions and fears and displays which have been so common in years gone by. These institutions, it would seem safe to predict, will be of three kinds, each kind having a moral foundation and a moral purpose.

Intellectual Contact First.

"There will first be the intangible institution of intellectual international penetration, contact and association. Already large progress has been made toward this end. Science is international, and literature, though it always speaks with a nation's tongue, is increasingly international. Nowhere is Shakespeare more widely read, better understood, or more effectively presented on the stage, than in Germany. The speech of Goethe was German but his thought is familiar the world around.

"Music has a Russian, a Polish, a Scandinavian, a German, a French, an Italian, a Spanish or an English cast, but its charm and its power are not stopped by the boundaries of any nation. The richness and the fertility of intellectual and aesthetic diversity are multiplied many times by the power of what these have in common.

"All that belongs to the intangible.

"Then there are already building and well advanced the institutions, legal and semi-legal, that are to be the reliance of nations in settling peaceably and justly those differences of opinion and those clashes of interest which must, of course, arise among them and between them from time to time.

League Activities Cited.

"The Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations with their growing authority and their steadily increasing prestige, are the symbols of the art and habit of consultation face to face as a substitute for the writing of formal notes, the sending of ultimatums and the mobilization of armed force. Then there are the Permanent Court of Arbitration and the Permanent Court of International Justice. These are honorable and honored bodies, which stand before all the world as representative of the principle that disinterested justice and not might must determine which of two contestants is right and which is wrong.

"Individual nations and groups of nations have, in addition, provided by formal treaty for every sort of commission and tribunal of inquiry, of conciliation and of arbitration. In reply to him who cynically asks, 'To what are we to turn as a substitute for armed force?' we point to the League of Nations, to the Permanent Court of Arbitration and to the Permanent Court of International Justice, and we point to them not only with hope for the future but with pride for what they have already done.

Third Type Economic.

"The third type of institution which must come into existence to meet present-day necessities is economic. Man lives by labor, nations thrive by labor, and international relations may be made either more easy or more difficult according to the methods by which the fruits of labor are exchanged between one nation and another.

"The economic life of any nation, however immense and however rich, has already ceased to be national and independent and has long since become international and dependent. The meaning of this is that the international commerce of the world must be set increasingly free from narrow, petty, prejudiced restrictions and administrative hindrances in order that the population of any nation may most easily and most favorably exchange their own products for those which they wish to import.

"It is at this point that the significance of the principle of federation comes into view and that the experience of the United States of America has a lesson to teach to Europe. The stupendous economic development of the United States and the vast increase in its national wealth during the past two generations have been due to causes which may quickly and shortly be studied.

"First among these is the fact that by the terms of the Constitution of the United States itself, free and unrestricted trade prevails throughout the territory which that Constitution governs, which territory is so varied in climate and in soil and in product that it is a vast empire in itself. Had it been possible for the constituent States of the American Union to erect barriers against trade each with its neighbor, the people of the United States would today have been economically backward and relatively impoverished.

"That huge domestic trade, untaxed and untrammeled, is the foundation of American prosperity. The protective tariff policy which owes its origin to the philosophic teachings of Alexander Hamilton and to men cast in the mold of Henry Clay and Abraham Lincoln and James G. Blaine and William McKinley was never intended to destroy or unduly hamper international trade, but merely to give the United States that measure of economic sufficiency and independence that a nation so placed ought to have, and to make sure that the diversification of industry and the rewards of labor were such as to strengthen the foundations of the social and political order.

Denies True Protection Is Ban.

"The true tariff for protection, however, is in no sense a tariff for prohibition. It is not a tariff to destroy international trade or to make impossible the settlement of international balances by shipment of goods, but it is a tariff simply to guard the fundamentals which have just been named. To depart from those principles and to attempt to erect a tariff wall about the United States would be to attack the policy of protection in its citadel and to substitute for it a policy of commercial prohibition which must surely do grave damage to the people of the United States themselves.

"There are signs, not yet clear or wholly convincing, but yet signs, that the British commonwealth of nations with its world-wide population, and its vast variety of climates and soil and product, will in its own way and at its own time construct an economic institution of its own which will, mutatis mutandis, reflect and apply to that commonwealth of nations the conditions and principles which have done so much for the United States of America.

Asks of Economic Union.

"What of Europe? Has not the time come when the next long step forward in promoting national satisfaction and international comfort is the building of an economic United States of Europe which shall do for those teeming and highly civilized populations what has already been done on the other side of the Atlantic? There are national differences, distinctions and opportunities to be protected, and there are international opportunities to be seized and developed.

"Fortunate it is that the constructive statesmanship of Europe has fixed its mind on the solution of this problem. The deeply lamented and sincerely mourned Dr. Stresemann understood it all and was ready to be a leader in marching toward the new goal. We have a Briand in France, a Masaryk and a Benes in Czechoslovakia and others of large outlook and fine imagination who are animated by the same spirit. It cannot be long before this splendid ideal, the attainment of which would mean so much for the economic prosperity and satisfaction of the peoples affected by it, will find its way to shape the policies of governments. This ideal is one of the intangibles that rule the world.

"But what, we are asked, is to become of all those splendid institutions if some nation signatory to the Pact of Paris breaks its pledged word and begins hostilities against its neighbor? What then is to punish the offender and to protect those against whom the offense is committed?

Counts on Public Opinion.

"The answer is quick and simple, public opinion, than which nothing is more powerful when it rises to heights of condemnation. How will public opinion act, how will it express itself? Precisely as society acts and expresses itself toward the liar, toward him who is guilty of a mean and despicable act, and no condemnation can be more severe or more conclusive.

"There are two different ways in which any great question which involves national pride and national interest may be approached. One is in a spirit of confidence and good feeling and hope. The other is in a spirit of suspicion and jealousy and fear. Both are intangibles and the contest for the government of the world and for the heart of mankind is between these.

"In any case, it will be an intangible that will rule the world, and it is for public opinion to determine whether the choice shall be of an intangible which is lofty and fine and noble and helpful to all mankind, or whether it shall be an intangible that is low and mean and jealous and selfish and grasping.

"Today the world stands at the crossroads and must quickly choose the road which it will travel toward one or the other of these two intangibles. Which way shall the German people turn? May not one who has drunk deep and long at the well of their scholarship, their learning, their literature and their science answer that the German people, mindful of the great sign-posts which guide and represent them in their Lesser and Herder, in their Goethe and Schiller, in their Hegel and Schleiermacher, will answer in the spirit of the eloquent voice of Fichte and in that of the calm and constructive philosophy of Immanuel Kant,

"'German heart, do not dismay,
But thy conscience's voice obey.'"

Vance Checks Giants as Robins Sweep Series; Yankees End Senators' Streak

ROBINS ROUT GIANTS AND SWEEP SERIES

Vance Dazzles McGraw's Forces While His Mates Maintain Their Hitting Stride.

HERMAN AGAIN HITS HOMER

Flowers Helps Attack With Three Safeties—Hubbell Batted Off Mound in Third Inning.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Something seems to have thrown the Giant machinery into reverse and there is a sneaking suspicion afoot that those artless Dodgers are at the bottom of it. At all events, it is correct that the Robins were in front of the Giants all of yesterday as they trounced John McGraw's legion, 9 to 4, to sweep the three-game series at the Polo Grounds.

This third successive defeat for the Giants, after their magnificent seven-game spurt, with which they opened the season, sent away more than half of a crowd of 15,000 thoroughly nonplused, while a minority delegation filed out in a mild delirium as it sought by various routes to find its way back to Brooklyn.

Dazzled by the pitching of Dazzy Vance and bewildered by the inept pitching of their own flingers, the Giants spent anything but a pleasant afternoon. A homer by Pat Crawford with one on base saved them from a shut-out in the seventh and a misplay by the Dazzler himself helped them to two more in the ninth, but long before that the Robins had battered Carl Hubbell for enough runs to slide in backwards.

There was another Babe Herman homer, his fourth of the season. Jake Flowers collected three hits and in more ways than one did the Dodgers turn everything topsy-turvy at the Polo Grounds.

Having become fully aware of the beneficial results to be derived from laying an opponent out with the first punch, the Robins opened a broadside on Hubbell in the opening round that fairly knocked the wind out of that young man before he had a chance to draw breath.

Herman's Double Is Timely.

Nor did Carl do much to help his own cause, for he walked two and hit another and when the Dodgers surrounded these gifts with a trio of hits it resulted in four runs. One of these blows was a double by Herman that caromed gayly off the first base bag and another was a scorching single by Flowers with the bases full. The once fragile Jake is just about slaughtering the ball these days.

Came another Dodger outburst in the third in which singles by Bressler, Bissonette, Flowers and Deberry added two more runs to the Brooklyn total. This marked the end of Hubbell, but not the Dodger activities, for in the fourth Ray Lucas, falling heir to Hubbell's misfortunes, pitched four bad balls to Gilbert and just one bad one to Herman. The latter, taking a free and easy wind-up that began somewhere behind his left ear, slapped the ball on a line into the lower right field stand.

Lucas did pretty well after that until the eighth, when he filled the bases on passes and saw Herman push one of these home with an extraordinarily long fly. A most extraordinary fellow is this Herman.

And all the while the Giants were getting nowhere against Vance until the seventh, when a pass to Ott was followed by Crawford's homer into the upper right tier. It was Pat's third hit, but none of the other Giants hit the Dazzler like that. It took two Dodger misplays to give the Giants their final two tallies in the ninth.

Lucky Break for Robins.

Herman had more than his share of luck on his double in the first inning, which was nothing more than a simple bounder down the first base line. But just as Terry got himself set to scoop up the ball it struck the bag and bounded right over William's head.

Less fortunate, however, was the Flatbush Babe in the second when he slammed an honest-to-goodness low liner to left only to see Leach tear in for a headlong catch which resulted in Frederick being doubled off second.

TIGERS ARE OUTHIT, BUT BEAT WHITE SOX

DETROIT, April 30 (AP).—Although outhit, thirteen to eight, the Tigers managed today to break their losing streak and take the third and concluding game of a series with the White Sox by a score of 6 to 4.

Elon Hogsett pitched the limit for the Tigers, while Donnie Bush was forced to send four men to the mound—Blankenship, Caraway, McKain and Walsh.

Bill Cissell played a big part in the Sox offensive, getting three hits in four times at bat, each hit driving in a run. Dale Alexander and Harry Rice each batted in two runs for the Tigers.

YANKS WIN AND END SENATORS' STREAK

Pipgras Administers Shut-Out, Yielding Only Five Hits to League Leaders.

NEW YORK BATS ARE ACTIVE

Victors, Away to Early Lead, Helped by Koenig's Double and Single by Ruth.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Summary action by George Pipgras marked finis to the celebrated Washington winning streak of eight today and to his own team's string of three defeats. Pipgras whitewashed the Senators with five hits, 9 to 0.

Pipgras, when his mates had staked him to a three-run lead in the first inning, held the league leaders helpless. He went to unusual care to avoid the base running exertions which upset Zachary's program yesterday. In the seventh and again in the eighth Pipgras whaled a long drive to left centre. In each case he was content to stop at first base, although in the eighth his drive rolled to the bleachers wall and scored Hubbles Hargrave all the way from first.

The Washington pitcher who went down the the seventh stroke to the audible grief of 10,000 beholders was young Lloyd Brown, the sturdy little left-hander who beat the Yanks on their first visit here. Brown was outpitched by Pipgras [illegible] extent the score indicates.

In the first inning Ruel ran after Combs's tap behind the plate and made two grabs at the ball, putting Combs on base. Then Koenig and Ruth, the loudest swingers in the Yankee arsenal this series, obliged with a double and a single, respectively, the Babe's one-bagger sending two runs home. Before the inning closed Chapman sent Ruth in with a single.

Yanks Checked Till Eighth.

These three hits were all the Yanks could make off Brown until the seventh. Their two singles in the seventh availed nothing. The eighth, which landed them [illegible] runs, was featured by one of the wildest throws on record. The Yanks already had two run in on singles by Ruth and Lazzeri, with Gehrig's pass between them. Then Byrd's grounder retired Gehrig and set the stage for Benny Tate's cross-country throw.

Brown bounced a high one in front of the plate. Tate blocked the ball and pounced on it. Byrd set out for second and Lazzeri stopped halfway because Lazzeri, on second, had not moved toward third. Tate came out in the diamond brandishing the ball ready to throw out Byrd as soon as Byrd decided which base he was going to try for.

But Lazzeri made a break for third, turning quickly and heading back for second as Tate moved toward third. Tate let fly the ball, aiming it at second base, but hit it yards too high. Tate's throw had such power that the ball rolled nearly to the flagpole in deep centre. Byrd scored behind Lazzeri, sprinting all the way around the loop from first base. Then came hard singles by Chapman, Hargrave and Pipgras, the pitcher's single rolling to the bleachers and scoring the inning's last two runs. Lefty Burke replaced Brown and retired the side.

In the ninth Ruth beat out a bunt for his third hit, [illegible] followed by Byrd's sacrifice fly.

Pipgras Masters Goslin.

The first four men in Washington's batting order did all the hitting. Pipgras blotted out the rest of them and also mastered Goslin on the two occasions when Goose came up with men on bases.

Rice captured Ruth's long liner to right centre with one hand while galloping toward the fence in the sixth. It would have made four hits in the Babe's bag.

STRIPP'S BAT WINS FOR REDS IN NINTH

Playing First Full Game This Season, He Triples to Drive in Deciding Run.

CINCINNATI, April 30 (AP).—Heavy hitting by Joe Stripp, playing his first full game of the season, today earned the Reds a 4-to-3 decision over the Cardinals.

Stripp tripled in the final inning and drove in Meusel with the winning run. Previously Stripp had doubled in the fourth inning, during which the Reds scored twice. Red Lucas won his first game of the year. He had perfect control. Sylvester Johnson, losing twirler, likewise did not pass a batter.

BROWNS ARE BEATEN BY INDIANS' ROOKIE

Bow to Clint Brown as He Pitches His 3d Straight Victory—Hodapp Hurt in Game.

ST. LOUIS, April 30 (AP).—Clint Brown, a rookie from New Orleans, won his third straight game today when the Indians defeated the Browns, 6 to 3. The victory gave Cleveland three straight for the series. The Indians drove Crowder from the mound in the third inning with an attack that netted three runs.

Although suffering from a high fever, Joe Sewell, Cleveland third baseman, batted in the first inning and ran his string of consecutive games to 1,102. Sewell was then retired, Burnett taking his place. Johnny Hodapp, Cleveland second baseman, was struck in the head in the ninth by a ball pitched by Coffman. He had to be assisted from the field.

THORMAHLEN HALTS LATE NEWARK RALLY

Montreal Hurler Fills Bases Twice in 8th, but Escapes With a Victory.

Opening a series of five games in Newark, Montreal gained a 3-to-2 victory yesterday. The run that gave the Royals a victory came in the seventh. Newark's rally of 1 run each in the seventh and eighth fell short.

Herb Thormahlen pitched the entire game for the Canadians and escaped with only 1 run in the eighth session after having filled the bases twice.

WILSON GETS LONG HOMER

Drive Clears the Left Field Wall by 25 Feet—English Also Connects for Circuit.

CHICAGO, April 30 (AP).—Pat Malone gave the Pirates only seven hits today to win his game for Chicago, 5 to 2.

Percy Lee Jones, an ex-Cub, did well on the mound, but was hit in the pinches. English and Wilson hit homers, the latter's going twenty-five feet over the left field wall. It was Malone's third victory in four starts.

PHILS ARE BEATEN BY BRAVES' ATTACK

Gowdy Catches for Victors, Who Bunch Runs in First Four Innings.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30 (AP).—Hammering Sweetland and Willoughby for eight runs in the first four innings, the Braves defeated the Phillies, 9-3, today in the closing game of the series.

Brandt hurled for the Braves and was effective. Outside of Klein's homer in the fourth he did not allow a local player to reach third base until two were out in the ninth. Then the Shotten men put together their final two runs. Klein's homer was his fourth of the season.

Hank Gowdy was behind the bat for the McKechnie men and aided in the splendid work of Brandt.

RESOLUTE TO TEST ENTERPRISE SOON

America's Cup Yacht Will Go to Newport Next Week for Informal Races.

WILL SAIL AGAIN TODAY

Launching of Whirlwind Set for Next Wednesday—Yankee to Go Over on May 10.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Enterprise, the America's Cup yacht, which has had her rigging and sail-stretching tests at the westerly end of the Sound, will be taken to Newport next week and tried out racing with the old cup defender Resolute. The latter is now being commissioned at the Herreshoff yard in Bristol, R. I., and as soon as she is rigged she will be taken down Narragansett Bay to Newport to join Enterprise. On the days the weather is favorable the two will move out to Brenton Reef lightship and match their speed in Block Island Sound, just inside the courses selected for the international races in September.

It is hoped that Enterprise and Resolute, which will act as her trial horse, will be able to get in a number of informal contests. They have been arranged to give the crew of Enterprise real racing experience with her, as well as to get a line on the new cup boat's speed. After these brushes both yachts will be brought through Long Island Sound for the races of the New York Yacht Club off Glen Cove on June 11 and 12.

Will Go to Glen Cove.

Enterprise will be taken out again this morning for another test, and will go to Glen Cove for the week-end. She will anchor inside the breakwater there nights until she heads for Newport. She may have one or two spins from Glen Cove.

Enterprise did not go out yesterday, and when the southeast wind threatened showers her mainsail was hurriedly unbent and stowed away below deck to keep it dry. The mainsails of the boats, running on tracks along the mast and the boom, can be put on and taken off about as easily as handling a pair of gloves. The headsails are stowed below all the time in port.

Vanitie, the old cup yacht that lost the last defense honor to Resolute, was put overboard at City Island and berthed to a pier at the Robert Jacob shipyard at right angles to Enterprise, and with her stern at the new boat's bow, where it probably will be when they meet racing.

While it is conceded that Vanitie probably will outfoot the new boats, being of much lighter construction, Enterprise has shown so well that her supporters believe she would have a good chance of beating the old boat in a good stiff breeze.

Whirlwind Owners Set Date.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 30.—Landon K. Thorne and Paul Hammond, managing owners of the New York-owned and Boston-built America's Cup yacht Whirlwind, today gave their consent to the George Lawley & Son Corp., at Neponset, for their boat to be launched next Wednesday.

The Whirlwind will still be lacking a couple of coats of paint, but she will clear the building shed for the Boston sloop Yankee, which probably will make her initial plunge three days later, on May 10. The launching of the Weetamoe, at Bristol, R. I., has been scheduled for Thursday of next week.

In order to take advantage of a not particularly high tide, the splash of the Whirlwind has been set for 7 A. M., Daylight Saving Time, from practically the same ways on which the Vanitie slipped into the placid Neponset sixteen years ago.

Mrs. Thorne Likely Sponsor.

It is understood that Mrs. Phebe Thorne, mother of the principal owner of Whirlwind, whose ancestor owned the clipper ship for which the Cup boat is named, will be the sponsor for the yacht.

Superintendent Oxner of the Lawley yard believes that he can shift the launching ways to the Yankee in a couple of days, and have everything greased for her plunge at 10 A. M. on Saturday.

As the masts of neither the Yankee nor the Whirlwind are finished, it is hardly likely that those boats will have a chance to try out their canvas before the third week in May.

In the meantime the Whirlwind will have to be hauled out on the railroad at Lawley's to complete her painting.

WILLIAMS DOWNS M. A. C.

Wins Loosely Played Contest by a Score of 8 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., April 30.—Williams defeated M. A. C., 8—3, today. The contest was loosely played by both teams but the Purple hit the ball more opportunely than its opponent. Bright hurled well for the victors but received ragged support. Thoms and Foehl starred with the bat.

ROSENBLOOM WINS; OUTPOINTS JOHNSON

TAKES 7 OF THE 10 ROUNDS

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Larry Johnson of Chicago had his chance to crash through to light-heavyweight championship consideration last night, but, like so many before him, failed before the obstacle presented by Maxie Rosenbloom of Harlem.

They clashed in Madison Square Garden before some 15,000 fight fans for the benefit of the New York Chapter Knights of Columbus Charity Fund, and after ten rounds of characteristic Rosenbloom fighting and more than the average amount of reckless determination on the part of Johnson Referee Jim Crowley and Judges Charles F. Mathison and Joe Agnello voted unanimously for a decision to Rosenbloom.

There was no other course open to them. Rosenbloom, slapping and cuffing and slashing at his foe as he bounded in and about Johnson, treated the latter to a lesson in the art of slapping without being slapped. And at this Rosenbloom is a past master, to which statement Johnson probably will bear witness this morning.

Battle Bitterly Waged.

Rosenbloom won seven of the rounds beyond question in a battle that was cleanly waged and bitterly, desperately at times, fought. Johnson won two sessions, the fourth and the eighth, and he held Rosenbloom even in the ninth, not a sufficient margin by any means to counteract the margin of points accumulated by the Harlem fighter.

Yet the crowd received the decision with a mingled demonstration of dissention and approbation. The majority cheered, but a powerful minority made its disagreement audible in a volcanic outburst. There was no reason but sentiment for disagreement with the award, however, for Rosenbloom won cleanly.

It was announced that the paid attendance was 14,325, and the gross receipts amounted to $52,132. This aggregate is expected to give the K. of C. Charity Fund a sizable profit.

Rosenbloom won because of his slashing style. He made this method effective against an orthodox foe who, like so many before him, underwent the unwelcome experience of having Rosenbloom swarm all over him.

In the fourth round Johnson fought with a desperation which was successful for the round. But he could not maintain that style and it was not until the eighth that the Chicagoan again got going with a similar amount of desperation and reckless fighting.

Through his victory Rosenbloom insured a match for himself against Jimmy Slattery, which is scheduled for Buffalo in June. The State Athletic Commission recognizes Slattery as champion.

In last night's contest Rosenbloom weighed 172¾ pounds and Johnson 175.

Indrisano Gets Decision.

Johnny Indrisano, Boston welterweight, scored an impressive victory over Freddy Fitzgerald, Cleveland, in the ten-round semi-final which followed the main bout in the ring. Indrisano outpunched and outfought a sturdy rival. The Boston boxer weighed 149½ pounds and Fitzgerald 144½.

Bob Olin, Brownsville light heavyweight, won on a foul over Roy Wallace, Indianapolis lad, in the eighth round of the first bout scheduled for ten rounds. Referee Tommy Sheridan disqualified Wallace for an erratic left hook aimed at the body after 2 minutes 35 seconds of the eighth session.

The disqualification did not please the crowd. The fans let forth a deafening outburst of disapproval and emphasized this disagreement by cheering Wallace to the echo as he left the ring while they booed and jeered Olin. Referee Sheridan, however, acted only after Judge Tommy Shortell, sitting in a position to see the final blow, notified the arbiter the punch was foul in his opinion.

Earlier in the round Wallace had accidentally struck a low left. It was not an exciting battle although it was hard-fought. And, at the time the interruption came, there was little to choose between them. Olin weighed 174½ pounds and Wallace 167½ pounds.

Creedon Gains a Draw.

Paddy Creedon, Union City, N. J., middleweight, fought a draw with Al Palladino of the Bronx in their six-round bout. Creedon weighed 150¼ pounds and Palladino 151½ pounds.

In the opening battle of four rounds Vic Morosco, Bronx lightweight, made an impression on the early crowd with his victory over Joey Velarde, Mexican. Morosco won the decision after an interesting bout. Morosco weighed 130½ pounds and Velarde 128½ pounds.

GRIFFITHS OUTPOINTS GAGNON IN CHICAGO

Turns Tables on His Knockout Conqueror Before Crowd of 20,550 Fans.

CHICAGO, April 30 (AP).—Tuffy Griffiths defeated Jack Gagnon, his knockout conqueror of a month ago, in their ten-round bout in the Chicago Stadium tonight. The match was witnessed by a capacity crowd of 20,550 with receipts of $73,684. Griffiths outboxed the Boston giant.

Stribling Is Matched to Box Scott in London on June 10

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—Willie Stribling, American heavyweight, was matched today to box Phil Scott, English champion, in London June 10.

The match between Scott and Stribling has been in the making for several weeks. Following Scott's defeat by Jack Sharkey in Miami last Winter, Stribling was sought as an opponent for Scott.

CARNERA'S LICENSE REVOKED BY BOARD

Ban Set in New York as Result of Venetian's Contest With Chevalier on Coast.

The revocation of the licenses of Primo Carnera, Venetian giant, and his associates in this country was announced yesterday by the State Athletic Commission. The action was taken in concurrence with that of California's State Athletic Commission as an aftermath of Carnera's match on April 14 against Leo Chevalier, and followed reading of the transcript of testimony taken in California's investigation.

Carnera's license was revoked along with those of Leon See, his manager; Bill Duffy, his American adviser; Walter Friedman, another local associate in Carnera's management, and Frank Churchill, who, Chairman James A. Farley announced, is recognized as Carnera's Western representative. In addition the commission made ineligible for licenses in this State Tim McGrath, manager of Chevalier; Bob Perry and Bob Laga, who were associated with Chevalier in his bout against Carnera.

The action as concerns Carnera permanently bars the Venetian in local boxing circles, Chairman Farley said. In connection with the other licensees whose permits were revoked the effect will be similar. Revocation of Churchill's license provides more stern punishment than was taken by the California authorities, who suspended Churchill indefinitely.

The commission, invoking its recently adopted ruling providing graded punishment for offenders against the prohibition of fouls, suspended My Latham, George Kane and Arturo Schackles, boxers, each for sixty days, as first offenders. Mack Zenna and Joe Lamonica, boxers, were suspended for failing to appear when summoned, and Basanto Singh, wrestler, was reinstated.

England Likely to Bar Carnera.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, England, April 30.—As the British Boxing Control Board has a working agreement with the New York commission whereby each recognizes the other's rulings, it is anticipated that Primo Carnera will be banned in England, too.

ROCKMAN IS BEATEN BY MICKEY DOYLE

Weakens in Last Two Rounds and Loses Decision in Feature at Lenox Sports Club.

Mickey Doyle of the east side made a strong closing rally to defeat Al Rockman of Williamsburg in the feature four-round bout on the new talent card at the New Lenox Sports Club last night.

A crowd of 1,500 persons witnessed the bout and saw the resourceful Doyle wage a hard battle at close quarters to turn back his clever rival. Rockman scored in the first two rounds, but weakened toward the end and could not cope with Doyle's heavy offensive. The winner scaled 126½ pounds and his opponent 129.

Allen Gibbs of Harlem pounded his way to a victory over Harry Matinsky, Bronx, in the semi-final. The Harlem battler forced the fighting throughout and survived a knockdown in the second chapter to come through with the victory. Gibbs weighed 146 and Matinsky five pounds less.

Andy Hudson of the Bronx evened the score with Johnny Basil of Harlem by knocking the latter out in one round. Two weeks ago Basil scored a two-round knockout over Hudson, but he was easily outclassed by the Bronx entry last night. Hudson ended the battle with a stiff left hook to the body. The weights were 157½ for the winner and 154 for his rival.

Mickey Marino, 158½, scored a knockout over Joe Goldstein, 159, Harlem. Marino stopped his rival in 45 seconds of the second round with a series of rights to the head.

MISS SINGER AGAIN LEADS IN MET. GOLF

Scores 82 to Record the Low Gross on 2d Day of Tourney at the Seaview Club.

MRS. RACHLIN HAS LOW NET

Miss Singer Now Leads Her Nearest Rival by Ten Strokes in Three-Day Event.

Special to The New York Times.

ABSECON, N. J., April 30.—Miss Catherine Singer, representing the home course, again topped the field with a low gross of 82 today, while Mrs. A. H. Rachlin of Mount Ridge finished with the low net in the second eighteen holes of the three-day tournament which formally started the 1930 Women's Metropolitan Golf Association campaign on the Seaview Golf Club links.

Miss Singer was out in 46, but returned in 36. This gross was one stroke above that turned in by her yesterday and gave her a total of 163 for the thirty-six holes, or ten strokes better than her nearest rival, Mrs. J. L. Anderson of Cherry Valley.

Miss Rachlin handed in a gross card of 87 and, with her twelve strokes deducted, had the low net of 75. She improved her game over the day before, which found her ending up with 96—12—84.

Mrs. R. K. Porter of Shackamaxon was runner-up for low net today with a 76. She went around in 98 and had a 22 handicap. Mrs. E. N. Kammer took third low net with 77.

Miss Singer, after having her outward journey marred by three spotty sixes, played the homeward nine in splendid fashion. Her card follows:

Out ......5 5 5 6 5 5 3 6 6—46
In ......4 3 4 4 5 4 3 4 5—36—82

Mrs. Anderson, besides being runner-up for the thirty-six holes with an aggregate of 173, finished second to Miss Singer in today's gross with an 84. She required forty-five for the first nine and turned in a 39. Her score:

Out ......6 6 5 6 4 4 4 4 6—45
In ......4 4 3 5 6 4 5 3 5—39—84

Mrs. F. T. Burrows, Engineers; Mrs. P. G. Stevenson, Piping Rock, and Mrs. Rachlin finished deadlocked for third low gross, each with an 87.

LAWRENCEVILLE NINE WINS.

Captures Extra-Inning Game From Plainfield by 8 to 7.

Special to The New York Times.

LAWRENCEVILLE, N. J., April 30.—The Lawrenceville School baseball team defeated Plainfield High School in a ten-inning game today by a score of 8 to 7. The winners forced the contest into the extra frame by a one-run rally in the last of the ninth.

Bruins' Pitcher Allows Only Five Hits in 5-3 Victory—Harris, Moulton Star at Bat.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 30.—Brown University's baseball team won its third straight game today, defeating Colby 5 to 3. The Bears played ragged ball behind Sondheim, who allowed Colby only five hits. Three of these, including a double by Ferguson, aided by an error by Crane, gave the Maine team all its runs in the sixth inning.

Brown bunched six of its nine hits off Waite in the first, fifth and seventh innings for its five runs. The hitting of Harris and Moulton of Brown featured.

A suit isn't a golf suit just because it has four pieces

A 3-piece business suit plus a pair of knickers does not make a golf suit. A golf suit, to be worthy the name, should be designed with a thorough knowledge of golf and of athletic clothing.

Spalding has that knowledge! And from it, Spalding has designed the finest, most authentic 4-piece Golf Suit in town.

It's full of athletic touches—touches that give freedom and comfort you've never known in a golf suit. And it's styled so smartly that it doesn't feel out of place in even the most awe-inspiring office.

Present size or new size the Toughest Golf Ball in the world

Here are the two present size balls that showed up best in tests on the murderous Guillotine. On the left is the Kro-Flite, the toughest ball in the world. On the right is the next most durable ball of the few balls that can compare with the Kro-Flite in distance.

THE GUILLOTINE is the laboratory equivalent of the worst shot that any golfer ever made. It is a heavily weighted steel knife that drops on a golf ball, hitting it exactly as a clubhead does on a viciously topped iron shot.

Recently, all the new size golf balls that are anywhere near the Kro-Flite in distance, were put to the Guillotine. There were a lot of reputed "tough guys" in the group.

But of them all, the Kro-Flite alone was able to stand up under the Guillotine. Most of the others were completely ruined—slashed right through to the rubber winding.

But the Kro-Flite came through with nothing more than a barely-perceptible dent. Even after this terrific abuse, it was unhurt—perfectly playable—ready for a long life and a merry one of far flung, straight-flying drives and steady, straight-rolling putts!

And this is no new honor for the Kro-Flite. In hundreds of Guillotine tests—in the present size, and now in the new size—the Kro-Flite has always carried off first honors.

Kro-Flite has distance, too

In recent Driving Machine Tests at Chicopee, Mass.; Putney, England, and Pinehurst, N. C.; —with every ball that is made in the new size—the Kro-Flite once again proved that it is one of the longest golf balls made.

For in these tests the Kro-Flite fell but a trifling distance behind its famous brother, the Spalding Ball. And this Spalding Ball, this mighty Ball of the Champions, is recognized by golf's greatest as the longest ball the game has ever known.

This season play either size—and in either size play the only ball that combines first-grade distance with maximum durability—play the Kro-Flite.

Your Professional, or the Spalding Store at 518 Fifth Ave., 105 Nassau Street, 28 New Street, 589 Broad Street (in Newark), can supply you. Present size or new size . . . dimple or mesh . . . plain white or Spalding Multidot Marking.

U. S. Team, Led by Bobby Jones, Departs for Walker Cup Matches in England

WALKER CUP TEAM OFF FOR ENGLAND

Jones Optimistic as He Leads U. S. Stars, Sailing on Mauretania, on Golf Invasion.

ALL GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

America's Walker Cup team, admittedly one of the strongest ever assembled, is now en route to England where, less than two weeks hence, it will defend the trophy donated by George H. Walker, president of the U. S. G. A. in 1920, to promote international golf friendship between the United States and England.

The players, led by Bobby Jones, the world's outstanding golfer, and officially chaperoned by John G. Jackson, general counsel for the association, left yesterday on the Cunarder Mauretania, a liner famous for the noted golfers it has carted back and forth across the sea.

The departure was most democratic. Only a small handful of friends and well-wishers were on hand to bid them bon voyage and to wave them good-bye when the big liner backed out into the river to turn its prow oceanward.

They were all on board, but scattered in little knots here and there, each with his own coteric of friends, and no attempt was made to count noses or call the roll.

Formal Luncheon Is Held.

The only formal send-off was a luncheon at the Engineers' Club yesterday at which Findlay S. Douglas, president of the U. S. G. A., acted as host to the team and a few friends. Present at the affair were Jones, Harrison R. Johnston, Francis Ouimet, Dr. Willing, Don Moe, Roland Mackenzie, George Voigt and George Von Elm, members of the team; J. F. Byers and W. C. Fownes Jr., former presidents of the association; John A. Ladds, president of the M. G. A.; Stacey Bender, Jess Sweetser, Ganson Depew, Jackson and Frank Craven.

Captain Jones had little to say beyond the fact that he believed the American team to be a strong one; that he hoped to retain the cup which, by the way, has never been won by England, and that the British team would provide unusually strong opposition. He declared that the only match in which the team would play as a unit was one with a combination Oxford-Cambridge team.

Most of the players seemed to be of the opinion that the ocean voyage would be just the tonic they need and that they relish the opportunity it will give them to get away from golf and golf courses for the greater part of a week at least.

Over-Golfed, Johnston Asserts.

Many of them felt as Jimmy Johnston, the amateur champion, did, namely, that they were over, rather than under-golfed, and that a rest would do them good.

"When I got out to the National Links last week-end, I realized that I was over-golfed," said Johnston. "Knowing that the matches were in prospect, I got out earlier than ever this Spring and spent more time on the links than I have ever done before. The result was that I didn't feel the keenness that I have felt in other years and its absence was impressed upon me when I got down to the National Links. However, with a week's time for practice abroad everything should be all right by the time we tee off in the foursomes at Sandwich."

Besides those already mentioned the party sailing included Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Von Elm and Mrs. Jackson, A. L. Lewis of Toronto, father-in-law of Jess Sweetser, and his son, Charles Lewis; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hurt, Mrs. James D. Cross and O. B. Keeler of Atlanta; W. Leonard Shearer Jr. of Boston, H. G. Salsinger of Detroit and Frank B. Barrett of New York.

Also on board was Leo Diegel, the P. G. A. champion who has designs on the British open championship, a title at which Jones and Horton Smith are also casting covetous eyes. Upon his return last year, Leo complained that he could not get a putter that suited either him or the conditions. Profiting by that experience he took abroad this time perhaps the greatest collection of putting implements ever assembled by one individual. All that remains now is to select the right one.

Ouimet Veteran of Team.

The veteran of the team was Ouimet, who has had a hand in all five of the matches played thus far. His is a sparkling record, for he has won three singles matches and halved another and, with Guilford, Sweetser and Johnston as a partner, won three foursome matches. Only once was he on the losing end in both the singles and doubles, that being at St. Andrews in 1926, when Wethered defeated him 5 and 4 and when Wethered and Holderness defeated him and Guilford by a similar score.

GOLF TEAMS MEET IN BRITAIN TODAY

INVADERS IN LAST DRILL

Throng of Camera Men Hampers Morning Play—Keen Greens and Wind Puzzling.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 30.—There were more persons at the Sunningdale golf course today to see the clothes worn by members of Miss Glenna Collett's team than to compare their style of play with that of the English girls whom the United States players will meet in an unofficial international match tomorrow.

The mystery tonight is how the delicate shades of heather and green of Sunningdale were transmitted to America to enable these particularly thorough young women from across the Atlantic to make such a perfect blend before they sailed.

If tomorrow's match were to be a dress parade, the American girls would win by the length of Fifth Avenue. A burst of sunshine brought out new brilliant berets from Buffalo and orange socks from Oshkosh, while the chill wind of the afternoon brought out something new in leather jackets too. Blue was apparently the favorite dress color of the Americans—bright blue blouses with socks and bead necklaces to match.

The color scheme also ran to the peg tees, which, of course, had to blend because most of the American girls carried them in their hatbands. Mrs. O. S. Hill's hatband, in fact, looked like a bandolier filled with cartridges.

With this galaxy of fashion invading the course, the English girls were left standing behind the backs of an army of photographers and film operators. No matter where the American girls stray off the fairways tomorrow there is no chance of them looking out of place.

Miss Helen Hicks gave a demonstration of her hitting powers today. She reached the green on the third hole—292 yards from the tee. Against the wind at the short uphill fourth, Miss Hicks hit an iron shot 150 yards and got her 2.

Compston Discusses Match.

Archie Compston started a controversy tonight by expressing the belief English women golfers have more grit than the amateurs among the men and some day would win competitions on level terms.

"There is no fear the English girls will fail to put up a good show against the United States team at Sunningdale tomorrow," says Compston, "because they have more grit than the men amateurs, who have lost every international match against America since the Walker Cup was instituted."

The Prince of Wales tonight accepted the presidency of the Professional Golfers' Association, succeeding the late Earl Balfour.

Course in Shape for Test.

SUNNINGDALE, England, April 30 (AP).—All was in readiness tonight for women's Anglo-American golf matches tomorrow, which may be the forerunner of official international competition, such as the Walker Cup matches for men.

The American team, headed by Miss Glenna Collett, will meet the British team, captained by Miss Molly Gourlay, in foursomes and singles, the foursomes being played in the morning and the singles in the afternoon.

Today the greens and fairways of Sunningdale were shorn and rolled to velvety perfection, and even the rough with golden gorse blooming on the Berkshire hillsides beckoned invitingly.

The competition is styled "unofficial" because the Misses Collett and Gourlay have arranged the meeting without official support, the players paying their own expenses to Sunningdale.

Never has an international match been staged with less practice. The Americans arrived yesterday and have had only one full round over one of England's most difficult layouts, while only a few of Miss Gourlay's team have had any recent practice at Sunningdale. The two Scottish players, Mrs. J. B. Watson and Miss Jean McCollough, reached London last night and practiced with the Americans today.

The American girls went out today intending to keep their cards, but many errors necessitated replaying shots, and one by one they put their pencils away. The steady wind furnished many puzzles for the visitors, while putting over the fast greens also presented difficulties.

Miss Collett has not displayed her true form, for she caught cold during the voyage, as did Miss Virginia Van Wie. Both had trouble today with their golfing muscles and sought expert massage treatment.

Arrangements have been made to handle a fair-sized gallery tomorrow and the greens are marked off as for championships. No admission will be charged, but the spectators will be expected to buy programs for charity.

Miss Collett's Policy Praised.

Miss Gourlay and others were highly impressed with the sportsmanship of Miss Collett in choosing seventeen to play, thereby admittedly weakening the Americans' chances.

"I feel that after making this journey all the players should have the opportunity of playing for America," said the American champion.

It is admitted on both sides that if she had chosen the ten best players the Americans would have considerably less to fear from their British opponents.

The practice of the American golfers was interrupted by one of the greatest gathering of photographers on record. Instead of playing golf this morning Miss Collett and her companions were forced by circumstances to make hundreds of practice shots for the benefit of the cameras.

Miss Hicks was one of the most photographed of the group. She played shots from bushes and bunkers and from hillsides while the camera men shouted "more."

Hold Up Practice.

The players spent practically the entire morning with the photographers and it was well into the afternoon before they were able to begin serious preparation.

Both captains on the eve of the match were hopeful of success.

"I think I have the best available team," said Miss Gourlay, "and we have a good chance of winning. Conditions are in our favor, and my only regret is that our opponents had so little time for preparation."

After two strenuous rounds, Miss Collett, who has been carefully watching all her girls, said, "I have the best players in America on the team and I hope we shall make a good fight of it. We may even win."

ENGLISH TRAIL IN CRICKET.

Australians Take Lead in Match, Scoring 199 to 131 Runs.

LONDON, April 30 (Canadian Press Cable).—Cricket got off to a good start for the 1930 season in England today with two centuries in a county match and a great display with both bat and ball by Australian players. The centurians were Bates and Hills for Glamorgan against Surrey.

For the Australians, Grimmett captured four wickets for 38 runs and Fairfax four for 36. Woodfull and Bradman put on a fine second wicket stand, the Australian captain scoring 95 and the youngster 75, both being undefeated at the end of the day's play.

Today's scores were:

Surrey versus Glamorgan at the Kennington Oval; Glamorgan, 474 (Bates 168, Hills 100).

VAN RYN AND ALLISON BEATEN IN DOUBLES

Wimbledon Champions Lose in Davis Cup Tryouts to Hall and Mercur.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, holders of the Wimbledon doubles championship, were beaten in a tryout for the United States Davis Cup team by Fritz Mercur of the Penn A. C. and J. Gilbert Hall of East Orange, N. J., today at the Huntingdon Valley courts, 5—7, 6—3, 6—4.

While Van Ryn and Allison were not at the peak of their game, Mercur and Hall demonstrated that they are determined to gain a place in future Davis Cup consideration. Van Ryn and Allison represented the United States in the Davis Cup doubles against France last Summer.

After the doubles Allison won a keenly fought singles set from Hall, 7—5, while Van Ryn and Mercur split two sets, the former Princeton star easily winning the first, 6—1, while Mercur took the second by the same score.

The test matches will be continued tomorrow, when Johnny Doeg and George M. Lott team against Van Ryn and Allison in singles and doubles.

The New Collar for 1930

VAN REED

Van Reed, the new Van Heusen Collar, is here. . . . It is definitely in line with the tendencies for 1930 toward more formal though no less comfortable apparel.

Van Reed has the custom tailored cut, the soft, supple line and that air of ease, so essential to good dressing during the coming season.

In showing you the Van Reed, your haberdasher commends to you not solely a new collar, but also a new contribution to your Spring 1930 appearance!

FLAG DAY SCORES IN THE LONG BEACH

Wins by Length in Drive, With Kildare Second and Frumper Third at Jamaica.

DEPLOY CLOSES STRONGLY

Unlooses Final Spurt to Hold Off Stretch Challenge and Triumph by Neck in Third Race.

By BRYAN FIELD.

During 1929 Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons led all others in the East in number of stake victories, having sent out the winners in twenty-six. Last Saturday, the Wood Memorial, richest test of the Jamaica meeting, fell to one of his charges, and yesterday's feature at Jamaica was the Long Beach Claiming Handicap, and sure enough, Fitzsimmons sent out the winner. It was Flag Day, bearing the Wheatley Stable colors.

The fruits of victory were $3,200, but Flag Day paid rather dearly for his triumph, as he is likely to be thrown out of training on account of an old lameness which returned after the finish. It was the first race for Flag Day since last Summer at Empire City, and bringing him back to such a race as he turned in was no small achievement. It is to be hoped that the son of Pennant and Enchanting will not be kept away from the races too long.

Whether it was confidence in the horse or confidence in the trainer is hard to say, but Flag Day was backed into favoritism at 9 to 5. He won by a length in a drive after coming from behind the rattling pace set by the Newtondale Stable's Kildare. Kildare was second to the wire and ran a gallant race, but he was no match for Flag Day even though a length separated them at the finish.

Panuco Finishes Fourth.

Harry Payne Whitney's Frumper, making his first start since Maryland, landed third money, five lengths back of Kildare. The others in order were Panuco, an added sarter; Imperial Air, Xylophone and Zeal.

Panuco and Kildare rushed into the lead at the start and Flag Day was rated behind this pace by Jimmy Burke, who had the Wheatley horse under a strong hold. Panuco stayed with Kildare most of the way down the backstretch, but at the far turn he began to fold up and Flag Day moved into second pisition, with Imperial Air, Frumper and others closing up.

In the stretch, Flag Day had to come from several lengths back, but he was able to do so without much trouble and hung it on Kildare with something to spare. The time was 1:44 3-5 for the mile and seventy yards and the victory was the first for the Wheatley Stable since the stake was inaugurated in 1908.

If there was any doubt on the second day of the meeting as to the courage of Gifford A. Cochran's Deploy, it was dissipated yesterday when that gallant son of Under Fire ran and won at a mile and a sixteenth, conceding weight, according to the scale, to the three older horses which ran against him in the third race.

Deploy Displays Gameness.

On the second day, Deploy galloped six furlongs to win in hollow fashion, but yesterday he beat off the challenge of Scimitar at the top of the stretch and then withstood the bid of Boom which came roaring on in the last furlong, looking like a sure winner. Bill Kelsay called for another run from Deploy and he had it in reserve. He held on to win by a neck with Boom second, Scimitar third and Electa last.

Deploy is Cochran's eligible in the Belmont Stakes and carried 109 pounds, scale weight, to his victory. Boom, a 6-year-old, under 104 pounds, had twenty-five pounds off the scale. Scimitar, under 116 pounds, and also 6, had thirteen pounds off the scale. Deploy was 4 to 5 and ran on top from start to finish.

Kelsay took him right to the front, slowed down to give his horse a breather in the backstretch, and then went on to ride him out to beat the others. The time was 1:48 2-5.

STEINKE IS VICTOR.

Hans Steinke, Ridgewood heavyweight wrestler, pinned the shoulders of Jim Clinkstock of Memphis in 28:15 of a finish match at the Ridgewood Grove Sporting Club, Brooklyn, last night. A crowd of about 3,500 saw Steinke down his rival with a body hold. Steinke weighed 240, Clinkstock 245.

Gino Garibaldi, 210 pounds, conquered Ned McGuire, 238, in 17:45 with a flying mare. Herb Freeman, 235 pounds, threw Frank Bronowicz, 214, in 13 minutes of a scheduled 30-minute match.

Lucky Tor, 13 to 2, Takes City and Suburban Handicap

EPSOM, England, April 30 (AP).—Lucky Tor, the favorite at 13 to 2, won the City and Suburban Handicap over the mile and a quarter course today. Lucky Tor is owned by W. M. G. Singer. Gordon Richards was up.

Lucky Tor won by two lengths from W. Barnett's Athford, with Captain J. D. Cohn's Vatout third, three-quarters of a length back. The field of sixteen included some of the best handicap horses on the British turf.

The stakes were £2,000 (about $10,000) and the odds against Athford and Vatout were 6 to 1 and 10 to 1, respectively.

LEXINGTON FEATURE WON BY MARY COBB

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 30 (AP).—Mary Cobb, by High Moon—Auntie May, sporting the silks of the Hupp and Judy Stable, captured the Hinita Stakes, the outstanding feature of today's program. Betty Derr from H. P. Gardner's string was second and Rare Charm from the Paradise Stock Farm was third.

Today's race was the twelfth running of this stake event, the nominations for which closed Feb. 5. Of the eighty-eight nominations only eleven were entered and the scratching of Delma Dunn, Plumage and Irritation left eight to face the starter.

It was a four and a half furlong sprint for 2-year-old fillies and was worth $3,500 to the winner, $400 to second and $200 to third.

Mary Cobb covered the distance in 0:54 4-5 and rewarded her backers at $18.54 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Betty Derr, the favorite, set the pace until the stretch turn and took the place by a nose from Rare Charm. The victor won by half a length.

Scratched—Foxbolt and Roscomar.

Rock Dun, under light weight, was kept close to the early pace, ran into the lead in the stretch and, drawing away, won nicely in hand. Bourbon Maid showed a world of speed, led the field to the stretch, where she tired. Lindy got away in a tangle and was allowed to drop far back. He closed fast. Sun Broom saved ground on the stretch turn, but weakened. Adamas had plenty of speed in the early part. Flying Max was well up for three furlongs.

Scratched—Kildare.

Bud Broom was outrun for the first half mile, began to move up around the turn, closed fast in the final furlong and won going away. Justinian handled his weight well, was eased back off the pace and came again in the stretch to take the place. Okaybee ran into the lead around the turn, but tired fast in the stretch. Lahor closed some ground. Friarbell was outrun.

Owners—1, F. E. Brown; 2, Greentree Stable; 3, Mrs. G. Carroll; 4, Rancocas Stable; 5, W. R. Coe.

9538 THIRD RACE—The Hopedale Handicap; $1,200 added, 3-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Start good; won driving; place easily. Winner, b. c., 3, by Under Fire—Broadcast. Trainer, H. McDaniel. Time—0:25⅗, 0:51⅗, 1:16⅕, 1:42⅕, 1:48⅖.

Deploy broke fast, but Kelsay let him rate along in front. He was under stout restraint to the middle of the turn, where he drew away, but was tiring fast at the end. Boom moved up very fast at the half-mile pole, came around the field in the stretch and finished with a rush. Scimitar was under restraint to the far turn, where he attempted to move up. He was hard urged, but could not improve his position. Electa trailed the field for the entire trip.

Owners—1, G. A. Cochran; 2, Mrs. M. A. J. Smith; 3, Mrs. J. A. Coburn; 4, Middleburg Stable.

a Added starter.

Scratched—Okaybee, Scot's Grey, Wood God and Deploy.

Flag Day, in good form, broke fast, but was pinched back on the first turn, he recovered, and moved up fast on the outside, but was hard ridden to gain the lead. Kildare displayed excellent speed, was kept right up with the pace all the way and held on gamely. Frumper was badly outrun for the first seven furlongs and closed fast in the stretch. Panuco showed speed for six furlongs, then quit. Imperial Air finished gamely. Xylophone could not keep up.

Scratched—Maximum.

Twenty Grand, a fine looking colt, broke in close quarters, but quickly ran up and, closing gamely, won going away. Soarer displayed good speed, raced Mortime into defeat and held on well. Black Shirt was well up from the start and ran a good race. Malaita was running strongly at the end. What Have You was knocked out of it at the start.

Hague Beats Rupp at Billiards.

Thomas Hague defeated Michael Rupp, 150 to 74, in thirty-nine innings, in the handicap 18.2 balkline tournament at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy yesterday. Hague's high run was 16 and Rupp's 10. Hague was playing for 150 points and Rupp's quota was 130.

BALKO HOME FIRST IN THE JENNINGS

JOCK SECOND TO FINISH

Loses Verdict by Three Lengths but Saves Place From The Heathen by ½ Length.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 30 (AP).—The Jennings Handicap, $6,000 added, which is renewed each Spring at the Pimlico course, was the feature of today's card, and for this number nine of the best sprinters now in training were starters.

Balko, one of the pair sent to the post by Trainer Bud Stotler, and carrying the silks of the Sagamore Stable, was the winner. Second place went to Jock, owned by E. B. McLean. Jock was making his second attempt this year. The Heathen, the other member of the Stotler entry, and the winner of the recent renewal of the Harford Handicap at Havre de Grace this Spring, was third, with Battleship Gray, Good As Gold, Mud, Chlo Boy, Minotaur and My Sis trailing home in that order. Balko's winnings were $6,000.

Balko followed the rapid pace of his stablemate, The Heathen, until three furlongs had been negotiated, when he went into command and in the stretch run, after a few plies of the whip, never left the issue in doubt. He won by three lengths. Jock beat The Heathen by a half length.

CROWELL SCORES AT NEWARK SHOW

Sweeps First Three Places in Open Jumping, Fourth Estate Capturing the Blue.

MOUNTAIN RED BUD VICTOR

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Taking the first three places in the open jumping event, H. Hollon Crowell of Boston made a good start in the tenth annual Newark Horse Show, which opened last night under the auspices of Essex Troop in the 102d Cavalry Armory, Newark.

Danny Shea jumped the chestnut gelding Fourth Estate into first money and put the veteran Fairfax over the obstacles to win second money. Clarence La Parl was up on Mr. Crowell's bay gelding Chantry to take the third ribbon. Fourth ribbon went to the Army Horse Show team's bay mare, Suzanne, ridden by Captain W. B. Bradford.

A fashionable crowd turned out to celebrate the first night of the tenth anniversary of the Essex Troop's exhibition, which has grown into a four-day event and one of the most important of the Spring season. All of the seventy boxes were occupied and a capacity crowd filled the balcony seats. The enlarged ring, practically the size of Madison Square Garden, proved of great advantage in the judging of the big classes, many of which were top-heavy with entries.

Clearview Cavalier Second.

The Boxwood Farm of Spring Lake, N. J., had the honor of winning the first of the saddle events, taking the blue in the class for three-gaited novice horses over 14.2 hands, with the nice-going chestnut gelding, Mountain Red Bud, ridden by Thomas McCray. It was a big class, with considerable quality. Mrs. Bernice D. Gordonwood rode Edmund C. Mayo's bay gelding, Clearview Cavalier, to take second, third going to Miss Ida Louise Tobey's bay mare, Fashion of the Hour.

Boxwood Farm, owned by William Buchsbaum, added a second blue to lead the list of winners, when Thomas McCray rode the chestnut mare Mountain Myrtle to carry off first money in the local saddle class for novice horses over 14.2 hands. There was a lot of rivalry among the New Jersey owners in the event and it was a close fight with Miss Isabelle Scott's gray gelding Clearview Sterling, ridden by F. E. Robinson. The yellow ribbon was taken by Miss Katherine L. Blondel of Montclair, who rode her own chestnut gelding Glen Alden.

Proctor Takes Blue.

A colorful number was the class for officers' chargers, ridden by officers in uniform with drawn sabers. In this event the Army Horse Show team scored its first victory, Lieutenant John W. Wofford riding the veteran bay gelding, Proctor, which scored so heavily on the Summer circuit two years ago, to take first over Essex Troop's chestnut gelding Major Mac, ridden by Lieutenant Frank Doettrell. Third went to the Squadron A Association's brown mare Folqueen.

It took nearly an hour to decide the touch-and-go jumping competition, which required three jump-offs to decide the money. There was a big entry and five tied with clean performances. In the first jump-off, the best performance was made by Colonel Pierre Lorillard Jr.'s Old Buckaroo, which negotiated the first four fences perfectly, but made a bad take-off at the gate jump, crashing through it and throwing Captain Bradford. Neither horse nor rider was hurt.

The Army's bay gelding Muskogee, ridden by Lieutenant Wofford and Mrs. Harry Frank Jr.'s bay gelding Little Canada, with Mike Devanny up, battled it out for second money in two jump-offs, the ribbons going in that order. Fourth went to the Army's bay mare, Miss America.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Big Jim Peterson pitched one of his best games of the season today as Pennsylvania defeated Columbia, 7 to 1, to go into a triple tie for the Intercollegiate League lead with Yale and Dartmouth.

Peterson mowed down twelve of the New Yorkers on strikes and allowed only five scattered hits, while Wilkens and Landau yielded twelve hits, four of them going to Captain Mort Wilner.

Pitcher Wilkens found himself in a jam right at the start. Walters was safe on Balquist's error. Captain Wilner singled and Carlsten sacrificed. When Graupner walked the bases were loaded. Stelljes booted Becker's roller and Walters scored. With two down, Slaughter doubled, scoring Wilner and Graupner.

In the third Graupner doubled, Becker singled and Graupner scored on Walker's single.

The only time Columbia figured was in the fifth, when Hewitt was safe on Caniglia's error and scored on McLaughlin's single. After McLaughlin took third on Becker's wild throw into the dugout, Peterson gave a rare exhibition of pitching by striking out Stelljes, Obey and Swettman in a row.

Penn scored one run in the eighth on Wilner's single and a stolen base along with a wild throw and Graupner's sacrifice fly.

When Walker doubled to start Penn's two-run spurt in the eighth Hewitt tried to make a shoestring catch and was shaken up. He remained in the game.

MANHATTAN LOSES TO C. C. N. Y. NINE

Bracker Baffles Jaspers, While Team Bunches Hits to Gain 11 to 1 Triumph.

Bracker, City College pitcher, kept Manhattan's hits well scattered while his team-mates played errorless ball and bunched hits to score an 11-to-1 victory over Manhattan yesterday at Jasper Field.

Led by Blum, who secured three hits out of four trips to the plate, including a home run, the Lavender batsmen found the offerings of Garrison and Corrigan for eight hits. The two Jasper pitchers issued eight passes and their colleagues made six errors to give C. C. N. Y. several runs.

The Lavender's first run was a gift. With two out in the first, Goldman walked and stole second. Blum singled to left and Goldman was trapped on McCormick's fine throw to the plate, but Umpire Hutchins ruled that Catcher Burns had interfered with Goldman and he was allowed to score.

Blum put his team further ahead with a home run over the centre-field fence in the third inning. The fifth was the Lavender's big inning. Garrison's support fell apart and he was forced to retire. Five runs were tallied before Manhattan collected its three put-outs.

Manhattan scored its only run in the fifth inning when McCormick doubled to centre, took third on Cohen's infield out and scored on O'Neil's single.

Is Outbatted, but Profits by Eight Passes and a Wild Pitch.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 30.—Though outbatted in today's baseball game, the Naval Academy nine took advantage of Milziner's wildness and beat the University of Virginia, 5 to 2.

The Virginia twirler proved hard to hit effectively, but pased eight midshipmen, hit another and made a wild pitch.

JENKINS OF DUKE BLANKS PRINCETON

Gets 1-0 Decision Over Bowman, Whose Wild Pitch in 7th Costs Him the Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 30.—Scoring in the seventh inning, the Duke baseball team defeated Princeton today, 1 to 0. The game resolved itself into a pitching battle from the opening frame.

Both Bowman, Tiger moundsman, and Jenkins, visiting twirler, limited their opponents to five hits, while each team was also responsible for one error.

Bowman's wildness cost him the game. The Duke aggregation made good when Murray singled and was followed by two hit batsmen and a wild pitch. Bowman issued six passes and hit one other batsman during the contest.

Princeton had excellent opportunities to count in the sixth and ninth but failed to make good due to poor base running. Hendey's triple, the only extra base hit of the game, was of no avail when Hendey was caught off the base in the sixth, while the game ended with the bases loaded when Vogt was caught off third and run down.

Neither side was able to get more than one hit in an inning until the ninth, when Bennett and Vogt singled in succession for the Tigers.

LEHIGH HITS TIMELY TO TOPPLE RUTGERS

Breaks Up Close Battle in Fifth by Scoring Four Runs—Harris Gets Homer.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 30.—Hard and timely hitting gave the Lehigh nine an 8-to-2 victory over Rutgers today. The game was close till the fifth inning, when Lehigh sent four runners across the plate.

Rutgers started with Thompson on the mound, and he survived until the fifth, when he was replaced by Janin. The latter, touched for five hits, yielded only one run, a homer by Harris in the eighth.

Tommy Ayre, although touched freely, kept the hits well scattered and when in tight places was pulled through by fast fielding.

ARMY TURNS BACK N. Y. U. IN THE 14TH

Triumphs After Coming From Behind Three Times to Even the Count.

VIOLET GETS TWO IN FIRST

Also Tallies Twice in Fifth and Once in 13th, but Cadets Brace Each Time and Finally Win, 6-5.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 30.—Army's nine came through with a fourteen-inning victory over New York University today, winning 6 to 5. Joe Golden's infield drive, which sent Bob Landry, hard-working Army pitcher, over the plate with the deciding run, ended the thrilling battle.

The cadets came from behind to tie the score three times before finally winning.

Beauchamp started on the mound for Army, but a quartet of singles sent him to the showers in the opener. Two Violet runners crossed the plate before Landry took up the burden.

Army first tied the count at 2-all in its half of the fourth. Bunched hits by Farnsworth, Golden and Hoy gave the cadets their brace of runs.

Kastner Doubles to Left.

A single to centre by Mayell greeted Landry in the fifth. Bergen walked and Kastner scored both N. Y. U. runners with a double to left. Army got one run across in the sixth on hits by Golden and Hoy and tied the count for the second time in the ninth on Bowman's single, Hoffman's wild peg, a sacrifice by Powell and Dreyer's sacrifice fly to right.

With two down in the Violet's half of the thirteenth, Hoffman hit safely, stole second and came home on Avia's drive to centre.

The Cadets came back strongly, however, to tie the count for the third time. Reese beat out a bunt to third and Bowman hit to Follet, who threw wild to get Reese at second. Kastner relayed the ball to third and Reese was touched out, Bowman taking second. Powell's drive scored Bowman with the tieing run.

Landry Starts Winning Drive.

Landry led off for Army in the fourteenth frame with a single and Lindquist followed with a double to left, putting Landry on third. Clyde relieved Follet and walked Farnsworth. Golden's drive bounded in front of the hurler's mound and into centre field, Landry crossing the plate with the winning run.

HOLY CROSS ATTACK SWAMPS YALE NINE

Taylor Pounded for Six Runs in First Inning—Newton Reached for Four More Tallies.

4 SAFETIES FOR LAWRENCE

Hebert Checks Losers With Eight Hits as They Drop Second in Row by 10 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 30.—Holy Cross batted Tommy Taylor, Yale pitcher, from the box in the first inning to score six runs and subsequently win today's game by a score of 10 to 5. It was the second defeat for the Yale nine in consecutive days.

Of the eight batsmen who faced Taylor, six hit safely, one was passed and the eighth, Dougherty, was called out for interference with the catcher. The first five men up hit the first ball pitched. Bill Newton, reserve twirler, limited Holy Cross to seven hits and four runs thereafter.

Although Hebert kept the Yale hits scattered, he was batted safely seven times and issued eight passes. His fielding support was fast and accurate except in the eighth, when low throws to first by Shanahan and Hebert and Shanahan's fumble, together with a pass to Quinn, presented Yale with three runs.

Yale's first two runs in the second resulted from Quinn's triple, which scored Aldrich, who had walked, and Booth, who had singled. Quinn led Yale's attack with a triple, single and walk. Dougherty scored in the second on McKenzie's fumble.

Hebert drove a homer which bounded into the left-field stands in the third. Lawrence's triple in the fourth, followed by Newton's wild pitch, yielded another run. Shevlin scored in the sixth on a pass, a steal and Lawrence's drive to left. Lawrence led the Holy Cross attack with four hits in five trips to the plate.

COLUMBIA EIGHTS HOLD TIME TRIALS

Varsity Stages Powerful Finish to Lead Jayvee and Freshman Shells on the Harlem.

HUDSON PROVES TOO ROUGH

Whitecaps Cause Glendon to Order Practice Session in More Placid Waters.

With the Blackwell Cup regatta only three days away, the Columbia rowing squad speeded up its daily practice session yesterday on the Harlem River and, besides holding a two-mile time trial, it took part in various and sundry chores that have to do with the development of what is hoped will be a formidable flotilla.

Rough water forced the Lions from the Hudson River to the more placid stretches of the Harlem. The boats navigated a short distance out on the Hudson, but, with whitecaps lashing up and down the stream, it was far from a suitable place for crews that need plenty of practice. Coach Richard J. Glendon ordered the crews to turn about and take up their stand along the Harlem.

Yesterday's stretch against the watch was held among the varsity, junior varsity and freshman crews. The lightweight squad held its time trial of one mile and five-sixteenths after the fleet heavyweights had returned to the boathouse at Baker Field. Glendon did not announce the time for the trial spin, but he said the varsity was far above the time which is expected to win Saturday's race among Columbia, Yale and Pennsylvania.

The varsity had to come from behind in the last half mile to win from the junior eight yesterday. Even the freshmen kept up with the varsity for the first mile.

Putting on a great flash of strength and power, the varsity edged to the front about a quarter of a mile from the finish and then gradually increased its advantage, to win finally by one length. The battle for second place was a stirring duel, and the junior varsity had to put forth its best efforts to defeat the freshmen by half a length.

FAVORED LANE DRAWN BY TWO YALE CREWS

Drawings for the lanes in the Blackwell Cup regatta on the Housatonic River at Derby, Conn., were made yesterday by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the Columbia University rowing committee, and Frederick Sheffield, chairman of the rowing committee at Yale. The east lane, which is the favored one because of the winding course of the Housatonic, goes to Yale in the varsity and junior varsity races. Columbia has drawn the east lane in the freshman and varsity 150-pound events. Penn will row in the middle course in every race.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

An ancient and dog-eared gazetteer contains the following interesting information about a town that will be more or less in the public eye in the next few weeks:

"St. Andrews, Scotland; a seaport and royal burgh thirty-nine miles northeast of Edinburgh on the east coast of Fifeshire. It contains the ruins of a splendid cathedral, a medieval castle and a Dominican monastery. It is the seat of the University of St. Andrews, founded in 1411 and the oldest university in Scotland. There are 115,000 volumes in the university library. St. Andrews is a fashionable watering place and is also noted for its famous golf links."

Possibly, a more modern gazetteer would begin its description of St. Andrews with a prominent notice of the famous golf links and end with a brief reference to the ruined cathedral or the number of volumes in the university library.

As a matter of fact, golf can claim precedence over the oldest university in Scotland. The University of St. Andrews was founded in 1411 if the evidence at hand is trustworthy. Golf was discovered, invented or contrived in the same "seaport and royal burgh." In time, it spread through Scotland, seeped into England and penetrated Ireland. By 1457 the game had disturbed England to such an extent that Parliament passed a law that golf be "utterly cryit doune and nocht usit." It's safe to say that it took more than half a century for the village pastime of St. Andrews to become a national menace and thus the beginning of golf would antedate the founding of the university.

A Tale of Two Cities.

About thirty-five years ago a Lowland laddie left St. Andrews to seek his fortune in America. He took with him the golf clubs with which he used to whack his way around the famous seaside course. Landing in New York, he took a lowly position in the electrical trade. The hours were long and the pay was meager. Nevertheless, he found time to play an occasional round of golf at Van Cortlandt Park, and once he ventured to enter a tournament at the aristocratic Morris County Golf Club.

He was unknown to the members, and they eyed the bashful youth somewhat askance, so much so that he didn't dare invade the club dining room between the morning and afternoon rounds. He sat out under a tree and ate some sandwiches he had brought along in his pocket. A Long Island golfer, seeing him all alone under the tree, went out and made friends with him and invited him to join the Nassau Country Club, which was then being formed.

A year later the bashful Scot had the pleasure of winning the national amateur championship over the Morris County course. That was in 1898. Though it was slower work, he achieved equal success in business and rose to wealth and high position. His name is Findlay S. Douglas, and he is now the president of the United States Golf Association.

He had planned to revisit his native city of St. Andrews as the official escort for Bob Jones and his Walker Cup team-mates in the British amateur championship, but, at the last moment, business cares interfered. The return of the native would have been a great day for St. Andrews, but the romance is still in the tale, and the career of Findlay S. Douglas can still remain as an inspiration to the ambitious lads of the "seaport and royal burgh thirty-nine miles northeast of Edinburgh."

Ireland Revisited.

In a slightly different field, there is another interesting tale. John McCormack, the famous singer, left Ireland a poor boy and won fame and fortune in this country. Where his story reaches into the field of sport is told in the following account given by Captain Denis H. Coghlan, a visitor from overseas and a man with a wide knowledge of turf history in Great Britain and Ireland:

"Leaving Ireland a penniless youth to capture the world with his marvelous voice, John returned to his native soil in 1927, leasing the ancestral home of the Lords of Drogheda—Moore Abbey, Monasterevan—County Kildare. Monasterevan is where St. Erin wrote the life of St. Patrick in the fifth century. Adjoining the abbey demesne is the Kildangan Castle property, where the More O'Ferralls live.

"In earlier and more prosperous days the Kildangan lands possessed some very fine gallops over which my Lords of Drogheda trained many a fine racer. But poverty and time—those twin destroyers—had ruined the 'country' from a training point of view.

"However, John McCormack commissioned young More O'Ferrall to buy three or four yearlings just to see his colours [the spelling is British] on a race course. That was in 1926, and I recall the excitement that O'Ferrall and I had 'coping' around the smaller breeders before the yearling sales commenced. It was O'Ferrall's first chance. The purchase money was limited, and he didn't want to make a mistake.

Coming Down in Front.

"I have known good sportsmen to buy six to ten yearlings for years and never win a race. It was extraordinary, therefore, that in his first season on the turf John McCormack won races running into double figures, and Golden Lullaby was the crack of the 2-year-olds of her year. She won six races off the reel.

"This success has been maintained, and before sailing for Europe recently, John told me he now has forty-seven horses in training and enjoys the sport immensely."

It's a good story, but it can be made better if the famous tenor will train a horse to win the Epsom Derby or a jumper to take the Grand National. Probably his chances would be better in the Grand National. Irish jumpers usually land that famous prize.

Which recalls a recent note that Billy Barton was being ridden to hounds by his owner, Howard Bruce, in Maryland when this year's Grand National was being run. That's nothing new for Billy Barton. After failing as a flat racer, Billy Barton was bought by Mr. Bruce and used as a hunter in Maryland for several seasons. Then, Billy returned to racing as a jumper and, as every one knows, held the lead over the last hurdle in the Grand National of 1927 only to stumble in the stretch while Tipperary Tim went on to win.

PENN EIGHTS LEAVE AFTER FINAL DRILL

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—The Pennsylvania oarsmen were favored by summery weather today as they completed their work on the Schuylkill before leaving for Derby, Conn., where they will meet Yale and Columbia in the Blackwell Cup regatta on Saturday.

The varsity, junior varsity, 150-pound varsity and freshman eights were given workouts that included racing starts after the Henley course had been covered at a fast pace. No changes were made in the boatings.

Penn's party of forty-nine left late tonight for New Haven, from where it will proceed to Derby tomorrow morning. In addition to the thirty-two oarsmen, there were four coxswains, six substitutes, Coaches Rusty Callow and Jim Mathews, Trainer Mickey McLaughlin, Rigger Joe Francisco and three managers.

The substitutes taken along were William Weeks and Ed Jordan for the varsity and junior varsity, William Nixon and Charles Kindleberger, 150-pound crew, and E. Keller and A. F. Fleitas, freshmen. Keller replaced F. Palmer, who is ill. R. C. Miller has been selected as coxswain of the freshman crew.

The four shells were shipped early in the afternoon and older boats used in today's practice. It is hoped that the crews will be able to get on the Housatonic River course by tomorrow noon.

Head Coach Callow said today, "The spirit of the boys is very good, but we are going up against two of the best crews in the East."

YALE'S GOLF TEAM DEFEATS SYRACUSE

Triumphs, 8½ to ½, in Tourney at New Haven—Merwin of Elis Beats Armstrong, 2 Up.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 30.—Yale's golf team opened its Spring season today by crushing Syracuse University, 8½ to ½. The visitors were unable to win a single match during the play of six two-somes and three foursomes. Their only scoring came as a result of the tie match between Bijur of Yale and Van Nostrand, which was not completed.

England, Yale, won from Davis, 9 and 7, in the most convincing victory of the afternoon. Merwin of Yale and Armstrong did not settle their match until the final green, where the Eli player won 2 up. Captain Forest played in excellent form and made the best scores of the afternoon in defeating Nelson by a 4-to-3 count.

The Summaries.

Twosomes—Captain Forest, Yale, defeated Nelson, 4 and 3; Reese, Yale, defeated Protheroe, 7 and 5; Howard, Yale, defeated Henderson, 6 and 5; Merwin, Yale, defeated Armstrong, 2 up; England, Yale, defeated Davis, 9 and 7, and Bijur, Yale, tied Van Ostrand.

Foursomes—Forest and Reese of Yale defeated Nelson and Protheroe, 6 and 5; Howard and Merwin of Yale defeated Henderson and Armstrong, 5 and 4; Bijur and England of Yale defeated Davis and Van Ostrand, 6 and 5.

YALE'S FOUR CREWS HOLD FINAL TRIALS

Varsity, Jayvee, 150-Pound and Freshman Boats Row Courses Under Ideal Conditions.

LEADER SILENT ON TIMES

No Changes Made as Oarsmen End Hard Drills for Races With Penn and Columbia.

Special to The New York Times.

DERBY, Conn., April 30.—Yale's four crews which will meet Pennsylvania and Columbia in the triangular regatta for the Blackwell Cup on Saturday today held final time spins over their respective racing distances under excellent weather conditions.

Although a fair breeze blew across the course the water was not rough enough to impede the shells or prevent a high stroke from being maintained. Coach Ed Leader sent the two varsity eights over their racing distances together, but tonight declined to give time figures on the results. The freshmen under Fred Spuhn and the 150-pound varsity eight under Don Grant, were both in excellent form in completing an unusually long and rugged afternoon.

It is expected that the work will be lightened tomorrow, and Friday when only conditioning paddles will be taken. No changes were made today in any of the four crews and the only possibility of a final shift is believed to be in the 150-pound boat, which may be altered for physical reasons.

The advance guard of the University of Pennsylvania contingent today arrived and the remainder of the squad, a group of fifty, is expected here on special cars about 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The rowing equipment, some of which arrived today, will be assembled tomorrow morning and the shells will be launched for both morning and afternoon rowing.

The Columbia squad, also numbering about fifty, will reach here Friday morning. The Lions are slight favorites in advance forecasts of the varsity outcome.

The rowing management tonight announced that a public sale of tickets for the observation train on Saturday would begin tomorrow morning. This is made possible by the addition of several cars to the observation train, which will be one of the largest ever run here for triangular events.

8-MILE ROW HELD BY HARVARD CREWS

Varsity Shells Go Down River 3 Miles, Back 4 and End With Sprint to Boathouse.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 30.—The welding of the Harvard varsity and junior varsity eights by long rowing drills continued this afternoon when Coach Charles Whiteside gave his shells an eight-mile workout on the Charles River.

Coach Fred Sullivan of the varsity 150-pound crew also had his boat out for a long spin. The shell is preparing for the race a week from Saturday when the Crimson will meet Princeton and Yale on the Housatonic.

The three varsity shells rowed downstream for about three miles, came up the river for four and then sprinted down to the Newell boat house.

Sullivan's 150-pound shell did about the same, but was on the river at a different time.

PRINCETON VARSITY IS NAMED BY LOGG

Selects Eight Which Will Row Against M. I. T.—Tiger Cubs Beat Hun in Practice Spin.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 30.—Seatings for the Princeton crews for the races with M. I. T. here Saturday were announced by Coaches Logg and Sikes today.

The bow assignment, which caused the Tiger mentor the greatest difficulty during the early part of the season, will be filled by Hal Jones, while the stroke will be Johnny Clingerman, who set the pace for his freshman crew. Captain Badger Pease will be in his seat at 7.

Two seniors will be in the first shell, with Jones at bow and Jack Bauer at 4. Bauer is only a recent addition, having reported to practice late in the season and then filling a jayvee post up until about two weeks ago.

Millard West at 2, Jim Sheenan 3, Schieffelin 6 and Rutherford 5 all are sophomores.

The varsity and jayvee oarsmen went out over Lake Carnegie together this afternoon, rowing slowly up the course with the stroke at 21. Coach Logg emphasized racing starts and straight arm recovery in an effort to eliminate any difficulties previous to the regatta Saurday.

On the return trip the two crews had a brush over the course which will be used against M. I. T., the varsity winning by four lengths. Both boats opened the race with the stroke at 32 and kept increasing the beat until the finish, when the stroke reached 40.

The Orange and Black yearlings had an unofficial brush with the Hun School oarsmen, the Tiger Cubs demonstrating a marked superiority over the schoolboys, although the Hun aggregation was hampered because of their occupying a gig. The Princeton freshmen won by four lengths.

TODAY'S PARADE.

Apparently the police arrangements in connection with the May Day demonstration of Communists in this city are much what they should be. There is to be full protection along with necessary surveillance. The right of any body of citizens to be allowed to display their political sentiments by marching through the streets is to be completely recognized, so long as they do not resort to violence or openly incite to sedition. Sensible New Yorkers must be gratified that there is to be here no rigid suppression of the manifestation by Communists, as there is to be, for example, in Paris. There will be a fine opportunity to exhibit our belief in liberty of individual opinion, together with our firm determination to uphold public order. It is probable that the unhappy experience of last March will lead to a more considerate attitude on both sides. The demonstrators will not be so anxious to make themselves martyrs, and the police will exhibit more good nature and restraint in keeping the crowds moving. This city has nothing to be afraid of at the hands of men who indulge in inflammatory speech but submit to the police regulations, and whose words may be daggers but who use none.

STATEN ISLAND'S POPULATION.

Richmond is the first of New York City's five boroughs to report her new, 1930, Federal-style population. It falls a trifle short of 155,000 and is equivalent to an increase of 33 per cent over the 1920 census. It is a rate of increase actually lower than during the decade after 1910, when Staten Island grew by 38 per cent. By far the most beautiful of our boroughs, it remains by far the most thinly populated. The new census gives it scarcely more than four inhabitants to the acre as against a probable record for Manhattan of 160 people to the acre, Brooklyn 60, the Bronx 35. Even Queens, in its great stretch of 110 square miles, has managed by this time to accumulate probably ten or a dozen people to the acre. Staten Island, with an area one and a half times that of the Bronx, has about 15 per cent of the latter's population. This is a state of affairs conducive to mixed emotions. Local pride and real estate ambitions may chafe at the handicaps imposed upon Staten Island by nature when she first blocked out her regional plan in the vicinity of New York Harbor. But there will be many in New York City, perhaps more in the other crowded boroughs than in Richmond, to rejoice that the freshness of Staten Island's hills, fields and beaches is immune from the plague of wholesale immigration.

The reason for this happy or unhappy condition, according to the point of view, is subway rapid transit, which has poured population into the three other home-building boroughs, but which for Staten Island is still in an uncertain future. In the year 1965, when the Regional Plan Commission foresees a metropolitan area grown from the present 9,000,000 people to 21,000,000 and a New York City almost doubled in population to 11,250,000 people, Staten Island is credited with 630,000 inhabitants. This number should still afford plenty of elbow room. Where will this increase come from? By that time, to be sure, there is the possibility of fast subways connecting Staten Island with Manhattan by way of the Narrows and East River or by way of the Kill van Kull and the North River. But recent developments in establishing contact between Staten Island and the outside world suggest that most of her future population may not come from New York City at all, but from the New Jersey hinterland. The two new bridges, Outerbridge and Goethals, connect the island with Perth Amboy and Port Elizabeth respectively. A third bridge is under way over the Kill van Kull to Bayonne. Across these highways the part of the population of one of the busiest industrial sections in the country may commute to Staten Island's attractive home sites.

NO EXTRA SESSION.

Perhaps the most unpopular man in Congress for the moment is Senator JONES of Washington. He has urged the President to call an extra session if the complete program looking to crime prevention fails to be enacted before adjournment. If Mr. HOOVER, which is most improbable, should follow the Senator's suggestion, he would automatically displace Mr. JONES in unpopularity. Congress has been in session for over a year; it still has the tariff and the naval treaty to consider; the members are weary of legislation and of Washington; and—it is election year. Every member of the House must stand for his seat if he wants to remain in Congress, and almost thirty-five Senators are facing the same test.

The Senate leader, Mr. WATSON, was quick to react adversely to Mr. JONES's proposal. He knows the temper of his colleagues and their personal exigencies. He knows that the only result of another extra session would be to arouse members against the policies of the President responsible for it. He wants adjournment at the earliest possible date, and in this wish he reflects the view of the overwhelming majority. Nor is there any good reason to suppose that Mr. HOOVER is unaware of all this or indisposed to yield to it. His message the other day, while insistent on his program, clearly conveyed his knowledge that there is little time left for legislation between now and December.

GOOD "OLD JOE."

Politics may be defined as the science of accommodation. Nowhere is it more accommodating than in Pennsylvania. Senator GRUNDY has just planted himself "unalterably" on the Eighteenth Amendment and all the legislation to enforce it. To compose a "balanced" ticket the Grundyans want to make Mr. THOMAS W. PHILLIPS, abominator of prohibition, the Republican nominee for Governor. On the other side of the Republican house there is the same delicate sense of equivalence. FRANCIS SHUNK BROWN, Wet, subject to a referendum, is yoked as candidate for Governor with Secretary DAVIS for Senator, Dry up to date. The only original water wagon is hitched to GIFFORD PINCHOT, that solitary inextinguishable star. Pennsylvania conservatives must notice with regret the high-handed conduct of the Philadelphia Registration Commission in lopping off nearly 30,000 names from the graveyard and absentee list of voters.

Reform is coming or trying to come to that wicked city. Senator GRUNDY is its harbinger. His war against the Philadelphia "War Board," Sheriff "TOM" CUNNINGHAM, "CHARLEY" HALL, "SAM" SALUS and that double official dignitary, Mr. W. W. ATTERBURY, when he charges with being the chief of the "conspiracy" to get hold of the State Government, ought to be no surprise. As an instructive little biography issued by his committee tells us, he has always been against "the professional politicians" of Philadelphia, especially offensive when they are reaching their hands toward Harrisburg and Washington. Naturally, Mr. GRUNDY, a college man, has always preferred amateurs. Hence he "was a stanch ally of the late Senator BOIES PENROSE."

Delegate to five Republican National Conventions, every time but one he picked the winner. No number for Governor backed by him has been defeated. He was one of "a "number of influential party lead-"ers who held the famous confer-"ence in the Blackstone Hotel in "which Mr. HARDING was agreed "upon." He helped "swing" Pennsylvania for Mr. HOOVER. His was the tariff plank adopted at Kansas City in 1928. His fruitful service in the tariff bill, his eleventh-hour triumph, is almost too familiar to mention. After he left college he started as a wool-sorter. As a rate-sorter at Washington he "has had contact "with every important State in the "country." For forty years he has been the genius, the walking delegate, the treasurer of protection.

The streams of his bounty have enriched charity and campaign funds. The only public post he ever held before he was sent to the Senate was that of Borough Councilman of Bristol, his home town. And of the Grundy plant, when he has always conducted himself according to the Golden Rule. Let us take leave of the fighting Quaker; imperturb as an idyllic light, a certain aura of the village elder seems to emanate from him:

Since 1884, when he cast his first vote for BLAINE for President, Mr. GRUNDY, on every election day except in 1886, has held the "window book" or voters' check list in the polling place of his Bristol ward—an all-day job.

As faithful Grundyites—without prejudice to Secretary DAVIS, whose "Senatorial calibre" is patent—we hate to remember that there are some eccentric window book-makers in Philadelphia on election days.

PRESIDENT BUTLER AT BERLIN.

On his present European tour Dr. BUTLER of Columbia University has received no greater honor or been accorded no finer opportunity than his invitation to speak in the German Reichstag chamber yesterday before the German Committee for International Conciliation. Beginning with a graceful reference to his own student days in Germany forty-five years ago, with brief characterization of the intellectual and spiritual leaders in Germany of that day, he took as his main theme the development of the unified sentiment of German nationality, with its consequences past and to come. What was little more than an ideal in the famous addresses of FICHTE to the German nation became an organized reality through the statesmanship of BISMARCK. Yet even the Iron Chancellor readily perceived and admitted that there are certain "imponderables" which are really of greater weight in affairs of state than merely material considerations. It is of these imponderables that Dr. BUTLER proceeded to speak, tracing one of them—the desire for peace among nations—back to the great philosopher of Königsberg, IMMANUEL KANT.

Coming down to the present day, President BUTLER showed what an enormous advance has been made not merely in the longing for world peace, with the deepening conviction that it is absolutely essential to the continuance of modern civilization, but also in the establishing of agencies especially designed to carry out what must now be regarded as the desire of all nations. He mentioned the Covenant of the League of Nations, the Locarno agreements, the World Court and the Briand-Kellogg treaty. He discreetly left it to his German hearers to point out, if they chose to do so, the backwardness of the United States in taking full advantage of these organizations, preferring to dwell upon the fine cooperation of European nations, including Germany, in the work of putting an end to war on a large scale. The whole address must have been grateful to all who heard it or read it in Germany, and was entirely in keeping with President BUTLER's record and reputation as an apostle of security and of peace everywhere throughout the world.

EMPIRE PROTECTION.

Aside from the general interest in the coming political struggle in England, this country has a special interest in the efforts of the Conservative leaders to make another campaign for tariff protection. STANLEY BALDWIN and WINSTON CHURCHILL have announced a speaking tour in behalf of closer economic cooperation between the various portions of the Empire. The Labor party is pledged to a reduction of existing duties and to the resumption of the old policy of free trade.

To many Americans the terms used are somewhat confusing. "Empire Free Trade" is quite different from plain "free trade." It implies greater freedom of exchange of goods between England and other parts of the Empire, as well as tariff barriers against foreign products. This is very different from the absence of duties and restrictions on imports. In actual fact, "free trade" in that sense no longer exists in England. There are the McKenna duties, the Safeguarding of Industries duties and the Key Industries duties. These require payment of taxes on the importation of foreign goods which compete seriously with British industries. They have given protection to these industries and have yielded substantial revenues to the government. For the most part, they contain rebates on goods from within the Empire, in exchange for the preference granted by the Dominions on English goods.

The extreme advocates of Empire Free Trade would like to see all duties on goods within the Empire abolished. Mr. STANLEY BALDWIN does not go so far. He is committed to protection for British industries, but believes that any proposals for taxing foodstuffs should be submitted to a referendum—a process which may well prove impracticable. In a speech made last March he pledged his party to call an Imperial economic conference to discuss closer cooperation, and even went so far as to say that "there "is no alternative to a vision of the "economic unity of our Empire ex-"cept its ultimate dissolution."

It is obvious that if an effective economic unit could be welded out of the component parts of the British Empire, surrounded by a tariff wall designed to handicap foreign goods, the Empire would be a formidable economic power. But even if the objections of the Dominions to Empire Free Trade could be overcome, it is doubtful if the measure of economic self-sufficiency which could be achieved would be so great as the proponents of the plan hope. In the meantime, the protectionist campaign in Great Britain itself may help the English public to appreciate the value of protection in helping British industry recover part of the ground it lost during the last three unhappy decades.

THE CHILD'S MAY DAY.

The First of May once had a bad name. It was called "Ill May Day" because of the troubles that rose in the trades back in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. But despite that association it still holds the brighter face which it has through all these centuries shown to children, upon whose feet, as President HOOVER said in his proclamation of last year, the country must "march forward."

May Day has, as a national day, come to be a child health day, as well as a special day of child's play, of pageantry and festival, of singing and dancing. It is a day when the value of health is demonstrated in picture and speech, when records are reported of achievement in protecting against preventable diseases and encouraging the expression in fullest measure of "the spirit which "is the final endowment of every "human being." It is a day when the community has the child in its heart and becomes young again itself in that concern. Out of the celebrations which have increasingly marked the day, State Child Health Councils have grown which seek to carry the public interest through the year, coordinating local effort for child welfare and carrying it into cooperation with thousands of other communities, so that the whole generation of children may benefit by what their elders have learned from experience and from the researches of science.

The day has been proclaimed by a joint resolution of Congress, but it is peculiarly the President's day, since it had its origin in the American Child Health Association, of which he has been the head for many years. Scores of organizations interested in child welfare have supported the movement, and it has had the special sponsoring of the American Federation of Labor. The report for 1929 shows that the day was observed in every State of the Union, and in many of them widely and in varied ways. Today it will be even more generally celebrated, from the President's little mountain school in Virginia to Alaska and Hawaii. The "evil days" are kept from drawing nigh by the happy experiences and wholesome lessons of the child's new May Day.

YOUNG PITTSBURGH READERS.

Moving pictures, radio, automobiles and sports are far from occupying all the time free from studies of Pittsburgh high school seniors. They read many books, some required by their courses in English, others chosen voluntarily. The Henry C. Frick Educational Commission has just published a report on their reading, based on facts supplied by the students themselves. To make the courses in literature more valuable to the pupils was the object of the inquiry.

More than 2,000 pupils, just about to complete their twelve years in the public schools, were asked to list the books they had read in high school, with a black mark against those they had not enjoyed and a suitable indication to show which they had liked. They were supplied with titles to refresh their memories of class reading and of books which they might have read outside. Altogether 46,328 titles were turned in. More than 36,000 were enjoyed and less than 10,000 were not. Testifying to the honesty of the replies are 261 endorsements of books which the commission considers objectionable. Unfortunately, their titles are withheld, so that one must take the investigators' word for the quality. But the activities of censorship have not been permitted to be the sole criterion in this suppression, for "Strange Interlude" and "Bad Girl" are included in the enjoyed reading.

The standard of taste shown is on the whole remarkably high. One of the most interesting discoveries made in the tabulation of students by intelligence quotients is that the brilliant, the average and the dull were unanimous on their favorites and on the books they liked least. By far the most popular book is "The Tale of Two Cities." "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" is the best-liked piece of modern fiction, and "We" is the most popular nonfiction. Only the exceptional students reported a liking for modern poetry, but SHAKESPEARE and SCOTT made a good showing all along the line. At the head of the list of books not enjoyed and far ahead of its closest competitors, "Sesame" and "Henry Esmond," stands BURKE's "Speech on Conciliation." The best and the dullest students join with the average in condemning BURKE in no uncertain terms. Many of them said they never would have finished his speech if they had not been required to do so. That is frequently the fate of "required reading."

PRISONS AND PAROLE.

Stirred by the pleas of prison reformers and the conditions revealed by recent outbreaks, the New York Legislature adopted a forward-looking and far-reaching program. It appropriated money for new cell blocks and for renovating old ones. It liberalized the prisoners' allowances for food, clothing and cash on release. It increased the pay and number of guards. It made provision for cantonments. It authorized a fifty million dollar bond issue, a large part of which will no doubt be spent on new prison construction.

Not content with such material aid, the Legislature, on the recommendation of Governor ROOSEVELT and with the cooperation of the Baumes Commission, set up a new Board of Parole in the Executive Department. It is to consist of three members who will serve full time, aided by a competent staff. As Governor ROOSEVELT said when he signed the bill the other day, the board has a "tremendous opportunity for good." Parole need no longer be treated as a matter of hurried routine, or regarded as an "under-financed moral gesture." The only drawback is that the legislators did not see fit to pass the companion bill permitting prisoners under indeterminate sentence to earn time off for good behavior. That necessary reform will have to await action at the next session. It is to be hoped that the Governor will appoint on the board men of outstanding ability, who will command public confidence and so help to assure the success of the experiment.

The Legislature also looked to the future. It created a temporary State commission of seven members to be appointed jointly by the Governor and the legislative leaders. The Knight bill provides that the commission shall "make an inten-"sive study and investigation of "prison administration and prison "construction, and shall formulate "and propose a sound prison policy "for the treatment, segregation and "classification of prisoners, together "with a plan for the expansion of "prison industries, and a program "of prison construction adapted to "such policy." We have quoted the program at length because of the report from Albany that the Governor proposes to appoint two independent commissions of his own to study different phases of the prison problem. In the light of the broad authority given the joint commission, this would seem to be an unnecessary and confusing duplication of effort.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Rather Wide of Specifications.

In Mr. DURANTY's colorful account of the scenes attending the inauguration of the new Turkestan-Siberian railroad in the heart of Central Asia there is more than one item suggesting that the late KARL MARX might now and then find himself looking thoughtful if he were alive in 1930.

An audience composed of descendants of TAMERLANE and GENGHIS KHAN, of nomads astride camels and yaks, is greeted as "Comrades" by a girl orator from Moscow, who invites them to consider the subject of collectivization. The contrasts are even sharper than this. At one point the native crowd enters the dining car of a government train and there for the first time sees a mirror. The effect is precisely like that described by travelers in the heart of Africa in the early nineteenth century.

KARL MARX, whose studies led him to believe that Western capitalism at its highest development in Great Britain and the United States was bound to evolve into socialism, might have looked thoughtful if some one had told him that in 1930 England and the United States would still hold firmly by capitalism, but in the steppes of Central Asia girl orators would expound collectivism to comrades of the blood of GENGHIS KHAN mounted on yaks and unacquainted with mirrors.

Benefits of Marrying Frenchwomen.

From the days when noblemen began carrying to the altar the daughters of Newport, Chicago and Cincinnati, there has been in this country criticism of international marriages. American girls were advised by many to share their fortunes with "clean American men." Divorces which occasionally followed the foreign marriages gave further texts to the hymeneal nationalists. It was frequently said that international alliances were without benefit to the American member.

NELSON MORRIS JR. of Chicago is not a daughter of the rich, but a son. He made an international marriage, and can point to at least one definite advantage it conferred upon him. A French court has just decided that, because Mrs. MORRIS is a Frenchwoman, although the ceremony took place in the United States, she must obey her husband in France. As JEAN AUBERT she was a famous music-hall artiste, and recently against her husband's will sought to return to the stage in Paris.

Had it been in Chicago Mr. MORRIS might have forbidden until he was blue in the face. But, since the scene of the projected enterprise was Paris, Mr. MORRIS found himself officially certified as boss. Informed that in the United States wives do what they please, the court policely remarked: "Mais nous sommes ici."

San Francisco Air Ferry.

The best way to make a community air-minded is to establish a short-haul service of a standard company employing competent pilots. The country has heard of Air Ferries, Ltd., of San Francisco. It operates planes between that city, Oakland and Vallejo, and seems to have scored a great success. There is no lack of passengers.

In the first two months 7,400 persons who had never been "up" took a chance with Air Ferries, Ltd. A questionnaire distributed among the patrons brought out these facts: Seventy-one per cent used the planes for business reasons. After thirty days of operation 25 per cent of the passengers had become "habituals." Thirty-seven per cent had flown because they were in a hurry and wanted the fastest transportation. Women passengers "ranged from 20 per cent of the total on bad weather weekdays to 38 per cent on Sundays."

Crossing the bay by air to fill social engagements has become quite common. Curiosity is still a controlling motive with beginners. In proportion to population, California is the greatest motor vehicle State. It would seem to follow that, as it has more licensed air pilots proportionately and a considerable number of both long and short haul air services, Californians will soon rank first as patrons of air transportation.

Staggering Bridge Arithmetic.

The chances against dealing out four single-suited bridge hands have been estimated by British mathematicians as 2,235,000,000 quadrillions to one. That seems like a lot of chances against any happening. Yet twice since last October Britons sitting at contract tables have picked up four single-suited hands. The dispatch which tells of this grave matter adds that the facts were "authenticated."

It is true that one of the British players who underwent the harrowing experience of having a thirteen-heart hand overcalled by a thirteen-spade hand was the Mayor of Glastonbury. No American Mayor has been placed in such a position. But the similar American event was fixed by the circumstance of a husband throwing a bronze jar at the head of his wife and partner who did not realize that thirteen spades could outbid thirteen hearts.

If these things keep up, many are going to believe that "the devil" really is "in the cards." Only infernal powers, it would seem, would take the trouble to upset the weight of 2,235,000,000 quadrillions against one. Satan's reasons are obvious. Those who have once seen the thing happen will be looking for it forever afterward. This will cost them a good deal of money.

THE SILENT DRYS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Pertinent to the question "Are the drys voting in The Literary Digest poll?" the following analysis of the returns is offered:

The nine States generally conceded as containing the greatest percentage of wet sentiment, and comprising less than one-third the population of the United States according to the 1920 census, have cast nearly one-half the total votes which have been counted to date.

States.	Votes Counted.	Population.
Massachusetts	149,295	3,852,356
Rhode Island	16,643	604,397
Connecticut	84,752	1,380,631
New York	511,401	10,385,227
New Jersey	212,569	3,155,900
Pennsylvania	438,896	8,720,017
Maryland	41,406	1,440,661
Illinois	232,752	6,185,280
Wisconsin	82,488	2,632,067

Expressed in other words, the percentage of population voting in the aforementioned States was 4.6 per cent, while but 2.4 per cent of the balance of the country was polled.

Whether the more populous centres, which it is generally admitted are preponderatingly wet, have received an unduly large proportion of ballot blanks, is problematical. The fact remains, however, that the wet sections are voting most heavily. Since this condition is evident in comparing one State with another, it is reasonable to assume that the same applies in comparing different communities within the same State.

Upon this premise the conclusion is inevitable that the dry sentiment is far from being fairly represented.

Avoidable Accidents.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I thank you for the very helpful editorial in THE TIMES of April 22 concerning the State Department of Labor report on industrial accidents? I appreciate your stressing the point of the avoidability of industrial accidents and the value of educational campaigns among workers.

Many people, both employers and workers, are particularly blind to the dangers inherent in their own occupations until such dangers are called to their attention, either forcibly through accidents or through repeated admonitions and warnings. The public also is generally apathetic and without appreciation of the large amount of disinterested work which is being done to overcome working dangers.

Although accident prevention is but one feature of the varied work of the State Department of Labor, there is perhaps no other whose progress is more dependent upon the education of the public to its purposes and meaning. An important editorial utterance concerning this aspect of our work is therefore of incalculable value.

BREATH OF EMPIRE.

Where goes the pioneer, where blows the seed
From that bright flower of the cradling East?
Breaks he forever from the well-set feast;
Loosened on wind, he goes as one whose need
Leads him unhindered toward the stranger's land.
Peace had he plenty, but the tide swept west;
And distances were home-fire to his breast,
And heaven beyond the hollow of his hand.

Stand up, you pioneers, and catch the breath
Of empire where it bears your brotherhood
West toward that sun whose going down is good;
Whose going down is kingdom beyond death,
In that last country where the seed takes root.
Breath of an empire, you have nourished fruit!

HOWARD McKINLEY CORNING.

JUDGE PARKER'S DECISIONS.

Some of the Important Cases in Which He Has Written Opinions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It has been suggested by a few that the judicial career of Judge Parker has not been sufficiently "outstanding." It is worth while, therefore, to consider it briefly.

Appointed by President Coolidge to the bench of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit in October, 1925, the first decision in which Judge Parker participated was handed down Nov. 23 of that year, and the first case in which he wrote the opinion of the court was decided Jan. 12, 1926. In a little over four years he has participated in the decisions of hundreds of cases, having actually written the opinions of his court in no less than one hundred and fifty litigations. They cover a large and varied field of legal subjects. These include such topics as admiralty, adverse possession, bankruptcy, banks, bills and notes, carriers, colleges (liability of for torts), contracts, corporations, counties, courts, criminal law, eminent domain, fraudulent conveyances, injunctions, insurance, interstate commerce, labor litigation, municipal corporations, negligence, patents, police power, practice and procedure, principal and agent, prohibition, railroads, rate regulation, sales, search and seizure, suretyship, taxation, trespass.

Judge Parker was the author of the opinion in the case of Ettlinger against the Trustees of Randolph-Macon College, in Virginia, in which had been asserted the liability in damages of that institution for injuries to a student who had jumped from the window of a burning building, involving the responsibility of educational institutions generally for the negligence of their officers and employes. In this case Judge Parker decided that a non-stock corporation, operating an educational institution without expectation of profit, acquiring the property through charitable gifts and bequests and charging less than cost for board and tuition, was an eleemosynary organization, and as such was not liable for injuries to a student because of the negligence of the officers, agents or servants of the institution.

Another interesting case, involving originality in the application of old principles to new conditions, turned upon the contention that the death of one insured under an accident policy, which resulted from drinking what was supposed to be an ordinary gin cocktail but which in reality contained wood alcohol, was a consequence of an accidental cause within the purview of the policy. The affirmative of this proposition was sustained by Judge Parker.

In a prosecution for selling intoxicating liquor pursuant to a plan for entrapment, the defendant, informed of the designs of the prohibition enforcement officers, accepted the money, but delivered a jar of water instead of liquor. It was urged on the part of the United States that, because the defendant had accepted the money which was paid, agreeing to deliver intoxicating liquor in return, he was guilty of a violation of law, though liquor was not in fact delivered. But "the offense of illegally selling liquor," ruled Judge Parker, "is not committed by a bargain or executory contract for a sale."

In his opinions in "search and seizure" cases, Judge Parker has frequently upheld the liberty of the individual. "The rights guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment are not to be encroached upon or gradually depreciated by the imperceptible practice of courts or by well-intentioned but mistakenly overzealous executive officers," announced Judge Parker.

But where the evidence has fairly shown a violation of the national prohibition act, Judge Parker has been for strict enforcement. Thus in a case which arose in West Virginia, Judge Parker sustained the forfeiture of an automobile proved to be the property of a wife living with her husband, where the vehicle had been used in the transportation of intoxicating liquor by the husband under circumstances which were suspicious as to the wife's knowledge or connivance.

Then, too, Judge Parker's court, in judgments in which he has concurred, has decided cases for, as well as against, organized labor. In one such case it was held that the officers of a labor union would not be bound by a decree of injunction issued some years previously against their predecessors in office, determining the rights of parties as of that time. In this case (decided in 1926) it was also declared that an injunction against labor union officials would not be deemed to prohibit the use of lawful propaganda to increase union membership.

It is interesting also to consider that the official reports of decisions indicate a surprisingly small number of cases in which Judge Parker wrote the opinions for his court which have been reversed on appeal to the United States Supreme Court. In fact, only two such examples have been noted, and of these one was not reversed on the merits but because, though the controversy had become academic, an injunction was still in existence and, as the Supreme Court said, "to dismiss the appeals would leave the injunction in force." The only other reversal of a case in which Judge Parker wrote which has come to my attention was where Judge Parker had decided that a Federal intermediate credit bank could not maintain an action in a District Court of the United States, the act of Congress under which the bank was organized providing that the bank, for the purposes of jurisdiction, should be deemed a citizen of the State where it is located. There was strong analogy from decided cases for this position.

Judge Parker's judicial record is significant in another respect. There have been extremely few dissenting opinions by the other members of the Circuit Court of Appeals in cases in which Judge Parker has written the opinion of the court. In fact, only one such example has been observed, and on this occasion, on appeal to the United States Supreme Court, Judge Parker's opinion was sustained.

Judge Parker also wrote for a unanimous court the opinion in the very important case of the United States against Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, sustaining a judgment in favor of the United States and against that corporation and one of its subsidiaries for an amount which, including interest, was over $16,000,000.

POWER AND LIGHT RATES.

A Consumer Compares His Bills Here and in Canada.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of April 25 you publish a letter from Mr. Carlisle, chairman of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, in which he complains that Governor Roosevelt's statement dealing with power rates "creates the impression that the rates within the territory of our companies are much higher than those in the Province of Ontario," and he adds, "The Ontario sales bear practically no taxes."

I lived in Toronto from the birth of the Hydro-Electric system until August, 1926, and in New York City since that time. I have therefore a healthy realization of the difference in the rates charged there and here. I took the trouble in 1927 to compare what I paid in Toronto during the first six months of 1926 with what I paid here for the same period in 1927. Here are the figures:

TORONTO—1926.
January and February	$3.31
March and April	2.64
May and June	2.23
Total	$8.18

NEW YORK CITY—1927.
Jan. 10 to Feb. 10	$5.49
Feb. 10 to March 10	4.41
March 10 to April 11	3.83
April 11 to May 11	3.32
May 11 to June 10	3.74
June 10 to July 12	3.74

Those are the actual payments. I had the same-sized family and apartment in Toronto and used exactly the same electric utensils.

The charge that "Ontario sales bear practically no taxes" is a familiar one and is not true. The executive head of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D. C., published a report in 1925 in a volume bearing the title "Smithsonian Institution's Study of Natural Resources—Niagara Falls, Its Power Possibilities and Preservation," written by Samuel S. Wyer, associate in mineral technology, United States National Museum. In Part III of this report the author deals with "Ontario and United States Electric Service Compared." In seeking to explain why in Ontario the rates are "considerably below those prevailing in the United States," Mr. Wyer asserts: "The governmentally owned hydro-electric system * * * in Ontario is not taxed."

Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario system, in a report published in 1925, declares Mr. Wyer's statement to be "absolutely false." Here is what Sir Adam says:

"The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario pays taxes both to municipalities and to the Provincial Government, to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, not only on land which it occupies, but in connection with other properties which it operates. In addition, the commission has paid millions of dollars in customs duties to the government of Canada, directly and indirectly, on materials and equipment which must be imported from the United States and other countries—a charge for which there is no similar expense of comparable magnitude in the construction and operation of United States utilities."

From the consumers' standpoint it is worth remembering that in Ontario the element of profit is entirely removed and that municipal services are supplied at cost, and Sir Adam says, "In this regard the saving to the taxpayers has been estimated to be substantially in excess of $1,000,000 annually."

What Gray Wrote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An interesting editorial in THE TIMES of April 27, "On the Tip of the Tongue," dealing with the difficulty of quoting accurately from memory, took as its starting point the ninth stanza of Gray's "Elegy," of which it printed the third line as,

Await alike th' inevitable hour.

The line is frequently so printed, but the correct reading is "awaits," not "await." A manuscript copy in Gray's own hand, on exhibition in the British Museum and published by the museum in facsimile, plainly reads "awaits." "Th' inevitable hour" is the subject of "awaits"; the first two lines give its object. A little reflection will convince one that a writer so careful and precise as Gray could not have written "await," with the first two lines as subject and "th' inevitable hour" as object. That would be equivalent to saying that the noble, the powerful, the beautiful and the wealthy spend their time waiting for the hour of their death. No, it is "th' inevitable hour" which lies in wait for

And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave.

They spend their time advancing along "the paths of glory," forgetful of death, but somewhere on his path each finds "th' inevitable hour" awaiting him:

The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

CLARENCE H. KELSEY DIES OF PNEUMONIA

BEGAN CAREER AS LAWYER

A Founder of His Company of Which He Was Formerly President for 32 Years.

Clarence H. Kelsey, chairman of the board of directors of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, of which he was a founder and formerly for thirty-two years the president, died last night at his home in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., after a four days' illness of pneumonia. He was 73 years old. Surviving are his widow, who was Elizabeth B. Tomlinson of Bridgeport at their marriage in 1885; three sons, Stephen T., Courtland and John Forsyth Kelsey; two sisters, the Misses Louise H. and Annie Kelsey, and a brother, Clifford S. Kelsey.

Born at Bridgeport, Conn., the son of Courtland and Sarah Hoyt Kelsey, Mr Kelsey received his preparation for college at a school in Newport, Conn. He was graduated from Yale in 1878, delivering the valedictory oration for his class. After attending the Hamilton Law School he was admitted to the New York bar in 1880 and practiced for two years.

In 1882 Mr. Kelsey helped organize the Title Guarantee and Trust Company and remained with it for the rest of his life. He was president of the company from 1891 until January, 1923, when he assumed the newly created office of chairman of the board. Under his presidency and chairmanship the company developed tremendously. The year 1924 saw the total mortgage sales pass $100,000,000 and in 1927 the total for the year passed $150,000,000.

Mr. Kelsey was chairman of the board of the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, vice president of the City Real Estate Company, a director of the Corn Exchange Bank, Corn Products Refining Company, Home Insurance Company, United States Life Insurance Company, Thompson-Starrett Company, Westchester Title & Trust Company. He was recently elected to the board of the Consolidated Gas Company, and until lately he had been a director of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

One of the most loyal and actively devoted of the alumni of his university, Mr. Kelsey had served as a member of the Yale Corporation, was for years a member of the University finance committee and had also been a director of the alumni university fund. His interest in education extended to other institutions. He was a member of the council and executive committee of New York University and recently he was chosen chairman of the board of trustees of Hampton Industrial Institute, succeeding in this office his classmate and intimate friend, the late Chief Justice William H. Taft. His connection with Hampton was perhaps the chief of many instances of Mr. Kelsey's long and practical service to the Negro. Five years ago he served as chairman of the executive committee of the Hampton-Tuskegee endowment fund campaign, which raised the $5,000,000 needed to meet the conditions of George Eastman's offer of an additional $2,000,000.

For the last forty years Mr. Kelsey had made his home in the Oranges, where, as in New York City, he aided many forms of community enterprise. His clubs were the University and Yale.

WALTER I. COX DIES; DISTINGUISHED PAINTER

New Yorker Stricken on Visit Near Washington—Cousin of Sir Esme Howard.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Walter I. Cox of New York, portrait painter and editor of Talk of the Town, died at the Alexandria Hospital in Alexandria, Va., this morning, at the age of 64.

He had been at the hospital since Sunday, having gone there on advice of his physician. Death was caused by complications brought on by grip which culminated in uremic coma.

Mr. Cox painted portraits of President Harding, Lady Astor and several European princes. His most recent work was a portrait of the late Chief Justice Taft, which will be hung in the new Supreme Court Building.

Mr. Cox went to Alexandria ten days ago, and was visiting at the home of Mrs. Mabel O. Smith, 109 Rucker Place. He was about to paint a portrait of Secretary of War Hurley.

Born in England, Mr. Cox was a cousin of Sir Esme Howard, until recently British Ambassador to the United States. He is survived by two brothers and two sisters, all in England. The eldest brother, P. Snead Cox, is society editor of The London Tablet.

A fire in the building at 108 West Fifty-ninth Street at 2 A. M. Nov. 14, 1926, destroyed or severely damaged the contents of several studios, including that of Mr. Cox, who said he lost the work of forty years, between 200 and 300 pictures.

MRS. GELLATLY TO MARRY.

East Orange Couple's Daughter to Wed J. W. Root, Chicago Architect.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 30.—John W. Root, distinguished Chicago architect, will be married in New York tomorrow to Mrs. Aletta S. Gellatly, formerly of Chicago, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Stout of East Orange, N. J., it was announced here today.

The couple will go to Europe for a month and on their return here will live at 73 East Elm Street, Mr. Boyd said.

Mrs. Ellen Dudley Root obtained a divorce from Mr. Root last month, with custody of their child, Denyse, 12 years old.

Mrs. Gellatly's former marriage to William Bonwill Gellatly of South Orange, N. J., was ended by divorce.

French Envoy Host to J. P. Morgan.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Paul Claudel gave a dinner last night at the Ritz Tower for J. Pierpont Morgan. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Owen D. Young and George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank.

T. N. UTZ, BROKER, DIES; STRICKEN ON STAGE

Larchmont Man Finished Role in Club Play After He Had Suffered Stroke.

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., April 30.—Although in agony, Theodore N. Utz gave a hilarious performance in the chief comedy part of a play presented by the Larchmont Woman's Club last night, and died at 8 A. M. today of a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Utz, whose wife is president of the club, was manager of the New Rochelle branch of Auerbach, Pollack & Richardson, New York brokers, and formerly lived in Mount Vernon and Bronxville.

After the performance, throughout which he kept the audience in laughter, Mr. Utz complained of having suffered severe pains in his head during the play. His suffering became worse on the way home in his automobile. Dr. L. F. Planche, who attended him, said he had suffered a stroke.

Mr. Utz was a football star while a student at Stevens Institute. He was a founder of the Larchmont Shore Club and a member of the Larchmont University Club and the Bronxville lodge of Masons.

PROF. HARLEY F. ROBERTS.

Long a Member of Taft School Faculty Dies at Age of 69.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, Conn., April 30.—Professor Harley Fish Roberts, former member of the Taft School faculty, died early this morning of heart disease at his residence here. His age was 69.

Professor Roberts had been head of the Latin department and vice president and treasurer of the school for nearly twenty years. After a popular career as member of the Yale Latin faculty for a decade, he came here in 1897, and five years later became a part owner of the school with Horace D. Taft, when the school was incorporated.

Professor Roberts had been prominent in civic affairs. With Principal Taft he directed a campaign for the financial and educational expansion of the school during the last two years. He was a graduate of Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

Bride of Two Months Dies.

Mrs. Kathryn Buckley Schneitter, wife of J. Lee Schneitter and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Buckley, died on Tuesday after an illness of three weeks. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the home of her parents, 58 Rutland Road, Brooklyn. A solemn requiem mass will follow at the Church of St. Francis of Assisi, in which she was married two months ago. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery. Besides her husband and parents, she left three sisters and two brothers.

Mrs. Thomas Green Bush.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 30.—Mrs. Thomas Green Bush, known throughout this State for her philanthropy and social work, died here yesterday afternoon after a brief illness of pneumonia. For more than thirty years she had been prominently connected with Y. W. C. A. work and with social service work among working girls. Her gifts to charity totaled more than $1,000,000, most of which was given to help individuals. A daughter and four sons survive her.

Mrs. Selma Naomi Slobodin.

Mrs. Selma Naomi Slobodin, wife of Harry L. Slobodin, lawyer, died Monday at her residence, 549 Riverside Drive. She was born in Washington, D. C., a daughter of Simon Goldstein. Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Roman and Richard Slobodin. She was a founder and the first president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Bronx, a director of the Mothers' Association of Temple Sha-aray Bfilla, and an active member of the Parents and Teachers Association of the Ethical Culture School. Services will be held at the residence at 10.30 this morning.

BRIG. GEN. HOXIE DIES IN MIAMI AT 85

Noted Army Engineer Had Served in Civil War and the Spanish-American.

EXPERT ON FORTIFICATIONS

In Charge Here During Conflict With Spain — Enlisted at 17 in Union Army—Honored by Grant.

MIAMI, Fla., April 30 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Richard Leveridge Hoxie, U. S. Army, retired, veteran of the Civil War and the Spanish-American War, died at his Winter home here yesterday after a long illness. Mrs. Hoxie was with him when he died. His age was 85.

After preliminary funeral services here the body will be sent to Washington, where military services will be held. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

General Hoxie, close friend and adviser of Henry M. Flagler, pioneer developer of the Florida's east coast, first came to Florida in 1873.

Honored for War Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—General Hoxie, who was a Colonel in the Engineer Corps before his retirement, was advanced on that occasion to the grade of Brigadier General in recognition of his distinguished service in the Civil War.

The son of Joseph and Jacqueline Barry Hoxie, General Hoxie was born in New York on Aug. 7, 1844. He was educated in Italy (1851-1858), in Iowa State University (1858-1861), and at West Point (1864-1868).

When a boy of 17 he enlisted in the First Iowa Cavalry as a private and became a bugler and later a corporal in Company F, serving in the Civil War. It was after this service, in 1864, that he entered the Military Academy.

Chosen by Grant to End Graft.

Among his comrades in the Military Academy was the late Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, son of President Grant, who was an enthusiastic admirer of his code of ethics and talked about him so much at home that President Grant became interested. A few years later, when charges of graft and corruption in the Engineering Department of the District of Columbia made a change of administration advisable, President Grant chose Hoxie for the post, saying, "I know Hoxie and can trust him. If there is any dishonesty, he will find it and have it stopped."

The period from 1874 to 1878, when General Hoxie served as Engineer of the District, was one of the most important in the development of Washington, for the city had outgrown its previous plans for public utilities. General Hoxie built new sewer systems, which were so well constructed that they are giving good service today. He planned the water supply system for Washington, which included great filtration plants and a large underground aqueduct. He laid out a part of Rock Creek Park and many of the most important streets and public squares in the city.

For some years General Hoxie was Professor of Astronomy and other subjects in the post-graduate School for Army Engineers at Willetts Point, L. I. He held many important posts in various parts of the country. Immediately after graduation from West Point he was assistant [illegible] Lieutenant Wheeler. He did important exploring [illegible].

During the Spanish-American War General Hoxie was in charge of fortifications along the New England coast and also in and near New York City.

Gave Valuable Aid in World War.

Although physical limitations prevented active duty by him during the World War, he gave valuable service to the Government in an advisory capacity. As he was an expert on fortifications and in touch with all work of that nature from Maine to Savannah, he was called into consultation frequently.

In 1878 General Hoxie married Miss Vinnie Ream, sculptor, who died in 1914, leaving a son, Richard Ream Hoxie. In 1917 he married Miss Ruth Norcross, who survives him, besides his son and two nieces, Mrs. J. Harrison Smith of Philadelphia and Miss Marie Louise Harrison of New York. [illegible] Washington residence, his boyhood home in Iowa City and his Winter home in Miami.

General Hoxie was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, National Geographic Society, Sons of the American Revolution, Loyal Legion and Metropolitan, Army and Navy and Cosmos Clubs of this city, and the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh and the University Club of Baltimore.

ARRESTED AS MAKER OF DEADLY DRINK

TWO OTHERS ARE SOUGHT

Alcohol Not Properly Denatured and Creosotes Blamed for Killing 12, Paralyzing 5,000.

What prohibition officials believe to be the source of a drink known as "Ginger Jake," whose ingredients are blamed for the deaths of twelve persons and for more than 5,000 cases of partial paralysis in Kentucky, Tennessee and the Southwestern States, where the epidemic is described as "Jake Foot," was traced yesterday to Brooklyn, with the arrest here of Walter E. Anderson, 36 years old, of 243 Bainbridge Street.

Anderson, who was arrested by V. D. Splane, prohibition agent of the Kentucky District, and Michael Bolan, special agent of the Treasury Department, Washington, where the "epidemic" had been under investigation by Commissioner James M. Doran, is one of the three men wanted here in connection with the manufacture and shipment of the extract.

Arraigned before Edward E. Fay, United States Commissioner in Brooklyn, Anderson was held in $15,000 bail for a hearing on May 13 on removal proceedings to Covington, Ky., where he and thirty-one others, mostly distributers, have been indicted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Reported Made in Brooklyn.

Anderson, according to Splane, manufactured the extract at the factory of Decker, Ingraham & Smith on Remsen Street, Brooklyn. The formula, prescribed in the United States pharmacopoeia, permitted the use of alcohol as a preservative for ginger used in the extract, but the alcohol was of small percentage and so much ginger was used that the extract was not potable as a beverage.

Because the company used more alcohol than the government allowed in its formula, Anderson, according to the agent, lost his alcohol permit on Jan. 11. Since then Federal authorities in various States have been confronted with a serious problem.

Beginning in Kentucky and spreading to Tennessee, North Carolina, Kansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Ohio and Louisiana, and then coming east to Connecticut, thousands of persons suddenly became victims of a malady laid to drinking the concoction. In cases of paralysis the victims' feet were first attacked, and later sufferers frequently were unable to move any part of their bodies. Officials of the State Health Department in Oklahoma City said recently that no complete recoveries had been reported among 400 cases there.

Labelled "Jamaica Ginger."

The sufferers told investigators they had bought stuff labelled "Jamaica ginger," which they mixed with ginger ale. Analysis of "Ginger Jake" in New Orleans disclosed carbolic acid, creosote and castor oil.

Federal agents, according to Splane, traced the epidemic to three suppliers of "Jake" in Brooklyn, one of whom is said to be a wealthy citizen of that borough. Anderson, it is charged, became head of the Elon Company, 186 Joralemon Street, five days after the Prohibition Administrator had refused to renew his alcohol permit.

Instead of using a regulation ginger root for the extract, Anderson and others who have not been arrested are charged with having used a substitute, besides alcohol that had not been properly denatured. To the substitute for ginger is laid to "jake foot." Creosote was used sometimes as a substitute, it was said.

The extract, Splane said, was shipped from Brooklyn in two-ounce bottles, and sold by druggists, candy stores and other places.

It was wholesaled, it was alleged, at $225 a barrel.

DECLINE IN DEATH RATE OF WAGE EARNERS SEEN

Insurance Statisticians Fix It at New Low of 9.4 Per 1,000 for March.

With the establishment of a new low death rate of 9.4 per 1,000 for March, the first quarter of the year 1930 shows the best health conditions for any similar period of any year among the wage-earning population of the United States and Canada, according to a report made public yesterday by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's statistical bureau on the health experience of its 19,000,000 industrial policy holders in the two countries. "This cross-section of the population," it was said, "furnishes a reliable index of health conditions in the country as a whole."

The absence of epidemics during the Winter, it was announced, made it certain that this quarter would be an improvement over the first quarter of 1929, when, owing to the prevalence of influenza, health conditions were the worst experienced in that period during the entire decade. Comparison with 1928, a normally healthy year, shows considerable reduction for all death causes combined and a marked improvement for influenza, tuberculosis, pneumonia, intestinal complaints and chronic nephritis.

Tuberculosis deaths showed the sharpest drop in the quarter, the white death rate among policy holders from this disease having been 65.3 per 100,000, a reduction of 10.3 per cent from the lowest previous first quarter figures, and the colored policy-holder death rate from the disease was 207.8 per 100,000, a drop of 4.6 per cent. It is hoped, the company declared, that 1930 will register a new minimum tuberculosis death rate.

"With the exception of scarlet fever," the report continued, "the principal diseases of childhood have shown reduced mortality as compared with the Winters of 1928 and 1929. Such a noteworthy drop has been recorded for diphtheria that all indications point to a new minimum rate for this disease this year. At the end of March the diphtheria mortality rate, for white and colored policy holders combined, was 8.9 per 100,000, as compared with 10.7 in 1929."

A pronounced drop was noted in the cancer death rate among the whites, the company announced.

An Open Letter to the Public

New York, May 1, 1930

THE USUAL QUESTION: "Why is Wanamaker's located at Broadway, Eighth to Tenth Streets?"

THE REAL ANSWER: "To save annually at least the sum of $2,400,000 in the interest of its patrons."

AND HERE IS THE EXPLANATION:

A.

April 20th, 1903, a ground leasehold was entered into between The Trustees of the Sailors' Snug Harbor in the City of New York, and A. T. Stewart Realty Company, for term of 91 years from May 1st, 1903. By its terms 3 parcels of land were to be enjoyed by the lessee. They are as follows:

No. 1. The Block, Broadway to Fourth Avenue, 8th to 9th St.
No. 2. The Block, Broadway to Fourth Avenue, 9th to 10th St.
No. 3. The northwest corner Fourth Avenue and 10th Street of small irregular size.

The approximate ground area of parcel No. 2 was 55,000 sq. ft.

Recently we conveyed to the Grace Church Corporation, for its benefit, and the future beautification of its exquisite setting, the northwest corner of Tenth Street and Fourth Avenue (referred to above as No. 3) and the annual rent we paid for this location has been credited on the annual rent we pay for our entire holding.

On the South Block we constructed a 14 story building, with basement, which gives us approximately 1,033,000 square feet.

On the Ninth to Tenth Street Block was the original A. T. Stewart Store Building, 6 stories, with basement, which gives us approximately 481,000 square feet.

In both buildings we have, approximately, 1,515,000 square feet.

Both blocks are surrounded by streets, thus insuring permanent light and ventilation.

Our Annual Rent is Not in Excess of $1,100,000

We have been in possession since May 1st, 1903. We have over 60 years of our leasehold remaining, with right of renewal under the terms of the lease.

B.

Almost daily, for the past few years, we have been importuned to take a site on Upper Park Avenue, or Upper Fifth Avenue.

All propositions for rentals, in these localities, received by us from responsible New York Real Estate Brokers, of outstanding character, and expert knowledge of values and development, have all indicated that to secure a satisfactory site, in either of these particular locations, would demand an annual rent of not less than $3,500,000. Even then, block tracts could not be secured where light and ventilation would equal our present location.

C.

We are now reaping the value of our faith in Tenth Street and Broadway, by the apparent inflated valuations which have been injected into these new locations.

Our values have been fixed, as of 1903, and they were determined for a long lease of 91 years from May 1st, 1903.

The Up-town values have been soaring in a pyrotechnic manner, with little consideration as to the amount of annual business that could be transacted on a given area of space, with profit to the lessee, but by the amount of money that could be realized from tenants by huddling them. This imposes an excessive valuation upon land for proposed office building skyscrapers of 45 stories, or more, the construction of huge apartment houses and buildings of similar character, catering to a mass occupancy, many of which are only making a profit, and possibly a very low one, to the owner.

With this object of real estate development in mind promoters have so increased rentals that the side avenues have become the refuge of many where they are endeavoring to do an annual business which will permit them to pay exalted rents, and still make a profit for their support.

D.

Apparently the only relief from this high annual rent burden may have been the effort made by some to go into Chain Stores, to open Suburban Branches, to try and intercept trade flowing into New York City from its close Suburbs, or surrounding nearby States, and thus make an effort to cut down its high rental overhead on its main place of business.

E.

The only alleged advantage these stores appear to have over the Central part of New York City is their supposed accessibility. But times have changed. Within the past few years subways have been built. Traffic conditions are unbearable. A Store in the Central part of New York City is just as accessible, if not more so, than either of the Up-town locations above indicated. This is due to the Subways. To the speed by which people can come direct to Wanamaker's under covered roof, from Upper and Lower Manhattan, and the Bronx. From Brooklyn, and Queens, with direct connections from many of New York's largest hotels, and for out of town visitors through the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations.

F.

There is no delay by exasperating traffic conditions where streets are lined with automobiles as if on storage in a garage. No waiting for the disappearance of a red signal, or the blowing of a belated whistle. No gasoline or tire expense, or annoyance. No danger from collisions. No taxi fares. It is a time-saver if you are in a hurry.

And why not have more life for things you enjoy to do than to be stalled in a machine?

It is the subways that are doing it.

G.

The tide has begun to turn. From the wave of long distances up town the water is now receding towards the middle of the City.

Within the past few years 96 new apartment buildings have been erected, with nearly 6,000 separate Apartments, and about 18,000 rooms, at a cost of over $38,000,000 in lower Fifth Avenue and vicinity, including 10th & Broadway, where Alexander T. Stewart decided to erect his new building, and where under his ownership, and that of his successor, John Wanamaker, it has been the scene of memorable mercantile victories.

H.

But you may think we are not enjoying a large volume of business in our present location. This is because we have never told you, but now we will let you peep in, behind the scenes, as it were, (since we have removed the display windows from the North Building) and tell you that on one day last week we sold more than $36,000 in women's shoes. From one advertisement we have sold $60,000 of towels. From another $40,000 of sheets. From another $100,000 of rugs. Furniture days from $50,000 to $75,000 are not unusual. Nor $30,000 to $65,000 of men's clothing. In objects of art sales on individual pieces have ranged from $15,000 to $40,000.

Our New York Store is running a close second to the annual volume of sales of our Philadelphia Store, and both our Stores are steadily growing and making strong headway in increased sales.

I.

We just cite these few facts to let you see what is going on at 10th & Broadway. Why we have been so quiet about not taking up supposed alluring propositions to move elsewhere, and why we have simply minded our own business, going ahead in the interest of ourselves, and our patrons.

We have given careful hearing to all seductive voices that have tried to prove to us there were store sites of ungarnered gold in the districts we have referred to, but when we put our practical knowledge of store-keeping to the test, and knew how such excessive rental would be against the interest of our patrons, we are well satisfied to toil on in our old location for their benefit.

J.

This is a Store for the benefit of the General Public. We are not in for Class Distinction.

This business was built on the principle of selling the best quality of merchandise at the least fair profit of return, for the benefit of the many. This is the policy we adhere to.

K.

We invite you to see our Coin de Paris, our London and Tribout Shops, our new Silver Court, our Shop Au Quatrieme.

Drop in and see our new decorations. Our famous Rotunda.

Come by the subways if your time is limited, or by automobile, taxi, bus, elevated or surface car to suit your convenience.

You are always welcome. Thank you.

ORDERS I. R. T. SPEND $12,000,000 FOR CARS

COURT FIGHT IS FORECAST

Company Expected to Plead That It Lacks Funds and Hold Demand Is Confiscatory.

PAYS $1,938,554 TO CITY

Turns Over Revenue for Last Quarter—Fullen Resumes B. M. T. Unification Parleys.

The Transit Commission directed the Interborough Rapid Transit Company yesterday to purchase 289 new steel cars, at an estimated cost of from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000, and to place them in operation on its subway lines by October, 1931. The commission's order was issued at about the same time that the company was forwarding to Controller Berry its check for $1,938,554.84 in payment of the city's share of the Interborough's subway revenue for the quarter ended March 31.

Under the terms of the car order the company is required to place thirty cars in operation by Dec. 1, 1930, thirty more each month thereafter, up to and including March 1, 1931, and the remainder, or 169 cars, by Oct. 1, 1931. The estimated cost includes the expense of about $25,000 a car plus the cost of installing additional power facilities required for their operation. The estimated cost of the cars alone is about $7,500,000.

The Interborough has ten days within which to signify whether or not it will comply with the order. Although officials of the company were silent yesterday on their attitude, it is a foregone conclusion that the company will make the order the basis of a court action, contending that it has no adequate financial resources for financing the improvements and that the order is, therefore, confiscatory.

Action Follows Hearings.

The order is the result of hearings held in the Winter of 1927 on the safety and adequacy of Interborough equipment and service. The announcement that the commission intended at that time to order the purchase of 432 new cars was one factor which brought about the company's unsuccessful Federal court litigation for a seven-cent fare on subway and elevated lines. Last Fall the commission prepared a compromise order calling for purchase of a similar number, but it was held up pending conferences with the company on the feasibility of having the city lend the company the funds with which to purchase the new equipment. Yesterday's order was issued because Chairman Fuller and his associates were convinced that the company, having turned down the offer of city aid, intended to take no voluntary action.

The order calls for 169 standard motor cars, fifty motor cars of the Steinway type and seventy-one trailers. It requires that all contracts, purchase orders and specifications be submitted to the commission for approval and that bids be submitted for the commission's approval not later than two months from yesterday.

The order makes provision for changes in car design, but requires commission approval of any modifications sought by the company. A two months' extension of the time for putting the cars in operation will be allowed if car design changes are approved.

Allotment of New Cars.

According to a schedule planned by the commission's service bureau the new cars will be apportioned as follows: West side line, sixty express and thirty local; east side line, twenty express, eighty-four local; Queens lines, forty-eight to be used on the present service, fifty on the proposed express service, which will be available when existing third trackage signaling has been completed.

If the new cars are placed in operation the morning and evening rush hours will be extended, so that maximum ten-car trains on the express lines and six-car trains on the local lines will be run. Longer trains will also be run on the non-rush hour schedules. In Queens the present maximum service consists of ten-car trains on the Flushing line and seven-car trains on the Astoria division. Addition of the new cars will provide ten-car trains for both lines.

The Interborough now has 2,272 cars in operation on its subway lines, according to the Transit Commission. Hearings held before the commission in 1927 and before Commissioner Lockwood last Fall brought a flood of testimony showing overcrowded conditions of cars at Grand Central Station, Times Square and at the principal stations on the Queens routes.

Second Payment to Be Made.

The $1,938,554.84 payment made by the company to Controller Berry is in accordance with the terms of Contract 3 under which the company operates its subway lines, leased from the city. On Aug. 31, 1929, the company paid the city $5,886,342.30, supplementing a payment of $404,775.95 on July 26 of that year, the transaction being part of a settlement of a $14,107,373 suspense account embracing disputed claims under the contract. The company also paid nearly $3,000,000 into a depreciation fund. The payment yesterday was the second quarterly payment since the date of the settlement.

The Transit Commission resumed its conference with B. M. T. officials yesterday, looking to unification of the company's rapid transit lines with those now being built by the city. Chairman Fullen conferred briefly with Leroy T. Harkness and A. M. Williams of B. M. T. counsel and will hold another conference in a few days.

As the unification conferences were resumed word was received that the protective committee of Interborough certificate holders, headed by Gerhard M. Dahl of the B. M. T., had increased its holdings to 100,009 certificates of deposit, listed on the Stock Exchange. The committee now holds about 28.5 per cent of the company's outstanding 343,754 certificates. It is expected to make a definite move, when its holdings have climbed a bit higher, to have the stockholders for whom it is acting represented in the unification parleys.

Flights to the Moon Forecast By Bishop in 17th Century Book

A small leather bound volume in which John Wilkins, Bishop of Chester, writing in the early seventeenth century, predicted the day of flying machines capable of reaching the moon, became the property of the American Interplanetary Society yesterday, a gift of Hugo Gernsback. The book was presented by Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, a descendant of the author, in a ceremony at the American Museum of Natural History.

"The Discovery of a New World, or a Discourse Tending to Prove That There May Be an Habitable World in the Moon, and Concerning the Possibility of a Passage Thither," was the title given the work by Bishop Wilkins, who set forth, under the second proposition:

"I do seriously and upon good grounds affirm it possible to make a flying chariot, in which a man may sit, and give such a motion to it, as it may convey him through the air. And this might perhaps be made large enough to convey divers men at the same time, together with food for their viaticum and commodities for traffic."

ACTS TO STAY ORDER ON WHITESTONE LINE

Transit Board Asks Rehearing Before I. C. C. on Abandonment of Train Service.

DENIES ITS JURISDICTION

Charges a Hardship to 1,000,000 Commuters Annually and Sees Danger to Realty Values.

The Transit Commission filed yesterday with the Interstate Commerce Commission an application for a rehearing on the Federal board's order of April 10 authorizing the Long Island Railroad Company to abandon its Whitestone branch in Queens, provided it substituted, if legally possible, an adequate bus service. The petition asks that the operation of the order, otherwise effective on May 10, be stayed pending a rehearing. The application was signed by Chairman William G. Fullen and George H. Stover, counsel for the commission.

If the application is granted argument will be heard by the full membership of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The abandonment order was issued by a majority vote of three commissioners. The Transit Commission, in its rehearing application, relies on points stressed in a dissenting opinion by Commissioner Aitchison. Affirmation of the order by the full commission will still leave the Transit Commission with recourse to the United States Supreme Court.

In its application the Transit Commission takes the stand that the Federal Board has no jurisdiction; that the abandonment will work hardship on more than 1,000,000 commuters annually from the Malba, College Point and Whitestone communities; that it would "compel home owners to move, cut real estate values by 15 to 20 per cent, cause withdrawal of industries and force the city to expend about $27,000,000 for substitute transit lines which could not be ready in less five years." The Long Island's steady increase in revenue, the application declares, warrants its continuing to maintain the branch, and removes the danger that continued operation will be a burden on interstate commerce.

The application attacks the proposed bus service as inadequate and doubts the ability of the Federal commission to compel the operation of the bus service specified in its order. It alleges also that the order is in abrogation of the State's right, by ordering grade crossing removals, to protect the life and property of its citizens.

HEAR MARCONI FROM ROME.

Radio Heads Here Talk With Him on His Yacht as America Listens In.

A group at New York and another group 4,400 miles away, aboard a yacht in a harbor near Rome, Italy, including Senator Guglielmo Marconi and Mrs. Marconi, conversed with each other yesterday afternoon by way of short-wave radio while listeners throughout America intercepted their words over two broadcasting chains.

At the headquarters of the National Broadcasting Company, 711 Fifth Avenue, were M. H. Aylesworth, president; David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America; Karl Bickel, president of the United Press Association, and others. Besides Senator and Mrs. Marconi, those who were heard included Gaston Mathieu, his assistant, and Edward A. Storer, foreign representative of the United Press.

The WJZ and WEAF nation-wide chains carried the conversations to American audiences.

QUESTION CAPONE IN HAVANA

Police Let Him Go When He Assures Them Trip Is for Pleasure.

HAVANA, April 30 (AP).—The slumber of Al Capone of Chicago, who arrived here for a vacation trip yesterday, was disturbed by the police this morning and he was escorted to headquarters to explain the purpose of his visit here.

Although he appeared disgruntled at having his rest interrupted, Capone accompanied Santiago Trujillo Martinez, chief of the Cuban Secret Service, to headquarters and answered the questions put to him through an interpreter. After informing the police that his airplane trip to Havana with seven companions was for pleasure only, he was permitted to return to his hotel.

Capone said he would return to Miami to be present in court when the demurrer to a petition requesting the closing of his home on Palm Island is heard.

Plane Crash Kills 2 Army Cadets.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 30 (AP).—Cadets Raymond M. Rowe, 24, and Benjamin Ellsworth Tilton Jr., 26, students in the Army's advanced flying school at Kelly Field, were killed today in an airplane crash about ten miles southeast of Bandera. Cadet Tilton, a graduate of Cornell, lived in Utica, N. Y.

MAYOR IS ARRESTED IN NORTH BERGEN

He, With Treasurer, Clerk and Four Committeemen, Charged With Misfeasance in Office.

TAXPAYER PUSHES CASE

Bases Accusation on Transfer of $650,000 From Trust Accounts to Current Funds.

Seven officials of North Bergen, including Mayor Charles J. Morris, were arrested yesterday on warrants charging misfeasance in office and conspiracy to transfer $625,000 from the trust and capital accounts to the current account of the municipality between June and October, 1929. Besides Mayor Morris the officials arrested included Harry Jager, the 72-year-old township treasurer; Edward Ryan, township clerk, and Committeemen Joseph Caufield, Sherman Porter, Henry Wolff and Edmund Lawlor.

The seven defendants, having been apprised of their impending arrests by newspaper reports, waited at the Town Hall for the arresting detectives. They spent several hours in the various offices while the formalities were completed in the office of Judge Thomas H. Brown of the Common Pleas Court in Jersey City, who signed the warrants. In view of their official positions they were permitted to drive to the court house in Jersey City in their own automobiles.

Judge Brown held each in $1,500 bail, which was furnished by two surety companies. None of the defendants would discuss the complaint. It was the second arrest for Township Treasurer Jager and Township Clerk Ryan since the Supreme Court investigation of the town's affairs disclosed that at least $2,000,000 of the municipal funds had been "diverted, overexpended, misappropriated, or stolen," since 1925.

Seven other officials had been arrested previously as a result of the investigation and Vincent Amorosa, clerk in the office of Treasurer Jager, is serving a five-year sentence in State prison, having pleaded guilty to embezzlement.

Robert Sanwald, a taxpayer, who furnished the $5,000 bond for the Supreme Court investigation, has been complainant in all the criminal cases against the officials.

For the warrants issued yesterday he used the testimony at recent hearings as a basis for his charges, stating that the $625,000 had been placed in trust and capital accounts of the township for the express purpose of meeting maturing bonds which had been issued for public improvements. Without authorization, he charged, and in violation of the law the committeemen, Mayor and treasurer had transferred the money to the depleted current account.

John Coar and Edward Beck, committeemen from the Second Ward, are the only two officials in the governing body of the township who have not been arrested. Both are opposed to the McMahon leadership of the Democratic forces in the town and had testified that many financial transactions of importance had been carried on in secret by the other members.

Supreme Court Commissioner John Cough, who presided at the investigation, is now completing his report, which is to be submitted to the court.

BOWS TO WHITE RESIDENTS.

Negro Y. M. C. A. Officer Drops Plan to Live in White Plains.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 30.—Samuel R. Morsoll, Negro secretary of the White Plains Young Men's Christian Association, has decided to live in Harlem instead of at the residence of Dr. Errold Collymore, Negro dentist, in the exclusive Highlands part of this city, according to an announcement made by Y. M. C. A. officials following a meeting of the association's directors and trustees held here last night.

It was believed yesterday that when Mr. Morsell went to Pittsburgh last night to get his family he would return to live at the Collymore residence. Some pressure was believed to have been brought to bear on Mr. Morsell because of threats of residents of the Highlands section to withdraw their support from the Y. M. C. A. and community chest unless he moved from the Collymore place. Earle P. Hite, counsel for the Highlands Civic Association, declared efforts would be continued to oust Dr. Collymore from the Highlands and to remove from the Carhart section Dr. A. M. Williams, Negro physician, who lives at 22 De Kalb Avenue, in a house fromerly occupied by State Senator Walter Westall.

GARDENS IN CITY EXHIBITED

School Nature League Displays Four in Aid of Its Work.

Four gardens in Manhattan were exhibited yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the School Nature League, an organization which encourages the study of nature among school children. The proceeds from the exhibits held yesterday will be used to further the league's campaign to place "a nature room in every school."

The gardens exhibited yesterday were those of Mrs. Jacob B. Jais, 290 West End Avenue; Mrs. Howard Cullman, 208 East Sixty-second Street; Mrs. William Herbert, 434 West Twenty-second Street, and St. John's Episcopal Church, 218 West Eleventh Street. The School Nature League selected each garden exhibited to demonstrate the horticultural possibilities of urban garden plots.

GUILTY IN IMMIGRANT CASE.

Peter Contonis, New York Agent, Is Sentenced at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 30 (AP).—Peter Contonis, a New York shipping and ticket agent, was found guilty by a jury in Federal district court here today on a charge of violating the immigration laws and was sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta and fined $2,000.

Helen Lulegis and her brother, Harris, the latter a New York fur merchant, also indicted with Contonis, received suspended sentences. Miss Lulegis was placed on probation for a two-year period and instructed to report every two months to the Commissioner of Immigration in the New England district.

Mrs. R. L. Dodge Pays $213,286 to Customs; Avoids Smuggling Charge by Record Penalty

Mrs. Robert L. Dodge, president of Harriet Hubbard Ayer, Inc., a cosmetics concern, closed her account with the United States Customs late yesterday with a certified check for $213,286, representing penalties, forfeiture values and duties on undeclared and undervalued goods brought in the French liner Ile de France on April 15.

The penalty imposed is the largest in the history of the Port of New York and probably the largest in the country, Collector of the Port Philip Elting declared yesterday. Mrs. Dodge, accompanied by her husband, also an officer of the cosmetics company, brought in a score of trunks on the Ile de France. Discrepancies were discovered by the examining inspector and these led to further discoveries.

Most of the goods were undeclared, and most of the undervalued merchandise was undervalued on the declaration by more than half, a check-up revealed. It was subsequently disclosed that other goods had been brought in in a like manner in five previous trips in the last five years, officials said yesterday.

After business hours last night Collector Elting, Henry C. Stuart, deputy collector; George Brewer of the legal division and special agents of the Treasury Department met Mrs. Dodge's attorney, William Hines of the firm of Marlow & Hines, 76 William Street, who turned over the check, officially closing the case against Mr. and Mrs. Dodge. Collector Elting said that Mrs. Dodge was seriously ill at her Mill Neck (L. I.) home and could not appear.

Of the sum paid, $38,245 was for furs, $41,725 for jewelry and $9,340 represented duties on jewelry brought in previously and on which no fine could be assessed. An official said this was jewelry which "we couldn't prove was smuggled into the country" and on which the Dodges were willing to pay regular duties.

In the collector's office was United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, who had announced that he might prosecute Mrs. Dodge under the Federal law against smuggling. He said yesterday that he considered the high penalty sufficient punishment.

PLAN FOR 3 BRIDGES HERE IS APPROVED

Bronx-Randalls Island, Queens-Wards Island and Hell Gate Get War Department O. K.

BRONX KILLS DAM FAVORED

Plans for Harlem River Bridge at East 125th St. Altered and Approval Later Is Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Applications for the construction of three bridges in New York were approved by the War Department today.

One was for a structure across Bronx Kills connecting the borough of the Bronx and Randall's Island, N. Y., another was for a bridge across the East River between Ward's Island and Queens Borough, New York City; a third was for a structure across Little Hell Gate connecting Ward's Island and Randall's Island, New York City.

The department approved an application for the construction of a dam across Bronx Kills between the borough of the Bronx and Randall's Island, New York City.

The approval of plans for the construction of three of the four bridges of the triborough plan by acting Secretary Davison is the result of a hearing at the Army Building, 39 Whitehall Street, last July, at which representatives of railroad and harbor shipping interests appeared. The construction of a dam across Bronx Kills, which was not part of the original plan, also resulted from that hearing at which shipping interests protested that the currents of the Harlem River and the Bronx Kills were dangerous.

The dam is designed to alter the flow of the currents, it was explained yesterday at the office of Colonel G. M. Hoffman, district Army engineer.

Mr. Davison failed to approve the plans for the fourth bridge, a crossing over the Harlem River from Randall's Island to East 125th Street, Manhattan, the construction of which was opposed by the Port Authority and some shipping interests. The original plans have been changed and are now in the hands of the Chief of Army Engineers. When finally passed upon they will be sent to Mr. Davison, and their approval is expected.

BONDSMAN CONVICTED IN BAIL FRAUD CASE

First Guilty Verdict Is Found in Inquiry Into the Abuses in Magistrates' Courts.

Joseph Steiner, 48 years old, a licensed bail bondsman, who lived at 111 East Eighty-second Street and had an office at 11 West Forty-second Street, was found guilty by a jury in General Sessions yesterday of defrauding a woman for whose nephew he had furnished a bail bond. He was the first bail bondsman to be convicted in connection with the recent grand jury investigation of bail bond abuses in the magistrates' courts.

Steiner was convicted of second degree larceny and remanded to the Tombs by Judge Allen for sentence next Tuesday. Two forgery and two grand larceny indictments had been returned against him on the complaint of Mrs. Cordelia Raymond, a Negro, of 407 West 145th Street.

Mrs. Raymond testified that in September last her nephew was arrested for having policy slips in his possession. She was waiting for his arraignment the next day in the Washington Heights Court when Steiner approached her and offered to provide bail for him.

He induced her to give him her bank book, showing deposits of about $800, and to sign two papers, the nature of which she did not understand. Steiner then went to the bank and withdrew $500 from her account. Later he withdrew another $150. He kept the $650, she charged.

OPPOSING TEACHERS RESENT PRIAL STAND

Retirement Board Candidates' Committee Calls It "Unseemly Interference With Election."

MRS. PEIXOTTO IS HONORED

Named by Dr. O'Shea to Head Group to Aid Campaign of National Education Association Here.

Supporters of Mrs. Bridget C. Peixotto, opposition candidate for the election which begins today of a teacher-member of the Teachers' Retirement Board, defended their campaign methods yesterday against attacks by Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial and Christopher C. Mollenhauer of the Board of Education. Mr. Prial and Mr. Mollenhauer, who are known as "city-members" of the retirement board, are backing Miss Anna E. Lawson for re-election as a teacher-member.

The Peixotto campaign committee, of which Morris Raben, principal of Public School 90, Bronx, is chairman, made a statement calling the position of Mr. Prial and Mr. Mollenhauer in the election an "unseemly and reprehensible interference by city-members with the integrity of our elections." They said it was the first time in the history of the retirement board that "city-members have attempted to interfere with the election of a teacher-member." Mr. Prial had charged the Piexotto supporters were using dishonest methods.

"We, as teachers, have a vital interest in the preservation of the retirement system," the committee said, "and we should have a right to elect our representative free from official coercion or any appearance thereof." They asked whether city-members feared they could not control Mrs. Peixotto's vote.

Henry Mendelsohn, principal of Public School 167, Brooklyn, against whom a subcommittee of the retirement board has made charges, said that the allegation of "politics" in the retirement board had been made not by Peixotto supporters but by Frederick Z. Lewis, teacher-member of the board and supporter of Miss Lawson, at a legislative hearing on March 18. Mr. Lewis was rebuked by other members, Mr. Mendelsohn said.

According to T. D. Martin of the National Education Association, Dr. O'Shea has appointed Mrs. Peixotto chairman of a campaign committee to enlist New York teachers in that association. Dr. Harold G. Campbell, acting superintendent in Dr. O'Shea's absence, has announced she was appointed State representative at the association's last convention.

Mr. Martin spoke at a meeting of the New York Principals' Association at the Brevoort Hotel. He said he had come from Washington at the instance of J. W. Crabtree, national secretary, expressly to organize the campaign. "Twenty per cent of teachers in the country are members," he said, "but only 10 per cent in New York. We are not organized for the sole purpose of obtaining a Federal Board of Education, as is supposed."

John J. Loftus, president of the Principals' Association, said it was neutral in the election.

To print over 750,000 copies (net paid sale) of The Times next Sunday will require over 2,546,000 pounds of paper. A single copy of the city edition with suburban rotogravure section will weigh 3.45 pounds.

WHALEN ACCLAIMED, CALLS MEN 'FINEST'

Receiving Scroll From Officers at Dinner, He Terms Force Best That Could Be Formed.

McKEE DECRIES DRY LAW

Blames It for Partly Breaking Down Old Standards—1,200 Attend the Celebration.

Acclaimed by his men, who presented him with engrossed resolutions of appreciation for his increase of efficiency in the department, Police Commissioner Whalen at a dinner of the commanding officers at the Hotel Astor last night, in turn paid tribute to his men as "the finest and most efficient police organization that could be gathered anywhere in the world."

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee called upon the force to become "exemplars of law and order," that they might give to the community "the finest influence and the finest impulse to bring the standards that we feel are so necessary for the safeguarding of our homes and the welfare of our country." He said that, in large measure because of prohibition, there had been a breakdown of the old standards of community morals and a disrespect of law.

There were more than 1,200 crowded into the dining room and balconies. Preceded by a color guard, Commissioner Whalen left the dais and went to the stage to receive the resolutions, presented by Inspector David Kane on behalf of the captains', lieutenants', sergeants' and patrolmen's associations. The resolution read:

We, the officers and delegates of the four-line police organizations, representing the various ranks in the department, hereby express to the Police Commissioner our sincere appreciation and gratitude for all he has done during his administration for the betterment of the force and the increase of its efficiency; and that we specifically endorse and approve the extension of the emergency unit service and the abolition of the reserve.

"I take this tribute of the resolutions not as a personal matter but one that stands for progress in the Police Department, that stands for improved efficiency in a department that we are all so proud of," said the commissioner.

After expressing his admiration and affection for them, he said that the police parade of Saturday was a demonstration, if one is needed, of "a fighting machine that could go forth and do battle for the preservation of law and order, and that it would triumph in any such battle there was no question of a doubt as you saw those smart young men pass in review."

"With all due modesty," he went on, "I say to you that our record, which will shortly be made public, for the past year, as far as the crime situation is concerned, will amply indicate that the words which I speak are not idle words and that the record has never before been equaled and will be difficult to excel in the future."

Touching upon the Mayor's absence, Commissioner Whalen said:

"We regret exceedingly that His Honor, the Mayor, is not here tonight, but I left him but a short hour ago and I found that he was still suffering very much from the strain and the burdens of his office.

"He had just given too much of himself to the all-important task that is before him, and I say to you now that I am sending this message to the Mayor over the air, and I hope that he is listening in, that we miss him very much tonight and we want to pay to him that debt of gratitude in the compliment which we owe him for his splendid support and his always fine advice in connection with the administration of the Police Department in the past year.

"And, personally, may I say to His Honor, the Mayor, that I am deeply grateful to him for all that he has done in the splendid support that he has given me as Police Commissioner during the past fourteen months."

Other speakers were Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, District Attorneys Thomas C. T. Crain, Charles B. McLaughlin of the Bronx; James T. Hallinan of Queens and George E. Brower of Brooklyn and Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman.

SHOUSE SEES PARTY GAINS.

Expects Democrats to Win 40 More Seats in House and 6 in Senate.

The prediction that the Democrats would win at least forty more seats in the House of Representatives and six more seats in the Senate in the elections in November was made yesterday by Jouett Shouse, active director of the Democratic National Committee, who arrived in New York yesterday to look over and discuss the political situation with leaders.

He expressed the opinion that prohibition would be a paramount issue in 1932 and that this would be reflected both in the platforms of the two parties and in their Presidential nominees. He predicted the Republicans would be as badly split on this issue as were the Democrats in 1928 and as they appear to be now.

Mr. Shouse waved aside the suggestion that he might ultimately succeed John J. Raskob as Democratic national chairman and said he had no personal opinion on the question of candidates for the Presidency.

Mr. Shouse added that "there is a lot of talk about Roosevelt," who "is believed by Democrats all over the country to have made a fine record and who is widely liked and admired." Mr. Shouse said also that there was talk of Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker and Senator Joseph T. Robinson. He added that former Governor Smith would be a big factor in the next convention.

WILL NOT ADMONISH RECTOR

Bishop Abbott Says It Would Be Absurd to Follow Court Order.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 30 (AP).—Bishop H. P. Almon Abbott, who tendered his resignation yesterday because of dissatisfaction over the verdict in the ecclesiastical trial of the Rev. Julius A. Velasco, said today he would not carry out the sentence of the court to admonish the young rector for language he used to the Bishop.

The rector was exonerated of breaking a promise to resign if he married a Catholic and of unbecoming conduct, but was ordered admonished by the Bishop.

Bishop Abbott said that "under the circumstances it would be absurd to admonish him" and that he had no intention of asking any other church dignitary to carry out the order of the ecclesiastical court.

Will Rogers Looks in Vain For Census Man to List Him

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 30.—I have advertised, schemed around, and even tried to find somebody who knew somebody who had influence with somebody that was on the census taking crew but I can't get my or my family's name on anywhere. Well, at least my conscience will be clear. I won't have been in any way responsible for any more men going to Congress. When all the bragging is done by towns, the jails' increase will make a sucker out of all of them. That's the matter with Cleveland, Ohio, they are all in Columbus.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

SMITH WELCOMED TO 34TH ST. DISTRICT

Ex-Governor at the Ceremony Sees Area as Heart of City for the Next 50 Years.

TRACESMANHATTANGROWTH

The roar of the riveting machines that are fastening together the great steel skeleton of the Empire State Building, at Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue were silenced shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in order that former Governor Alfred E. Smith, head of the building enterprise, might receive and respond to a neighborly welcome to that section of the city.

The welcome was extended on the main floor of the James McCreery & Co. department store in West Thirty-fourth Street, by Samuel W. Rayburn, president of the Associated Dry Goods Corporation, and J. E. Priddy, president of McCreery & Co. The occasion was given broader significance by the title, "Greater Thirty-fourth Street Celebration." McCreery's 1,600 or more employes and a large number of other persons attended the ceremonies.

The history of the growth of that section was depicted in the windows of McCreery's from its farmland days up to its present prosperity. In Mr. Smith's address and in those of others this history was touched upon again. The speakers predicted that this section, for the next half century, would be the business and shopping centre of Manhattan.

Telegrams from Governor Roosevelt, Acting Mayor McKee, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland and others were read.

"Manhattan Island," said Mr. Smith, "is in the process of remaking. It has been, in a sense, sent to the laundry for cleansing and for patching up, but all this is with a view to a better Manhattan than ever. The island started with a series of villages. We are now in the old Kip's Bay section and there was once a bay that ran up to about Second Avenue here.

"In remaking Manhattan we must stabilize some section. Wall Street, you know, was stabilized as the financial section. This is the new midtown section, stabilized as such because it is between two important, immovable things, the Pennsylvania and Grand Central Railroad stations. For that reason alone this is definitely established as the midtown section for a half centry to come.

"Women once bought their hoopskirts and bustles in Canal and Grand Streets, they bought their leg-o'mutton sleeves in Fourteenth Street, and now they buy in Thirty-fourth Street the modern dresses which are such a slight drain on the dress goods supply.

"Why were my associates in the Empire State Building attracted to this corner? Because the geography of Manhattan will not permit much more of an advance northward. I believe this section is firmly fixed as the great business centre. Nowhere could you witness such economic waste as in the demolition of the old Waldorf-Astoria. Outside of the copper on its roof and the steel, which was sold for scrap, all of that building now lies at the bottom of the sea, five miles off Sandy Hook. The building, which in any other city would have remained standing for many years yet, was not commensurate with the value of the land on which it rested. It had to go."

PREPARES FOR AIR SHOW.

Madison Square Garden to House Largest Exhibit of Planes.

Work was commenced last night at Madison Square Garden to prepare for the largest gathering of transport airplanes ever placed under one roof. The six planes that are to occupy the main arena of the Garden when the New York Air Show opens Saturday evening under the sponsorship of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, are built to carry a total of 106 persons.

As a preliminary to the opening of the show beginning this morning at 11 o'clock at the Queensborough Golf and Country Club in Bayside, there is to be a two-day glider carnival. The contests sponsored by the chamber, it was announced, will bring out such fliers as Clarence D. Chamberlin, Miss Amelia Earhart and Frank Hawks.

COAL CUT $1 A TON HERE.

Usual May 1 Reduction in Price Is Doubled This Year.

Retail prices of coal throughout the city are $1 less a ton today than they were yesterday. The large coal companies first announced the May 1 cut and smaller dealers fell into line to meet the new price. In previous years there has been a cut of fifty cents a ton, effective April 1 and then a gradual increase until September, when the Winter prices became effective.

This year, to stimulate early buying of next Winter's supply by householders, the cut was made today. This price will be effective until July 1, when there will be an increase of fifty cents a ton and a similar increase on Sept. 1.

According to Burns Brothers the prices today are: $12.50 for broken; $13, egg and nut; $13.50 stove, and $8.50 for pea sizes.

COOLEY COLLAPSES BUT INQUIRY GOES ON

Suspended Probation Chief Has Been in Hospital Since Saturday, Lawyer Reveals.

STRAIN OF CASE IS BLAMED

Seven Witnesses Questioned by Grand Jury—Phone Records of Office Also Studied.

COURT HEARING PUT OVER

Illness Halts Action by Ousted Aides—Woman Denies Taking Any Official Papers.

Shortly after the grand jury resumed its investigation yesterday of the General Sessions Probation Bureau it was announced that on Saturday Edwin J. Cooley, suspended chief of the bureau, had been removed to St. Vincent's Hospital because of a nervous breakdown. Mr. Cooley was reported to have collapsed as a result of charges alleged to have been made against him and Mrs. Eileen S. Coughlin, suspended deputy chief of the bureau, by witnesses in the grand jury inquiry.

The revelation he had been taken to the hospital came in the Tombs Court, when Magistrate George W. Simpson was about to open the hearing in the summons proceeding instituted against the suspended bureau head by Abe Klein and his wife, Bella Fine Klein, two former employes of the bureau, who were dismissed in the early part of last month by the judges of General Sessions on charges made against them by Mr. Cooley. They alleged in their complaint that since the opening of the grand jury inquiry Mr. Cooley had made a libelous statement about them in a newspaper interview.

George Z. Medalie, Mr. Cooley's lawyer, handed Magistrate Simpson a certificate from Dr. Cornelius J. Tyson of 37 East Sixty-fourth Street to the effect that Mr. Cooley had suffered a "profound nervous collapse," which would necessitate his remaining in the hospital for at least a week. The magistrate thereupon adjourned the hearing until Mr. Cooley would be able to appear.

Seven witnesses, most of them attachés of the Probation Bureau, were questioned before the grand jury yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Hastings. Mrs. Lillian Rogers, a stenographer in the bureau, was reported to have testified to incidents she witnessed in the bureau several months ago. Another witness was Charles Quinlan, the custodian of the Criminal Courts Building, in which the Probation Bureau is located, but the significance of his testimony could not be learned.

Mary H. Layville, a probation officer, was seen to enter the grand jury room with the bureau's records on out-of-town telephone calls. It was rumored that her testimony was in relation to telephone calls made from the bureau to Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler, a sister of Mr. Cooley, in Buffalo, during the seven months in 1929 in which Mrs. Lawler, although on the payroll of a Buffalo public school as a teacher, was employed as provisional chief clerk of the bureau. There had been previous testimony, it was reported, that Mrs. Lawler was absent from the bureau because of illness for five months of the time of her employment.

It was learned yesterday that Assistant District Attorney Hastings will call Mrs. Klein, former cashier and bookkeeper in the bureau, before the grand jurors today. The prosecutor obtained statements from the woman and her husband yesterday.

Before the opening of yesterday's session of the grand jury Mr. Hastings received a letter from Hyman Bushel, counsel for Mrs. Coughlin, the suspended assistant bureau chief. The letter was in reply to one the prosecutor had addressed to Mrs. Coughlin inquiring about a bundle of papers Mrs. Coughlin was reported to have taken from the bureau files last Friday when she and Mr. Cooley were relieved of their duties by the General Sessions judges at their own requests.

Mr. Bushel said that Mrs. Coughlin had taken only personal papers belonging to herself and Mr. Cooley, including Mr. Cooley's bank book, a small red book containing private telephone numbers and several uncompleted manuscripts. The bundle also contained a picture of her two small sons and some articles of wearing apparel she wore about the office, he declared.

Commissioner of Accounts Higgins said yesterday that he expected to report today to District Attorney Crain on the final audit of the "restitution and family support" fund of the bureau. On Jan. 7, he said, Mr. Cooley had written to him requesting an audit of this account. On Jan. 15 Mr. Higgins sent auditors there, and they have been checking the transactions since that date. Mr. Higgins said he had made a personal investigation of the practice of cashing employes' pay checks from these funds, the results of which would be included in his report.

CONSCIENCE HITS VETERAN.

Ex-Soldier Sends War Department $110.76, Including 10 Years' Interest

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—An unusually severe attack of conscience ten years after the war has caused an ex-soldier to send the War Department a check for $110.76.

An itemized statement he submitted, with an offer to accept "such punishment as may be deemed best," read:

Marksman's extra pay received but not deserved—$14.
Three weeks' pay while sick, not in line of duty—$24.
Five days A. W. O. L., never discovered by C. O.—$5.
Request for reduced railroad fare illegally used—$10.
One small spark coil (may have been government property)—$5.
Ten yards of target cloth stolen—$5.
Government stationery and envelopes used—$5.
Interest for ten years at 5 per cent—$42.76.

The Treasury's already large conscience fund is the beneficiary of the check.

WOMEN VOTERS HIT CHARGE OF FUTILITY

Replying to Dr. Mitchell, They Cite League's Fight for Laws to Aid Women Workers.

VALUE PROVED, SAYS HEAD

Miss Belle Sherwin, However, Declares Members Must Struggle to Hold Decade's Gains.

By WINIFRED MALLON.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—Using the gavel with which Susan B. Anthony called many a suffrage meeting to order, Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, today formally opened the first business session of the biennial convention at which the league is celebrating here its tenth birthday.

From the reception by the delegate body of the proposed program of work for the next two years, presented this morning by Mrs. W. W. Ramsey of Illinois, and the informal discussions around the table of the seven regional luncheon parties held this afternoon, it is clear that, as indicated by the committee conferences of the last two days, the major interest of the League will be concentrated on international cooperation for the prevention of war and on support of the Sheppard-Towner plan of Federal aid to the States in promoting maternity and infant hygiene, represented in the present Congress by the bill introduced by Senator Jones of Washington.

Keen interest is manifest also in independent nationality for women in jury service for women wherever this privilege is withheld and in the improvement of labor laws affecting women and children.

Criticism Is Resented.

Indignation was freely expressed today over the address yesterday of Dr. Broadus Mitchell of Baltimore, who accused the league of dissipating its energies in international and national activities to the neglect of civic and social conditions in their own communities.

No such charge, they warmly asserted, can justly be laid at their door, in proof of which they pointed to the league's record in support of State legislation providing for minimum wage, shorter hours, prohibition of night work and enforcement of labor laws for women.

Loyal devotion to the league as an experiment of proved value in adult education, and to its president, whose re-election is certain if she will accept the office, was manifested tonight in the reception by the delegates of the address in which Miss Sherwin reviewed the "ten years of growth" of the organization, and predicted its enlarged usefulness and power during the next decade.

The league, Miss Sherwin declared, "has become a living organism of education."

"We are conscious of a tingling current of life within the league, which is our capital," she declared. "Our question at the end of the ten years is how is that to be invested that it may work on a larger scale in the next ten years. The idea of which the league was born is vital, but its time is not yet so fully come that it can be hidden in any measure of meal we know and left to do its quiet, yeasty work of itself.

"To keep what we have gained in ten years strains our resources. We run to stay where we are. It is a necessary thing to do in order to hold that frontier of political education in democratic habit which we have gained.

"Let not one of us dare stay the current of growth we here record in gratitude together. Hidden but real, it is a fresh current in democratic life. It gives new impulse toward the realization of democratic government. Let no one delay it."

Support of Naval Treaty Urged.

Support of the treaty agreed upon at the London naval conference was urged by Miss Ruth Morgan of New York at the Second Regional Conference luncheon today, at which Mrs. Harry Whitney of Pennsylvania presided as regional director.

The proposed budget of the League for the next two years reported today by the national treasurer, Mrs. Frank P. Hixon of Florida, calls for an expenditure of $131,000 as against $128,000 during the last two years. As the estimated receipts for this period amount to $102,500 a balance of $28,500 must be raised, if the budget is approved by the convention.

Tribute to Smith Applauded.

Mrs. Leslie J. Tompkins of New York City, chairman of the committee on legislation for New York State, addressed the conference on efficiency in government, illustrating her points with an account of the reorganization recently effected in New York. Her tribute to Governor Smith, "who was instrumental in bringing it about," was received with applause by the assembled delegates.

Mrs. H. K. Smith of Connecticut responded to the address of welcome delivered by William B. Harrison, the Mayor of Louisville, on the opening of the session this morning.

Mrs. Henry Goddard Leech of New York was appointed chairman of the courtesy resolutions committee.

Mrs. Henry Steffens Jr. of Michigan presented the annual report of the secretary; Miss Ludington, the biennial report of the radio committee; Miss Gladys Harrison, Washington, executive secretary, the national headquarters report; Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, Illinois, the proposed program of work, and Miss Agnes Hilton, Ohio, a report on the committee on by-law revision.

Mrs. Reuben Post Halleck, Louisville, chairman of the temporary election committee, was made head of the permanent committee.

The proposed change in the by-laws includes an amendment providing that before an affiliated league may be dropped charges against it must be reviewed by the national board. Then the affiliated organization, in case the charges are sustained, has further recourse by appeal to the next convention.

New Kind of Music Created in Light Beams; Tones Hitherto Unheard Produced at M. I. T.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 30.—A musical instrument in which beams of light and a photo-electric cell have been utilized to produce entirely new musical sounds has been developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, it was announced today.

It was constructed by Professor Arthur C. Hardy and Sherwood F. Brown of the Department of Physics for du Val R. Goldthwaite, a patron of music of New York, who conceived the idea for the instrument and made its development possible.

Mr. Goldthwaite's original idea was to develop an instrument which would create musical sounds that cannot be produced on any existing instrument. The new instrument, according to Professor Hardy, produces synthetic musical sounds which have never been heard before, and, in addition, is capable of reproducing the sounds of most of the existing instruments.

The instrument, which has not yet been named, is played in the manner of a piano, and the first experimental model, which has a three-octave keyboard, was designed to stimulate the deep, resonant tones of an organ. This sound was synthesized from the analysis of the tone of a large pipe organ. By slight changes, however, the instrument can be made to reproduce the sound of almost any instrument, such as a violin, clarinet or oboe. Musicians who have heard the instrument believe it opens a new field for musical expression.

The heart of the instrument is a glass disk on which are recorded photographically a number of concentric sound tracks. This disk is rotated rapidly in front of a photo-electric cell and light from a small lamp is allowed to pass through the sound tracks and generates electric currents in the photo-electric cell. These currents are then amplified and fed to a powerful loud-speaker. A shutter is placed just in front of each sound track and is operated by depressing the proper key on an ordinary piano keyboard. The pitch of each note is determined by the number of wave-forms on each sound track. This makes it possible to play in the natural, or diatonic scale, since the key can be altered by changing the speed of rotation of the disk.

The quality or timbre of the sound may be varied at will by changing the form of the wave in recording. The distortion in the loud-speaker, which sometimes spoils the enjoyment of radio programs for musicians, is completely eliminated by altering the form of the wave in recording.

WYOMING IN PORT; FIGHTING DAYS OVER

AWAITS TREATY RESULTS

The nineteen-year-old battleship Wyoming steamed in from the sea yesterday, four days out of Guantanamo, Cuba, and warped into Berth 3 at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Year after year the Wyoming has made the run from Ambrose through the Narrows in much the same way, but as the bo's'n "piped down" yesterday and the last line was made fast to a bollard on the dock, both officers and crew seemed to sense a finality in the ship's arrival.

A three-starred Vice Admiral's flag still fluttered from her main and the great white "E" on her stack testified to the efficiency of her sweetly running engines—some of the first turbines built for the navy. But as the ship moored and her colors were shifted from gaff to staff it was realized, as one of her officers expressed it, that she may never again return to the navy's Cuban drill grounds, where the fleet has held manoeuvres for decades.

Fighting Equipment Must Go.

Either the Wyoming, now the flagship of the Scouting Fleet, or her sister ship, the Arkansas, is to be stricken from the commissioned list of the Navy when the Treaty of London is ratified by its signatory nations, and opinions yesterday indicated that the Wyoming is to make the sacrifice. By the terms of the treaty she may either be retained as a training ship, emasculated of all the fighting qualities of a man o' war or she must be scrapped.

No definite decision has been made by the Navy Department as to the eventual disposition of the ship, but orders from Washington have directed her commanding officer, Captain F. L. Pinney, and navy yard officials to expend upon her and her sister ship sufficient funds and labor to keep the two vessels in active operating trim for just eight more months.

The Wyoming is the second major vessel of the fleet to arrive in New York for the annual period of rest and recreation for officers and men. She is to undergo refit and overhaul at the navy yard, where she will remain until the middle of June. The Arkansas and sixty-three other vessels of the combined Battle and Scouting Fleets are expected to enter port the early part of next week.

Tells of Manoeuvres.

Vice Admiral W. C. Cole, commanding the Scouting Fleet, spoke yesterday of the manoeuvres off Cuba and the Canal Zone, in which his forces opposed the Battle Fleet from Pacific Coast ports, commanded by Admiral L. M. Nulton. Admiral Cole was modest in his estimate of Scouting Fleet achievements and explained that the navy does not conduct its imaginery "wars" to have the ships "beat" each other.

In the manoeuvres the lack of destroyers, the majority of which are being replaced by similar ships held in reserve since the war, was markedly felt, he said, and the fleet's need of cruisers, now in process of fulfilment, again was emphasized. Admiral Cole praised the sea keeping qualities of the Salt Lake City, first 10,000-ton cruiser built for the navy, which joined the fleet recently after a "shake-down" cruise to South America.

Say Atlantic Ships "Cleaned Up."

The sun-tanned enlisted men, many with close-cropped "pates" or curly beards after their four months stay in the south, were not so reticent about the "victories" gained by the Scouting Fleet. For the first time in many years, it was explained, the ships from the Atlantic ports "cleaned up" the Battle Fleet in the war games, in gunnery competitions and in athletics.

The Wyoming won the engineering trophy for the past competition year for efficiency; her sister ship the Arkansas took the American Defense Cup and the Spokane Cup for general excellence in gunnery and won the raceboat championship. Both of these two ships claim New York as their "home port." The U. S. S. Wright, also an Atlantic Coast ship, won the baseball pennant and the Scouting Fleet received a trophy for general athletic excellence.

Invitations for a dinner for the officers of the sixty-six ships of the fleet which are to be in New York next week were issued yesterday. The dinner will be held on May 8 at 7 P. M. at the Astor. A ball for the enlisted men at the same place on May 12 also has been planned.

AESCHBACH ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF WIFE

Prosecutor Asks Death Penalty for Morristown Slayer—Jury Is Selected.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., April 30.—In less than twenty minutes a jury of eight men and four women were chosen and sworn in this morning to try Gustav Aeschbach of Morristown Heights for the murder of his wife, Louise, at the home of Michael Burnes, in Jacqui Avenue, Morris Plains, where she had been employed. The shooting took place March 31.

During the selection of the jury Aeschbach sat beside his counsel and conferred with him as each of the jurors was called. He made no objection to any of those called.

In opening the case, Prosecutor Meslar detailed the circumstances leading up to the slaying and said he would show that the defendant had considered the crime four days before he carried it out. He asked the jury for a conviction for first-degree murder without a recommendation for mercy.

Mrs. Aeschbach had been employed as a nurse for Mr. Byrnes, an invalid, since Dec. 2. She contributed liberally, the prosecutor said, to the support of her home and her two children, a boy, 8, and a girl, 6. On March 28 Aeschbach and his wife attended the movies in Morristown.

On the way home he asked her to give up her position and return to live with him.

She accompanied him to their home in Morristown Heights and after a short stay kissed the children good-night and left.

Two days later her husband called her on the phone at the Byrnes home and asked to meet her that night. She agreed, but later changed her mind and refused to meet him.

The following Monday night, March 31, he called his wife on the phone again and invited her to their home. She hung up the phone before the conversation was ended. Aeschbach put a pistol in his pocket, the prosecutor said, walked more than a mile to the Byrnes home and called for his wife. She refused to return home and he pulled a pistol from his pocket and shot five times. Four of the bullets took effect.

Aeschbach has been examined by three alienists, who have pronounced him sane.

HYMN WINS $200 PRIZE OF CHRISTIAN HERALD

Ohio Woman's Work Commemorates 1900th Anniversary of the Founding of the Church.

The Christian Herald's $200 prize for the best original hymn commemorating the ninteen hundredth anniversary of Pentecost and the founding of the Christian Church has been won by Mrs. Gertrude Robinson of Circleville, Ohio., it was announced yesterday. Sixteen hundred persons entered the contest.

Mrs. Robinson's hymn, entitled "Humbly and Fervently," which is described as "a prayer for Pentecostal blessings upon the Church Universal," is intended to be sung to the tune of "Come Ye Disconsolate." It follows:

Humbly and fervently bow we before Thee,
God of humanity; great is Thy care.
All whom Thy spirit guides truly adore Thee;
Hear Thou and answer our Pentecost prayer!

Come as a sacred wind, mighty and rushing
Into our hearts; for we dream of release.
Come, O Thou Holy Ghost, blessing and hushing
All of our spirits in infinite peace.

Pour out Thy spirit! God, give us Thy vision.
Righteousness spread abroad, through all the earth!
Lift our souls unto Thee, seal our decision;
We would but further Thy spirit's rebirth.

Then shall we steadfastly walk with Thee, breaking
Bread of Thy holy love, shared with all men;
Praying that from its night Earth may be waking;
Pentecost Spirit, O, come Thou again!

At a meeting of the New York Hymn Society yesterday afternoon in the Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, Carl F. Price, member of the executive committee of the organization, pleaded for better hymns so that congregations would not be compelled to sing out-of-date tunes. He believed that a renaissance in all church music is coming soon.

GOLDSBOROUGH BUCKS WIND

Young Airman Passes Midland, Texas, in Cross-Country Flight.

MIDLAND, Texas, April 30 (AP).—Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old aviator who seeks to set a new junior transcontinental flight record from New York to Los Angeles, landed at the Midland Airport at 6 P. M. today. He took off again for El Paso at 6:15 P. M. He said he was late because of unfavorable weather and head winds.

STATE EXPENSE ROSE IN LAST FISCAL YEAR

Expenditures Were $295,215,211 and Receipts From All Sources $287,652,263.

YEAR BEGAN WITH BALANCE

This Took Care of Excess in Payments Over Income and Left a Surplus of $84,214,513.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 30.—Expenditures of the State during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, according to a report by the Division of Finance of the Department of Taxation and Finance, exceeded the receipts from all sources by $7,562,948, but at the beginning of that year there was a balance of $91,777,101 in the treasury which enabled the State to begin the current year with a surplus of $84,214,513.

The amount of taxes collected during the 1928-29 fiscal year was $220,812,524. It cost $1,701,701 to run the 1929 legislative session, including the salaries of the 201 lawmakers and of the working forces of the Legislature. The State paid into its various sinking funds for interest and amortization on its funded indebtedness the large total of $27,147,400. Some idea of the large amounts included in these funds is derived from the information contained in the report that the interest on investments and bank balances of the canal debt sinking fund amounted to more than $5,500,000, while the interest from investments made for the highway sinking fund was in excess of $1,500,000.

Direct Tax Brought $12,616,490.

The report shows that the State received $12,616,490.51 from the direct State tax and that $3,968,902.37 of this amount came from New York County. The tax for the operation and maintenance of armories totaled $1,110,320.61, Erie County leading with $187,981.30 for its share in that brigade district assessment.

The court and stenographers' tax amounted to $923,309.14 and Kings County made the largest contribution with $129,286.49.

The State received from the mortgage tax, $5,732,097.51, New York County contributing the largest share with $3,722,204.46. Other taxes shown on the report included that from notaries totaling $225,672.50; public administrators, $47,304.84, and the twenty-year Court and Trust Fund, $39,853.76.

It was disclosed that the only corporate stock which the State owns is 5,000 shares of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, these being marked to the credit of the common school fund. Originally this totaled only 1,000 shares, but by a stock split-up it was increased to 5,000 shares. Subscription rights to the original 1,000 shares of this stock, issued last year, were sold by the State Controller at $43 a share, the State receiving $42,997.14 and the Federal Government the remaining $2.86 which had to be paid as Federal tax on the transfer.

The total contributed to the employes' retirement system was $8,632,687.97, the State's share of this being $3,575,059.92. The total contributed to the hospital employes' retirement system fund, which is separate from the employes' retirement system, was $779,000.

LAND DEAL ATTORNEYS TO GET $25,000 EACH

Ward Halves Syme's Bill for Westchester Inquiry to Make His Fee Equal to That of Wise.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 30.—Each of the two Special Deputy Attorneys General employed in the prosecution of the Westchester County land cases during the investigation of the past year will receive $25,000 for their services, according to approved bills for the two attorneys received by County Controller Jere Milleman from Attorney General Hamilton Ward and made public here today.

Sydney A. Syme of this city and Henry A. Wise of New York are the special prosecutors who receive the $25,000 fees. Syme had asked for $50,000 in view of his 131 days of work on the land cases. Wise listed only eighty-six days in his bill.

Controller Milleman announced he would have to ask the Board of Supervisors on Monday for an appropriation to meet the bills. Other expenses of the land investigation to date amount to $23,549. The total expenses of the investigation are expected to amount to about $90,000.

The land inquiry was ordered by Governor Roosevelt after his receipt of complaints about the county's purchase of a parcel of land in this city for $948,000. Samuel Untermyer conducted a preliminary investigation and recommended a grand jury investigation, which was ordered last Fall by Acting Governor Herbert Lehman. Four indictments were voted by the grand jury but none of the defendants was convicted.

LAUDER SAILS FOR HOME.

Sir Harry to Make Seventh Farewell Tour at End of 1931.

Sir Harry Lauder sailed for home in the Cunarder Mauretania yesterday, accompanied by his niece, Miss Greta Lauder. The Scottish singing comedian had just concluded his sixth annual farewell tour, and expects to make the seventh, beginning late in 1931. He will tour South Africa next year.

"I would like to be here next September with Sir Thomas Lipton to see the international yacht races," Sir Harry said before sailing, "but I will be many thousands of miles away by that time." He added that he would not enter the talking pictures until color photography had been further developed, because he wants his ruddy cheeks and tartan kilts to stand out vividly on the screen.

BARRERE'S FRIENDS MARK ANNIVERSARY

Celebrate at H. H. Flagler Home Arrival of Musician Here 25 Years Ago.

DAMROSCH PRESENTS GIFT

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the arrival in this country of George Barrere, distinguished flute virtuoso and director and founder of the Barrere Little Symphony, was made the occasion of a celebration which brought together many leading personalities in the social and musical worlds yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harkness Flagler, 32 Park Avenue.

Walter Damrosch, who met Mr. Barrere just twenty-five years ago in Paris and invited him to become first flutist of the New York Symphony, a position he held for twenty-two years, made a speech, offering the distinguished virtuoso "an honor gift."

Mr. Damrosch, in his accustomed felicitious manner, brought to his aid mythology, anecdote and wit, explaining that the gifts from Mr. Barrere's many friends would have made it necessary to stud the silver purse he held with gems, so it was decided to put into it this "honor gift."

A large birthday cake with silver trimmings and twenty-five candles occupied the centre of the buffet table.

Mr. Barrere, in response to requests, made a brief speech. Bringing out his daily notebook of appointments for 1905, he exhibited the entry to meet Mr. Damrosch in Paris.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, who had feared she could not be present, appeared and shared with Mr. Barrere the attention of the guests.

Among those who sent messages that they were unable to be present were Mme. Marcella Sembrich, Yolando Mero and Jascha Heifetz. Among the invited guests were:

Professor and Mrs. Leopold Auer, Mr. and Mrs. Jascha Heifetz, Mr and Mrs. John Erskine, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Warburg, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hutcheson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kochanski, Paul D. Cravath, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Salmond, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gregory Mason, Mr. and Mrs. George Engles, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Melbert B. Carey Jr., Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. Frederick Steinway, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Irion, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Rhodes, Mrs. Langdon Marvin, John Wilkie, Edwin T. Rice, Louis Wiley, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Downes, Lucien Tyng, Mrs. Murray Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon Gould, Mrs. Charles Stewart Smith Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Morawetz, David Mannes, Mrs. Gustav Schirmer, Edwin T. Rice, James Speyer, Mrs. Frederick Steinway, Frederick P. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Warburg, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Ledoux and Mr. and Mrs. William Carrington.

Mr. Barrère, besides being one of the leading virtuosi on the flute, founded in 1914 and conducted his orchestra of fourteen instrumentalists. This "miniature" symphony, one of the first of its kind, is heard several times each season in New York and in extensive tours throughout the country. Its list of premières by new American and foreign composers who need opportunities to obtain hearings, and of works by well-known composers who have dedicated compositions to M. Barrère, is a long one.

Before coming to this country M. Barrère organized the Modern Society for Wind Instruments, a pioneer in its field, which was subsidized by the French Government. Later M. Barrère was honored by being made a member of the French Academy and an officer of public instruction. Among his other distinctions he is a First Medalist of the Paris Conservatory.

ELGAR'S 'KING OLAF' SUNG.

Columbia University Chorus Gives Work Under Dr. Hall.

The Columbia University Chorus, under Dr. Walter Henry Hall, presented Sir Edward Elgar's cantata "King Olaf" with orchestral accompaniment at Carnegie Hall last night in its final concert this season. The soloists were Norman Jolliffe, baritone; Sue Harvard, soprano, and Dan Beddoe, tenor.

The first performance in America of this work was in 1904, also under Dr. Hall. The musical setting is based on Longfellow's poem. This year's celebration in Norway of the 900th aniversary of the death of St. Olav makes the performance timely.

A large audience of students and alumni of the university and their friends gave frequent evidences of their keen pleasure in work.

Wins Hunter College Play Prize.

The Century Theatre Club's annual award of $50 for the best original one-act play produced by Hunter College Students will be awarded to Henrietta Rosenberg, newly elected editor of Echo, the college magazine, it was announced yesterday. First honorable mention goes to Fay Lait and second honorable mention to Elaine Hellinger. Miss Rosenberg, who received honorable mention last year, will have her new offering, "Tongue of Stone," produced at Hunter College on May 23.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Little Father of the Wilderness," by Austin Strong and Lloyd Osbourne, will be played as a curtain raiser to "Milestones" when the Players Club offers its annual program the week of June 2. Walter Hampden will have the principal role in the short play.

Curtis Cooksey, instead of Melvyn Douglas, will play the leading male role in "Lily White," of which Helen Menken will be the star. It will open in New Haven on Thursday night of next week.

"Oh, Professor!" will open at the Belmont Theatre tonight.

"Nancy's Private Affair" will end its engagement at the Longacre next week. It will go to Chicago.

MAKES DEBUT IN BERLIN.

Beatrice Belkin, American Soprano, Is Warmly Applauded.

BERLIN, April 30 (AP).—Beatrice Belkin, a New York coloratura soprano, made a successful recital début in Beckstein Hall tonight. Her singing of the Zerbinetta aria from Strauss's "Ariadne auf Naxos" was wamly applauded.

Beatrice Belkin, for several seasons a leading soprano soloist at the Roxy Theatre and on the radio, sailed recently for Europe for a series of appearances, of which the first was her concert last night in Berlin.

Though a native of New York, she was brought up in the West, her father having been a professor of horticulture at Carlisle, Pa., and at the Haskell Indian Institute, Lawrence, Kan.

Miss Belkin is a graduate of the University of Kansas. She made her operatic début while still an unknown singer some year ago in Philadelphia, learning the rôle of Gilda in "Rigoletto" in a week.

CENSORS TRIM 'LYSISTRATA'

Several Lines Cut From 2,300-Year-Old Play in Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Gilbelt Seldes's adaptation of Aristophanes's 2,300-year-old satire, "Lysistrata," being presented here by the Philadelphia Theatre Association and directed by Norman Bel-Geddes, has had a number of its lines eliminated by the censors since it opened on Monday night. It was learned today that other changes are under consideration.

So far, only the lines have been affected by the censorship, the staging and costuming remaining as they were on the opening night. Whether the production is to be censored further during its contemplated three-week run depends to a great extent upon the reaction of the playgoers, according to the censorship board. Officials of the Philadelphia Theatre Association, it was announced, agreed readily to the changes made thus far. Dr. Frederick Poole, a member of the censorship's board, said facetiously that after seeing "Lysistrata" he felt that the date 411 B. C. on the play meant "before censors."

When the same play was presented here in Russian several years ago by the Moscow Art Theatre Musical Studio the board felt no need of censoring any of the lines.

Vincent Mattina, Baritone, Heard.

Vincent Mattina, baritone, gave a recital last evening in the Carnegie chamber music hall, assisted by Edna Sheppard, in accompaniment to the songs, and by Doris Kurland in piano solos from Chopin and other composers. Mr. Mattina's program comprised opera airs of Mozart, Rossini and Verdi, together with songs in English by MacDowell, Margetson and Frank Bibb, and popular Venetian, Spanish and Creole melodies in conclusion. There was an interested and cordial house.

"MIGHTIEST WAR DRAMA EVER SEEN" says Regina Crewe—N. Y. American

EPIC WAR FILM, MIGHTY IN DRAMATIC POWER. The epic picture of the war. A celluloid record for the ages. It should be compulsory for every one of the inhabitants of this civilized world to see

"Transferred to the audible screen with true and telling effect. Universal has wrought a masterly incarnation of that vivid novel of Valiant Youth—"All Quiet on the Western Front." Quinn Martin, World.

'ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT'" —American.

A Universal Picture presented by CARL LAEMMLE. With Louis Wolheim, Lewis Ayres and John Wray. Directed by Lewis Milestone. A Carl Laemmle, Jr., production.

"GRIM, VIVID, FASCINATING FILM GRIPS AUDIENCE. Finest war picture since characters first began to flicker across the screen, one that has never been surpassed either here or abroad. Here is a war picture beside which all others seem trivial. Fascinates you, holds you spellbound. Scenes are so vivid that they leave you speechless. 'ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT' simply must be seen."—William Boehnel, Telegram.

"So magnificent, so powerful, that it hardly behooves mere words to tell of its heart-rending appeal, of its dramatic fire, its breath-taking battle shots. A great motion picture. Grand and glorious. Milestone takes the directorial throne for 1930. His sense of the dramatic is unparalleled. Rings with grandeur."—Irene Thirer, Daily News.

"Enormously compelling talking motion picture. As a show something to get definitely excited about. A very fine motion picture."—Howard Barnes, Evening Journal.

"It is a dramatic production. The picture is the more compelling because of its quiet honesty. An impressive production."—Rose Pelswick, Herald Tribune.

"The spirit of the book is wholesouledly in the film. A striking, blasting panorama of war. See 'All Quiet on the Western Front.' Try to prevent yourself from thinking it over—if you can."—John S. Cohen, Jr., New York Sun.

"Far and away the most significant picture ever turned out by Universal. One of the best jobs ever seen upon any screen. Done with a stirring realism."—George Gerhard, Evening World.

"'All Quiet on the Western Front' is a directorial achievement. Milestone has done a wonderful job."—Julia Shawell, Graphic.

"A notable achievement, sincere, earnest, vivid and graphic. Better than anything so far done."—Mordaunt Hall, N. Y. Times.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" will not be shown elsewhere in Greater New York this season.

MACY GAINS POINT IN FIGHT ON MOORE

Gets Assurance From Maier That Marshal Has Not Been Endorsed for New Term.

PULVER'S CHANCES GROW

Insurgent Suffolk Leader Says He Has Backing of Hilles in Row Over Brooklyn Federal Post.

W. Kingsland Macy, insurgent Republican leader of Suffolk County, won a point yesterday in his fight to prevent the reappointment of Federal Marshal Jesse D. Moore, Brooklyn district leader, whose job pays $6,500 a year.

Mr. Macy carried his protest against Marshal Moore's reappointment to State Chairman William J. Maier, with whom he conferred at State Republican headquarters in Manhattan. Mr. Macy emerged from the conference smiling.

"It was very satisfactory," he said. "I think the State chairman intends to do the right thing by Long Island. He tells me he has not indorsed any one for the job as yet. It looks pretty good for me."

Mr. Macy, who is seeking the appointment of Fred Pulver, a former County Clerk of Suffolk and an active Republican worker, to Marshal Moore's place, was accompanied at the conference with Mr. Maier by Representative Robert L. Bacon of Suffolk and J. Wilbur Doughty, Old Guard leader of Nassau. Mr. Macy and Mr. Doughty have cooperated recently in the successful attempt to defeat the Democratic bill for eight more Supreme Court justices and to upset the arrangement which Meier Steinbrink, Kings County Republican leader, is supposed to have had with John H. McCooey for the distribution of the new judicial posts.

Before entering yesterday's conference with Mr. Maier Mr. Macy let it be known that he has obtained the support of Charles D. Hilles, National committeeman, in his fight against Moore, and said he had won also the neutrality of Representative Ruth B. Pratt.

Supporters of Mr. Steinbrink asserted yesterday that according to information from Washington Moore will be permitted to retain his post for the present. His term expired at midnight last night.

Moore, who was a supporter of Jacob A. Livingston, former Republican leader of Kings County in the latter's battle for supremacy with Mr. Steinbrink, joined the Steinbrink camp upon Mr. Livingston's defeat and obtained Mr. Steinbrink's indorsement for another term. Mr. Macy sought to persuade Mr. Steinbrink to let the post go to a Suffolk man but failed. He thereupon appealed directly to President Hoover, but received in reply a letter from one of the President's secretaries that the matter was entirely up to the Attorney General's office.

Moore is leader of the Thirteenth Assembly district. As a result of yesterday's conference of Mr. Macy with Mr. Maier it was considered not unlikely that he may yet fail of reappointment.

Mr. Steinbrink would make no comment last night, beyond the statement "Mr. Moore now holds the job and I see no reason for a change."

$119,000 FOR REALTY OF THE CLARKE BANK

YIELD TO VICTIMS SMALL

Nine pieces of property belonging to the bankrupt banking firm of Clarke Brothers, which failed in July, 1929, with liabilities of nearly $5,000,000, brought a total of $119,100 at an auction held yesterday by the Joseph P. Day organization in the Hotel Commodore.

The amount which the depositors will realize from the sale will be negligible, because mortgages against the properties amounted to $99,940.

A plot at the northeast corner of Roosevelt Avenue and Lawrence Street, Flushing, L. I., sold subject to mortgages of $37,500, brought $39,000, the highest price paid for any one parcel in the auction. The lot is 101 by 141 feet, irregular. Salvatore L. Castro, Corona operator, was the high bidder.

More than 100 bids were tabulated for the plot at the northwest corner of Union and Monroe Streets, Flushing, before it went to L. Lust of Flushing at $22,000. The business lot at 76 Union Street went to the Shukow Plattman Company of Elmhurst on a single bid of $15,500, or $500 above the mortgages. K. Goldharber of Flushing was the high bidder at $3,500 for 155 Lincoln Street, and Robert W. Dasey got 127 Lincoln Street, business plot with five garages, at $7,600.

J. Luck was the lone bidder at $6,600 on the property at the northeast corner of Centre Avenue and Avenue D, Atlantic Highlands, N. J., a ten-room house on a lot 275 by 125 feet. The bid was $100 above the mortgages.

Two one-story store buildings at 58-60 Newark Avenue, through to Railroad Avenue, Jersey City, brought $19,450 on a bid from Mathias Last. Alex Raffel of Woodhaven bid $5,200 for a residential plot on the north side of Radcliff Avenue, near Van Nest Avenue, the Bronx, and Herman Wollitzer got a lot in Mount Tabor, N. J., for $250.

Three groups of lots in Bayside West and Flushing were passed for lack of bidders. The sale was held by order of John L. Lyttle, referee in bankruptcy, under direction of the Irving Trust Company.

$100,000 SUIT BEGUN OVER RADIO SKETCH

Action, Said to Be First of Kind, Seeks to Establish "Property Rights" in Idea.

Following the broadcasting last night of a humorous sketch over WJZ called "The Rise of the Goldbergs," the impersonator of the leading woman character, known as "Mrs. Goldberg," who was identified as Mrs. Gertrude Berg, was served with papers in a suit for $100,000 instituted by Mrs. Sophia Civoru to establish "property rights" in the idea incorporated in the radio presentation. The program is scheduled weekly over WJZ on Wednesdays at 7:45 P. M. The case is being handled for Mrs. Civoru by George Pepper of the law firm of O'Brien, Malevinsky and Driscoll of 152 West Forty-second Street. The action is said to represent the first case of its kind in radio broadcasting.

Mrs. Civoru, who resides at 330 Wadsworth Avenue, alleged that she and Mrs. Berg formed a partnership early in 1929 whereby the former was to furnish ideas for sketches and the latter was to develop and write the continuity matter. Several sketches were produced in this manner, with her husband, Anton Civoru, a bass singer, acting as musical director for the sketches, she said.

Mrs. Civoru said she later asked the help of Mrs. Berg to interest a certain client to whom she hoped to sell an idea for broadcasting purposes. Since such necessary cooperation was not forthcoming, Mrs. Berg was notified that the contract was considered broken, she added.

As a result of the ideas imparted to Mrs. Berg, Mrs. Civoru said the former has received vaudeville and motion picture offers for the sketches.

Mrs. Berg declares she is the author of a series of sketches broadcast on Monday nights at 7 o'clock over WPCH called "Pinto in a Pinch"; two series broadcast regularly over WGBS, and various other sketches by WRNY.

Mrs. Berg last night refused to comment on the serving of the papers, except to declare that she would "have something to say later."

GOLD STAR SAILING CHANGE

Third Group to Leave on Republic May 13, Not on President Harding.

The third group of 150 gold star mothers and widows to make the pilgrimage to France, who were scheduled to sail on the President Harding on May 14, will sail instead on the Republic the day previous, it was announced yesterday by Colonel Alexander E. Williams, in charge of the New York offices of the pilgrimage at 225 West Thirty-fourth Street.

The change was made by an order from Washington when it was learned that the President Harding, which was in collision recently with an English freighter in the Elbe River, could not return from Hamburg in time to make the trip. The group will join the second pilgrimage of 250 women from New York sailing with a delegation of the Twenty-seventh Division, who are to visit the sections of France in which they fought during the war. The first pilgrimage is scheduled to sail on the America on May 7.

Higgins Silent on Hawkins Move.

Commissioner of Accounts Higgins declined to comment yesterday on the resolution introduced in the Board of Aldermen last Tuesday by Alderman John C. Hawkins, Republican, asking Mr. Higgins to investigate all purchases of $1,000 or more made by the city between Jan. 1 and March 31. The resolution was referred to the rules committee, where it will probably die because the small Republican minority cannot muster sufficient strength to obtain action on it.

FINED IN FIRST TEST OF ANTI-NOISE LAW

IGNORED NEIGHBORS' PLEAS

His Loud-Speaker Disrupted Church Services and Funerals—Thirty-four Auto Horns Tested.

Fourteen witnesses, including a minister and an undertaker, were ready to testify yesterday against Thomas Hill, proprietor of the Irish Music Store at 319 Willis Avenue, before Magistrate Earl Smith in Bronx Municipal Court in the first test of the anti-noise ordinance passed by the Board of Health on May 8. When only three of the witnesses had described a noisy loud-speaker in front of the store, Hill decided to plead guilty and paid $50 fine as an alternative to spending thirty days in jail.

For three years, the witnesses said, high-pitched noises of every description have annoyed the neighbors of the music shop, which Hill acquired a year ago. The rattle of the Willis Avenue trolleys became insignificant. Especially did the loud-speaker penetrate the stillness of Dockrell's funeral chapel, which is directly across the street. Mr. Dockrell, leader of the delegation, was represented by Tobias A. Kepler, counsel of the Metropolitan Funeral Directors' Association.

Mrs. Mary Bearbaum of 306 Willis Avenue said she had repeatedly and futilely pleaded with Hill to diminish the volume of the speaker while her daughter, Ida, was dangerously ill. The Rev. Edward C. Russell, pastor of St. Ann's Protestant Episcopal Church at 140th Street and St. Ann's Avenue, testified that jazz music interfered while he conducted funeral services for Mrs. Bearbaum's daughter in Dockrell's chapel.

Magistrate Smith warned Hill a second offense would bring him a fine of $250 and three months in jail.

Thirty-four automobile horns, lined up in military formation on a table, were sounded yesterday for the benefit of a "jury" of reporters and members of Health Commissioner Wynne's Noise Abatement Commission at the Bell Telephone Laboratories in West Street yesterday in tests by Dr. Harvey Fletcher, director of acoustical research.

The tests were to further the commission's search for an auto horn that will combine the maximum warning effect with the least amount of objectionable noise. They were a duplication of the experience undergone by the commission itself last week. The inclusion of outsiders, it was explained, was to get the reactions of the general public toward the various notes.

Yesterday's and last week's results will now be studied by the commission, Edward F. Brown, its director, said, and will then be taken up with the horn manufacturers. An endeavor will be made to get them to cooperate in meeting the specifications to be drawn by the commission, he explained, though if that failed the object might also be attained through legislation.

BROADCASTERS OBTAIN VIEWS OF LISTENERS

Attend Discussion at Town Hall and Learn Majority Prefer Music to Speeches.

An open forum for the analysis and criticism of radio broadcasting as a popular means of education was held at the Town Hall Club yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the social service section of the Welfare Council of New York. The audience heard a trio of broadcasters speak over two local stations and these broadcasters later attended the meeting to hear their programs discussed.

It was revealed that of the more than 100 persons present about two-thirds owned receiving sets, one-third used their sets nightly, while only a few tuned in regularly for day-time broadcasting. A majority of the listeners expressed a preference for music rather than addresses.

Homer Wickenden, general director of the United Hospital Fund; Mrs. Francis Rogers and Miss Ju Chi-yu participated with the Welfare Council for the broadcasts, which were made possible through the cooperation of stations WOR and WEVD.

$158,688 for Worcester Auditorium

WORCESTER, Mass., April 30 (AP).—In return for a certified check for $158,688.50, contributed by a group of public spirited citizens, the deed for the site of Worcester's $2,000,000 municipal auditorium was presented to Mayor O'Hara today by Charles L. Allen, chairman of the auditorium commission.

Ten Years Of Progress

The production of electricity by public utility power plants in the United States has increased from 38,921,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1919 to about 97,294,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1929. With the exception of 1921 which showed a decrease of 5.9%, gains were recorded each year ranging from 6% in 1924 to 16.8% in 1923. The gain in 1929 was 10.7% and the average gain for the ten-year period was 9.76%.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Advance, With Partial Reaction and a Few Declines —Call Money 4 Per Cent.

The stock market, although much confused, continued yesterday in the main the recovery which began on Tuesday afternoon. It was not altogether easy to trace the origin of the orders, whether purchases or sales, or their actual connection with the news. With the Steel Corporation's unexpectedly favorable quarterly statement published overnight but with yesterday's reports of current trade conditions considerably less agreeable, the industrial picture was as mixed as the stock market itself has been. In an unusual degree, the general situation is perplexing even to those who watch it at close range.

All that can positively be said of the trade position is that the reaction in consumers' demands, as compared with those of a year ago, has apparently not been checked. But comparison with other seasons and with other years differs so widely in different industries, and so many visible phenomena seem inconsistent with one another, that the attempt to determine dominant underlying causes finds itself blocked at almost every turn. Even the movement of commodity prices is conflicting. Cotton as well as wheat is confronted with a heavy carry-over and with shipments to consumers far below those of other recent years; yet cotton rose yesterday to nearly the highest price since January, while wheat for May delivery went yesterday to $1.01⅛, the lowest of the year.

Some of the active shares rose 8 to 13 points on the Stock Exchange yesterday, but in nearly all cases with considerable reaction before the close. Among the few stocks which ended the day at a decline was, curiously enough, United States Steel, which fell 4½ points though subsequently regaining all but a fraction of its loss.

Yesterday's weekly reports from the steel trade and the transportation industry were not favorable. The country-wide rate of steel production has fallen back from 80 per cent of capacity to 78, or the same as at the beginning of April, although better than the 75 per cent rate reported in the later weeks of March. The emphasis of this week's reviews is laid, however, on the weakening of prices. The Iron Age's "composite" for finished steel, at 2.242 cents per pound, compares with a previous average of 2.264 since the end of March, with 2.312 in March, and with 2.412 a year ago. It is the lowest average since the Summer of 1922. This latest weakening of the market has extended to basic products. Apparently, it reflects the influence of an enlarged producing capacity on a market which is at present irregular and hesitant. Requisitions from the railways, as had been expected and predicted, are falling off, but the course of demand from other quarters varies widely.

The railway freight-loading statement is perplexing. That less cars should have been loaded in the third week of April than in the corresponding week of any year since 1924 merely repeats the comparison of the preceding week; but the reduction from recent years is much the greatest of any week thus far in 1930. The week's loadings were down 11¼ per cent from 1929 and 10 per cent from 1928. It will be kept in mind, however, that the movement of freight in the last half of April, during those two years, increased with unusual rapidity, also that the week covered by yesterday's report was the week immediately preceding Easter, when railway traffic sometimes slackens temporarily. A few more weekly statements will be necessary to determine the actual meaning of the decrease both from preceding weeks and from other years.

CHASE BANK UNION JUNE 2.

Three Institutions to Cease Business as Individuals on May 31.

Physical consolidation of the Chase National Bank, the Equitable Trust Company and the Interstate Trust Company into the largest bank in the world will become effective after the close of business on May 31, it was announced yesterday, following a meeting of Chase directors. The three banks will do business as separate institutions for the last time on that day, a Saturday, and will reopen on the following Monday, June 2, as a consolidated institution, functioning under the name and charter of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York.

The present home of Chase National, at Pine and Nassau Streets, will be the head office, while the headquarters of the Equitable Trust Company, 11 Broad Street, will be operated as an important unit.

Two Quit as Exchange Governors.

William B. Potts of J. W. Davis & Co. and Louis G. De Coppet of Jacquelin & De Coppet have resigned as members of the governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Potts has been a member of the committee since May, 1913, and Mr. De Coppet since July, 1924. Their resignations were accepted by the committee yesterday with expressions of regret.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Without ridding itself entirely of the uncertainties of the last ten days, the stock market moved forward yesterday with a fairly confident tread, closing near the best levels of the day. There were net gains of 3 to 12 points in the more active issues on the Stock Exchange. The early dealings saw a continuance of the selling movement and the market acted for a time as if it were having difficulty in shaking off the reactionary influences, but operations for the advance met less resistance as the day wore on. The general list was given a rather impressive demonstration of strength when trading ended, with special interest centred in the oils and some of the specialties. The best gains for the day were recorded in Amrican Tobacco, J. I. Case, Gulf States Steel, Diamond Match, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Vanadium, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Air Reduction and Foster Wheeler. Transactions on the Stock Exchange slightly exceeded 4,500,000 shares. Improvement in market sentiment was ascribed to the favorable income report of the United States Steel Corporation and to the growing belief that most of the unfavorable earnings statements for the first quarter are out of the way.

Weak Pools Disappear.

The theory that much of the recent unsettlement on the Stock Exchange resulted from difficulties encountered by poorly equipped pools found strong support yesterday among brokers who have had occasion to canvass the situation. For a time, it was pointed out, such pools got along fairly well and were able to mark stocks up quite sharply. It was also evident, brokers said, that considerable distribution took place. However, many pools found themselves obliged to stand aside when they were put to the first test of aggressive selling.

A Dividend Shower Today.

Professional market operators gave a prominent place in their calculations yesterday to the fact that dividend disbursements will be made today by more than 600 corporations. Groups with stocks to dispose of are always hopeful that at least a portion of any unusually heavy dividend distribution will find its way into the share market, and in the past they have not been disappointed.

Expect Loan Decrease.

There is confident expectation of a decline in brokers' loans this week. The recent course of the stock market points to a decrease, and new financing, while substantial, is not believed to have been large enough to offset liquidation on the Exchange. Last week's advance of $93,000,000 was the fourth in succession and brought the total of loans to a level $793,000,000 above where it stood on Dec. 31, last. The most recent decline in loans was that for the week ended March 26, when a drop of $21,000,000 was registered.

Investment Trusts Buy Bonds.

Several investment trust companies are reported to be buying bonds at present in preference to preferred and common stocks. Observers have attributed this movement to a tendency to mark time in investments until the trend of industry in this country is again more definitely established. Bonds, they point out, offer a better return than the call-loan market and the fact that they are not so quickly convertible into cash is not regarded as a drawback because of the fact that most companies are keeping enough cash on hand to take advantage of any sudden turns in the stock market.

A Source of Buying.

A source of buying even in markets like the present was described yesterday as being provided by the fixed investment trusts. These organizations are limited as to purchases to a fixed group of stocks and, if they are permitted to sell, it is usually only under certain conditions. Hence, as they sell their own securities, they are compelled to purchase the designated stocks. One estimate placed the purchases of these organizations at several million dollars weekly.

A Considerable Change.

Railroad men saw in the new draft of the Couzens resolution on railway consolidation a considerable change from the original draft. The new draft leaves the way open for absorption of short lines, which would have been prohibited by the original. The original draft was aimed largely at the Great Northern-North Pacific merger, and the new draft hits against this merger directly by requiring that proposals for mergers must be made under the consolidation paragraph of the transportation act instead of under the paragraph permitting lease or purchase of stock without consolidation. The original draft in great part reflected the views of labor leaders and the second draft therefore contains provisions for the safeguarding of employment in mergers. The new draft carries out the wishes of the Interstate Commerce Commission by providing for fines or imprisonment in unifications either directly or through holding companies. However, it makes a relenting gesture by exempting from prosecution bona fide investments in railroad stocks by individuals or organizations.

Buying of Rail Bonds.

Since railroad bond prices have receded from the peaks of the year to date which were recorded a few weeks ago, there has been considerable talk of buying by insurance companies and savings banks. This week, at least, there appears to be pretty concrete evidence of institutional buying of high-grade railroad securities in some volume. Municipal bonds are a bit high-priced at the moment to be especially attractive to institutions, and it is natural that the rails receive some attention on all setbacks in the market.

A New Rubber Program.

The abandonment or failure of each plan for controlling the supply or the price of a commodity is apparently the signal for the launching of several similar plans in other industries. Today British and Dutch rubber producers in the East Indies will begin a rubber-tapping holiday which will last a month. The purpose is to stabilize the price of rubber through curtailing the supply. In this respect the program is similar to that of oil producers all over the world, who have shut in their production with a view to controlling the price of petroleum.

MONEY.

Wednesday, April 30, 1930.

Money market was featureless so far as activity and rate changes were concerned, business continuing to run along small lines, while costs for accommodation in the day loan, collateral and business money markets were unchanged. Stock Exchange funds traded at 4 per cent, with 3½ the ruling figure in counter market; Curb Exchange funds ruled at 4½ per cent throughout. Acceptances and commercial paper were quiet.

Summary of 1929 Annual Report

TRI-UTILITIES CORPORATION

Through stock ownership Tri-Utilities Corporation controls public utility properties valued at approximately $300,000,000, which furnish the daily necessities of electric light and power, natural and manufactured gas and water service for residential, commercial and industrial use to about 4,700,000 people living in nearly 700 communities in 26 states. The annual consolidated gross revenues exceed $36,000,000.

The subsidiary companies include Federal Water Service Corporation, which controls the largest group of privately-owned water works properties in the United States; Peoples Light and Power Corporation, which controls a national system of electric light and power, gas and water properties; American Natural Gas Corporation, which controls properties constituting one of the outstanding natural gas systems in the Southwest; Southern Natural Gas Corporation, which controls one of the largest pipe line systems in the United States, serving the industrial southeast; and Power, Gas and Water Securities Corporation, which is devoted to financing established public utility companies.

EARNINGS

Consolidated net earnings for 1929, after prior charges, including dividends on the Preferred and Class A stocks of subsidiaries, but before interest charges of Tri-Utilities Corporation, amounted to $2,045,725. After deducting the annual interest requirement on the Tri-Utilities Corporation 5% Convertible Gold Debentures, the balance was equivalent to over 3.3 times the annual dividend requirement on the 142,000 shares of preferred stocks outstanding. The balance remaining was equivalent to over $3.51 per share on the 283,176 shares of Common stock of Tri-Utilities Corporation outstanding. Owing to the fact that the properties of Southern Natural Gas Corporation were not completed until March 1, 1930, no operating revenues from that company are included in the consolidated revenues for past years. Gross corporate income of Tri-Utilities Corporation should be substantially increased in future years by the inclusion of such earnings.

GROWTH OF CONSOLIDATED GROSS REVENUES

DIVERSIFICATION

The diverse character of the services rendered and the wide geographical distribution of the properties assure an unusual degree of stability. The accompanying chart shows the source of revenues by class of service. It is significant that water, the indispensable commodity and hence the one whose sales are least likely to be affected by business recessions, accounts for 41 per cent of the revenues. In view of the rapid expansion which is occurring in the natural gas industry, resulting from the increased use of gas for both domestic and industrial purposes, it is also significant that one third of the total revenue in 1929 was derived from gas sales. Diversification, furthermore, is assured by the geographic distribution of the sources of the revenues in 26 states. About 35 per cent is derived in the East, 37 per cent in the South, 12 per cent in the Mid-West and 16 per cent in the Far West.

EXCHANGE RULES ON STOCK DIVIDENDS

Announces New Policy Toward Accounting of Companies Seeking Listing.

TO GUARD STOCKHOLDERS

Payments Not Charged Against Earnings Declared Misleading and Not Good Practice.

An important extension of the New York Stock Exchange's efforts to regulate the accounting practice of companies listed on the Exchange was made yesterday when it was announced that the governing committee had approved a requirement for listing designed to prevent the payment of stock dividends that are not charged against earnings or earned surplus.

The governing committee, which approved a recommendation of the committee on stock list, issued a statement on the new policy in which it said:

"As recognition of the importance of earnings in the evaluation of securities tends to be emphasized, the importance of an accurate segregated statement of earned surplus in the balance sheet does so likewise. Accounting should be adapted to the end that this account should show at any given time the exact amount of realized undistributed earnings, either from date of organization or, in the event of recapitalization, from some fixed stated date. The fact that State laws may permit stock dividends to be paid without any charge against earnings or earned surplus or with only a nominal charge has no bearing upon the correct accounting proceduce to be followed.

"An occasional large split-up, made for convenience in the form of a stock dividend and capitalized at a nominal amount, whether charged against earned surplus or capital surplus, is not objectionable if accompanied by a statement that it is in effect a split-up.

"The issuance of periodical stock dividends with either no charge or with insufficient charge against earnings or earned surplus, while not illegal under the laws of some States, is apt to mislead stockholders and is not regarded as good practice. If such dividends are declared, they should be accompanied by a statement clearly indicating either that they are not true earned stock dividends or, if actually earned but insufficiently charged against earnings or earned surplus, that the method of accounting leaves in earned surplus an amount which may be again used for dividends without further earnings.

"In cases where stock is issued either as interest upon funded debt or as a dividend upon stock of another class with a cash alternative, the amount of such cash alternative measures the minimum amount properly to be charged against earnings or earned surplus. The effect of issuing stock as interest or dividends upon other securities should be merely to conserve cash and not to add to the apparent earnings or the apparent earned surplus, as contrasted with the effect of the cash alternative.

"The Exchange will not decline to list, for the present at least, ordinary periodical stock dividends insufficiently charged against earnings or earned surplus, providing proper disclosure is made of the nature of such dividends. Stock issued as interest or as dividends upon other securities with a cash alternative will not be regarded as available for listing if it is to be charged against earnings or earned surplus at less than the amount of cash surrendered, excepting as to further issuance of stock under such conditions in cases where such application or applications for listing the senior securities bearing such alternative stock dividends may have been approved before the objections to the practice were clearly apparent, or unless accounting procedure should develop in a direction which cannot now be foreseen, in such manner as to warrant considering full disclosure as adequate protection to security holders of all classes.

"The Exchange will not knowingly list any of the securities of a corporation which takes up as income upon its books stock dividends received at a larger figure than the proportionate amount charged against earnings or earned surplus by the issuing company. Where the issuing company declines to give this information, objection will be made if the receiving company regards such stock dividends as income to any extent whatever."

Exchange Seat Brings $479,000.

Negotiations were completed yesterday for the sale of a membership in the New York Stock Exchange for $479,000. This represented a decrease of $1,000 from the price in the last transaction. The names of the buyer and seller were not revealed.

YOUNGSTOWN STOCK AT $110 PROTESTED

ASK $175 TO $250 A SHARE

The controversy between the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, which proposes to acquire the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company through an exchange of stock, and the stockholders of the latter headed by Otis & Co., and Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland who oppose the merger, flared up again yesterday when the directors of Sheet and Tube announced that they had fixed a "fair cash value" of $110 a share upon the Youngstown stock held by the Otis-Eaton group. This compared with a closing price on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday of $124 a share, and with $175 to $250 a share demanded by the group fighting the consolidation.

The opposition group, which chose to accept cash for its Youngstown stock rather than Bethlehem's offer of one and one-third shares of its stock for each share of Youngstown stock, indicated yesterday that it would contest the valuation of $110 a share.

It the Otis-Eaton group had elected to receive Bethlehem stock rather than cash, its members would have received the equivalent of $133 a share, on the basis of yesterday's closing price of 99⅛ for Bethlehem. There is therefore a difference of approximately 23 points between Bethlehem's offer of cash and its offer of stock for Youngstown shares. Since the Otis-Eaton group is credited with owning approximately 300,000 shares of Youngstown stock, the difference between the two offers amounts to $6,900,000.

The announcement of the offer was made yesterday by Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube. In his statement he said:

"Demands have been received by the company from Otis & Co., the Cliffs Corporation and members of the Wick family aggregating about 290,000 shares. Other demands aggregate about 40,000 shares. The amounts demanded by the shareholders range from $175 to $250 per share, the latter figure being demanded in most instances. The company has not yet completed its consideration of the validity of the demands received.

"The board considered the amounts demanded to be excessive, declined to authorize their payment, instructed that the objectors be so advised, and fixed the price of $110 per share as the fair cash value to be offered by the company to objecting shareholders who are entitled to payment for their shares.

"In accordance with statements made by E. G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, shortly before the meeting of shareholders on April 8, 1930, Mr. Grace has formally advised the Sheet and Tube Company that Bethlehem will waive the provision of the agreement which gave Bethlehem the option to cancel the agreement in case holders of more than 2 per cent of the common shares of the company should become entitled to payment for their shares pursuant to the provision of the Ohio statute."

SHIP LINE FOR U. S. STEEL.

All Vessels of Isthmian Steamship Acquired From Steel Products.

The United States Steel Corporation has organized the Isthmian Steamship Company, which has acquired and will operate the freight steamships heretofore owned and operated by the United States Steel Products Company. The trade name will be the Isthmian Steamship Lines. United States Steel Products is a wholly owned subsidiary of the United States Steel, as will be Isthmian Steamship.

Officers of Isthmian Steamship are: John McAuliffe, president; L. Pfeiff, vice president; T. P. Adler, secretary and treasurer.

The Isthmian Company will operate lines for general cargo between the principal Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Coast ports, between United States ports and the principal countries of the world, and between ports on the Great Lakes.

$2,500,000 Bonds for Utility.

New financing totaling $2,500,000 for the Iowa Southern Utilities Company will be done next week through a banking group comprising Hoagland, Allum & Co., Inc.; W. C. Langley & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. It will consist of an issue of 6 per cent debentures, due May 1, 1950. The company owns electric light and power and street railway properties.

* Of this amount 630,000 shares are reserved for conversion of the Company's Ten-Year 6% Convertible Gold Debentures and 300,000 shares for warrants exercisable at $45 per share not later than May 1, 1933.

† Included in this total are the shares reserved for the conversion of the outstanding Fifteen-Year 6% Convertible Gold Debentures to be retired in connection with this financing, and the shares reserved for exchange for the common stocks of International Projector Corporation and National Theatre Supply Company outstanding in the hands of the public.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. H. L. Clarke, President of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., from his letter dated April 30, 1930:

Organization and Business: General Theatres Equipment, Inc. was incorporated in 1929 under the laws of Delaware to acquire a number of the leading companies engaged in the manufacture and distribution of motion picture and theatrical equipment and supplies. The Company has now acquired the control of Fox Film Corporation and Fox Theatres Corporation, which together comprise a completely integrated unit and one of the largest and most successful motion picture groups in the United States.

Financing arrangements have been completed for Fox Film Corporation and Fox Theatres Corporation which have resulted in providing approximately $100,000,000 for current obligations and working capital, leaving both companies in strong financial condition. In this connection Fox Film Corporation has sold $55,000,000 Secured 6% Gold Notes (due April 15, 1931) and Fox Theatres Corporation has sold 1,600,000 shares of Class A Common Stock of Fox Film Corporation which it acquired as part consideration for the sale to Fox Film Corporation of 660,900 shares of the common stock of Loew's, Inc.

Fox Film Corporation has taken a leading position in the production of talking pictures, employing the Movietone system of recording sound. Through a wholly owned subsidiary it owns, controls, operates or leases approximately 450 theatres on the Pacific Coast and in the mid-West. Fox Film Corporation has a substantial stock interest in a British company which owns 65% of the ordinary stock of Gaumont British Pictures Corporation, operating over 300 theatres throughout the British Isles.

Fox Theatres Corporation owns, controls, operates or leases about 180 theatres in a circuit extending from coast to coast, including The Roxy in New York City and the well known Fox Theatres in Brooklyn, Detroit, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

General Theatres Equipment, Inc. owns 50% of the capital stock of Grandeur, Inc., and practically all of the outstanding stocks of International Projector Corporation and nearly 90% of the outstanding common stock of National Theatre Supply Company. International Projector Corporation manufactures over 75% of the motion picture projectors used in theatres throughout the world and controls important patents on sound projection equipment. National Theatre Supply Company maintains a nation wide distributing organization for all types of equipment used in theatres.

Earnings: The Pro Forma Condensed Consolidated Statement of Profit and Loss, for the twelve months to December 31, 1929, of General Theatres Equipment, Inc. and its subsidiaries (including the result of operations for a full twelve months' period of all subsidiaries acquired within the year, adjusted for non-recurring expenses for the period prior to acquisition amounting to $21,270.28), after adjusting for bond interest and amortization eliminated by the present financing, and including a full year's dividends on the shares of Fox Film Corporation Class A and Class B Common Stocks below mentioned, at the annual rate paid for the past four years, shows total income before interest, bond amortization and expense, depreciation and Federal Income Tax, of $7,331,968.59. Maximum annual interest requirements on the Company's funded debt presently to be outstanding will be $1,800,000. These earnings do not reflect the equity of General Theatres Equipment, Inc. in the undistributed earnings of Fox Film Corporation.

Voting Trust: All of the Company's Common Stock has been deposited under a Voting Trust expiring July 1, 1939. H. L. Clarke, W. F. Ingold and W. S. Hammons are Voting Trustees under the agreement and The Corporation Trust Company acts as depositary for the Common Stock.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of the present sale of Common Stock will provide in part the funds required by the Company to cover its obligations in connection with the purchase of 50,101 shares of Class B Common Stock (a majority of such stock), and not less than 1,000,000 shares of Class A Common Stock, of Fox Film Corporation, and all of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock of Fox Theatres Corporation.

Voting Trust Certificates for Common Stock of General Theatres Equipment, Inc. are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

This information and these statistics are not guaranteed, but have been obtained from sources which we consider reliable.

Legal details in connection with the issuance of this stock will be subject to the approval of Messrs. Rushmore, Bisbee and Stern, New York City, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Matthews & Koegel, Chicago, for the Company.

We offer the above 433,000 shares when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of Counsel and to allotment and to prior sale. It is expected that Voting Trust Certificates will be available for delivery on or about May 8, 1930. Delivery in the first instance may be made in the form of temporary Voting Trust Certificates.

$23,669,000 BONDS CALLED FOR APRIL

INCREASE IN RAIL GROUP

Other Divisions Decline—Drop Attributed Partly to Scarcity of High Interest Issues.

The decline in the amount of bonds called for redemption before maturity this year continued in April. Bonds aggregating $23,669,000 were announced for redemption in April, compared with $11,794,000 called in March and $133,526,000 in April, 1929. For the four months ended April 30 $148,860,100 in bonds were called for redemption, against $373,573,900 for the corresponding period in 1929 and $891,585,182 for the similar time in 1928.

A slight increase in railroad bond issues called for redemption and a decline in all other groups is shown by a comparison with figures of April a year ago. The decrease is more pronounced in all groups for the first four months, with the sharpest drop in industrial and public utility bond calls and the best showing in State and municipal issues, which are close to the total of 1929 for the first four months.

Outstanding bond redemptions in April were $5,000,000 Swift & Co. 5 per cent notes, due in 1932, called at 100¾ for redemption April 15; $4,000,000 Province of Buenos Aires (Argentina) participating certificates for 6½ per cent notes, due 1930, called at par for April 10; $833,000 State of Idaho treasury notes and State bonds at par for April 7 and $1,250,000 New York Athletic Club first and general 6s, 1946, at 101 for April 1.

The drop in bond redemptions this year as compared with other years has been attributed in part to the scarcity of high interest paying bonds outstanding. It is expected that the redemption will increase, with money rates remaining low, and that the possibilities afforded corporations to reduce fixed charges due to the ease in credit will be reflected in refunding of bonds in future months.

In the following table comparisons are made of bonds called for redemption in April for three years:

(000 omitted).

Industrial	$10,749	$36,778	$47,167
Public utility	1,220	33,057	134,887
State & municipal	1,320	1,532	894
Foreign	8,365	51,641	45,258
Railroad	39	6	1,361
Miscellaneous	1,976	10,512	10,511
Total	$23,669	$133,526	$240,078

Tables of bonds and stocks called for redemption, as compiled by THE NEW YORK TIMES, are published in the Sunday edition.

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Philadelphia, Pa.

The city of Philadelphia (Pa.) school district yesterday awarded a new issue of $2,000,000 4¼ per cent bonds, due on Nov. 1, 1940 to 1959, to a syndicate composed of the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc., and E. H. Rollins & Sons. The bankers paid a price of 100.718, equivalent to 4.18 per cent basis, and will offer the issue today at prices to yield 4.125 per cent.

The second highest bid was 100.70, made by the First National Bank, New York, and associates, who also put in a bid of 100.25 for all or any part. The third bid was 100.5331, made by a group headed by Lehman Brothers, the Equitable Corporation and the Chase Securities Corporation. Other bids included 100.439 by C. F. Childs & Co., Inc., and associates; 100.3599 by Drexel & Co., Brown Brothers & Co. and the Guaranty Company of New York; 100.34 for all or none and 100.031 for all or any part by the National City Company and associates, 100.297 by a group headed by the Continental Illinois Co., Inc., and 100.239 by the Bankers Company of New York and associates.

The last issue marketed by the district, which on May 28, 1929, consisted of $2,000,000 4s which were sold to the Tax Fund of the district at par. The district reports an assessed valuation of $3,451,528,364 and net bonded debt, as of April 1, of $48,767,209.

Chicago, Ill.

The Lincoln Park (Chicago) Commissioners plan to market a new issue of $1,800,000 bridge bonds about May 15, according to word received here yesterday. The last time the district was in the market was on April 3, 1929. At that time an issue of $2,000,000 4½ per cent bonds was awarded to a group of Chicago banks at a price of 99.10, equivalent to a 4.61 per cent basis.

Salt Lake City, Utah.

Award of an issue of $1,000,000 Salt Lake City (Utah) School District 4 per cent bonds, due on May 1, 1949, has been made to C. F. Childs & Co., Inc., and M. M. Freeman & Co., Inc., at their joint bid of 97.338. The second highest tender, 96.60, was made by E. H. Rollins & Sons and associates, and the third bid, 96.36, was put in by Eldredge & Co. There were seven other bids.

The bonds will be placed on the market today at 98.25, to yield about 4.15 per cent. The assessed valuation of the district for 1929 amounted to $184,948,421, and the net debt, including this issue, totals $4,336,718.

Rye, N. Y.

The Town of Rye (N. Y.) Central High School District 1 has awarded an issue of $750,000 of bonds, maturing serially from May 1, 1931 to 1960, to the Bankers Company of New York and the National City Company at their joint tender of 100.359 for the bonds as 4.40s. B. J. Van Ingen & Co. and associates made the second highest bid, that of 100.319 for 4.40s. The issue will be formally marketed today at prices to net 3.75 to 4.25 per cent, although it is understood that advance orders have already been received for more than $400,000 of the issue. The district reports an assessed valuation of $42,100,835 and total bonded debt, including this issue, of $1,100,000.

Westchester County, N. Y.

Westchester County, N. Y., which recently scheduled the sale of an issue of $19,775,000 of various improvement bonds for May 7, with $9,275,000 as 4s and $10,500,000 park bonds as 4s or 4¼s, yesterday announced that the park bonds would be sold as 4s, 4¼s or 4½s. Thus the bankers are allowed more leeway in bidding par or better for the issue.

$94,750,500 New Securities To Be Offered to Public Today

New offerings of securities totaling $94,750,500 will be placed on the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates. Of this amount $73,750,000 will consist of bonds and the remainder of stock.

Municipal	3,750,000

U. S. RUBBER OFFERS $15,000,000 NOTES

Six Per Cents Put on Sale Today Are Priced at 99, to Return 6⅜ Per Cent.

TO RETIRE AN OLD ISSUE

Substitution for 7½ Per Cents Will Result in Saving of $475,200 Annual Interest.

A new issue of $15,000,000 United States Rubber Company 6 per cent secured notes, due on June 1, 1933, will be offered today by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. at 99, to yield 6⅜ per cent. The proceeds will be applied toward the payment of $18,336,000 of 7½ per cent notes which will mature on Aug. 1, next, thus effecting a saving in interest of about $475,200 annually.

The new notes will be secured by pledging $20,000,000 principal amount of the company's first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent bonds, series B, due on Jan. 1, 1947. They will be callable on thirty days' notice, as a whole only, on June 1, 1931, at 102, and thereafter on any interest date at par plus a premium of one-half of 1 per cent for each six months between the redemption date and the date of maturity.

Current assets of the company and its subsidiaries, as of Dec. 31 last, adjusted to give effect to this financing, amounted to $113,174,338, or about six times current liabilities which, similarly adjusted, amounted to $18,967,973, making current assets equivalent to more than 97 per cent of the funded debt outstanding on completion of this financing. Inventories, including crude rubber, were carried at cost or market, whichever was lower.

Net income of the company and its subsidiaries for the last six years, applicable to the payment of interest, but before depreciation, inventory adjustments and Federal taxes, was, in each year, more than twice interest charges.

BOND FLOTATION.

Associate Telephone Company.

Offering of a new issue of $6,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, Series A, of the Associated Telephone Company, Ltd., will be made today by a syndicate composed of Paine, Webber & Co., Bonbright & Co., Inc., and Mitchum, Tully & Co. The bonds, dated March 1, 1930, and maturing on March 1, 1965, are priced at 97½ and accrued interest, to yield 5.15 per cent. The proceeds will be used in part to retire bonds of predecessor companies and to reimburse the company for expenditures for additions to property. Gross earnings, including all properties now owned, for the year ended on Feb. 28, 1930, were $2,368,598.

Will Approve Rock Island Bonds.

The proposed $32,228,000 of thirty-year 4½ per cent convertible debentures will be approved at the annual meeting of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway today, it was learned last night. The management holds proxies for 860,000 shares, or more than two-thirds of the common and preferred required for approval.

FINANCING TODAY BY FOX INTERESTS

Note Issue of $55,000,000 and 430,000 Shares of Stock Will Be Offered.

2 BANK GROUPS INVOLVED

New Funds Will Be Used to Meet Indebtedness Amounting to About $102,000,000.

Two pieces of financing, one completing the Fox Film financing plan and the other incident to the acquisition of Fox Film and Fox Theatres Corporation by General Theatres Equipment, Inc., will be done today by two separate banking groups. The first will comprise an issue of $55,000,000 Fox Film Corporation 6 per cent secured notes, due April 15, 1931, which will be offered at par by a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and including the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, Dillon, Read & Co. and Lehman Brothers.

The second will represent an additional issue of 433,000 shares of common stock of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., which are represented by voting trust certificates. The stock will be offered by a group headed by Pynchon & Co., and including West & Co. and W. S. Hammons & Co., and will be priced at $48.50 a share.

Proceeds from the sale of the notes and the stock, together with the proceeds from the recent issue of $30,000,000 General Theatres Equipment, Inc., 6 per cent debentures, will take care of a total of $102,000,000 of indebtedness of the Fox Film Corporation and of Fox Theatres Corporation. The $55,000,000 note issue will be refunded at maturity by a long-term issue, according to present plans.

The note issue will be secured by the pledge of 660,900 shares of Loew's, Inc., common stock and all of the capital stock of the United American Investing Corporation, which has a substantial stock interest in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust Company, Ltd., which in turn owns 65 per cent. of the ordinary stock of the Gaumont British Picture Corporation.

BONDS STRENGTHEN ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Convertibles Lead the Domestic Issues to Higher Ground in Moderate Trading.

The bond market displayed a better tone yesterday. Convertibles led the domestic issues on the Stock Exchange slightly higher in moderately active trading, while foreign loans, on the average, were a shade easier. United States Government bonds continued steady in dull trading, with the net changes for the day ranging from up 4-32 to off the same amount.

International Telephone and Telegraph 4½s of 1939 led the active convertibles with a gain of 2¾ points, American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s of 1939 moved up 2¼ points. Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron convertible 6s were up 1¾ points and fractional gains were scored by Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Chicago & North Western 4¾s and by all of the Alleghany Corporation convertibles.

Railroad bonds showed fairly even strength. Erie refunding and improvement 5s were off a point due to the dissolution of the banking syndicate which recently offered the issue. St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978 moved fractionally higher in heavy trading.

In the industrial list amusement issues were fairly active. Loew's, Inc., 6s, with warrants, jumped 3 points to 126, which is within a point of the high established recently. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s were up slightly, as were Famous Players Lasky 6s, while Pathé Exchange 7s held unchanged and General Theatres Equipment 6s sold off fractionally.

A. T. & T. Convertible 4½s Being Exchanged for Stock

More than $114,000,000 of the 4½ per cent convertible bonds of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, due in 1939, have been presented for conversion into capital stock, or 52 per cent of the entire issue of $218,952,200. The conversion privilege began on Jan. 1. As a result of the conversions, 1,140,000 additional shares of capital stock have been or will be issued, while the company has received $91,200,000 cash in the process.

As only $57,000,000 had been converted prior to April 16, when the offering of rights to stockholders to purchase additional shares at $100 on a one-for-six basis was announced, it appears that conversions have doubled since the rights became known. As a result of the conversions, at least 14,632,901 shares of A. T. & T. stock are now outstanding and will share in the rights.

LEASES BY LAND TRUST.

Texas Pacific Concern Announces Deals in Texas.

The Texas Pacific Land Trust has leased 960 acres of oil land in Glasscock County, Texas, to the Pure Oil Company, 480 acres in Ector County to the Phillips Petroleum Company and 320 acres in Glasscock County to the Balance Oil Company. Besides a cash consideration in each transaction, the trust will receive the usual one-eighth royalty in oil produced.

The Continental Oil Company has purchased from the trust commercial oil and gas leases on 145,000 acres in six counties in Texas.

Since Jan. 1 the trust has retired 10,500 subshares at an average cost of $15.05 a share, leaving 1,813,700 subshares outstanding.

Associated Telephone Company, Ltd.

First Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, Series A

Dated March 1, 1930 — Due March 1, 1965

Coupon bonds, $1,000 and $500 denominations, registerable as to principal. Interest payable semi-annually March 1 and September 1 in New York and Los Angeles without deduction of Federal Income Taxes, not in excess of 2%. Redeemable on any interest payment date at the option of the Company, in whole or in part on 30 days' published notice at the following prices and accrued interest: On or before February 28, 1935 at 105; after February 28, 1935 but on or before February 29, 1940 at 104; after February 29, 1940 but on or before February 28, 1945 at 103; after February 28, 1945 but on or before February 28, 1950 at 102½; after February 28, 1950 but on or before February 28, 1955 at 102; after February 28, 1955 but on or before February 29, 1960 at 101; after February 29, 1960 but on or before February 29, 1964 at 100½. The Company agrees to reimburse, if requested within 60 days after payment, the Pennsylvania and Connecticut four mills tax, the Maryland four and one-half mills tax, the District of Columbia five mills tax and the Massachusetts income tax up to 6%. Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, Trustee.

Application has been made to certify the bonds of this issue as legal investments for savings banks in California. Issuance of these bonds has been authorized by the Railroad Commission of California.

Mr. S. L. Odegard, President of the Company, summarizes from his letter to us as follows:

Property and Territory: Associated Telephone Company, Ltd., incorporated under the laws of the State of California in 1929, owns and operates modern telephone systems, supplying telephone service to 45 communities located in 3 counties in southern California. The population served is estimated to be in excess of 387,500. These properties operate 66,137 stations, a large number of which are located in the Metropolitan area of Los Angeles. The territories served include Long Beach, San Bernardino, West Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Venice, Redondo, Covina, Azusa, Glendora, Puente, Baldwin Park, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Hermosa and Manhattan. Through inter-connections with the lines of the Bell Telephone Companies, the long distance lines of the Bell system are available to all subscribers.

Security: These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a first mortgage on all the fixed properties, rights and franchises of the Company now owned, and on such property hereafter acquired against which any bonds may be issued under the indenture. The value of the fixed property of the Company is largely in excess of these first mortgage bonds presently to be outstanding.

Earnings: Earnings (including the earnings of all properties now owned) for the years ended December 31, 1928, December 31, 1929 and February 28, 1930, after giving effect to present financing, were as follows:

Gross earnings	$2,055,568.32	$2,317,207.55	$2,368,597.66
Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes	837,468.99	989,382.61	1,028,747.47
Net earnings before depreciation	$1,218,099.33	$1,327,824.94	$1,339,850.19
Annual interest requirements on this issue (all other funded debt to be retired)			300,000.00
Balance available for reserves, federal taxes and dividends			$1,039,850.19

Net earnings, as above set forth, for the year ended February 28, 1930, were more than 4.4 times the interest requirements on all the outstanding funded indebtedness. After deducting provision for depreciation for the year, amounting to $370,058.03, net earnings were $969,792.16, or more than 3.2 times the annual interest requirements on the funded debt outstanding.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds from the sale of these bonds will be used to retire bonds of predecessor companies, to reimburse the Company for expenditures for additions to property and for other corporate purposes.

Franchises: In the opinion of the officers of the Company and its counsel the provisions of the franchises under which the Company operates are satisfactory and free from burdensome restrictions.

Management: This Corporation is a part of the Associated Telephone Utilities System. The management is in the hands of experienced telephone men whose ability as economical and efficient operators has been thoroughly demonstrated.

Price 97½ and Accrued Interest, to yield 5.15%

These bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of counsel. The books and accounts of the Company are audited annually by Arthur Andersen & Company, Certified Public Accountants.

$55,000,000

Fox Film Corporation

Secured 6% Gold Notes

Due April 15, 1931

Price 100 and interest

Company: Fox Film Corporation is one of the largest and most prominent companies in the world engaged in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures. Its product is distributed throughout the world.

Fox Film Corporation has acquired from Fox Theatres Corporation the latter's holdings of common stock of Loew's Incorporated.

Security: These Notes, in the opinion of counsel, are a direct obligation of the Company and are specifically secured under a Trust Indenture by the pledge of 660,900 shares of common stock of Loew's Incorporated and all the capital stock of United American Investing Corporation, which has a substantial stock interest in Metropolis and Bradford Trust Company, Ltd., owners of 65% of the ordinary stock of Gaumont British Picture Corporation, and represents an investment on the part of Fox Film Corporation of $20,000,000.

Equity and Assets: As at December 28, 1929, the pro forma consolidated balance sheet of Fox Film Corporation and wholly owned subsidiary companies, as prepared by independent auditors, reveals net tangible assets, without deducting this Issue, of approximately $157,208,511 (including over $9,800,000 of cash), an amount equivalent to $2,850 for each $1,000 of Notes.

Earnings: The consolidated net earnings of Fox Film Corporation and subsidiary companies, available for interest requirements on this Issue, after maintenance, taxes (other than Federal income), depreciation, amortization and other deductions, including profits applicable to minority interests and interest requirements on the mortgage and funded debt of subsidiary companies, for the two fiscal years ended December 28, 1929, as reported by independent auditors, are given below:

Year	Amount
1928	$6,572,840*
1929	13,966,355*
Annual Interest Requirements on this Issue	3,300,000

*The 1928 and 1929 figures are before the deduction of special charges consisting of obsolescence of silent films, scenarios and advertising accessories in the amounts, respectively, of $2,085,137 and $2,379,225. In the figure given above for 1929, profits on the sale of securities of $5,612,608 have not been included, nor have there been deducted certain non-recurring expenses of $938,564.

Management: The management of Fox Film Corporation will be vested in certain principal operating executives who have been responsible for the past success of the Company, augmented by the engineering and scientific staffs of General Theatres Equipment, Inc.

This offering is made subject to the conditions more fully set forth in the complete descriptive circular, a copy of which may be had upon request.

Why have CITIES SERVICE earnings been depression-proof?

THE 86% increase in earnings net to common stock and reserves shown by Cities Service for the first quarter was the result of definite underlying factors.

These factors are still at work and as a result the earnings of Cities Service Company should continue to multiply irrespective of any normal business trend.

We have prepared a special new bulletin on Cities Service Company which points out some of the reasons why Cities Service has been a "depression-proof" company.

CHANGES NUMEROUS IN WALL ST. FIRMS

Dissolutions, New Organizations and Additions of Partners Are Effective Today.

COX & TRAINER SPLIT UP

Numerous changes in Wall Street financial houses were announced yesterday, in dissolution of firms, formations of new ones and admissions of new partners. Contemplated changes in financial firms are usually made effective on May 1.

Cox and Trainer announced the dissolution of their firm. George Clarke Cox and J. Willard Jordan have associated themselves with others in the firm of Cox & Jordan. John Newlin Trainer has formed the firm of Trainer & Associates and he will have associated with him James C. Thornton and Lester W. Taylor, former members of the staff of Cox & Trainer.

The copartnership of Moss, Ferguson & Kerngood has been formed, following the dissolution of Kerngood & Co. and Moss & Ferguson. The new firm has memberships on the New York Stock Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, National Metal Exchange and New York Hide Exchange, Inc., and associate membership on the New York Curb Exchange and membership on the Chicago Board of Trade. The partners include Lestre R. Moss, Henry M. Ferguson, S. George Kerngood, William A. Bandler, Milton V. Wolf and Irving S. Moss, with Albert C. Moss, special partner. The main offices will be at 11 Wall Street.

New Firm of Clinton Gilbert & Co.

Clinton Gilbert & Co., with membership on the New York Stock Exchange, was formed to continue the bank and insurance stock business formerly conducted under the name of Clinton Gilbert. The partners are Clinton Gilbert, W. Wilson Hewitt, member of the New York Stock Exchange; Francis B. Gilbert and John W. Gilbert.

Mortimer W. Loewi and Alfred Blumenthal, both members of the New York Stock Exchange, have formed a co-partnership, Mortimer W. Loewi & Co., with temporary offices at 24 Broad Street.

Eugene F. Kinkead has retired from special partnership in Kinkead, Florentino & Co. The firm will be continued under the name of Florentino & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, by Leo J. Florentino, Frank G. Florentino and a special partner, Thomas J. Maloney.

H. & B. Beer, members of the New York Stock Exchange and other leading exchanges in the country, whose firm was established in 1872 under the present name, have changed the name to Beer & Co.

F. S. Smithers & Co. announced the resignation of Austin L. Smithers from the firm and the admission as a general partner of Peter J. Murphy, for many years head of the oil department of Dow, Jones & Co.

Richard Whitney & Co. announced the admission of Daniel G. Condon as a general partner.

Jewett, Newman & Co. announced the retirement of Edgar B. Newman as special partner and the admission of Burton M. Webb as a general partner.

John Muir Admits Two Partners.

John Muir & Co. announced the admission as general partners of Ezra Allendorf, Charles J. Acosta and James J. Comyns.

Fahnestock & Co. announced the admission as general partners of Morgan Goetchins and Charles Fellowes-Gordon.

Dissolution of the New York Curb Exchange firm of Jesse Hyman & Co. was announced, as was the formation of a new firm of Jesse Hyman & Co., members of the New York Curb Exchange, with Jesse Hyman and Lawrence A. Hyman having offices at the same address, 50 Broad Street. The partners are not related.

Harris, Upham & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, have taken over the offices of McGreevy & Co. in Kansas City, Mo.; Wichita and Independence, Kan.; Oklahoma City, Bartlesville and Tulsa, Okla., and have admitted as general partners Milton C. McGreevy and Milton W. McGreevy of Kansas City.

The firm of Alva T. Meyer & Co., members of the New York Curb Exchange, was formed, with Alvah T. Meyer and Frank Kalen as partners, and Michael Horowitz and David Atlas associated with them.

Lester Jacobs and Thomas V. Judge were admitted to general partnership in Seligsberg & Co.

Dr. S. Sidney has become associated with Dolgins & Co., members of the Association of Bank Stock Dealers.

Kingdon Gould Joins Noyes & Co.

J. M. Noyes & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, announced that Kingdon Gould has been admitted to general partnership in the firm.

The Perez F. Huff Company, Inc., announced that Enno J. Reichert has been admitted as a partner in the firm.

W. R. K. Taylor & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, have admitted Richard E. Forrest to general partnership.

Hoit, Rose & Troster announced that William H. Gardner and Albert S. Pinkus, associated with the firm for several years, had been admitted to general partnership.

$12,700,000 More Gold Here From Brazil and Uruguay

The daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank showed imports of $12,700,000 yesterday and a decrease of $500,000 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account. There were no exports.

Of the metal imported, $11,700,000 came from Brazil and $1,000,000 from Uruguay. A shipment of $10,000,000 from Brazil had been previously announced as due today, consigned to Dillon, Read & Co. The remaining $1,700,000 in yesterday's arriavl was consigned to the Guaranty Trust Company, which had previously received $25,000,000 in the last week from Brazil. The shipment from Uruguay also went to the Guaranty.

$40,523,100 GOLD IMPORTED IN APRIL

Total Through This Port Compares With $8,050,000 in March—Exports $90,000.

Imports of gold through the Port of New York in April amounted to $40,523,100, while exports were $90,000. In March imports aggregated $8,050,000 and exports $280,000, and in April, 1929, the shipments amounted to $21,321,000 in imports and $258,000 in exports. Shipments from Japan and China to San Francisco brought the total to $99,381,000 for gold imported this year from the Orient.

Brazil sent most of the gold imported here in April, a total of $36,700,000, making $59,452,000 received from that country since the first of the year. Peru also forwarded $2,392,100 and Uruquay $1,000,000. Shipments of $15,565,000 received last month from Japan increased to $93,905,000 the total received since the beginning of the year. Shipments of $3,936,000 received in April from China make a total of $5,476,000 received on the present movement from that country.

The only export shipment in April was $90,000 to Great Britain. Earmarked gold was decreased by $500,000 during the month.

Gold shipments are compared for April in the last three years as follows:

	Imports.	Exports.	Excess.
1930	$40,523,100	$90,000	$40,433,100
1929	21,321,000	258,000	21,063,000
1928	3,866,000	95,453,000	*91,587,000

CHANGES ANNOUNCED BY CORPORATIONS

W. C. Potter on Mutual Life Board—New Post for W. T. Hoops.

William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Company, was elected yesterday a trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Among the companies of which he is a director are the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, Bethlehem Steel, Electric Bond and Share, Columbia Gas and Electric, Marland Oil, National Power and Light and Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway.

At the same meeting David F. Houston, president of the Mutual Life, announced that the company's new paid-for business for the first three months of the year amounted to $136,637,045, an increase of $5,769,086 over the corresponding period of 1929. During the same period the company invested $26,789,290 in bonds, preferred stocks and first mortgages.

Newton P. Frye of the Central-Illinois Company, William M. Spencer of Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., R. C. O. Matheny of the Matheny, Dixon Company of Springfield, Ill., and Wilson J. MacLaughlin of Ewing & Co. have been added to the board of Distributers' Group, Inc.

William T. Hoops, president of the L. C. L. Corporation and vice president of the American Express Bank and Trust Company, was elected chairman of the executive committee of the United States Freight Company.

J. H. Gerkens, vice president and treasurer of the Willys-Overland Company, was elected a director of that company, succeeding H. C. Tillotson, resigned.

J. L. Block and Henry H. Straus were elected directors of the Inland Steel Company, succeeding R. J. Beatty and D. P. Thompson.

Emanuel S. Lerner, partner of G. & A. Seligman, was elected a member of the advisory board of the National Exchange Bank and Trust Company of Brooklyn.

Emory W. Clark resigned as chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Detroit to become chairman of the board of the Detroit Bankers Company.

CITIES SERVICE BUYS FEDERAL LIGHT STOCK

Cash Deal of About $20,000,000 With Public Utility Holding Gives Purchaser Control.

The Public Utility Holding Corporation of America, of which Harris, Forbes & Co. are bankers, has sold for cash all its holdings in the Federal Light and Traction Company to the Cities Service Company, it was learned yesterday. This gives the Doherty company a majority of all Federal voting stocks.

As a result Public Utility Holding has more than $20,000,000 in cash and readily marketable securities. The cash holdings alone are believed to be almost $15,000,000. The company has no debts.

The deal, it was reported yesterday, is preliminary to further expansion of Public Utility Holding's permanent investments, which include substantial minority interests in the Central Public Service System, International Hydro-Electric System, Associated Gas and Electric and other American utility companies, including Pacific Coast gas and electric systems. It acquired recently a controlling stock interest in the South American Railways Company, which owns properties in Buenos Aires and Argentina.

SUN from an airplane on the way to the South Pole; pictures of Admiral Byrd's base at Little America; pictures of the personnel of the Antarctic party—100 or more in all—will be shown next Sunday in The New York Times Rotogravure Picture Section in a separate part of eight full pages. An interesting historic record. Order The Times at your news stand to be sure of obtaining it.—Advt.

A Scientific Investment Plan in American Aviation

With the passage of the Watres bill by both Houses of Congress, and the increasing activity in air express developments, American aviation as a business is on the verge of far-reaching changes and increased vitality.

We have prepared a plan for the long-pull investor which should give him the full benefit of this coming expansion. Briefly, the investments recommended are:

North American Aviation—owning outright three splendid earning properties (Sperry Gyroscope, Ford Instrument Co., and Eastern Air Transport); also large blocks of stock in leading manufacturing and transport companies. In our opinion, one of the soundest single investments in aviation.

Curtiss-Wright Corporation—the largest manufacturing, sales, training, and servicing combination—with forty airport bases from coast to coast and an unparalleled engineering corps.

United Aircraft and Transport Corporation—combining manufacturing and transport operations on a nation-wide scale, under efficient management, and a substantial earning record.

Irving Air Chute Co., Inc.—the oldest and largest parachute makers in the world, with international markets. By the record, a company which grows as the whole industry grows, on a dividend basis, with fast growing earnings.

Douglas Aircraft Company—one of the most consistent earners among manufacturing companies operating at capacity with large unfilled government orders, and with commercial developments projected.

We shall gladly send more detailed description of these key companies on request.

Dated May 1, 1929 Due May 1, 1949

Principal and semi-annual interest (May and November) payable in gold in New York City.
Coupon bonds in the denomination of $1,000.

Legal Investment for Savings Banks and Trust Funds in New York State

Salt Lake City, the capital of Utah, is the principal financial, manufacturing and commercial center between Denver and the Pacific Coast, and serves as the terminal point of four large railroads. It is widely known as one of the most conservatively financed cities in the country. The combined net debt of the City and School District, which are co-terminous, is less than 4% of the assessed valuation.

These Bonds, issued for building purposes, are direct obligations of the School District; and are payable from unlimited ad valorem taxes levied against all the taxable property therein.

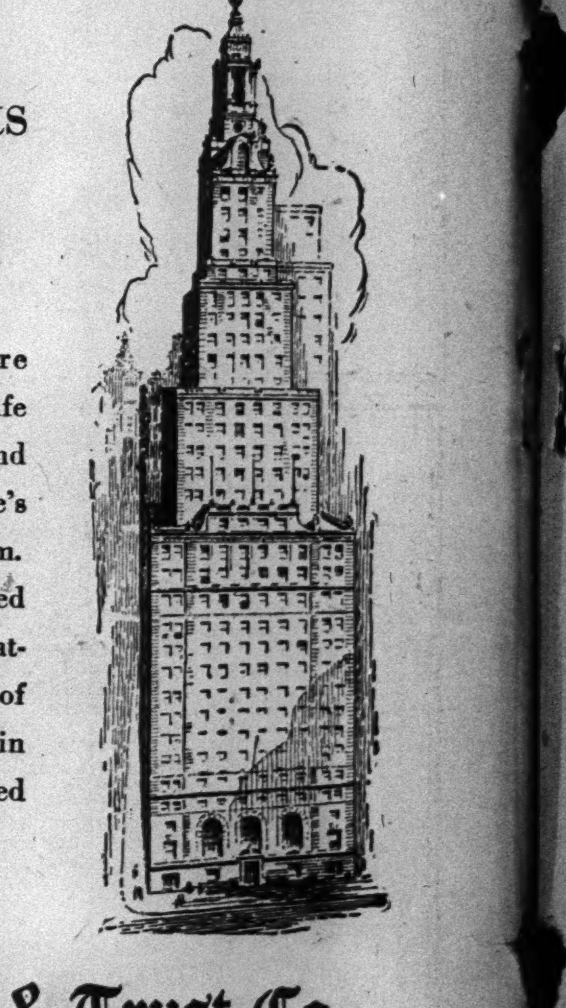
Enlarging the Benefits of Life Insurance



THE uses and value of insurance are greatly increased when combined in a Life Insurance Trust, which gives breadth and flexibility to insurance, and unifies one's entire protection and investment program.

This Company has for a century served New York's prominent families, whose patronage it still enjoys. Its tradition is one of personal service and singleness of purpose in the care that is given to every detail entrusted to it.

Internationals Up on English Exchange Following Strong American Buying.

FRENCH STOCKS DECLINE

Heavy Selling Forces Prices to New Lows—Bear Attacks Depress the German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 30.—The stock markets had a better tone within narrow trading limits today and internationals advanced on strong American buying. British Government stocks were firm, notably the war loan at £101 5-16, and the funding loan at £89½.

His Master's Voice Gramophone jumped 11-32 to £5 11-32, while Columbia Grapohone at £6⅞ closed 5-16 higher on strong New York support. Unilever ordinary was dully at £3 9-32 despite an announcement today of a bonus of one fully paid ordinary share for every sixteen ordinary shares held.

International Nickel rallied sharply to $36⅝, International Holding to $6¾, and Hydroelectric to $50, but General Electric slumped 9d to 47s. Brazilian Traction rose 1 3-16 to $52 7-16. A brisk demand for Fords pushed that stock to £3⅝.

Oils were firm, especially Creole at 27s 6d. Rio Tintos fell to £41 on a decline of £1 12s 6d in the price of copper, while among Rhodesians Bwana McKubwa weakened 6d to 17s.

Credit was plentiful in Lombard Street, with 2 per cent charged for overnight loans. The discount market was steady, however, and the three-month bill rate remained at 2 7-16 per cent. Sterling exchange improved slightly to $4.86 9-32.

The markets will be closed tomorrow for the usual May Day holiday.

Prices Down in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 30.—Heavy selling for foreign and domestic accounts forced prices down to new lows on the Bourse today. End-of-the-month settlements were effected with a slightly increased money rate. Much selling for English accounts was noticeable.

French rentes were lower, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.05; 1918 4s, 99.90; 1920 amortizable 5s, 133.50; 1928 5s, 102.30; 1920 6s, 104.35; 1927 amortizable 6s, 104.80.

General Decline in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 30.—New attacks on Siemens, which fell 7 points to 239, and Mansfield of the mining roup, which dorpped 6 points and reached the low level of 70 points, had a depressing effect on the market today, which declined all along the line. The only exception was Lorenz of the low-voltage group, which were much sought and 4 points higher.

Julius Berger of the building group, Deutsche Linoleum, Polyphon, beer and spirits, chemicals and the potash group were also offered and weaker.

Reduction in the private discount rate to 4¼ per cent brought a slight recovery, but the close was still toward weakness.

The Higher the Rate the Lower the Rating!

The highest yield on any security is safety... many bonds pay a higher rate of interest than 5½% PRUDENCE-BONDS...but peace means more than percentages... the cost of extra revenue is risk...there is a dividing line in all investment yields where conservatism ceases and doubt begins...and 5½% PRUDENCE-BONDS secured by first mortgages on income-producing properties are ON THIS SIDE OF THE LINE.

Your money grows safely invested in money

When your money is invested in companies that deal only in money, you benefit by exceptional earnings stability and investment safety.

When you own the common stock of a certain investment company, your money is distributed among financial institutions . . . commercial banks and trust companies, insurance and finance companies, and other financial institutions.

This sound common stock also pays a liberal income : : : we have outlined a plan whereby an annual income of $1,000 is obtainable by placing $3,000 in this investment stock and reinvesting the liberal cash and stock dividends over a period of years : . . $3,000 buys an income of $1,000 a year.

This plan shows how to make your investment funds work hard for you. We shall be glad to send a copy to you.

The SUBURB has Come of AGE!

FOR decades the trend of population was mainly to the large city proper. Of necessity the city pushed outward and spread. And rapid transportation, the motor car, and comparable public utility facilities combined to produce a rate of growth for the suburbs even greater proportionately than that of the great city.

This is one reason why Community Water Service Company has had such a remarkable record in expansion and earnings and has such excellent prospects for future growth. Fifty-four per cent of the population served with water by its subsidiaries is within a thirty-five mile radius of the cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

This $78,000,000 System, serving 1,100,000 people, affords an opportunity to investors in its Common Stock which is listed on the New York Curb Exchange.

RECORD FOR APRIL IN STOCK TRADING

PRICE TREND DOWNWARD

Month's Averages Decline for First Time Since Autumn—Heavy Curb Dealings.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange last month was the heaviest of any April on record and the largest since October, 1929. Sales totaled 111,041,000 shares, against 96,552,040 shares in March and 82,600,470 shares in the corresponding month a year ago. The maximum day's trading was 5,931,610 shares on April 4, which is also the largest of the year. The smallest day's trading was on April 17, when 3,942,560 shares were dealt in.

The general trend of the stock market was irregularly downward during the greater part of the past month. After advancing to high levels for the year in the first two weeks, prices turned irregular and continued in this fashion until the end of the third week.

Prices declined sharply the opening day of the fourth week, and THE NEW YORK TIMES's combined averages registered a loss of 4.85 points. This was followed by mixed movements in prices until April 25, when the second setback occurred on the announcement of a reduction in the dividend rate of Stewart-Warner Company stock to $1 annually. This caused the stock to break 12 points.

On April 28, in the final hour of trading, a heavy wave of selling sent prices tumbling, which reflected in the biggest decline of the year as measured by THE NEW YORK TIMES's combined averages, which showed a loss for the day of 5.97 points. The following day the market went through a series of reactions and rallies which finally terminated in firmer prices at the close. Prices rallied yesterday and closed strong.

THE NEW YORK TIMES's combined averages showed a decline for the month for the first time since the break last Fall.

The following table shows the volume of transactions and the net change in combined averages for the year by months:

	Sales.	Net Ch'ge Comb. Av.
January	62,309,290	+12.56
February	68,723,210	+ 5.74
March	96,552,040	+12.75
April	111,041,000	— 5.27
Total year to date	338,624,540	+25.78

Transactions in stocks for April and from Jan. 1 this year compare as follows with the corresponding periods in previous years back to 1914:

Certificates Must Be Surrendered Today to Receive $1.25 a Share.

The New York Stock Exchange in announcing that stock certificates of the Pacific Oil Company, with proof of claim to share in final distribution of assets attached, must be surrendered today at the Industrial Trust Company, Wilmington, Del., said:

"Distribution of the assets of Pacific Oil Company, in cash, will amount to approximately $1.25 a share on the 3,500,000 shares of capital stock of no-par value outstanding and will be paid, it is expected, in July, this year. Pacific Oil Company capital stock was stricken from the Stock Exchange list on April 29."

DEUTSCHE BANK ASSAILED.

Former Employe Accuses It of Losing Heavily on the Boerse.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 30.—At a shareholders' meeting today of the Deutsche Bank Disconto Gessellschaft, the first since the merger of those banks last Fall, two members of the board of directors were attacked sharply by a former employe, who asserted that the Deutsche Bank had suffered great losses through operations on the Boerse.

Replying to criticisms regarding social measures, the director, Oscar Wassermann, admitted that 3,151 members of the staffs of the banks had been discharged since October, 1929, and that by July 1 the number would reach 4,000. Half of these, he said, had been employed in other professions. Defending the merger, he asserted that in 1913 the salary per capita amounted to 3,400 marks and the net profit per capita to 4,991 marks, but in 1929 the respective figures were 4,715 and 1,357 marks. In view of this situation there had been no other way out of the dificulty. Up to today eighteen buildings had been sold and a large number of branch offices closed.

Gain in March Made Quarter's Sales Exceed the Total for Same Period in 1929.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Featured by a large volume of flotations by American and semi-American corporations for use in expanding their foreign operations, loans from abroad in the American market the first three months of 1930 amounted to $338,000,000, exceeding by 20 per cent those of any similar period since the second quarter of 1928.

New nominal capital obtained in the United States during the quarter amounted to $232,000,000, and was somewhat less than in the corresponding period of 1929.

At that time refunding was not a profitable transaction because of the high money rates, which caused foreign flotations in the United States during last year to fall to the lowest figure in years.

The revival in foreign borrowing was a direct result of the easing of money market conditions which, following the stock market break last October, had been anticipated in official circles.

For January the total nominal capital brought out was about $76,000,000, rising in February to $101,000,000 and in March to $162,000,000.

"There was a steady increase during the quarter in the volume of loans and a broadening of the geographic distribution," said a statement issued by the Commerce Department today.

"The market in the United States for bonds, both foreign and domestic, was slow during January and February, but the improvement during March was so marked that the total bond transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during the first three months of 1930 exceeded the total for the corresponding period of 1929.

"Foreign bonds responded to the market improvement to a greater extent than domestic bonds because the former had fallen to much lower levels. This recovery was aided by foreign purchases of foreign dollar securities.

"These foreign purchases were made by individuals for investment and by the foreign governments for redemption purposes. The shift from stock to bond financing, which has taken place since last October, was an important factor in making increased foreign financing possible."

Of the flotations made by American and semi-American corporations for their foreign operations, four totaling nearly $130,000,000 could not be divided geographically because the activities of the organizations were so widespread.

An issue of $40,000,000 of 5 per cent debentures of the Royal Dutch Company was brought out during the three months, over $38,000,000 having been absorbed in the United States.

"This large European petroleum concern has interests in so many countries that it is impossible to allocate the proceeds of the issue to any one area, the department said.

"The Royal Dutch Company obtained capital in the United States once before, in 1916, when New York shares were marketed by an American banking group."

Canada continued to borrow in substantial volume. Small provincial and municipal issues made up the bulk of the total of about $58,000,000. Two corporate issues guaranteed by the Dominion Government totaling $18,000,000 were floated.

Canadian private corporate flotations were practically all for public utilities.

Other features of the statement follow:

"Europe obtained over $57,000,000 in the United States during the first quarter, a considerable increase over the limited borrowings during 1929. This increase resulted primarily from Germany's re-entrance as a long-term borrower.

"The largest of the German issues, in point of the amount of money involved, was the issue of 1,000-year participating debentures of Siemens & Halske G., a large electrical manufacturing concern. American purchases of these debentures amounted to over $23,500,000.

SOME GAINS SHOWN IN THE STEEL TRADE

Weekly Reviews Report an Increase in Requirements for Automobile Plants.

PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER

Structural Awards Advance and the Outlook for Highway Orders Is Promising.

Price weakness in iron and steel has become more pronounced in the past week, although market developments in finished steel are moderately encouraging, according to the trade press summaries.

Improvement in the automotive industry while slow and limited practically to low price car makers, is manifested in slightly heavier specifications for strip, sheets and bars. There is a mild increase in line pipe, due to one large order for the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company. Buying is at extremely short range and mill schedules in most finished products are irregular with pressure for tonnage to sustain operations increasing.

The Iron Trade Review, says in part:

"Formal inquiry by the Illinois Central Railroad for 2,200 cars, requiring about 25,000 tons of heavy steel, coincides with the best equipment order week in a month, bookings including 450 ore cars and gondolas, 800 underframes, 66 miscellaneous cars and 13 locomotives. Pending ship work in the East entails 75,000 tons of plates and shapes. A spurt in structural awards, including 11,500 tons for New York subways, more than triples last week's lettings.

Quiet Midsummer Expected.

Nevertheless, there is an undercurrent of opinion, more pronounced in the East than in the Middle West, that the iron and steel industry has spent its effort for the first half year and is heading into a mediocre midsummer situation. It is felt that whatever gains are made by the automotive industry will fail to neutralize the defections in other lines, notably the railroads. Sentiment, irregular all year, is unmistakably in a trough this week.

"Price weakness, as disclosed by the ninth consecutive decline in The Iron Trade Review composite to the lowest point since early April, 1922, was accentuated this week by further concessions in sheets and a reduction of 50 cents a ton in pig iron at Chicago, to $19, furnace. Iron and steel scrap prices in most districts have given further ground, and in many finished steel lines there is listlessness and a marked lack of support.

"Those wage levels dependent on open-market prices are now feeling the effects of this deterioration in the market. Wages in unionized sheet mills for May and June will be reduced 4½ per cent, the first cut since 1927 and the lowest rates paid since 1922. Bar iron mill puddlers were cut 25 cents a ton for March and April, and now another 25 cents is taken off the May-June rate."

The Iron Age market summary says in part:

"Price instability extends to the primary materials. Scrap markets have grown still weaker, with heavy melting grade down 25 cents a ton at Philadelphia and St. Louis. Chicago pig iron has receded 50 cents a ton. Alabama foundry iron, which had been expected to react to the larger melt of cast pipe shops, has been sold in certain Northern sections at a new low price of $12, Birmingham.

Percentages of Production.

"In view of the general weakness of the market, the Steel Corporation's announcement that it looks for a continuance of an 80 per cent rate of steel ingot production throughout the quarter is encouraging. In terms of tonnage the rate of raw steel output for all producers has been higher in the first four months than the average for any previous year except 1928 and 1929. However, the percentage rate has been lower, because of expansion in capacity, and business has been unevenly distributed both geographically and in terms of products.

"Railroad demand is subsiding, while automotive requirements are creeping up and additional pipe line tonnage is being placed. Steel consumption by farm equipment manufacturers is undiminished. Seasonal requirements for road making are promising, but Spring buying of merchant wire products has been disappointing and demand for roofing sheets appears to have passed its peak. Structural steel awards, at 42,000 tons, are the largest since early in February.

"A Central Western gas company has placed 725 miles of 22 and 24-inch seamless pipe with the National Tube Company for a gas line from Texas to Minneapolis and St. Paul. With lateral units to be contracted for later, it will require 200,000 tons of steel."

A reduction in pig iron at Chicago and in blue annealed sheets lowered The Iron Trade Review composite 12 cents, to $34.28. The average for April was $34.44, compared with $34.95 for March and $36.81 last April.

Both composite prices of The Iron Age are lower. Finished steel is 2.242 cents a pound, against 2.264 cents for the past four weeks, and pig iron $17.67 a gross ton, against $17.75 for eight weeks.

STRUCTURAL STEEL GAINS.

Awards in the Last Week Put at 42,000 Tons.

A slight seasonal gain in building construction is becoming apparent, according to The Iron Age's weekly review of structural awards. Contracts for the past week totaled 42,000 tons, which is the largest of the weekly compilations of the publication since the middle of February. Discussing the details of the awards, the review says:

"New contracts include 11,500 tons for two New York subway sections, 6,700 tons for an insurance building in Milwaukee, 6,000 tons for an insurance building in Philadelphia and 2,200 tons for oil storage tanks for the Pure Oil Company.

"About 30,000 tons of work was added to the pending list. Outstanding projects are 2,500 tons for elevating the New York Central tracks at Syracuse, N. Y.; 2,500 tons for a mill building for the Weirton Steel Company at Weirton, W. Va.; 5,000 tons for a high school in Chicago, 1,100 tons for pier 34 at Spring Street, New York; 1,000 tons for an office building at 101 Wall Street, New York; 3,000 tons for a bridge at Jacobs Creek, Pa."

SHELL UNION PROFIT REDUCED $2,800,000

GROSS INCOME INCREASES

Some Unproductive Investments Are Expected to Bring Results Later.

The Shell Union Oil Corporation and subsidiaries issued yesterday the annual report for 1929, showing net earnings of $17,573,249 after provision for depletion, depreciation, taxes and interest on debentures. After allowing for preferred stock dividends, earnings were at $1.27 a common share. In 1928, when the company had no preferred stock outstanding, net earnings totaled $20,395,021, equivalent to $2.04 a share on the common stock then outstanding.

Gross income, including a half interest in the income of the Comar Oil Company, was $72,955,012, compared with $68.538,815 in 1928. The profit and loss account includes profits of the Shell Oil Company, Shell Petroleum Corporation and their subsidiary companies, Shell Eastern Petroleum Products, Inc., Shell Pipe Line Corporation, dividends received from the Flintkote Company and parts of profits of the Comar Oil Company, Wolverine Petroleum Corporation and Shell Company of Canada, Ltd.

"Results of th year's operations are not so good as those of 1928 and reflect the conditions in the oil industry during the year," said J. C. van Eck, president, in his remarks accompanying the annual report. "A great deal of expenditure was incurred which normally would have produced results but which, owing to conservation restrictions, was not fully productive. When normal conditions return these investments will add to the earnings."

The balance sheet showed current assets of $134,895,676, compared with current liabilities of $29,890,540. Cash in banks and on hand was $8,297,668; inventories at cost or market, whichever is lower, $56,604,670; accounts receivable less reserves, $17,084,539, and short term and demand loans, $47,559,138. Marketable securities at cost were carried at $2,873,279.

Advertising Agencies Unite.

Consolidation of three advertising agencies, Moser & Cotins of Utica, N. Y., and Picard, Bradner & Brown, Inc., and the Lyon Advertising Agency, Inc., of New York was announced yesterday. The new corporation will be known as Moser & Cotins, Brown & Lyon, Inc. Theodore E. Moser will be president; Arthur S. Cotins, vice president and treasurer; Lee D. Brown, vice president, and James B. Lyon, vice president and secretary.

The "Wizard" of Castle Point

More than a century ago the Castle Point Villa of John Stevens, on the grounds where today stand the Stevens Castle and the Stevens Institute of Technology, was the scene of many distinguished gatherings of those who came to pay their respects to "the greatest engineer and inventor of his time."

It was here, in 1828—the year in which ground was broken at Baltimore for the first American railroad—that his visitors congratulated him on the first step toward a realization of his famous prophecy of 1812, that a network of steam-carriage roads would sometime unite a great country "in bonds of indissoluble union."

It was here, too, on a circular track a stone's throw from the Villa, that Colonel Stevens treated his guests to an "excursion" on the steam carriage which he had built to demonstrate to a skeptical public the soundness of his ideas. For even the achievements of his Phoenix, the first steam vessel to make an ocean voyage, of his Juliana, the world's first steam ferry, and of his Savannah, the first transatlantic steamer, had not been enough to win credence in the "dream" that was finally to materialize in the great railroad systems of today.

John Stevens

Facsimile reproduction of the signature of John Stevens as it appears in the "Founders' Book" (the original stock subscription book of The Manhattan Company) of April, 1799. He was one of the many leaders of his day whose descendants we are proud to number among the valued patrons of this institution.

In appointing the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company as Executor and Trustee under your will you enlist the faithful cooperation of an institution which has always enjoyed the patronage of leaders in every desirable phase of a great city's life.

UNITED TO INCREASE ITS U. G. I. HOLDINGS

Offer for Even Trade of 200,000 Shares Extended to Other Owners of Utility's Stock.

MAJORITY CONTROL SEEN

Morgan-Drexel-Bonbright Holding Company to Have at Least 25% in Philadelphia Concern.

The United Corporation, organized more than fifteen months ago by the Morgan-Drexel-Bonbright interests as a utility holding company, will control more than 25 per cent, and possibly a majority, of the common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company as a result of transactions completed or projected, involving the exchange of one share of United common stock for one share of United Gas Improvement common.

An additional 500,000 shares of U. G. I. common stock has already been acquired in exchange for 500,000 shares of United Corporation common stock, bringing the latter's holdings in the Philadelphia utility to 4,651,846 shares. Holders of an additional 200,000 shares of U. G. I. common have expressed the desire to exchange their shares on the same basis, and the United Corporation is proceeding to make this exchange. This will result in increasing United Corporation holdings in U. G. I. to 4,851,846 common shares, or 23.6 per cent of the 20,528,369 shares now outstanding.

Offer Extended to Other Holders.

This offer has been extended to other holders of common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company, on the same share-for-share basis, George H. Howard, president, announced last night.

"If any other holders of common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company should desire to exchange their stock on the same basis," Mr. Howard announced, "the United Corporation will, for the period from this date until 3 P. M., Standard Time, on May 12, 1930, receive tenders for the exchange of shares of the common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company for shares of the common stock of the United Corporation on the basis of one share of the common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company for one share of the common stock of the United Corporation."

The former holders of the large blocks of stock of United Gas Improvement Company referred to were not divulged, but from the size of the holdings it was assumed that a number of large utility holding companies as well as investment trusts had made or sought the exchange of their shares. It was said to be impossible to estimate in advance how many holders of U. G. I. common shares would take advantage of the offer between now and May 12, but it is expected that the United Corporation will acquire well above 25 per cent and possibly a majority interest in the Philadelphia holding company. It has been the largest stockholder in U. G. I. ever since its formation in January, 1929.

Stocks Active and Higher.

The common shares of both companies were active on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, both closing with gains after weakness in mid-session. United closed at 50⅞, up ⅞ point, and United Gas Improvement at 49¼, up 2⅝ points, but still 1⅝ points below the price of United common stock.

The acquisition of larger holdings in United Gas Improvement will give United Corporation a larger share in the future growth of the Philadelphia utility, which is expected to add to its own holdings in public utility companies. The two holding companies between them own a majority of the common shares in Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, and 42.5 per cent of the votes. They also own substantial interests in Niagara Hudson Power and Commonwealth and Southern.

The offer to U. G. I. common stockholders is subject to the acceptance or rejection of any tender in whole or in part. The tender of common stock of the United Gas Improvement Company is to be made by deposit of the shares with J. P. Morgan & Co. here or Drexel & Co. in Philadelphia beginning today. Application to list additional United Corporation shares will be made immediately after May 12, it was announced.

NEW RESERVE POST FOR BURGESS TODAY

KNOWN AS AN ECONOMIST

He Has Edited Institution's Monthly Review of Business Since 1920—Successor Not Announced.

Effective today, W. Randolph Burgess, who has been assistant Federal Reserve agent at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, becomes a deputy governor of the institution, it was announced yesterday. Dr. Burgess in his new office will become an operating officer of the New York bank. As assistant Federal Reserve agent, he has been a representative of the Federal Reserve Board. No appointment to fill Dr. Burgess's former position has been announced.

Dr. Burgess, since 1920, has edited the monthly review of business and credit published by the Reserve Bank. He has been the institution's spokesman, holding daily consultations with newspaper reporters. His work as an economist is well known and he is the author of an authoritative work on the operations of the country's central banking system, called "The Federal Reserve Banks and the Money Market."

Dr. Burgess was born in Newport, R. I., in 1889, and attended Brown, McGill and Columbia Universities. He holds the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia. During the war he served on the general staff as acting chief of statistics, with the rank of Major.

The appointment of Dr. Burgess as a deputy governor of the Reserve Bank fills the vacancy left by the appointment earlier this year of Herbert J. Case to the position of Federal Reserve agent, succeeding Gates W. McGarrah, who resigned to become president of the Bank for International Settlements. The bank has seven deputy governors, each of whom has charge of a particular phase of its manifold activities. In his new position Dr. Burgess will no longer edit the monthly review.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN COUNTER STOCKS

Price movements were irregular yesterday in the over-the-counter securities market. Bank stocks were weak at the opening and seesawed until the last hour, when they turned strong. First National of New York, New York Trust, Bankers, Central Hanover, Irving and Bank of United States were up. On the declining side were Equitable, Chemical, City, Manhattan, Commercial National, Chelsea Bank and Trust and County.

Insurance stocks were virtually at a standstill. National Liberty, Great American, Hartford Fire, American Surety, Phoenix and Westchester Fire were up. Sun Life Assurance, Boston and City of New York were lower.

Industrials were mixed, although a handful of issues turned firm at the close. Many price changes were shown throughout the group, with a majority of the issues up under the leadership of Columbia Baking. Taylor-Wharton Iron and Steel preferred, A. O. Smith, Worcester Salt and Columbia Baking common stocks were among the stocks to move higher, while Publication Corporation, Wheeling Steel common, West Virginia Pulp and Paper common, Great Northern Paper and Welch Grape Juice common were off.

A revival of aggressive bidding caused a general run-up of prices in the utility stocks, with preferred issues in demand. The common stocks were irregular and moved within narrow price ranges. Atlantic City Electric preferred, Metropolitan Edison C and Ohio Public Service scored gains. Bonds, sugars, communication stocks and aeronautical issues were quiet and prices held firm.

Answer Is Filed in Moon Car Suit.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 30 (AP).—The board of directors of Moon Motor Car Company filed answers in chancery court today to a bill of complaint by stockholders of the company who contend the April 7 special stockholders' meeting, at which the board was increased from seven to fifteen, was illegal. The eight new directors in their answer declare the meeting was legal and that they were legally elected.

DRUG, INC., TO BUY VICK CHEMICAL CO.

Directors of Selling Concern Agree to Deal and Call Stockholders' Meeting for a Vote.

STOCK WILL BE EXCHANGED

For Each Share of Chemical Company 57-100 Share of Buyer Organization Will Be Given.

A. H. Diebold, president of Drug, Inc., announced yesterday that negotiations had been concluded whereby Drug, Inc., would acquire the business and assets of Vick Chemical Company. The transaction was authorized by the directors of Vick; a special meeting of whose stockholders is being called to authorize the sale.

Vick Chemical Company will receive 456,000 shares of the capital stock of Drug, Inc., which will be distributed to Vick stockholders at 57-100 share of Drug for each share of Vick.

The Vick Chemical Company is the successor to the business of that name founded by Lunsford Richardson. Its principal product is Vick's Vapo-Rub. The company has plants in Philadelphia and Greensboro, N. C.

Drug, Inc., through its subsidiaries, is a large manufacturer and distributor of drug store merchandise. It owns and operates the Louis K. Liggett Company, a retail chain, and has a controlling interest in Boots Pure Drug Company, Ltd., which operates 860 retail drug stores in Great Britain. Its subsidiaries own some of the best-known brands and trade-marked products.

A new Vick Chemical Company will be organized to carry on the business as a division of Drug, Inc., and the transaction will not involve any change in executive personnel of Vick, it was announced. H. S. Richardson, chairman of Vick, will be added to the board of Drug, Inc.

COTTON BELT REGIME WINS.

Railroad's Directors Re-elected in Battle Over Proxies.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 30.—The management of the St. Louis Southwestern, known as the Cotton Belt Railroad, was overwhelmingly sustained at the annual stockholders meeting held here today. All directors were reelected with the exception of Harry E. Ward, who declined to stand for reelection and was replaced by W. W. Cumberland of New York, a supporter of the present management.

Walter E. Myer of New York was able to muster only 64,184 shares against 282,617 shares voted by the management faction. Each share is entitled to one vote on each of the nine directors, however, and by concentrating all the votes on himself, Mr. Myer was able to remain on the board. The loss of Ward, however, cut the minority representation on the board in half. Last year Mr. Myer had proxies for more than 72,000 shares.

SECURITY OFFERINGS INCREASE IN APRIL

BONDS FAR ABOVE STOCKS

New securities publicly offered in April were featured by the number of new bond flotations and a sharp increase in stock offerings. Issues aggregating $812,989,000 were offered last month, of which $603,762,000 was in bonds and $209,227,000 in stocks, compared with $717,508,236 offered in March, when bonds totaled $633,584,000 and stocks $83,924,236. In April, 1929, the total of new financing was $472,206,000, divided into $297,122,000 in bonds and $175,084,000 in stocks.

Although stock offerings show an increase in April over the preceding month and over April for the two previous years, the total for the year to date is well below last year's record for the corresponding period. For the four months ended April 30 stock offerings aggregated $394,564,236, against $1,241,012,715 in the first four months a year ago. The number of stock issues offered in April was 17, compared with 66 last year, and for the four months 52, against 261 for a corresponding time in 1929.

Bond offerings so far this year show a marked increase over last year. A total of $2,325,778,000 in the first four months contrasts with $1,405,419,178 offered for a similar period a year ago. Bond issues offered in April numbered 119, against 73 last year, and for four months 390, compared with 291 in 1929.

The leading groups in new bond offerings in April were foreign, with a total of $180,245,000, followed by railroads with $138,912,000, and industrials with $102,300,000 next in order.

Outstanding issues in each group last month were $30,000,000 General Theatre Equipment, Inc., 6 per cent debentures, due 1940; $10,000,000 State of Missouri 4¼s, due 1938-1942; $20,000,000 Consumers Power Company 4½s, due 1958; $50,000,000 Argentine Government 5 per cent Treasury notes, due Oct. 1, 1930, and $50,000,000 Erie Railroad Company refunding and improvement 5s series 1930 and $30,000,000 Van Sweringen Corporation 6 per cent gold notes, due 1935.

New stock offerings last month included $60,000,000 Republic Steel Corporation 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred, $56,250,000 First American Corporation common and $24,625,000 Midland United Company convertible preferred stock Series A.

The absence of investment trust financing on a large scale this year accounts for the big drop in stock offerings, as compared with a year ago. Low money rates together with a revival in the bond market has focused the attention of the investing public once again on the senior corporate issues.

CITY BANK FINDS PRICES CHIEF TRADE PROBLEM

Slowness of recovery in business and industry confirms the view that the stock market crash was not the main cause of the industrial disturbance, but only one feature of it, according to the current bulletin of the National City Bank.

What is giving more concern everywhere than anything else, the bulletin says, is the price situation, which presents a problem arising from overdevelopment of production in the principal commodities of world trade.

"The explanation," the bulletin continues, "is to be found partly in the extraordinary stimulus given to the production of such commodities outside of Europe by the war, partly to progress made in the science and methods of production since the war, and partly to efforts on the part of governments to protect domestic industries and control prices with that end in view."

HOLDS RIVAL CARRIERS NEEDED BY NEW YORK

Milton W. Harrison, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad and Public Utility Securities, took issue yesterday with the report of Professor T. W. Van Metre of Columbia University to the committee on railway consolidations of the State Chamber of Commerce. Professor Van Metre contended that the chamber should vigorously oppose the Interstate Commerce Commission's consolidation plan.

Mr. Harrison's organization issued a statement last January describing the commission's plan as a "gesture" and saying it contained no element of compulsion to bring the railroads into line. In his statement yesterday, Mr. Harrison said four or five systems would serve New York better than the number of independent systems proposed by Professor Van Metre. The commission's plan would give New York five systems.

"Common sense would seem to indicate," said Mr. Harrison, "that consolidation into strong systems of equal strength, all serving the port of New York, would stimulate competition, encourage improvements and make these lines more able to accomplish these purposes—rendering service and building additional facilities. Competition between strong systems will still require new facilities to take care of new traffic.

"The argument that a direct new route to the West may be constructed is too remote and too much of a dream to be considered. The idea has been advanced and rejected by the commission."

STUDEBAKER CUTS DIVIDEND RATE TO $4

Directors Cite Reduction in Earnings, Due to Decreased Demand for Autos.

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

A. R. Erskine, President, Says Past Due Instalment Paper Is Up Only 3 Per Cent.

Reduced earnings, as a result of the smaller demand for automobiles in the first quarter of this year, led directors of the Studebaker Corporation to cut the annual dividend rate from $5 annually to $4 on its common stock. The directors, at a meeting in South Bend, Ind., declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common, compared with the former rate of $1.25. The $5 dividend rate had been in effect since December, 1925.

Earnings of the company in the quarter ended March 31 amounted to $1,492,137 after depreciation, interest, Federal taxes and other charges, equivalent after deduction of preferred dividends and minority stockholders' interest, to 62 cents a share on 1,961,413 shares of outstanding common stock. This compares with $5,033,589, or $2.57 on 1,893,750 shares of common stock outstanding in the first quarter of last year.

Erskine Voices Optimism.

Commenting on the reduction in the dividend, A. R. Erskine, president, said in part:

"Notwithstanding the severe drop in current business and the abnormal condition of unemployment, a hopeful and highly significant sign of the situation is the fact that the past due instalment paper of over 400 national finance companies is up only 3 per cent. This indicates the importance and necessity of individual and personal transportation facilities ingrained in the economic and social structure of the nation. People cannot give up their cars because the horse has gone forever from our streets and highways.

"Another potential factor bearing upon future production is the fact that motor cars wear out. Given an average expectancy of seven years, replacements alone of the 25,000,000 motor vehicles now under daily operation in the United States will provide an annual market of about 3,500,000 cars to be filled by American manufacturers, and they will also replace three-fourths of the 6,000,000 cars now in use abroad."

Comparison of Accounts.

LISTINGS APPROVED BY STOCK EXCHANGE

C. & O. Railway to Use 247,489 Shares, to Be Admitted on Notice, in Hocking Valley Merger.

To provide for acquisition of the Hocking Valley Railway, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway has applied for permission to list 247,489 shares of its common stock on the New York Stock Exchange. These will be distributed to Hocking Valley shareholders in the ratio of two and a quarter shares of C. & O. stock for each share of Hocking Valley stock. To equalize the dividends on the two stocks for the quarters ended with December and March a special dividend of $6.25 has been declared on Hocking Valley common, payable on May 10 to stock of record of April 28.

Certificates for C. & O. common stock and scrip for fractional shares will be ready tomorrow at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. Shares represented by scrip not exchanged by Dec. 28 will be sold on the New York Stock Exchange and the net proceeds without interest will be distributed ratably to holders of certificates.

The governing committee of the Exchange admitted to the list $5,000,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due April 1, 1953, of the Electric Power Corporation (Germany).

The following issues were approved for admission to the list upon notice of issuance:

MULLINS MANUFACTURING CORPORATION—15,000 additional shares of common stock without par value.

CHESAPEAKE & OHIO RAILWAY COMPANY—247,489 additional shares of common stock, $100 par value.

PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY COMPANY—$14,000,000 first mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds, Series C, due March 1, 1980.

BEATRICE CREAMERY COMPANY—1,110 additional shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, $100 par value, and 11,578 additional shares of common stock, $50 par value.

GENERAL THEATRES EQUIPMENT, INC.—$30,000,000 ten-year 6 per cent. convertible gold debentures, due April 1, 1940, and voting trust certificates for 1,571,705 additional shares of common stock, without par value.

EXPANSIONS PLANNED FOR NATURAL GAS

Southern Corporation to Extend Its System—Shell Petroleum Sells Acreage.

Two major developments in the natural gas industry announced yesterday included plans for extension of the pipe lines of the Southern Natural Gas Corporation in the Southeast and acquisition of the Shell Petroleum Corporation's gas acreage in the Amarillo field of Texas by the North American Light and Power Company, which with the United Light and Power and Lone Star Gas companies is forming a large mid-Western natural gas system.

The North American Light and Power Company, in which the North American and Insull interests have large equal interests, with the remaining shares owned by Clement Studebaker Jr., its president, [illegible] Kansas, where it has made contracts with the Barber Oil Company and the Theta Oil Company, controlled by C. B. Shaffer. The Studebaker company will [illegible] the Shell Corporation and will distribute the natural gas through its own operating utilities.

More than $15,000,000 of new expenditures is involved in the plans of the Southern Natural Gas Corporation, James H. White, president, announced yesterday, which will be carried out through its subsidiaries, the Mississippi Natural Gas Corporation, the Georgia Natural Gas Corporation and the Alabama Natural Gas Corporation.

Pipe lines are to be extended 800 miles southward in Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama from the main lines running from Shreveport, La., to Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga. Additional communities to be served are Meridian, Jackson, Laurel, Hattiesburg, Moss Point and Pascagoula, Miss.; Selma, Montgomery, Mobile, Opelika, Auburn and Brickyard, Ala.; Macon, Griffin and Milledgeville, Ga., and many other towns contiguous to the system. The line to Meridian and distribution plants at Starkville, Miss.; Leeds, Ala., and Carrollton, Ga., are now being built.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS.

Railway and Light Securities.

The Railway and Light Securities Company announced yesterday it had made new or additional commitments in thirteen different issues this year. One was in debentures of the Kreuger & Toll Company, and one in warrants of the Electric Power and Light Corporation. The others were in the common stocks of the following:

American Gas and Electric, Anchor Cap, Bethlehem Steel, Caterpillar Tractor, Consolidated Gas of New York, Electric Power and Light, New England Telephone and Telegraph, Northern States Power, Paramount Famous Lasky, Sierra Pacific Electric, United States Realty and Improvement.

For the twelve months ended on March 31 the company reports gross income of $2,309,517 and net income, after interest, expenses and taxes, of $1,931,215, against net of $758,007 in the twelve months ended March 31, 1929. In the first quarter of 1930 profits from the sale of securities, after Federal taxes, were $370,000, and unrealized profits on March 31, $2,864,635. The liquidating value of the common stock is put at $87.83 on March 31, as against $69.46 on Dec. 31, 1929.

Utility and Industrial.

The Utility and Industrial Corporation reports for its first twelve months of operation, ended March 31, income of $2,625,870 and net income of $2,370,246 after all expenses, interest and taxes, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $1.31 a share on common stock.

American Investors, Inc.

American Investors, Inc., reports that between Dec. 31, 1929 and March 31 last the market value of its portfolios increased $3,685,000, from $10,810,000. Market values of securities held are reported $1,070,000 above cost. Net income after expenses, but not considering stock dividends or market transactions, were $89,000.

COTTON GOES HIGHER AS DELIVERIES RISE

8,000 More Bales, Making 19,000 This Week, Arrive Here for Settlements.

LONG STAPLE IS SCARCE

Good Rains in Southwest Offset by Cool Conditions in Eastern Sections.

With the congestion in old-crop deliveries more pronounced, prices yesterday on the Cotton Exchange advanced sharply $2 a bale under urgent covering in the July position. After touching 16 cents on the previous day, July rose steadily above 16½ cents, increasing the premium over October to about 140 points in the final trading and dragging up new crop months. Despite weakness in wheat and new low records in sugar for the year, cotton quotations ended with a gain of 5 to 33 points.

More than 8,000 bales arrived in New York for delivery in settlement of May obligations, making 19,000 this week, while the certificated stock at six markets increased to 321,000 bales. With the cotton still to be classed, the total available for delivery now approximates 340,000 bales, and government agents are daily increasing the amount certificated.

The larger percentage of the cotton classed thus far is reported to be of seven-eighths and fifteen-sixteenths inch staple, and it is generally expected that longer staple cotton will be required to fill all the July commitments owing to the heavy deliveries already made on May. As the Exchange rules allow only 60 per cent of the premium commanded by longer staples, considerable loss would result to owners surrendering more valuable cotton through delivery on the July position.

While the weekly weather summary reflected beneficial results of the breaking of the drought in the Southwest, complaints of cool, dry conditions, unfavorable for germination, were general in Eastern sections.

Yesterday's quotations here follow:

RANGE OF MONEY RATES NARROW LAST MONTH

Call and Time Funds in Contrast With Record of Loans in April of Last Year.

Rates for call loans in April ruled at levels approximating those in the previous month. The renewal average for April was 4 per cent, against 3.726 per cent in March and 8.750 per cent in April, 1929. New loans, too, were easy, averaging 3.822 per cent for the month, compared with 3.661 per cent in March and 9.117 per cent in April a year ago.

The range of call loan rates in April for four years follows:

	Range High.	Range Low.
April, 1930	4	3½
April, 1929	16	6
April, 1928	6	4½
April, 1927	5	4

Time loans ruled between 4¼ and 3¾ per cent for sixty and ninety day obligations and 4½ to 4 per cent for six-month loans. Last year the range for time funds in April was from 8¼ to 9 per cent for sixty and ninety day maturities and 8 to 9 per cent for loans running a half year.

In the following tables, compiled by THE NEW YORK TIMES, are given the rates for call and time loans in April:

LULL IN COPPER CONTINUES.

Copper buying continued small yesterday, although some domestic inquiry was reported. Foreign sales on Tuesday amounted to less than 1,000,000 pounds and yesterday to about 1,250,000 pounds. Foreign sales up to noon yesterday for the month were approximately 95,000,000 pounds.

Imports of copper in manufactured form into this country amounted in March to 28,219 metric tons, against 28,127 tons in February and 35,695 tons in January, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Exports of refined copper amounted to 15,464 tons in March, against 23,007 tons in February and 20,760 tons in January.

MAY WHEAT MAKES LOW MARK FOR CROP

Fears of Heavy Deliveries Today Result in General Liquidation of Contracts.

FINISH IN CORN IRREGULAR

Oats Close at Bottom, With Light Deliveries Expected—Switching Marks Rye Trading.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Fears of heavy deliveries of wheat on May contracts tomorrow brought about general liquidation today by scattered longs toward the last on the Chicago Board of Trade. Houses with Eastern connections were free sellers. Price of May dropped about 2 cents from yesterday's finish to a new low on the crop and went to around 3 cents under the July, as the sales were not replaced by purchases of deferred deliveries.

Cash interests and houses with Northwestern connections bought May and sold July and September, presumably changing over hedges, and it is understood that the Northwest had been doing this on a considerable scale for several days. The trade looks for 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels of cash wheat to be delivered tomorrow morning, with larger deliveries later if the Board of Trade directors, at their special meeting tomorrow morning, make carlots regular for delivery.

The finish was well toward the bottom on all futures, with net losses of ⅝ to 1½ cents, May leading.

Government Purchases Expected.

The government is expected to take the bulk of the cash wheat put out tomorrow morning, both here and in other markets, but it did little in the May delivery today. Sentiment as a whole is somewhat less bearish on the new crop months.

Private estimates on the American crop will be given out at 10 A. M. on Friday, and in some quarters the disposition is to go slow on the selling side until they are out of the way.

There was talk of about 1,000,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat being taken for export, largely Manitobas, and Winnipeg lost only ⅜ to ½ cent for the day. The Winnipeg Free Press report showed 60 to 85 per cent of the Spring wheat seeded in the three Canadian Provinces, but complaints were made regarding the lack of subsoil moisture.

Buenos Aires was ⅜ to ½ cent lower, while Liverpool was off 1¾ to 2d. The latter was affected by the favorable weather conditions in North America and by expectations of liberal deliveries on May contracts.

Primary receipts were 513,000 bushels, a week ago 611,000 and a year ago 523,000. Shipments were 567,000 bushels, a week ago 792,000 and a year ago 859,000.

Corn Easy Most of Day.

Corn was easy most of the day, with trade mainly local. Final trades were ⅜ cent lower to 1¼ cents higher, the latter on December.

Stop-loss orders were caught in the May delivery early, and the market failed to show much rallying power. Limited deliveries are expected on May contracts tomorrow owing to small stocks in public elevators. Most receipts from the interior are grading No. 2 and No. 3. Eastern demand was slow, and country offerings small.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,057,000 bushels, a week ago 559,000 and a year ago 467,000. Shipments were 630,000 bushels, a week ago 929,000 and a year ago 659,000.

Longs sold May oats freely, and while cash houses were aggressive buyers, and the Northwest took May and sold July, the finish was at the bottom, with net losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent. Light deliveries are expected tomorrow.

Most of the trade in rye was in changing between deliveries, with the finish ½ to 1 cent lower in sympathy with wheat. The trade expects 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels to be delivered on May contracts.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

DIVIDENDS HOLD UP DESPITE TRADE EBB

FEWER EXTRAS AND RISES

Increase in Omissions of Payments and Many Reductions, Led by Coppers, Expected.

Dividend declarations in April compared favorably with those in the same month of 1929 despite the adverse reports of business for the first quarter, according to computations made yesterday. The total for April was $293,127,842, against $426,121,988 in March and $238,951,561 in April, 1929. Although payments in most instances have been continued, there have been also several important dividend revisions, and it is widely predicted that many reductions are in the offing, especially in the copper group.

Extra dividends show a drop from last year, and fewer dividends have been increased since the beginning of the year. Dividends omitted increased from a year ago, while stock payments are about the same.

Groups showing smaller payments in April compared with a year before were coppers, motor equipments and tobacco.

Two announcements of dividend payments that caused special news were the reduction by the Stewart-Warner Corporation in the quarterly dividend on the common from 87½ to 25 cents and the dropping of the stock dividend and the cutting of the quarterly rate from 87½ cents to 75 cents by the Chile Copper Company. The Studebaker Corporation reduced the quarterly payment from $1.25 to $1 on the common.

	1930.	1929.
Banks and insurance	$9,959,394	$4,892,277
Chain stores	2,783,924	12,724,401

600 Corporations Pay Today Many Millions in Dividends

More than 600 corporations, among them some of the largest in the country, will make dividend disbursements to stockholders today. The distribution will run into many millions of dollars, representing one of the richest turnovers of funds this year.

Among the companies to make payments are the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, American Smelting and Refining, A. M. Byers, Cities Service, Columbian Carbon, International Nickel, Gold Dust, General Foods, United Light and Power and the United States Industrial Alcohol.

Besides the dividend distribution, bond maturities today aggregate about $60,000,000.

HOME INSURANCE PREPARING MERGER

Considers Plan to Bring Its Affiliated Companies Under Control of Holding Concern.

TRADE OF STOCKS IN VIEW

Home Fire Securities Shares Would Be Exchanged for Those Owned by Holders in Parent Corporation.

Plans to bring under the control of the Home Fire Securities Company the stocks in other fire insurance companies owned by stockholders of the Home Insurance Company are reported under discussion by officers of the latter company. It was reported also that an application may be made to list the stock of the Home Insurance Company on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Home Fire Securities Company is a holding company formed by the Home Insurance Company. The companies in which it now owns controlling stock interests are the National Liberty Insurance Company, the Baltimore American Fire Insurance Company and the Georgia Home Insurance Company.

Under the plan, it is believed, an offering of Home Fire Securities stock would be made to stockholders of the Home Insurance Company in exchange for their holdings in companies affiliated with the Home Insurance Company. This would bring the control of these affiliated companies under the securities company.

The securities company was formed in 1928 with an authorized capital of $100,000,000. Rumors that the Stock Exchange would be asked to list the stock of this company were denied as without foundation by officials of the company yesterday, who pointed out that less than $5,000,000 of the authorized capitalization had been subscribed and was outstanding.

The distribution of the stock of affiliated companies is so wide among stockholders of the Home Insurance Company, it was said, that practically the only way they could be brought under control of the securities affiliate would be by a stock offering to these holders. The stock is currently quoted at around $23 a share.

The companies affiliated with Home Insurance that would be brought under control of the securities company if the parent company should decide to adopt the plan, include the Carolina Insurance Company, the Harmonica Insurance Company, the Homestead Insurance Company, the City of New York Insurance Company and the Halifax and the New Brunswick Fire Insurance Companies.

If the plan is adopted, there will be no loss of identity on the part of the companies whose stock will be acquired, it has been pointed out. The names and managements would probably be left intact, it is said.

Chief Bank Examiner Promoted.

George W. Egbert, chief examiner of the New York State Banking Department, has been appointed deputy superintendent of banks, it was announced last night by Joseph A. Broderick, superintendent. He will continue his duties as chief examiner and will be in charge of the general administration work of the New York office. He has been connected with the department since 1910.

RISING RAIL COSTS IN STATE STRESSED

Carriers, Asking Higher Freight Rates, Point to Mounting Expenses at Hearing.

SAY LAWS IMPOSE BURDEN

Grade Crossing Program $22,500,000 —Full Crew Law Added $246,000 in Year—Oil Expense Heavy.

Additional actual expenditures and contemplated expenses of the railroads operating within New York State as compared with those of border States, were emphasized in testimony offered yesterday to the Public Service Commission at the hearing on the proposed increase in freight rates as they affect carriers and shippers in interstate commerce. The hearing before W. E. Griggs, examiner for the commission, will continue this morning.

J. K. McNeillie of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, testified that the practice of using oil for power on locomotives operating through forest reservations, according to State regulation, doubled the cost of coal used to generate steam. The oil is used during the Summer to prevent forest fires which might be started by sparks from coal-burning engines.

The D. & H., in operating under the full-crew law—that is, using full crews regardless of whether the trains are fully loaded, he said, added $246,000 to operating expenses in 1928. Steeper grades in New York State, he said, add materially to the operating expense in shipping between points in the State.

Another burden to the railroad, he said, was the demand for grade-crossing elimination under legislative act. From 1928 to 193, he said, 601 grade crossings in the State would have to be eliminated at a cost of $22,500,000 to the railroads, as compared to eighty-two eliminations in Pennsylvania and thirty-two in Vermont.

Joseph Scully of the Greenwich & Johnsonville Railroad, a twenty-one-mile line, handling principally freight shipments, testified to the severity of grades in New York State, as a result of which the railroads are required to spend additional sums for power.

N. V. Beckstedt, general freight agent of the D. & H. and the Greenwich & Jacksonville road, proposed an additional increase of 10 per cent above the rates proposed in Basic Scale 1, affecting the branch lines north of Albany.

Earle C. Calhoun of the New York Central is chairman of the committee of counsel for the railroads. Vincent G. Hart, Assistant Attorney General, is representing Attorney General Ward, and Wilbur La Roe is appearing for the Associated Industries.

It is expected that the carriers will conclude their testimony today.

LEINSTER DROPS OLD SUIT.

But He Is Expected to Institute Another Action for Divorce.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, April 30 (AP).—Lord Anderson in the Court of Session today permitted abandonment of a divorce action brought by the Duke of Leinster against the Duchess in 1926, but about which nothing was done.

It was recalled that on April 9 the Duke's counsel intimated in court that when the 1926 action had been cleared away another would be brought by the Duke.

The Duchess, who is the former May Etheridge, British musical comedy star, was bound over for two years by a Lambeth magistrate on April 19 after being found guilty of an attempt to commit suicide after a quarrel with a man named Williams, with whom it was testified she had been living in Brixton.

FURRIERS MAKE AWARDS.

National Association's Convention Closes at Los Angeles.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—The annual convention of the National Association of the Fur Industry closed here tonight with a banquet and dance at Cocoanut Grove.

The grand prize for the most beautiful fur creation exhibited during the convention, a peach-dyed wrap with Russian sable collar, valued at $5,000, went to Willard H. George, Inc., of this city.

Awards in the wholesale division were:

Sport Garments: First, Vogel, White & Co., New York, beige kidskin suit; second, H. Berger & Co., New York, pony coat; third, Weiss, Frank & Gintel, New York, sheared panther ensemble.

Informal or Street Wear: First, Cohen Brothers, New York, gray broadtail coat, silver fox trimming; second, M. Cohen & Bros., New York, gray broadtail coat; third, Cohen & Menchel, New York, black broadtail coat.

Formal Evening: First, Vogel, White & Co., & Bros., white caracul coat, red fox collar, Frank Herskovits, Inc., New York, white ermine cape, sable collar; third, M. Cohen & Brothers, white caracul coat, red fox collar.

Emerson Heads Reserve Group.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, April 30.—A larger share of the profits of the Federal Reserve System for member banks will be sought by the Association of Reserve City Bankers. This was decided at the final session of their convention here today. Guy Emerson of New York was chosen president.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday, 3¾ to 4 per cent for the best names. Tuesday, 3¾ to 4 per cent for the best names. The quotations are for 4 to 6 months paper.

Plan Woolen Trade Survey.

While immediate action is not likely, tentative plans for a trade survey are being considered by the Wool Institute, it was said yesterday. The plans call for an industry-wide survey and the formulation of a code of practices to serve as the basis for a hearing by the Federal Trade Commission. Some work has already been done on the formulation of the code and it is expected that it will be one of the matters to come before the annual meeting of the institute. This, it was said yesterday, will be held toward the latter part of this month.

Nagel Heads Garment Group.

Morris Nagel of Morris Nagel & Co. was elected president of the Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association at the annual meeting at the Hotel McAlpin. He succeeds Morris W. Haft, who held the presidency for the last three years. The other officers elected were: First vice president, Max Kolman, Fierman & Kolman; second vice president, John Frankel, Monarch Garment Company, Inc.; treasurer, Albert Rifkin, Albert Rifkin & Co., and secretary, Mannie Kagle, Mannie Kagle & Co. Jacob Sperber, Joseph Engel and Morris W. Haft were named honorary vice presidents. Maxwell Copelof continues as executive director.

Large Knitwear Sizes Hard to Get.

Some difficulty is reported in obtaining larger sizes in knitwear in the local knitted outerwear market. The National Knitted Outerwear Association, it was learned yesterday, is surveying the problem. It was pointed out that there is only one knitwear producer specializing in the larger sizes, with other manufacturers usually making them only on special order. While buyers were reported to be desirous of obtaining sizes from 42 up, they were said to be seeking them at prices prevailing for the smaller sizes. Producers, however, asserted that the larger sizes require different patterns and more yarn, resulting in higher costs.

Raccoon Prices Up at Sale.

Sales at the third day of the Fred'k Huth & Co. Spring fur auction yesterday reached a total of $1,000,000. A good collection of raccoon skins sold exceptionally well, with a high price of $20.50. Heavy types showed an increase of 25 per cent over the February levels, while semi-heavy advanced 15 per cent. A high price of $2.05 was paid on black muskrat, which sold fairly well. A good collection of Northern muskrat sold poorly, with a high price of $1.62.

Place Earthenware Orders.

The activity of chain-store buyers of earthenware kitchen equipment has resulted in a number of large orders for both domestic and imported merchandise of this kind. Domestic products are wanted for immediate delivery, while Fall requirements are being filled in the imported lines. Department stores have not been a factor in the market during the last two weeks. Indications of a decline of white and ivory were in favor of styles which feature combinations of black and white, and light green and white are seen by several selling agents.

Orders for picture frames which can be retailed at prices ranging from $1 to $5 are being placed by stores in anticipation of an increased demand on them for graduation pictures. Some of the business has been placed already in the local market, but the largest percentage is looked for during the next two weeks. Metal mounted glass bonbon and relish dishes are being featured by many gift departments at present. The demand has been chiefly for articles which can be retailed at around $1. They are wanted in green and rose-colored glass with antique silver or gold mountings.

Overcoat Orders Reported Behind.

Overcoats continue to lag behind, notably in the orders for Fall clothing being placed by retailers. Reports of "inside prices" on the part of some manufacturers to stimulate business have been current in the trade. The disappointing results with overcoats last Fall and the carry-over of stocks at the end of the season are the chief factors influencing retailers. The business placed in suits was described yesterday as fair, with the orders showing considerable emphasis on two-button models in gray, followed by browns and blues. Reorders on topcoats are still a feature of immediate delivery business.

Advises on Polish Credit.

The business situation in Poland makes it advisable for American manufacturers to insist upon irrevocable letters of credit when selling goods to many concerns there, according to reports received by the American Manufacturers' Export Association from a number of exporters. Several of the companies report that they are able to carry on a profitable business, however, without insisting upon such a safeguard, while others report that Polish customers refuse to do business when the irrevocable letter of credit is made a part of the terms of sale.

Burlap Prices Strengthen.

Prices on spot burlaps here this week rose 5 points above last week's levels due to a fair inquiry for goods in the local market. Futures were also up 5 to 10 points above the previous week's prices in Calcutta. Although there was little actual buying in the futures market the interest shown by prospective buyers accounted for the stronger tone there. These prices were quoted here yesterday on Standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co.:

	8-Oz.	10½-Oz.
Spots	5.50c	8.70c
May shipment	5.30c	6.60c
June shipment	5.35c	6.65c
July-Sept. shipment	5.45c	6.80c
Oct.-Dec. shipment	5.55c	6.95c

Gray Goods Market Dull.

The gray goods market continued quiet here yesterday. Trading was in limited quantities and there were no changes in prices. Sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made at 5⅛ cents. Small lots of 38½-inch 64-60s changed hands at 6⅛ cents and 39-inch 68-72s at 7 cents. There was some call for 37-inch 4-yard sheetings at 6⅞ cents and for 36-inch 4.70s at 6⅛ cents. Except on these constructions the demand for sheetings was nominal.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Effective today, the Corticelli Silk Company, oldest silk manufacturing company in the country, will be factored by the Commercial Factors Corporation, subsidiary of the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation.

Harold Feldman, formerly president of the Rosanna Mills, Inc., for ten years, has established a selling agency for upholstery, drapery and cloaking fabrics, known as the Brunswick Textile Company, with offices at 180 Madison Avenue.

PENNSYLVANIA TO OPEN SHIP SERVICE MAY 13

Regular Trains From West Will Run to Army Base Pier on Lloyd Sailing Dates.

Regular train service to the North German Lloyd pier at the Army Base, Second Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, will begin May 13, on the eastward trip of the Europa, it was learned yesterday from R. C. Morse, general manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The service will be confined to trains from the Far West, which will adopt the Army Base for their terminal point, instead of the Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan, on nights when the North German Lloyd ships are scheduled to leave for Europe. No return service from the Brooklyn dock to Manhattan is planned for the present.

Colonel Howard Laubach, commanding officer of the Army Base, said yesterday that he had granted permission to the Pennsylvania Railroad to use one of the four tracks near Pier 4 for its ship-side service, and a crew of laborers began yesterday to overhaul the tracks. In a test run a month ago, a train covered the distance between the dock and the station in 50 minutes, but it was said yesterday that the running time of regular service would be about 30 minutes.

The trial trip was made via the Belmont Tunnel under the East River, thence by the New York Connecting Railroad. The route of the regular service has not yet been determined.

The Europa is scheduled to sail for Europe on May 13 at 11:30 P. M. The special is planned to arrive at Pier 4, Brooklyn, about 8:30 of the same evening.

Mr. Morse said that while the service was still experimental, an advertising campaign west of Pittsburgh would be started, stressing the convenience of the boat train for those bound for the Europa. If the campaign meets with favorable response, he said, the experiment will be continued and eventually train service to both incoming and outgoing ships leaving from the army pier would be established.

Captain James Maurer of the North German Lloyd and William S. Pontin, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Bush Terminal, hailed the ship-side service yesterday as a great step forward in the development of Brooklyn's waterfront.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 30.—A slow Eastern demand more than offset small receipts of hogs today, and prices declined 10 to 15 cents, lightweights losing most. Some lights were quoted as much as 25 cents lower at the last. The top was down 5 cents at $10.20, although a few sold above $10.10, while the day's average was 10 cents lower at $9.90. Most sales were at $9.65 to $10.10, with 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.40 to $10 and 160 and 160 to 250 pound averages $9.65 to $10.20. Packers bought 13,900 and shippers 2,500, with 4,000 left over. Receipts were 17,000, with 22,000 estimated for tomorrow. Five leading Western points expect 49,500 tomorrow, against 56,300 a year ago.

The cattle market was weak in undertone, due to slow demand. Best steers sold at $14.65, with the bulk of the beef cattle at $10 to $12.50. Receipts were 7,500.

Lambs sold fairly well, with prices steady to 25 cents higher, the finish being strong. Most wooled sold at $9.75 to $10.15, with a top of $10.35, while shorn brought $8.50 to $9.25. Sheep were steady at $4.50 to $5.75. Receipts were 15,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were reported yesterday in the New York and New Jersey markets by the United States Department of Agriculture:

CATTLE.

Four loads of steers slow; 25c to 50c lower; medium to good 1,307-pound medium Virginias, $12.25; medium grades $11 to $11.50. Cows steady; common to medium, $5.75 to $7.50. Low cutters and cutters, $3 to $5.50. Bulls scarce, 25c to 50c lower; cutter to medium, $6.25 to $8.

VEALERS AND CALVES.

Vealers in moderate supply, steady; good to choice, $10 to $12.50; mediums, $7 to $9.50. Cull and common, $4 to $6.50.

HOGS.

Scarce, steady; medium to choice, 160-220, pounds, $10.50 to $11.

SHEEP.

Light supply, good to choice, 65 to 72, pounds, Maryland and Virginia Spring lambs, steady at $14.

American Alumni Council to Meet.

AMHERST, Mass., April 30.—About 200 delegates from college and university alumni organizations are expected to attend the annual conference of the American Alumni Council to be held here tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. Mount Holyoke, Smith, Massachusetts Agricultural College and Amherst will act as hosts. Arrangements have been made to house delegates from twenty-eight States at the Lord Jeffery Inn and fraternity houses at Amherst College.

Duerer Engravings Bring $46,000.

BERLIN, April 30 (AP).—Twenty engravings of the "Life of the Virgin" by Albrecht Dürer brought 130,000 marks (about $31,200), at auction here today. They were bought by Colnaghis of London. A rare copper plate engraving of Dürer's "Erasmus of Rotterdam" was sold for 62,000 marks (about $14,880), to Sessler's of Philadelphia.

JEWEL CLEARING HOUSE.

Precious Stone Dealers to Discuss Plan at Meeting Tonight.

The proposed establishment of a merchandise clearing house to serve dealers in precious, semi-precious and synthetic stones, will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the recently organized Precious Stone Dealers' Association, in the Hotel Manger. The clearing house, if established, according to Leopold Nathan of S. Nathan & Co., Inc., secretary of the association, would place members who were short of stock items in touch with members having such supplies.

In addition to the clearing house the organization is scheduled to consider uniform terms and discounts and other matters pertaining to the trade. Isidor Lassner of Lassner & Bamberger, Inc., president of the organization, will preside at the meeting.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

The sugar market continued heavy yesterday. Futures broke to new low figures, and in the spot market, where there were offers on Tuesday at 1 9-16, yesterday there was a sale at this figure. The trend of the market, however, has not changed. Buyers show no interest in near-by shipments, even at the 1 9-16 figure, but there was indication of interest yesterday for June shipment at this figure. In the futures market July touched 1.54, which is a new low for all time for this position. March, 1930, sold at this figure last February. July recovered a point before the close, ending the day at 1.55.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.90. Warehouse stocks yesterday showed an increase for the second day in succession, 4,000 bags being added yesterday and approximately 1,000 bags on Tuesday.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

BROADWAY CORNER SOLD TO INVESTORS

Twenty-four-Story Structure at 57th Street Is Bought by Setay Realties, Inc.

DEAL IN FRONT STREET

Real estate trading in Manhattan yesterday was featured by the sale of a tall office building near Columbus Circle. The property is the twenty-four-story store and office structure at 1,776 Broadway, northeast corner of West Fifty-seventh Street, built in 1928 by Joseph E. Gilbert and resold by him to Setay Realties, Inc., a subsidiary of the Setay Company, a $30,000,000 investment company.

The building occupies a plot of 5,300 square feet and was sold through Sharp & Nassoit, Inc., brokers. The purchasing company maintains offices in the structure, which will be known hereafter as the Setay Building. Herbert J. Yates is president of the Setay company.

The building has an important situation in the Columbus Circle automobile district. Weber & Heilbroner occupy the ground, second and third floors, and among neighboring structures are the United States Rubber, Fisk and General Motors buildings.

The ten-story office building at 182-184 Front Street, northwest corner of Burling Slip, and the adjoining four-story structure at 15 to 21 Burling Slip have been sold by the Bradish Johnson estate through Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., brokers. The buildings were formerly quarters of the Mallinkrodt Chemical Company. The Johnson estate bought the property last February from Joseph Cullman in a cash deal.

In the Greenwich Village section, James W. Mooney sold through the J. D. Robilotto Company, as broker, the six-story store and apartment building at 227 Waverly Place, through to Seventh Avenue. The property was held at $180,000 and was bought for investment, the brokers said.

Harry Levy, broker, yesterday announced a four-cornered deal which was closed a few months before title to the property had passed. Mr. Levy sold three five-story apartment houses on a plot 75 by 100 feet at 216, 218 and 220 East Fifty-sixth Street for the Erome Realty Company, Jacob Blum, president, and the estate of Morris Blum, represented by Samuel Bitterman, to Weprin & Glass. Immediately after the contract was signed the same broker leased the property for Weprin & Glass to the St. Regis Garage, Inc., which owns and operates the adjoining Savoy Plaza garage, 100 by 100 feet, for the purpose of combining the garages.

Weprin & Glass were to build a six-story garage, but shortly after the lease was signed Mr. Levy resold the contract for them, subject to the lease, to the Natural Realty Corporation. The latter paid all cash over the mortgages and will build the garage immediately upon taking possession. The broker then sold the proposed building from the plans to an investor, subject to the tenant.

A five-story apartment house, 20 by 75 feet, at 1,301 Third Avenue, between Seventy-fourth and Seventy-fifth Streets, was sold by Henry and Lena Loeffler to a physician for investment. Childs & Humphries arranged the transaction.

Museum Director Sells Suite.

Hardinge Scholle, director of the Museum of the City of New York, has sold to Mrs. J. B. Peake an eight-room duplex suite in 812 Park Avenue. Mr. Scholle bought the apartment about two years ago through Bedall & Reid, brokers in the present deal.

Broker Buys In Cooperative.

An apartment of seven rooms and four baths in the 100 per cent cooperative building at 25 East End Avenue has been purchased by Otto A. Schreiber of the Stock Exchange firm of Spencer Trask & Co. from the Seaboard Properties, Inc., through Sutton, Blagden & Lynch.

To Widen 23d Street Roadway.

Two feet will be cut from the sidewalks on each side of East Twenty-third Street between First and Second Avenues, in order to widen the roadway. Property owners in this block have been ordered to remove sidewalk encroachments.

Two Realty Firms Merge.

Charles A. DuBois has merged his real estate business, established in 1894, with that of Louis Carreau, Inc., established in 1875.

REALTY FINANCING.

Loans secured by mortgages on the following properties were announced yesterday:

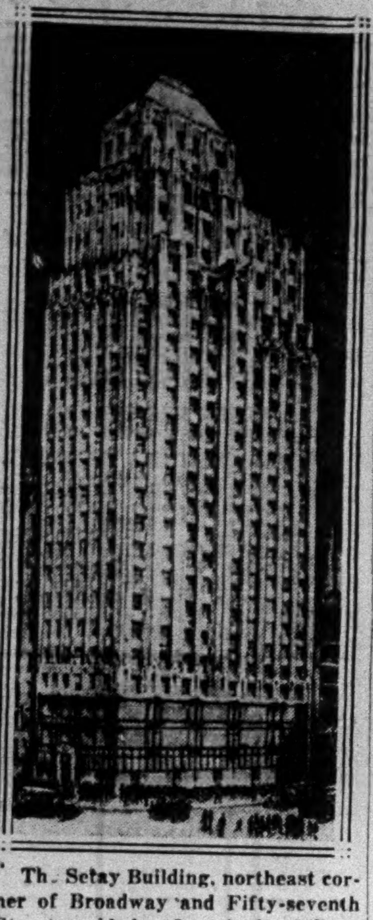
General.

At a meeting of its mortgage committee the Title Guarantee and Trust Company approved 136 loans amounting to $7,429,700. They were distributed as follows: In Manhattan and in the Bronx, $5,951,500; in Brooklyn, Queens, Nassau and Suffolk, $1,340,700, and in Staten Island, $137,500.



The Setay Building, northeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-seventh Street, sold by Joseph E. Gilbert through Sharp & Nassoit, Inc.

LEASEHOLDS LISTED.

Manhattan Properties Recorded Under New Control.

The estate of Serena Rhinelander leased the five-story building at 102 Murray Street to Gellens & Weiss, Inc., for their wholesale fruit and produce business. Philip J. Miller was the broker. The same broker leased for Lyons & Mayrsohn, Inc., the three-story building at 50 Harrison Street to A. Solomon.

The Allerad Realty Corporation, Stanley Katz, president, leased to the Talmadge Garage, Inc., 533-543 East Fifteenth Street, 125 feet of frontage, for fifteen years from October 1 next, the rent being $13,000, $13,500 and $14,000 yearly for the three five-year periods, in addition to taxes and assessments. The landlord is to erect a two-story garage for the use of the tenant.

The building at 57 West Seventy-fourth Street was leased by M. V. Howard to E. L. Voight for the term from April 25, 1930, to Jan. 31, 1933, the rent to be $4,800 a year.

A triangular parcel of ground on the north side of 122d Street, 352.7 feet west of First Avenue, facing on the street for 24.4 feet by 25 feet deep, the easterly line being 33 feet long, was leased by Anthony H. Austin of 35 Jackson Street, New Rochelle, to Louis A. Sheinart, the yearly rental to be $500, in addition to any taxes added by reason of any building or improvement on the parcel. This lease will expire on Jan. 31, 1956. Mr. Sheinart has sold this lease to the Walsh Properties Corporation of 225 West Thirty-fourth Street. And Sadie Sheinart has assigned to the same corporation a lease she held of a piece adjoining the above described property on the east, which has a frontage of 19.7 feet, held from Adele Lowe as lessor.

Francis Stilwell Dixon, landscape artist, leased for a term of years the house at 215 East Sixty-first Street through I. Ida Catlin.

Marshall Field & Co. Rent Floors.

Marshall Field & Co. have leased for the display of upholstery fabrics and draperies the tenth and eleventh floors, 10,000 square feet, in the new building at 509 Madison Avenue. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers.

MORTGAGES RECORDED.

The Forty Wall Street Corporation, Albert R. Palmer, vice president, having purchased from the United States Government, acting through the Secretary of the Treasury, the lot of ground which lies between the Assay Office and the new Bank of Manhattan Building, facing on Pine Street for 14.76 feet, with a rear line of 15.17 feet and a depth of 74.83 feet on the westerly side, has placed this lot under the lien of the trust mortgage for $12,500,000 given to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York on Nov. 1 last. The price paid to the government for this lot was $692,573.51. The buyer has the right to project footings and construct foundations in the eight-foot strip of land between the western boundary of the tract and the east base line of the Sub-Treasury Building, title to which eight-foot strip is to be conveyed to the corporation upon the terms of the original contract, dated July 19, 1929, for the sale of the old Assay Office site and building for $6,501,000 to the Forty Wall Street Corporation.

On the property at 1,557 and 1,559 Third Avenue, with a frontage of fifty feet between Eighty-seventh and Eighty-eighth Streets, Hirschhorn Estates, Inc., gave an additional mortgage for $12,500, due in three years, at 6 per cent, to the Bank for Savings, this mortgage being combined with another mortgage held by the bank to make a single lien of $70,000 on these premises.

The 241 West Seventy-second Street Corporation, Francis R. Ward, Scarsdale, president, gave a mortgage for $30,000, due May 10, 1933, at 6 per cent, to Robert W. Evans of Cedar Grove, N. J., on the property on the north side of Seventy-second Street, 350 feet east of West End Avenue, 50 feet by 102.2 feet. There is a first mortgage for $72,500 on this property.

A mortgage for $190,000 held by the Union Dime Savings Bank from the Vogel Realty and Holding Corporation on 564 West 160th Street has been extended to May 1, 1933, at 5½ per cent.

A mortgage for $875,000 was given to the Chase National Bank by the No. 1 West Thirty-ninth Street Corporation, of which Walter B. Smith of Great Neck is president, in trust, to secure an issue of 7 per cent bonds, payable April 1, 1945. This will be a lien on the property known as 1 West Thirty-ninth Street, which has a frontage of 116.8 feet at a distance of 185 feet west of Fifth Avenue. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company holds a first mortgage of $882,000 on this property, bearing interest at 5½ per cent until Sept. 30, 1932, and 5 per cent thereafter until its maturity on Aug. 1, 1937.

On the property at 227 and 229 Waverly Place, 49 feet front, facing on Seventh Avenue for 35.1¾ feet, Lillian Rosen gave a purchase-money mortgage for $57,000, due May 1, 1940, at 6 per cent, when these premises were conveyed to her by James W. Mooney of New Rochelle, this being subordinate to a first mortgage of $73,000.

The New York Protestant Episcopal Public School lent to Pasquale Margarella $60,000, due five years hence, at 6 per cent, on the property on the south side of Broome Street, 100 feet west of Greene Street, 75 by 96¼ feet.

The Central Savings Bank took a demand mortgage at 6 per cent for $15,000 from Elly C. Feffercorn on the premises on the south side of Fifty-eighth Street, 106¼ feet west of Lexington Avenue, 37 feet of frontage.

On the property on the southeast corner of Broadway and 107th Street, 112 feet on Broadway by 125 feet on the street, the Friejack Realty Corporation, Samuel Brener, president, gave a mortgage for $25,000 to the Harvard Financial Corporation, Isaac L. Singer, treasurer, and this is consolidated with another mortgage to make one lien of $57,000, due March 15, 1931, to be reduced at the rate of $3,100 monthly. There is a first mortgage of $515,000 on these premises.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society has agreed with Carrie Solomon and Rosalind G. Goldstein, owners of 240-248 West Forti- property for $150,000 to March 14, 1932, at 6 per cent.

QUEENS REALTY SALES.

Operator Purchases 1,200-Seat Theatre in Arverne.

The Arverne Theatre at Beach Sixty-second Street and Rockaway Beach Boulevard, Arverne, has been purchased by Stanley E. Glauber, operator, as president of the Moleg Holding Corporation. The two-story brick structure contains a 1,200-seat motion-picture house, four stores and four four-room apartments. It is on a plot 180 by 90 feet, one block from the Straiton Avenue station of the Long Island Railroad. The purchase was made because of the promise of rapid transit to the Rockaways and the steadily increasing all-year population of the area, Mr. Glauber says.

Nelly Gelehrter and Anna Kovacs, sisters, have bought from Vincent De Bella a new apartment house at the southwest corner of Potter Avenue and Crescent Street, Astoria. Louis Lustig arranged the sale.

Detached dwellings in Van Siclen Manor, Jamaica, were purchased by Hans Ochs, Stephen Parent and Leopold Gardell for prices reported to range from $4,250 to $4,750. Frederick Rost, a city policeman, bought a house on 232d Street, Queens Village, for a reported price of $6,990, and Harry Donohue acquired a dwelling on 107th Avenue, Queens Village, for $5,650, according to Ryan & Ridge, the brokers.

FACTADAY 12 about
JACOB PENN, INC.,
15 PARK PLACE.
Established in 1919.

PRACTICING ON THE DOG we did long before our INDIVIDUAL CONFIDENTIAL advertising service was organized. During our eleven (11) years of operation we never experimented with or at expense of any client. When you engage us to negotiate a new connection, you get what you need—finest personal merchandising service yet organized. Ask the thousands of clients and business men in New York and thruout America they met and are working with. They will say you can depend on us to lead you to your opportunity. Because we HAVE A REPUTATION TO SAFEGUARD, we confer only with MEN OF ACCOUNT, earning $5,000.00 to $50,000.00, writing us present and previous engagements, earnings and desires.
Please do not phone.

INTELLIGENT ASSISTANCE

in seeking new connections is offered important men; available only to those accustomed to earning $5,000 or more; our services differ from those of an employment agency in that definite campaigns for contacts are devised to fit individual requirements; interviews by appointment only.

Phone Murray Hill 5776, or write
JOHN R. KENDRICK,
23d floor, 350 Madison Av.

PLACEMENT COUNSEL AND SERVICE.

Better grade POSITIONS are best obtained by use of an INDIVIDUALIZED SERVICE which incorporates more than merely letter writing.

FINANCIAL ARRANGEMENTS ARE HANDLED ACCORDING TO YOUR PROBLEM.

We invite you to investigate this SERVICE.
Interviews by appointment.

SALESMEN SPEAKING
FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

We wish to meet and talk with a few men of strong personality who know they are salesmen for service in our foreign department; who have self-confidence on their knowledge of what real selling is, and therefore can become high commission earners from the very start.

The men who will interest us need not necessarily understand every phase of finance, but can reason a sound financial proposition and see the merit of selling a worthwhile security.

We desire men who speak any of the following languages: Italian, French, German, Spanish or Greek.

Apply in person or by letter, 29th floor, 10 East 40th St., and ask for Mr. Lea.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—The disturbance that was over Kansas Tuesday night is advancing northward, being central over Minnesota, and pressure is low from Saskatchewan and Manitoba southward to Western Texas.

High pressure prevails along and off the Middle and South Atlantic Coasts.

The outlook is for local showers on Thursday in the lower Lake region, Southern New England, and portions of the Middle Atlantic States, and for local showers on Friday in the lower Lake region and Ohio Valley. Elsewhere the weather will be mostly fair Thursday and Friday in the Washington forecast district.

Temperature changes will be unimportant.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours, from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M. and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

ITALIAN LINE AGREES TO PORTO RICO RATE

Obtains Shipping Board Sanction for Through Billing With Bull Insular Line.

NINE NEW RATES APPROVED

They Include Pacific Coast, Mexico, Orient, Havre and Antwerp Freight Services.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—An agreement between the Bull Insular Line, Inc., and the Navigazione Libera Triestina for through movement of shipments between Genoa, Leghorn, Naples and Porto Rico, with transshipment at New York, was approved today by the Shipping Board.

Other agreements approved by the board were:

LUCKENBACH GULF STEAMSHIP COMPANY, INC., with AMERICAN FRUIT AND STEAMSHIP CORPORATION—Through rates from Pacific Coast ports to Mexican ports, with transshipment at New Orleans, are set forth in new tariff, subject to minimum bill of lading charge of $3.75, to be apportioned $2.75 to Luckenbach and $1 to American Fruit.

LUCKENBACH LINE with NEW YORK AND PORTO RICO STEAMSHIP COMPANY—Through rates from Pacific Coast to Porto Rico, with transshipment at New Orleans, are specified, the cost of transshipment to be apportioned.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY EUROPEAN LINE with REDWOOD LINE—Through rates on canned goods from Pacific Coast to Havre and Antwerp are based on direct line rates and apportioned on the basis indicated in the memorandum filed, cost of transshipment at New Orleans to be assumed on the same basis.

LUCKENBACH STEAMSHIP COMPANY with OSAKA SHOSEN KAISHA—Through rates from the Orient to Atlantic coast ports, with transshipment at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland or Seattle, are assessed in accordance with direct line conference rates and apportioned equally, each line to assume half the cost of transshipment. Minimum proportion of $4.50 per ton goes to Luckenbach. On cargo originating beyond Osaka loading ports or at ports other than Orient base ports, the transpacific carrier is to receive the full expense of shipside delivery.

REDWOOD LINE, INC., with BORDER LINE TRANSPORTATION COMPANY—Through rates from Gulf ports to Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., with transshipment at Seattle, are those of the Redwood Line which is to absorb the Border company's rate from Seattle to destination. Border Line vessels are to call at Redwood pier for cargo aggregating ten tons or more, and Redwood absorbs wharfage charge. Smaller quantities are to be transferred by truck, Redwood absorbing inward wharfage and drayage charges and Border Line outward wharfage charges.

AMERICAN WEST AFRICAN LINE with LUCKENBACH—Through rates from Pacific Coast ports to Canary Islands and West African ports are the combination of the applicable rates of the participating carriers, Luckenbach to absorb cost of transfer at New York.

AMERICAN HAWAIIAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY with EXPORT STEAMSHIP CORPORATION—Through rates from Pacific Coast ports to Mediterranean ports are based on direct line rates and apportioned equally, each line to assume half the cost of transshipment at New York.

REDWOOD LINE with PUGET SOUND FREIGHT LINES—Through rates from Gulf ports to Puget Sound, with transshipment at Seattle, to be the current rates of Redwood, plus established arbitraries to Puget Sound ports. Puget Sound Lines' proportion of the rate is to be the full amount of the arbitrary out of which it is to absorb the cost of transshipment except wharfage on the terminal of the Redwood Line.

OPENS MAIL BIDS FOR 3 SHIP LINES

Glover Gets Offers for Two Pacific Routes and One From Gulf to West Africa.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Bids for three new ocean mail routes were opened by Assistant Postmaster General Glover at noon today. The bids were as follows:

ROUTE 47, from New Orleans or other Gulf ports to Duala, West Africa—American West African Line, Inc., New York City. Vessels of class 6, $2.50 per nautical mile. New construction: Vessels of class 7, $1.50; class 6, $2.50; class 5, $4; class 4, $6; class 3, $8.

ROUTE 48, from San Francisco via Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai, Tsingtao or Takubar, at option of contractor, to Darien—Ocean and Oriental Navigation Company, San Francisco. Class 6, $2.50 per nautical mile; class 5, $4; class 4, $6; class 3, $8; class 2, $10. Additional vessels: Class 6, $2.50; class 5, $4; class 4, $6; class 3, $8; class 2, $10; class 1, $12.

ROUTE 49, San Francisco via Shanghai and Hongkong to Saigon—Ocean and Oriental Navigation Company, San Francisco. Class 6, $2.50; class 5, $4; class 4, $6; class 3, $8; class 2, $10. New construction: Class 6, $2.50; class 5, $4; class 4, $6; class 3, $8; class 2, $10; class 1, $12.

No bids were received on the proposed route from San Francisco to Manila, thence to Cebu. Some time ago the Matson Line submitted a proposal for the operation of a direct mail line from San Francisco to the Philippines.

The Dollar Line at present operates a line from the Pacific Coast to the Philippines, via China and Japan. A number of hearings on the proposed direct route were held by a subcommittee.

BOARD SELLS 6 SHIPS, LAST OF FLEET IN GULF

All Are to Be Scrapped by Baltimore Company—The Bremerton to Be Ore Carrier.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Six vessels laid up at New Orleans and Mobile were sold by the Shipping Board today for scrapping to the Boston Iron and Metal Company of Baltimore for $68,460. This disposes of the last of the government's laid-up merchant fleet in the Gulf. The ships range from 8,600 to 8,800 deadweight tons and are the Fishkill, Bavington, West Coast, West Shore, West Hampton and Westfield.

The steamer Bremerton was sold to the Bulk Transportation Corporation of New Orleans for $25,000 under an agreement to have it converted to a self-discharging bulk ore carrier equipped to burn pulverized coal.

These repairs will cost $400,000 and are contingent upon a construction loan from the board for three-fourths the remodeling cost. The Bremerton is a steel cargo steamer of 7,390 deadweight tons and is laid up at Norfolk, Va.

Head of Nautical School Predicts Enlarged Merchant Marine.

Constant growth and improvement of the American merchant marine were predicted last night by Captain Thomas W. Sheridan, president of the Alumni Association of the New York Nautical School, who spoke at the association's twenty-sixth annual dinner on board the Leviathan. About 600 persons were present.

Other speakers were Captain Dennis A. Maloney, operating manager of the United States Lines, and Captain Harry Manter, representing the Shipping Board. J. C. Reidel was toastmaster.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

G. & A. SELIGMANN—Notice is hereby given that the Certificate of Limited Partnership of G. & A. Seligmann was filed on April 1st, 1930, in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, the substance of which certificate is as follows: 1. The name of the partnership shall be G. & A. Seligmann. 2. The character of the business to be transacted by such partnership is to carry on the business of dealing in securities and commodities and purchasing and selling the same on commission. 3. The location of the principal place of business of such partnership shall be at No. 120 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York. 4. The name and place of residence of each member of such partnership is as follows: GENERAL PARTNERS—George A. Seligmann, residing at No. 35 West 74th Street, New York City. Arthur R. Seligmann, residing at No. 270 Park Avenue, New York City. William Barlow, Jr., residing at No. 69 Rockview Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Frank H. Bulley, residing at No. 11 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, New York. Samuel S. Lerner, residing at No. 877 East 7th Street, Brooklyn, New York. LIMITED PARTNER—Edwin Blun, residing at No. 791 Park Avenue, New York City. 5. The term for which such partnership is to exist is as follows: Said partnership shall commence on April 1st, 1930, and shall continue until and including March 31st, 1931. 6. The amount of cash contributed by Edwin Blun, the limited partner is $200,000.00; and said limited partner has contributed no other property. 7. Edwin Blun, the limited partner, has not agreed to make any additional contribution to said partnership. 8. There is no agreement that the contribution of said limited partner is to be returned prior to the dissolution of said partnership, however, in the event of the death of said limited partner or a general partner, his interest shall terminate as of the date of his death; and his interest, determined as of the date of his death, shall be paid to his legal representatives within one hundred and twenty (120) days, or sooner, if in the judgment of a majority of the surviving partners, earlier payment is consistent with the safety of the business. Further it is provided, that until the payment thereof, the interest of the deceased or retiring partner whether special or general, shall be considered capital of the firm and shall remain at the risk of the business. 9. The share of the profits or the other compensation by way of income which the said limited partner shall receive by reason of his contribution is as follows: (a) Said limited partner shall be entitled to receive compensation payable monthly at the rate of 10% per annum on the amount of his aforesaid cash contribution of $200,000.00, the payment thereof it is agreed, shall under no circumstances reduce the amount of the original capital contributed by said limited partner. (b) Except as aforesaid in the foregoing subdivision (a) the said limited partner shall not have any share or interest in the profits of the partnership business. 10. There is no right given to the limited partner to substitute an assignee as contributor in his place. 11. The right is not given to the partners to admit additional limited partners. 12. As there is only one limited partner, there is no right given to one or more of the limited partners to priority over other limited partners as to contributions or as to compensation by way of income. 13. The right is given to remaining general partner or partners to continue the business on the death, retirement or insanity of a general partner. 14. There is no right given to the said limited partner to demand and receive property other than cash in return for his contribution. George A. Seligmann, Arthur R. Seligmann, William Barlow, Jr., Frank H. Bulley, Samuel S. Lerner, General Partners. Edwin Blun, Limited Partner. Dated, New York, April 1st, 1930. The foregoing certificate was signed and sworn to by each of the general partners and the limited partner.

RECEIVER'S SALES.

RECEIVER'S SALE

By virtue of an order duly made and entered in the office of the Clerk of the City Court of the City and County of New York in the above entitled matter, dated April 22, 1930, I, the undersigned, receiver of the property hereinafter described, will sell at public auction, Thomas F. Burchill, Auctioneer, on the 15th day of May, 1930, at 12 o'clock noon of that day at New York, Real Estate Exchange Rooms, 56 Vesey Street, New York City, all the right, title and interest which the Defendant-Judgment Debtor has in and to a certificate of stock described as follows: Certificate No. 9 for 210 shares of East Park 78th Street Corporation, par value $100.00, issued in the name of Yervant Maxudian.

Subject however to a lien of $10,000.00 with interest from March 2, 1928.

Dated: April 30th, 1930.

CANADIAN VACATION
A New World... at your Door!
THE glamour of a romantic past still lives in old French Canada. Much of the architecture of the Richelieu period remains today, not as picturesque ruins but in houses and buildings still in actual use. Little villages, clustered around tall church spires, dream in the sun beneath the slopes of the Laurentian mountains.
The Saguenay river was once believed to be the water route to China. Early voyageurs paddled up its black waters awe-inspiring beneath the towering grandeur of rocky capes. Their subsequent laughter gave rise to the christening of Ha Ha Bay. As you relax on the wide decks of our luxurious steamers, scenes of almost unbelievable beauty and grandeur pass slowly beyond the rail.
Please write at once for illustrated folder, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.
VERY IMPORTANT
CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven day trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands, and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip includes visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.
Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

ROOSEVELT PLANS STATE HEALTH STUDY

Invites 15 Doctors and Other Authorities to Form Commission for That Purpose.

DR. FARRAND NAMED LEADER

Governor Writes to Appointees That Medical Progress Calls for New Methods in Health Work.

Governor Roosevelt yesterday announced the appointment of a Special Health Commission to make a study and report to him on the application of the public health law and the administrative activities of State and local bodies engaged in the promotion of the public health.

The Governor said that while the State occupied one of the most advanced positions in the country where health work was concerned, the advance in medical science in the United States and abroad had rendered it advisable to have an appraisal made with a view to possible improvements in the methods for preventing disease and conserving health.

The Governor said he had invited Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, to become chairman of the new commission. Dr. Farrand, the Governor said, is one of the leaders in the domain of public health work and medical education.

The Governor also announced that the following had been asked to become members of the commission:

Dr. George W. Cottis of Jamestown.
Dr. Simon Flexner, director Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.
Homer Folks, secretary State Charities Aid Association.
Dr. Edward L. Keyes, president American Social Hygiene Association.
John A. Kingsbury, secretary of the Milbank Memorial Fund.
Mrs. Henry Goddard Leach, president of the League of Women Voters.
Henry Morgenthau.
Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., Health Commissioner of Westchester County.
John M. O'Hanlon, secretary of the State Federation of Labor.
Dr. Thomas Parran Jr., State Commissioner of Health.
Dr. William H. Ross, president of the Medical Society of the State of New York.
Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company.
Miss Katherine Tucker, director National Organization for Public Health Nursing.
Dr. Linsly R. Williams, director of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Fox Injunction Plea Withdrawn.

An action of three minority stockholders of the Fox Film Corporation to prevent the new financing plan from being put into effect was formally withdrawn in Supreme Court yesterday. Arthur G. Meyer, Allen I. Cole and Julius Toff, the complainants, agreed to the withdrawal and argument for an injunction scheduled for yesterday was cancelled. Bankers are proceeding with the financing under Harley L. Clarke, the new president who succeeded William

BOOK REVIEW

"THE WEATHERHOUSE," a new book by Nan Shepherd, author of "The Quarry Wood." The latest production is a story of hard-featured and hard-headed Scottish peasants.

"PILGRIM'S FORD," Muriel Hine's story of the daughter of a Spanish dancer and a young Englishman.

"SECRET ENVOY," in which Maude Parker writes of the importance of precedence at official dinner parties, where "a mistake in the salad dressing may bring ruin to some small country."

"THE WOMAN WITH A THOUSAND CHILDREN," a novel of the German public schools by Clara Viebig.
